Lately, however, the two colonies have been giving increased attention to closer links, both in planning and in operations. The gradual reduction in British defence establishments in the Pacific is one factor in throwing the two South Pacific countries together. They realize that in a future war British strength in the Far East will be much less than hitherto.

It also now appears that Australia and New Zealand are almost bound to be fighting side by side in any conceivable future conflict. Both already contribute army, navy and air contingents to the combined Commonwealth strategic reserve in the Far East based on Malaya.

Recently an Australian infantry contingent has been operating in New Zealand in combined jungle exercises with New Zealand troops, the first such rank-and-file operation of the kind.

At a preliminary to a meeting of the Anzus ministerial council in Australia in May, New Zealand's Prime Minister Holyoake and Australia's Prime Minister Menzies will hold personal talks to consider joint defence policy.

Dean Arre, New Zealand defence minister, has suggested the forces of the two countries should be almost completely integrated.

"Every New Zealander and Australian who thinks seriously of defence unhesitatingly assumes that if ever trouble comes our way we will fight side by side," he says. "That being so, it is only common sense to plan and train together."

3 Men Guilty Of Jumping $100,000 Bail

NEW YORK (CP) — Three men accused by the United States government in a multi-million-dollar heroin - smuggling ring pleaded guilty Wednesday to charges of jumping $110,000 bail.

Frank Caruso and Vincent Mauro were arrested in Barcelona, Spain, in January and Salvatore Maseri was picked up on the Spanish island of Majorca. They fled the U.S. last September.

The three will be sentenced to the bail-jumping charge April 23. They face up to five years in prison and fines of $5,000 each.

They now are held on $350,000 bail each on the narcotics charges, No trial date has been set.

A fourth person, John (Johnny Fops) Papalia, 37, of Hamilton, charged with importing and conspiring to import heroin illegally into the U.S., had his pleading on the narcotics charges postponed to March 27.

Eleven other men, including two from Canada, have been convicted and sentenced as members of the ring which smuggled more than $150,000,000 worth of heroin in the U.S. over a 10-year period.

Papalia was escorted here from Canada March 15 to face a three count indictment after the Canadian police department granted a remission of part of his 18-month sentence for beating Toronto gambler Max Bluestein.

SEAL APPEAL — This mastiocting mammal being fed in an outdoor pool by Lionel Guay is a hood seal, one of only two in captivity. It's a major attraction at the Quebec Provincial Aquarium on the shore of the St. Lawrence River in Quebec City. One hood seal was captured in the St. Lawrence, the other in the Lake St. John region north of Quebec City. (CP Photo).

Que. Provincial Aquarium Getting Play From Tourists

QUEBEC (CP)—One of the fastest - growing tourist attractions in Quebec has nothing to do with French - Canadian culture or winter sports — it concerns fish and the people who like to look at them.

The attraction, so little publicized that even many local residents are unaware of its existence, is the Provincial Aquarium.

Situated on the St. Lawrence River shore near Quebec City, the aquarium has drawn an increasing number of visitors since its opening in 1959. More than 20,000, most of them American tourists during the summer, visited the aquarium last year.

The building, which houses more than 500 species of marine life, forms part of a biological centre operated by the provincial department of fisheries.

In addition to providing exhibition space the aquarium houses a laboratory wing where scientists are working to improve commercial and sport fishing in Quebec.

Prize exhibits in the collection, which includes both native and exotic species, are two hood seals. Officials believe the hood seals, found in North Atlantic regions and adjacent waters, are the only ones in captivity. One was captured in the St. Lawrence last year and the other was taken in the Lake St. John region.

The exhibits are displayed in 40 large tanks and a number of smaller ones. The fresh water system, with its own pumping, filtration, aeration and heating and cooling system, contains 60,000 gallons. Salt water tanks, ranging from 300 to 3,850 gallons each have the same total capacity.

CORNER CUTTER — Shirley Madill of Vancouver demonstrates the fibrescope, a new instrument that can look around corners. Its serious use will be in medicine and industry, for examining internal parts of the body and finding flaws in industrial components. (CP Photo)

Forerunners of a Ray Gun Shown at Eye Convention

The ray machine is an innocent-looking small glass rod, no longer than a cigarette. But it packs enough power to burn a hole through a pile of razor blades.

And eventually it will be able to destroy a man at close range or explode an enemy missile in space, its proponents say.

The ray machine is a glass fibre rod with a special element which has a mirror at each end. When a powerful light is directed into the rod, it is reflected back and forth and concentrated into a pin-point beam.

"This is the hottest thing in vision research at the moment," says Walter P. Siegmund, assistant research director of the American Optical Company at Southbridge, Mass., who brought the rod to Vancouver.

At the moment, he says, the rod — known technically as a laser rod — is used to burn off growths on the retina of the eye.

"But it can be used in war and it can be used in industry," he says. "If enough power can be transmitted through this rod, it could become a death ray."

The other device Seigmund brought with him is a magic eye called a fibrescope, a 36-inch length of tubing. By looking into one end, you can see around corners or under doors.

The fibrescope can provide a lot of fun but it's real value, Siegmund predicts, is in medicine, and industry.

It can be used to examine the inner heart and any internal parts of the body and to look for flaws in industrial components.

Trade Minister Unveils New Program to Draw U.S. Buyers Into Canada

By ALAN DONNELLY

OTTAWA (CP)— A new approach to increased sales in Canada's biggest export market, the United States, was unveiled Thursday by Trade Minister Hees.

The idea: Bring major U.S. buyers "right into the laps" of Canadian producers.

The present plan is to transport planeloads of American buyers to show marts organized in Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver where Canadian manufacturers can display their wares instead of having to tote sample cases from store to store in the United States.

If the gamble succeeds, similar show marts may be organized in other cities.

Mr. Hees said in an interview that "several hundred buyers" altogether will be brought to the first four cities.

He forecast "very good results indeed."

"We feel there are an awful lot of potential sales to be made in the U.S. if we can bring buyers in contact with what we have to sell in the best possible way."

Canadian sellers would be in displaying wares in an attractive showroom, instead of having to work from a sample case in a buyer's office or in a hotel sample room.

Officials indicated the first two sponsored buyers' missions will come to Montreal and Toronto late this spring, and to Winnipeg and Vancouver in September. The shows are expected to last one or two days.

Many of the buyers will be from U.S. department stores and mail order houses. But some of the most sought-after ones will be the resident buyers from New York, who operate as purchasing agents for other countries.

The emphasis will be on smaller consumer goods, household furnishings and the like, and not on heavy equipment and industrial goods.

Blues Tighten Grip On Fourth Spot

Nip Bruins, Habs Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Jacques Plante almost assured himself of the Vezina Trophy Thursday night and New York Rangers almost assured themselves of making the National Hockey League playoffs.

Plante played a steady game in nets as first-place Montreal beat Toronto Maple Leafs 3-1 and in Boston, New York goalie Gump Worsley came up with the vital saves despite a bad eye to help the Rangers beat Boston Bruins 4-3.

Plante now has a 12-goal lead over the Vezina Trophy, which goes to the goalie of the league's least-scored-on team. Johnny Bower of Toronto is second and both teams have only two games to play.

Rangers' victory gave them a three-point lead over Detroit Red Wings, idle Thursday. New York has one game left. If the Rangers win it, they finish fourth place—the last playoff spot—locked up.

RANGERS' GOALS

"If they tie, the best Detroit can do is win its two remaining games and wind up tied with New York in points and games won. In that case, whoever has scored the most goals gets fourth place—and New York is 11 goals ahead so far.

Worsley and playing coach Doug Harvey were New York's outstanding men.

Goalie Worsley was hit in the eye by a practice shot before the game and the Rangers went like a house afire in the first period to keep the pressure off him.

They fired nine times at Boston goalie Bruce Gamble and Johnny Wilson, Camille Henry and Harry Howell scored. The winning goal was scored, ironically, by Boston's Charlie Burns. Rushing in to help Gamble cover up a stop, Burns knocked the puck loose into the net and New York's Dean Prentice was credited with his first goal of the year.

Rookie Howard back in the second period to get goals by Tommy Williams, Burns, and Johnny Bucyk but Worsley came up with the important saves then and in the third period to get the win.

In Montreal, big Jean Beliveau was in playoff condition as he scored one goal himself and set up all the others, two of them by Gilles Tremblay and one by defenceman Al MacNeil.

Win Eight of Nine

Sasky Rink Wins Legion Curling

FREDERICTON (CP) — Burkley Townsend and his Saskatchewan Sharpshooters retained the Royal Canadian Legion curling champion s h i p Thursday by picking up two wins to give them eight straight victories in the nine-draw, round-robin bonspiel.

Cool under pressure, the Townsend four defeated British Columbia 13-6 in the seventh round and clinched the title with a 10-8 triumph over Danny O'Rourke's Prince Edward Island rink in the eighth.

Alberta's Bob Woods skipped rink clinched second spot with a 12-6 win over New Brunswick in the seventh round and a 12-9 victory over William (Dustyr) Miller in the eighth. The defections gave Woods a 6-2 won-lost mark.

Other eighth - round scores: Ontario 14, Quebec 3; New Brunswick 11, British Columbia 6; Newfoundland 12, Nova Scotia 11.

In the seventh round, Manitoba took Ontario 13-7, Newfound edged P.E.I. 10-8 and Quebec tripped Nova Scotia 13-5.

KEEP COMING

The hard-shooting Saskatchewan foursome snapped a double in the opening end but gave up four in the second. Townsend led 3-3 after six ends and 9-5 after nine but P.E.I. took a single in the 10th and a double in the 11th to come within one point of a tie.

Quebec, skipped by Robert Fournier, conceded its eighth round match with Ontario in the 11th end after Gordie MacDonald gained a 4-2 advantage in three ends and piled up the big score. Ontario had a 4-4 record

Hornsby Resents Snub

Calls Maris 'Bush Leaguer'

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Roger Maris, the 61-home-run hitter of New York Yankees, snubbed Hall of Fame hitter Rogers Hornsby Thursday, and drew a blast from the Rajah.

The incident took place before the start of an exhibition game between the Yankees and New York Mets.

"That bush leaguer," exploded Hornsby. "I've posed for pictures with some major league hitters — not bush leaguers like he is."

A Yankees club official said he thought Maris may have been disturbed over comments by Hornsby on his batting ability, supposedly made during Maris's drive on Babe Ruth's home run record last year.

Paret Meets Griffith For Title

Paret, 25 - year - old Cuban, plans to continue heavy workouts today at his Chatham Township, N.J., quarters and come to town late today.

Griffith, 24 - year - old former Virgin Islander now living in New York, has been established a 16-to-5 favorite to regain the title he lost to Paret on a split decision last Sept. 30. The bout scheduled for 10 p.m., will be advertised in the United States over the ABC network and on CFTO-TV, Toronto.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

With a new accent on junior activities, and improvements to clubhouse and course, Bay of Quinte Country Club golfers are looking for a banner season in 1962.

Under the able guidance of president G. H. "Bud" Trill, the 1961 season went into the club archives as one of the most successful in years. And a newly-elected directorate marked its approval by electing the popular "Bud" to a second term of office.

"BUD" TRILL

Also elected were vice-president T. A. Carruthers; treasurer Ray Lorance. The 1962 committee chairmen are, Games, Everett Fairman; House, George O'Brien; Greens, Red Parker and T. A. Carruthers; Juniors, T. A. Carruthers and Publicity and membership, Bob Murphy.

"I think the directors have laid the groundwork for a very successful season," President Trill told me today, "New people are coming to the club, a lot of them golfers and we anticipate a marked increase in membership this year. The directors authorized membership chairman Bob Murphy to enroll up to fifty new members. This number, we feel, can be accommodated without overcrowding the course."

Exodus of members and the inexorable toll of time result usually in approximately a ten per cent turnover of membership annually. New membership takes care of this, and this year, will increase the number of golf enthusiasts.

The successful operation of the "new nine" holes proved a boon to both clubs and members last year. It eliminated the "waiting" and the consensus of both men's and women's divisions was that the calibre of golf played was much higher than heretofore.

The club is taking a step in the right direction with its decision to organize and encourage the development of junior golfers. In former years the representation of the Bay of Quinte Club at the Ontario Golf Association junior qualifying rounds was pathetically low compared to other district clubs.

Club professional George Balazs always an ardent advocate of junior development, spent many hours in minors instruction. He feels that as in other sports, and in golf particularly, the future of the game lies in the hands of the youngsters.

Development of young athletes is no sinecure. It takes time and concentrated effort. Greatly increased demands on George due to course expansion and other duties, do not permit him devoting the time necessary to the junior program he feels is so important to the future of the club.

With this in mind the directors decided to give the position of junior activities supervisor to one of their members. T. A. Carruthers, also a strong advocate of junior development volunteered for, and accepted the responsibility.

The new junior division will be an entity within club activities. There are some 45 youngsters between the ages of ten and 21 who will come under the instructional aegis of the new organization.

The seasonal program for men and women, I understand, will be laid out in a new format. Men's games chairman Everett Fairman has already started to plan an entertaining series of competitions for the men's division and will work hand-in-hand with the ladies' games captain to co-ordinate an attractive season of activities.

Machinery-wise the club is in fine condition. A new 50 horse-power pump will be installed assuring maximum of well-watered greens and fairways, no matter the weather.

The directors voted to continue the course improvement plans made last year, and despite an unchanged fee structure for senior members, the improvements to both clubhouse and course, should ensure an enjoyable season for all members.

Webster Falls for Jargon

What About Beak-Bashing?

By JIM BECKER

NEW YORK AP — N more complainin. p l e a s e, about the jargon used by sports writers.

For years we have been accused of bewildering little league mothers with a language all our own. But those tortured words and phrases have made Webster's Third New international Dictionary its force.

There's "pigskin," "horsehide" and "bum."

DEFINES SOUTHPAW TOO

And southpaw, "a left-hander in baseball pitcher." Also "a boxer who leads with the right hand and foot forward while guarding with the left hand."

Steal: "To gain a base by running without the aid of a hit or an error."

There's one by Dizzy Dean, too. Dean, a old-time baseball star and now a baseball announcer on television, is noted for using such words as "ain't" and "slud" (for slid).

Metals Meet Kingston In Hoop Tilt

Bellville Crawford Metals will carry a slim two-point lead into the second game of their points-to-count OABA intermediate "C" playdown series against Kingston B'nai B'rith here Saturday night.

The game will be played at Moira Secondary School gym at 8.00 p.m.

Crawfords won the first game of the home-and-home set in Kingston last weekend by a 55-53 score, scoring four points in the last minute of play to pull out the victory.

B'nai B'rith, led by high-scoring Roger Walters, a Belleville student at Queen's University, will be going all out to overcome the two-point deficit here tomorrow night.

Won't Expel Junior Puck Star

OTTAWA (CP) — It appears that a demand to have Ottawa junior hockey star Ray Cadieux expelled from organized hockey for year will be disregarded by the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association.

The appeal came Wednesday from Robert Pugh of Montreal, convenor of the Ottawa St. Lawrence Conference, in which Cadieux played as captain of the University of Ottawa Gee-Gees this season.

The move to have him expelled was based on a referee's decision that Cadieux attempted to injure, Hugh Palmer, a forward with Sir George Williams University, in a game March 2. Palmer suffered a facial cut that required 30 stitches, had eight teeth knocked out and was in hospital eight days.

Referee Bill Villeneuve said Thursday his report on the incident made a distinction between attempting to injure and deliberately attempting to injure.

CADIEUX SUSPENSION

"It was one of those things that happen and I don't think Cadieux deserves to be suspended."

ARGOS SIGN END

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Argonauts of the Eastern Football Conference have signed Dave Hudson, all-conference end at Florida University in 1959, it was announced Thursday. Hudson tried out with Winnipeg Blue Bombers of the Western Conference in 1960 but suffered a pre-season shoulder injury. He rejected a bid from Montreal Alouettes last year and remained out of football.

CBC Names Plans for Playoffs TV

TORONTO (CP) — The CBC announced television plans Thursday for the first four games of the National Hockey League's best-of-seven Stanley Cup semi-finals.

The major network is defined as the full CBC-TV English network of connected stations, less the Southern Ontario and Quebec networks. The Southern Ontario network consists of stations in Toronto, Barrie, Wingham, London, Kitchener and Windsor.

The schedule includes:

Tuesday, March 27—Chicago at Montreal (faceoff 8:30 p.m.); Quebec network starting 8 p.m.; major network starting 8:30 p.m. New York or Detroit at Toronto (faceoff 8 p.m.); Southern Ontario network starting 9 p.m.

Thursday, March 29—Chicago at Montreal (faceoff 8:30 p.m.); Quebec network starting 8 p.m. New York or Detroit at Toronto (faceoff 8 p.m.); major and Southern Ontario networks starting 9 p.m.

Sunday, April 1—Montreal at Chicago (faceoff 8:30 p.m.); Major and Quebec networks starting 8 p.m. at Toronto or New York (faceoff 8 p.m.); Southern Ontario network starting 8:30 p.m.

Tuesday, April 3—Montreal at Chicago (faceoff 8:30 p.m.); Quebec network starting 9 p.m. Toronto at New York or Detroit (faceoff 8 p.m.); Major and Southern Ontario networks starting 9 p.m.

If one of the fourth games is would clinch the winner of a series, it will be carried on the major network.

Well, They Invented It Didn't They

MOSCOW (AP)—The Russians want to change basketball.

The coach of the Russian national team, Stepan Spandaryan, told Tass, the Russian news agency, in an interview Thursday that basketball "must become more skilful, athletic, faster and, hence, more exciting for players and spectators."

Spandaryan's suggestions:

1. Increase the size of each team to six or seven players from five; 2. Permit substitution without limit, and; 3. Break the game into four quarters of 10 or 12 minutes each instead of having two halves of 20 minutes each; 4. Cut the period the ball may be held under the net before a shot from 30 seconds to 20 seconds.

The Russians have made the proposal of substitutions without time out to the International Basketball Federation, which sets the Olympic rules. They were told to try out the novelty and report back to the ruling body.

Indonesian Badminton Favorite

MONTREAL (CP) — A wiry little Indonesian has been established by tournament officials as the man to beat in the Canadian badminton championships, a four-day meet opening here Tuesday.

He is slight, inscrutable Ferdinand (Ferry) Sonneville, and perhaps the finest pattern player in the court game, a 10-year veteran of world competition.

Sonneville, a father of three who lives in Amsterdam, Holland, now, was undefeated in the last Thomas Cup series of badminton's Davis Cup—and led Indonesia to the championship.

His chief threats shape up as Jim Poole of San Diego, Calif., and Sweden's Bernell Ostergaard. Canada best prospects appear to lie with Jim Carwash of Toronto and Vancouver's Wayne Macdonell, rated one-town in the Canadian Badminton Association's seedings.

Mets Defeat Yankees

'Just Loverly' Says My Fair Casey

NEW YORK (AP)—A satisfying taste of revenge still lingers with Casey Stengel.

Stengel, 71, fired by New York Yankees two years ago after guiding the team to 10 American League pennants in 12 years, never figured a measure of revenge would be his so quickly when he was tapped to manage New York Mets for their 1962 National League debut.

But he watched with evident satisfaction Thursday as his collection of hand - me - downs from baseball's 10 other major league camps and gained a 4-3 victory at St. Petersburg, Fla., in their first meeting of the exhibition season.

"Oh, I'm pleased, brother," said Stengel after a pinch-hit single by Richie Ashburn drove in the winning run in the last of the ninth inning. "It's terrific. It should be very good for my players."

The triumph also gave a lift to Mets coach Rogers Hornsby, Hall-of-Famer with a .358 lifetime batting average, who had been snubbed by Roger Maris of the Yankees when belled 61 home runs last year, in a pre-game incident.

Hornsby, angry at a photographer to pose with Maris, refused. But when the two went to the Yankee dugout, Maris obliged away, refusing to pose. Hornsby, who later went into made some unattractive comments on Maris' batting ability exploded.

"That bush leaguer," Hornsby stormed. "I've posed for pictures with some major league hitters—not bush leaguers like he is."

Minor Fields games, Kansas City Athletics 6-3 over Washington Senators 6-3, Los Angeles Dodgers beat Cleveland Indians 6-4, Port St. Lucie Cardinals defeated Chicago White Sox 5-3, Cincinnati Reds downed Philadelphia Phillies 4-2, Pittsburgh Pirates knocked off Minnesota Twins 6-3 and Baltimore Orioles won a 14 - inning - shortened Battle 6-5 over Milwaukee Braves at Bradenton.

In American League games, Houston Colts edged Chicago Cubs 2-1 on Frank Bork's two-run single, Cleveland Indians 6-4 and Los Angeles Angels edged Boston Red Sox 4-3.

Goalie Gets Threat Note Before Game

HULL, Que. (CP) — An anonymous note threatening North Bay Trappers' goaltender Claude Dufour caused a 10-minute delay in the start of an Eastern Professional Hockey League game Thursday night while attendants cleared upper rows behind each net.

Referee Frank Udvari said he took the precaution after Dufour showed him a note that had been left in his dressing room before the game against Hull-Ottawa Canadiens.

The note had a photograph of Dufour glued to it with a revolver drawn in to point at his head. Underneath appeared the following: "If you stop all shots tonight, you will be shot."

About 40 fans in the upper rows behind each goal were moved to other places.

In the subsequent 60 minutes of hockey, Dufour stopped 38 shots and allowed five goals, Canadiens won 5-1.

Officials said they felt the note was a prank but ll was turned over to police for investigation.

Says Spy Won Flag For Giants

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP)—A former member of New York Giants revealed Thursday that Bobby Thomson's pennant-winning home run in the 1951 National League playoff with Brooklyn Dodgers was helped by a sign-stealing club-house spy.

The player, who requested anonimity, is currently with another major league team. He said a utility player operating from centre field in the home park, picked off signs with powerful binoculars.

The signals spying method was really ingenious," said the informant. "They had an electrician instal a wire leading from the centre-field clubhouse to the Giants' dugout. The wire had a button on the centre field end and a buzzer on the other end. The fellow simply pressed the button once for a fast ball and twice for a breaking pitch. The guy on the bench relayed the signal to the batter."

Says His 'Bookshops' Take Bets

LONDON (AP) — Terry Downes, the Cockney bookmaker - boxer, admitted Thursday his customers were placing bets on his coming fight with Paul Pender for the disputed world middleweight title.

"Some come into my shops and bet on me to win," Downes said. "Others want to put their money on Pender. We accept all the bets."

Downes, 25, talked by radio-telephone from the Hine Queen Elizabeth, on which he is travelling to New York. The title fight is scheduled for Pender's home city of Boston, April 14.

Herman Greenberg, chairmen of the Massachusetts Boxing Commission, said he intends to examine the legal aspect of a boxer in business as a bookie.

Downes, who stopped Pender in London last summer, is recognized as world champion in New York, Massachusetts and Europe. Elsewhere, Gene Fullmer is regarded as champion.

Wolves Clinch Fourth Spot

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Sudbury Wolves Thursday night clinched the fourth and last playoff spot in the Eastern Professional Hockey League. The top three positions still are in doubt.

The Wolves battled to a 4-4 standoff with Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds at Sudbury in the game last; a victory and a split will put tournament possession of fourth place, and North Bay Trappers obliged by beating clipped 5-1 by Hull-Ottawa Canadiens.

North Bay now trails Sudbury by nine points with only four games remaining. The Habs, holding a five-point margin over Kingston Frontenacs and Kitchener - Waterloo Beavers with three games remaining, now are in a position to lock up first place if they win twice.

Kingston has five games left, Kitchener, four.

The Trappers never were in the game at Hull. They were outshot 43-24 and Canadiens goalie Cesare Maniago had plenty of time to engage in a slashing duel with Ross Morisette. Both were assessed minor penalties. Maniago is being served by Michel LeGace.

NAMES SUBSTITUTE

NEW YORK (AP) — Trainer Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons said Thursday that jockey Heinz Woolhouse of Vancouver would substitute aboard Ogden Phipps' Hitting Away in the $100,000-added Carrollton Memorial Handicap at Bowie Race Course, in Maryland. Bobby Ussery, leading rider at the current Hialeah meeting, had been scheduled to ride Phipps' Hitting but was suspended by Aqueduct stewards Wednesday for 10 days.

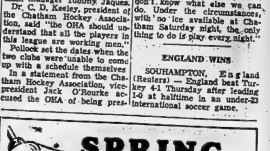
Maroons Shout-Protest

Five Games, Five Nights

CHATHAM (CP) — The assignment by Ontario Hockey Association president Lloyd Pollock of a schedule with five consecutive games in the Chatham Maroons-Windsor Bulldogs Senior final brought angry cries from Chatham officials Thursday night.

"It's a horrible error on the part of Mr. Pollock," said Chatham manager Tommy Gibbons. Dr. C. D. Keeley, president of the Chatham Maroons Association, said "the OHA should understand that all the players in this league are working."



Pollock set the dates when the two clubs were unable to come up with a schedule themselves in a statement from the Chatham Hockey Association, vice-president Jack O'Rourke accused the OHA of being pressured by the Windsor group. "His scheduling is very biased," he said.

Earlier, Pollock said he had no alternative, to the schedule: "We must have a winner declared not later than April 1."

Pete Stasiw, manager of the Bulldogs, said Windsor also had "all kinds of complaints, but I don't know what else we can do. Under the circumstances, with no ice available at Chatham Saturday night, the only thing to do is play every night."

Bounty Finally Beached, Ugly American Sets Sail

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Now that the Bounty has finally beached, the ugly American is setting sail.

Marlon Brando started acting this week in The Ugly American with some misgivings. After he was supposed to. The reason for the delay was Mutiny on the Bounty, the granddaddy of sea epics that went overboard on schedule and budget.

It is no secret that Marlon is vastly more enthused about the new project, which will cost a mere $4,500,000, than Mutiny, with a tab upwards of $20,000,000.

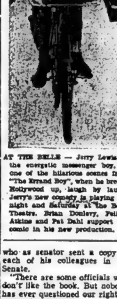
"It's really exciting to watch Marlon get his juices up," says the actor's longtime friend and now producer-director, George Englund. "I don't think he's been as excited over a role in years.

"The role is really a departure for Marlon. He plays an American ambassador, and that means wearing suits and all that. He's even growing his own mustache for the part. Every day sees him submerging deeper into the character. I think we're going to see him at his best in this one."

Englund could be slightly prejudiced, maybe even brain-washed by his long association with The Ugly American. He has been working on the project since 1958.

LASHES AT MISTAKES

"It's hard to believe that we're really at the starting gate," said the young film creator.



There were tiffles when some 5,000 here wondered if he'd make it. The Ugly American has been a controversial project from the start. The William J. Lederer-Eugene Burdick best-seller lashed at American mistakes in foreign aid to Southeast Asia. Plans for the film were denounced by Senator J. William Fulbright, chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee.

Rumors recurred here that the government, especially the state department, didn't want the film made.

Englund denied this.

"There has been a great deal of interest about the picture in Washington," he remarked. "I have made many trips there and talked to many officials. The interest in the book included that of John F. Kennedy, who as senator sent a copy to each of his colleagues in the Senate.

"There are some officials who don't like the book. But nobody has ever questioned our right to make the picture."

Bob Hope Show Invariably Picks Up Audience of Month

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Bob Hope's show, whenever it turns up on NBC, invariably picks up the audience of the month. People just seem to like to watch Bob.

Highpoint of his program is the star's monologue, invariably topical, irreverent and sharply witty—but then the show usually sloops into a ragged mish-mash.

The sketches usually appear to be rehearsed casually, if at all, and the guest stars are constantly overcome with uncontrollable fits of the giggles.

Things were about normal last night. Ethel Merman did belt out a couple of songs with customary verve. Piper Laurie and Maximilian Schell demonstrated little aptitude for comedy in the sketches, and Fabian sang and tried to swap jokes

NEXT AT BELLE — Grant Williams and Natalie Stevens are starred in the new romantic comedy hit of the Warner Bros. production of "Susan Slade", opening Monday at the Belle Theatre. Troy Donahue, Dorothy McGuire, Lloyd Nolan and Kent Smith also are starred. Williams and Miss Stevens also appear on the Warner Bros. TV series "Sugarfoot Troy".

The Stanley Cup playoffs open next week and Maurice Richard can watch the proceedings satisfied that a couple of his playoff records will still be in the books when the firing ceases about mid-April.

The Rocket roared through 18 National Hockey League seasons and 15 playoffs piling up records before leaving the game in 1960 to become goodwill ambassador for his beloved Montreal Canadiens. A few of his all-time marks — league and playoff — have been equaled, beaten or seriously threatened and undoubtedly many, if not all, will be surpassed in the years to come.

But not this time around when the four top teams at the end of the 70-game league schedule square off for Lord Stanley's $50 trophy.

MOST PLAYOFF GAMES

One is his 133-game record in the playoffs. Closest to that in this category among active players is former team-mate Bernie Geoffrion with 111. Then there are the Rocket's 82 goals, 180 points and 1,285 penalty minutes, which could bust in two or three playoff seasons.

Boom Boom is second behind Maurice with 35 goals and that 77-goal bulge is safe for the present. No one has come close to a 32-goal outburst in any playoff season. Richard's best record is 12 set first by Toronto's Ted Kennedy in 1944 and equalled by another Canadien, Jean Beliveau, in 1956.

Possibly Richard's most vulnerable record is the 126 points scored in playoff competition. The man given the best chance to beat it is Geoffrion who goes into the semi-finals against the defending champion Chicago Black Hawks with 111 points in 12 playoff season, just 15 behind.

BOOMER HAS CHANCE

Geoffrion tailed off miserably in the semi-finals against Chicago a year ago when he scored only three points in four games after his late-season rush to the Richard's 50 goals in league play. But he appears to be hitting his peak now and, if Canadiens get past the Hawks this time and reach the final, he conceivably could surpass Richard's total.

Geoffrion has his eye on another mark, total assists. This one — 64 — is held by Gordie Howe of Detroit Red Wings who compiled the record in 14 playoff seasons, Geoffrion is only eight behind the great right-winger and Detroit is by no means certain of a place in this year's playoffs.

The Red Wings and New York Rangers are locked in a pitched, good down-to-the-wire race for fourth, and last playoff spot. Should the Rangers finish it meets Toronto Maple Leafs in the other playoff semi-final.

Howe, who celebrates his 34th birthday March 31, has been in the playoffs every year except one since he joined the Red Wings in 1946. The exception missed out in 1950 when they finished last.

BENEFIT CONCERT

Jack Benny was guest violinist with the Hartford, Conn., Symphony Orchestra in 1948 and helped raise $838,000 for the new Hartford College of Music.

Astrological Forecast

For March 24
By SYDNEY OMARR

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Marital or business partner may appear to make demands that are entirely out of realm of practicality . . . but appearances could be deceiving. Trust . . . and you will be rewarded.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20): You gain most by waiting. Not a time to force issues, or press luck. Tendency is for you to see situation only as it might be, not as it actually exists. Avoid disputes.

QUALITY is only a name — until you burn Red Flame heating oil. Call WO 2-4504 for yours.

Check Time and Temperature On Our New Sign

Gemini (May 21 to June 21): Time for solid achievement. Nothing spectacular can come about unless you have laid groundwork. If you haven't, this is time to attend to details, alert associates to plan.

Cancer (June 22 to July 22): Could be exciting, romantic day and night. Finally, some good news comes your way. And you have feelings of greater freedom, both emotionally and financially. Celebrate quietly.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21): This is a testing period, filled with questions. How many hours can you spend alone without brooding, worrying? Are you maturing emotionally? Ask yourself!

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Problem today may be one of communication. Let others know what you think, feel. Clearly define your position or ability discreetly could mar otherwise fine evening.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Emphasis on budget, future needs. Don't overextend yourself. Do what you can and be proud of accomplishments. Personal pride highlighted. Respect yourself and others will, too.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Cycle up . . . means you can take positive steps to help fulfill ambitions. Get started! Make new move, emphasize personal abilities and personality. Creative activity in spotlight.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Now's the time to write letters, outline advertising programs . . . to spread your message through some form of personal or public communication.

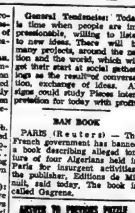
Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Challenge may be offered in form of community project. You should co-operate . . . but do so with understanding that you can coordinate own ideas, originality.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): At first you may not believe this is one of your better days . . . but it works out that way! A lesson you learn today is one of patience. Plan long-range projects.



If today is your birthday . . . your greatest asset is sympathy for the problems of others. Greatest fault: Tendency to permit others to take advantage of your feelings of sympathy. Wonderful year for summing up what you want to keep . . . and what is your life, is to be discarded. By fall, you'll be ready to begin new, exciting cycle.

General Tendencies: Today is time when people are impressionable, willing to listen to new ideas. There will be many projects, around the nation and the world, which will get their start at social gatherings as the result of conversation, exchanges of ideas. All signs could study Pisces later-prediction for today with profit.

BAN BOOK

PARIS (Reuters) — The French government has banned a book describing alleged torture of four Algerians held in Paris for insurgent activities, the publisher, Editions de Minuit, said today. The book is called Gagrene.

Teen-Age Canada

Start Your Summer Job Search at Once

By JACK HUTTON

How many Canadian teen-agers noticed a little item from McGill University the other day which said that 935 students have applied for summer vacation work?...

Only twelve have found jobs so far.

If university students are finding it difficult to find summer work, what's it going to be like for high school students? The answer is obvious: slim.

A senior job placement officer confirmed this situation for me this week. "Teen-agers won't find jobs on every tree this summer," he said.

"The best advice I could give them at this time is to start thinking about a summer job right now if they are interested. Anyone who waits until June is going to find it pretty difficult."...

SURPRISING

How can teen-agers compete with college students — who get out of school weeks earlier — and adults who are also looking for work? The answer surprised me.

"Of course teen-agers can compete," he said. "In fact, they have a distinct advantage. College students and adults must go after jobs that will pay them good money. Most teen-agers don't have that same problem."

"Which is more important for a teen-ager — to get a job that pays well but teaches him nothing, or to find a job that at least supplies pocket money and teaches him more about what he might like to do later?"

"I don't think there is a real choice, unless finances mean the difference between going back to school in the fall and not doing so. If I were a teen-ager, I'd look for something interesting.

"This is the summer to march into a business you'd like to know something about. Tell the owner you'd like to find out more about what he does, and make it clear that you want to help him.

"Don't be surprised if he immediately thinks up a job for you — and offers to pay. He may not pay much, but that's not important. It's a wonderful chance to learn.

He paused and looked thoughtful. "If I had a dime for every high school student who thought he wanted to be a radio announcer or a criminal lawyer. They have no idea what it's all about."

BLUE FACES

"Parents, teachers and everybody else can talk till they're blue in the face, but some teen-agers still get their ideas about certain jobs from the movies or TV. They're in for a rude jolt."

In three short months, several hundred thousand teen-agers across Canada will have the classroom for holidays. Those looking work will fall into three categories, according to my friend.

1. — The smallest group will be those who must earn money or drop out of school next fall. (Remember, if you fall in this category, that bursaries are always available even if you don't find a job).

2. — The largest group will be those looking for jobs which sound interesting, which will keep them busy for the summer months and which will supply pocket money for the fall.

3. The third group — and I think the most farsighted — will be looking for jobs linked with their future careers. They may change their minds after the experience, but at least they'll find out.

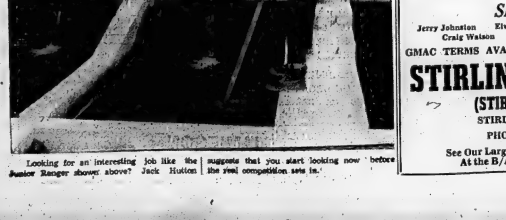
Finally, none of the three groups stand much chance of finding summer jobs unless they start thinking about them now. Which group do you fall into?

MUSICAL SNOB

Well, a few readers are raising me over the coals again for my reference last week to the hit parade. I said then I thought Midnight in Moscow was the first glimpse of sanity in the hit parade for some time.

Joan Marshall, 14, of Halifax writes: "Come, come, Jack, what's this about the hit parade? Aren't you being a bit of a musical snob when you label the entire hit parade?"

"Maybe you're just giving away the fact that no one else understands what we teen-agers like about rock and roll. Frankly, I think Midnight in Moscow lacks a good beat. Give me Elvis any time."



Charles Bracken, 16, of Vancouver, agrees. "It was the fashion to knock swing when Benny Goodman and the other bands were playing it," he writes. "Thirty years later we all agree it was great — but now we're knocking rock and roll."

"Just give it a chance to keep growing. Maybe it all isn't great stuff, but I figure it's going to grow into something different than we've had before."

Finally, I enjoyed the postcard from Sally-Anne Baker of Saskatoon. Her message was right to the point: "Are you criticizing Elvis again?" I

WALLBRIDGE — The World Day of Prayer was held in the Wallbridge United Church on March 9th. A large number attended from Scott's, Athens, and Stone appointments. After the program, refreshments were served by the ladies of Wallbridge.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Spencer spent a recent day with her brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Chapman, at Stockdale.

Wallbridge LOBA No. 1168 held a euchre on Tuesday night with 11 tables in play. All enjoyed a happy time and after the games refreshments were served by the ladies.

Mrs. Harry Pound and Mrs. Ross Pound and baby Sandra spent Tuesday with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Harris.

Mrs. Ted Gaudour called on Mrs. Allan Spencer on Thursday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Shorey and family were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Hilton Shorey of Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Garrison were tea-hour guests of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Fiddle on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs Frank Harris spent Sunday with his sister, Mrs. E. Tucker, of Belleville.

DESERONTO

Firemen's Dance Enjoyed By Many

DESERONTO — The dance, sponsored by the local Fire Department, on Saturday night to celebrate St. Patrick's Day, was one that would have gladdened the heart of the Irish Saint himself. The hall was jammed to the doors with merrymakers who entered into the spirit of the evening with a conviviality and good neighborliness that was a joy to behold. Some 80 couples were in the hall and all seemed to be the best friend of everyone else.

The firemen had gone to considerable pains to decorate in the spirit of the day and the walls abounded with shamrock large and small, while the orchestra pit was gaily tuned with colorful streamers and large shamrocks.

As the couples entered the hall, they were greeted by the large tables set up for use between dances — all tastefully covered with white tablecloths and green harps. The entire atmosphere was one to induce a spirit of good fellowship.

Dancing to the music of the Modernaires was a delight with many of the old favorites comprising the program. An especially entertaining feature was the old fashioned square dance to the fiddling of Vic Brunt.

During the evening the members of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion had charge of the canteen and cold drinks, coffee and sandwiches were available for the dancers.

The members of the fire department were well pleased with the success of the evening and were presised by all present for a well run, highly enjoyable social event.

Science at Work

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Topics this week: A peek at behavior, a long look at heredity, and a powder for a tonic of warning...

TAKE A NOTION

Ever wonder what it is that makes you pick up that box of cake mix in the supermarket and drop into your shopping cart, although you have two boxes on the shelf at home?

Could be you're hungry, and the message is finally getting through your subconscious.

In fact, it appears that many of your subconscious moods and drives may begin at the stem of the brain in some sort of partnership of electrical and chemical action.

Experiments, described in Scientific American magazine, indicate that an animal's behavior can be manipulated by electrical stimulation on the brain.

TAKE A VIRUS

The TND is a virus. It has 100 genes — or units of heredity. A bacterial cell has 10,000 genes, a human cell about 1,000,000.

But Dr. Robert S. Edgar of the California Institute of Technology is hoping the puny virus and its genes will teach him something of the heredity in individual cells.

The TND could never reproduce. But when it meets a bacterial cell, the tail jabs in like a hypodermic needle and injects the nucleic acids.

Then bits of genetic memory take over the cell and convert its production line to making more virus.

By destroying certain links in the chains of genes of the viruses, Edgar has been able to learn more about the way where they occur and what some of them do, thereby getting some clues to heredity in humans and animals.

TAKE A POWDER

A new and inexpensive button — to measure how much radio activity an individual may meet in an atomic attack — has been designed by University of Wisconsin scientists.

It contains a little bit of lithium fluoride powder — which can record the amount of radiation they strikes it.

A small button, which could be mass - produced for something like a dime a copy, could be hooked on to drivers' licences, easily processed in hospitals in an emergency, scientists said.

ENGLISH SPOKEN

The English language, spoken by an estimated 288,000,000 people, is rated second in use in the world to Mandarin Chinese.

Six Orphaned Children Seek Home Together

TORONTO (CP) — Six orphaned children from one family, determined to stay together, are seeking a home in Ontario.

The provincial welfare department, in advertisements placed across the province, describes the children as ranging in age from four to 12 years. The oldest is a girl, the rest boys.

The department said Wednesday the family is the largest the department has ever attempted to settle as a group. Five children were settled in one family a few years ago, and a department spokesman said those children were "ideally situated."

The ads, in selected weekly and daily papers, said the children "have made up their own minds that they intend to remain together."

Eldorado

ELDORADO — Mrs. Roy Hodgins spent a few days with friends at Carnahan.

Mr. and Mrs. George Hinchcliffe of Gilmour, were callers at the home of Mrs. C. D. McCann on Friday.

A number from here attended the recent World Day of Prayer held in the Free Methodist Church, Madoc on Friday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Hunt, of Meyerthorpe, Alberta; also Mr. and Mrs. William Hunt of Peterborough, were Thursday guests of their aunt, Mrs. C. D. McCann.

Mr. and Mrs. Woodcock of Carnahan were Sunday guests of Mrs. William Revory.

Mrs. John McCabe and children of Madoc, were Monday guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mel Johnson.

STANDON AIR PLAN

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP) — John Grant, deputy warden of the British Columbia Penitentiary said Wednesday plans to build a special jail near Chilliwack for convicted Sons of Freedom Doukhobor terrorists have been abandoned because of protests from residents. He added: "We are looking around for another place."

CNR and CPR Meet Separately With Engineers

Starr's Words Brought Joint Talks on Friday

MONTREAL (CP)—Canada's two biggest railways arranged to meet separately today with their engineers' union to continue efforts to avert a threatened Atlantic-to-Pacific strike scheduled to start in only nine days.

The CNR was to seek a meeting with representatives of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers (LE) in the morning while the CPR was to get together with the union at 2:30 p.m.

The 4,500 engineers on the two carriers threatened eight days ago to walk out if their contract demands were not met. The strike at the CNR is to start Monday, April 2, and at the CPR 24 hours later.

The parties met inconclusively for two hours Friday—the first talks since the strike threat was issued—after a blunt warning from Federal Labor Minister Starr that a walkout would be "utterly disastrous."

BRAINE MEET

For the first time since the railways started negotiating with the union a year ago CNR President Donald Gordon and CPR President N. R. Crump joined the talks.

Both presidents are expected to remain in Montreal to take part in the negotiations from time to time.

O. J. Travers, chief negotiator, for the union, led its delegation.

With some shippers already threatening to other transportation in the car and being stranded by a railway walkout, pressure for an agreement was building up.

Unless the dispute is settled by early next week, the railways are expected to start warning shippers that deliveries cannot be guaranteed.

Although work rules are the main hitch in reaching agree-

U.S. ENLARGES CUBAN EMBARGO ON IMPORTS

Will Prove Nuisance To Some Canadians

WASHINGTON (CP) — The United States Friday night enlarged its embargo on imports from Cuba to include products from any country made in whole or in part from Cuban materials.

Canadian authorities here, informed of the U.S. decision which went into effect at midnight, said the extension likely will prove a nuisance to some Canadian exporters.

For example, Canada imports some sugar from Cuba and this may go into general production of chocolate or other confectionery, some of which may be exported to the U.S.

This sort of trade, described by a Canadian official as "small but valuable," could be blocked or slowed down by the need to satisfy U.S. officials that no Cuban materials are involved.

The action was taken under the Trading With the Enemy Act to prevent circumvention of the existing U.S. embargo on Cuban trade, a treasury department official said.

BLOCKS SHIFTS

It also was designed to block shifts out of the U.S. of certain industries—such as the Florida cigar industry — which in the past government control on Cuban tobacco.

Recently, a Canadian immigration officer stationed in New York toured the south and casually suggested to Tampa cigar makers they might wish to re-establish their industry in Canada in order to obtain continued supplies of Cuban leaf tobacco.

Under treasury department's tightening of its embargo, cigars made with Cuban wrappers will not be allowed into the U.S. so that even if the Tampa industry did decide to relocate in Canada, the U.S. market would be closed.

There has also been talk of setting up cigar-making facilities in the Canary Islands and Mexico to use Cuban tobacco.

Canada is the largest export market Cuba has, but Canada wanted to scotch such plans before capital was committed to them.

The department announced that it has banned the import of any chandise from any country made or derived in whole or in part of products of Cuban origin.

Parliament At a Glance

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

FRIDAY, March 23, 1962

Judy La Marsh (Lib.—Algoma East) said it was welcome, Prime Minister Diefenbaker believes he'll be home "with his dog in his lap."

Mr. Diefenbaker said the plan is to have cabinet ministers scatter to various shelters so the bomb could not wipe out leadership.

Transport Minister Balcer said the government is doing serious thought to a reduction in tolls on the Welland Canal.

Walter Pitman (NDP—Peterborough) called for a commons committee to make a study of civil defence needs.

Senator Wallace Aseltine said army pay will be delayed because the commons passed supplementary estimates quickly enough.

STILL WILLING TO CALL HAIR DYEING INQUIRY

Minister Gives Reply in House

TORONTO (CP)—Reform institutions Minister Haskett indicating Friday he is still prepared to name an impartial tribunal to hear the case of the Don Jail guards disciplined or discharged in the "hair-dying" incident.

His attitude came in answer "certainly" in reply to persistent questions from Ken Gryden (NDP—Toronto Woodbine) whether the offer of a hearing made two months ago is still open.

Mr. Haskett, absent in the reply were approval of suggestions that the tribunal be headed by a judge of the county court or higher jurisdiction, that its hearings be open to the public, and that the three guards be represented by counsel of their choice.

The prolonged debate, occupied almost all of the Friday session as opposition members hammered at the department's handling of the issue.

GUARD DYED HAIR

Mr. Haskett himself reviewed the case, describing guards T. B. Keatinge, A. B. Simonson and Stanley Keatinge. Keatinge, who dyed his prematurely grey hair, was suspended and the others were dismissed.

Mr. Haskett emphasized that the three have not, until now, availed themselves of their right of appeal.

The minister, whose estimates were under consideration, said he is in a prison where the population is constantly unstable, "nothing in the nature of permanency exists" and he is tolerated among the guards.

Mr. Haskett had been told by the jail governor that he was the "centre of ridicule because of the incident." Mr. Haskett said not indicating whether the "ridicule" involved were the hair-dying or something else.

Within days of this, Toronto newspapers carried accounts of the affair, one article, saying the disciplinary measures were making "wolf whistles" at the guards because two attended a beauty shop.

Keatinge was disciplined because, he said, "Serious breach of regulations is informed of by newspapers, but was given only a suspension, I was accused of willing to make amends."

Simonson was also accused of

Gamblers Face Another Session On Monday

TORONTO (CP) — Sentences were handed out Friday to two gamblers and a former provincial police officer, but the day's business face another session on Monday.

Joseph McDermott, 41, and Stanley Vesley, 36, the gamblers, and Gordon Pollock, 39, Robert Wright, 31, were each sentenced to three months in jail and six months indefinite by Judge Justice F. P. Donnelly.

The three were convicted in Ontario Supreme Court of conspiracy to obtain information illegally from Constable Gordon Scott, a member of the OPP anti-gambling squad.

McDermott and Feeley will appear in court again Monday, when Crown prosecutor Percy Millings will proceed with a joint charge of keeping a common game house.

Uranium Output Cut Predicted

WASHINGTON (CP)—An official of U.S. Atomic Energy Commission estimates that production may sustain a Canadian uranium production of 7,000 tons of oxide annually by 1970, a drop from the 1962 high of almost 18,000 tons in 1959.

Jesse C. Johnson, the commission's raw materials director, says there is no way at present to predict Canadian uranium industry conditions by 1970, it appears that an annual production rate of 7,000 tons of U308 will be the maximum attainable without major rehabilitation of existing mines or costly construction of new facilities."

Love Makes All the Difference, Canadian Girl's Plea for Convict

WALPOLE, Mass. (AP)—"It is love that makes all the difference."

On the age-old theme, Joseph A. Flaherty, 36, pronounced better and rapist, and a Canadian girl declare their pleas for his freedom from state prison are what they can marry.

Today Flaherty and Miss Fran McKearney, 33, whose job is a former public enemy's said changed his life, await a decision from the parole board, which has the appeal under advisement and is expected to announce his answer in about two weeks.

"I was fortunate enough to have seen him change and I had needed all my life," Flaherty told Judge Paul Ford Friday. "That was the love of a very wonderful girl."

The stripping convict, whose long criminal record in Massachusetts was eliminated with leadership of the Cherry Hill riot at the old state prison in Charlestown in 1955, told the board of his loveless childhood and his beginnings in crime.

"I need this break desperately," he pleaded.

Miss McKearney, who announced her engagement to Flaherty in January, said: "I have no qualms or fears.

"I would like you to know that I entered this interview with open eyes open," she told the board. "I have faith in him and I have frank. He has grown and changed to that he can meet any problem."

Miss McKearney said she first met Flaherty through news paper stories of the 1955 prison riot.

Miss McKearney, formerly of Fort St. John, B.C., and now living in Dorchester, Boston suburb, read of Flaherty's part in the riot. She was working for the Canadian Army in the Yukon.

They met him a Christmas card. They corresponded and romance blossomed.

She knew Flaherty is the divorced father of two, she said, and she would be willing to have Flaherty contribute to the support of the children, who are being raised by a grandmother.

Flaherty is serving a 25-to-life sentence for murder. He would be eligible for parole in 1966.

Prince Philip Explains Daily Express Incident

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—awful."

Prince Philip explained Friday how it was that he called Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express a "bloody awful" newspaper.

The Canadian-born publisher has been accused in Parliament of persistent attacks on the Royal Family. Last Tuesday The Express quoted the prince, husband of the Queen, as saying The Express is a "bloody awful" newspaper, full of lies, scandal and imagination. "A vicious newspaper."

The prince's explanation was made at a British embassy reception for newspaper men. He said the incident occurred at Rio de Janeiro.

"Actually we were at a party like this and having a jolly good time," he said. "First the Daily Mail man was introduced, then another British journalist, and then a jolly fat Englishman came up . . . he must have weighed about 240 pounds—and was introduced as being from The Observer. Later, somebody told me that man isn't from The Observer, he is from The Express.

"I said, 'well, look you, I'm only one, "well, it's a good newspaper."

"I told him no, it was bloody

Drink in hand, the prince added, "I know I am rude, but it is fun."

Phillip, who is on the closing stages of a 90-day tour of Latin America, also had something to say when the talk got around to revolutions, particularly the possibility of one in Argentina.

"In England we've had better dictators and nastiness than you'll ever have here," he said. Asked if he had ever been in a revolution, he said: "Better a revolution than a dictatorship."

Our revolutions were very good ones. They even chopped some of our heads off!"

"They're having lovely ones in Europe right now. Look at Algeria," he said, throwing up two mailboxes all over the place."

Then on to the House of Deputies, where a recount was taking place in last Sunday's election, the only unpleasant incident of his tour took place.

A supervisor of the vote count for the Nationalist Union party jumped up and shouted:

"Long live Peron!" in homage to the prince of the British monarchist government."

Security officers whisked him off.

DEBATE HOLDING UP PAYMENTS TO SUPPLIERS

Fourth Batch of Estimates Passed

OTTAWA (CP)—The government's fourth batch of additional spending items for the current fiscal year finally won approval in the Commons Friday after 13 days of debate.

But as the $115,647,439 in extra spending went on its way, it left behind the new friction point it created between the government and opposition benches.

During the 13 debating days, which were scattered over six weeks, Veterans Affairs Minister Churchill and Finance Minister Fleming complained about the time the opposition MPs were spending on the extra appropriations.

TAKE ADVANTAGE

Estimates are taken up department by department and open up a wide variety of topics to debate. But with the session slowing, the opposition critics took full advantage of the opportunity for needling the government.

At one point Mr. Fleming warned that the delay was holding up payments to suppliers and paychecks of certain employees." The Liberals declared they did not know was given.

In defiance of the warning, the opposition members kept up their probing study for another day.

Friday, as the Commons was about to adjourn for the weekend, the issue arose again.

STARTS WEDNESDAY

Mr. Churchill announced that debate would resume next Wednesday on the 35th and final set of estimates, totalling $1,778,731,731 and boosting the year's spending to record $6,602,425,085. It had been opened briefly late Friday.

This left only a week to be cleaned up in three days to meet the traditional deadline of March 31, end of the government fiscal year.

Mr. Martin, L.—Essex East) snapped that it was "a form of torture" to debate in this way. It should start Monday.

London Mayor Critical of Police Chiefs

LONDON (CP)—Mayor Strachan Friday criticized some Ontario police chiefs for their decision to crack down on bingos and raffles and said:

"This is particularly abhorrent to me when I see professional gambling operations in our city and the only action taken is to move away from an outside police force."

OAS Stronghold Is Surrounded By Barbed Wire

Troops Search Houses For Guns and Grenades

CP from Reuters-AP

ALGIERS — Sporadic firing broke out today in the extremist stronghold of Bab-el-Oued as French troops searched apartments in the working class district for guns, grenades and explosives.

First reports said two persons were killed and four wounded in exchanges of fire in the district.

The troops ringed Bab-el-Oued with barbed wire and patrolled the streets in army half tracks after pitched battles between security forces and extremists of the secret Army Organization in the district Friday.

French jet fighters strafed machine-gun positions on rooftops in the quarter Friday, and was the first all-out battle between the army and the terrorists.

COUNT CASUALTIES

The army announced its casualties in Friday's fighting were 12 wounded. Civilian casualties were 20 dead and about 80 wounded but may go higher. Figures for yesterday are not complete. Many of the wounded Secret Army fighters were being treated in private homes.

Army helicopters dropped the troops overnight the night over the tense quarter.

Rumors of preparations for a general in a last effort to end the strife-torn city.

"We have nothing in lose now. We may just as well go down fighting," one European said.

Stunned Europeans realized for the first time that the army was ready to shoot at them. Many had been confident that French troops would never fire on Frenchmen. They are fighting "to remain French on French soil."

When French Air Force planes circled over Bab-el-Oued on Friday strafing Secret Army positions, the settlers grimly realized the ships were down.

MAY RISK ALL

Authorities feared the battle might become a general uprising throughout Algeria's major cities by Secret Army men determined to risk all in a bid to keep the territory from falling under Moslem rule.

Officials don't believe such a revolt could succeed, in the army remains loyal to de Gaulle, but they are aware of the chaos it could cause.

The settlers accuse the French government of selling Algeria out to the Moslem nationalists. The right-wing Secret Army Organization has called for all-out resistance. It has 20,000 armed men in Algeria and can count on the backing of most of Algeria's 1,000,000 Europeans.

Secret Army leaders argue that the Europeans in Algeria sooner or later go Communist and threaten France and the West.

Liberals Claim P.M. Should Be With Cabinet, Not Alone

OTTAWA (CP)—The Liberals claim the safest action in the event of attack, realizing now were being told to stay at home, is to be with his wife's kin and not with the arrangements at a point of destination.

Opposition Leader Pearson said that while equality in protection is desirable and a factor in expenditure, there should be some protective protection for children. He also called for stockpile of food and strategic supplies and a special system of automatic warning.

Provincial separate shelters for children, and Mr. Diefenbaker, would involve the heartbreaking decision of separating children from their parents.

Mr. Martin (Essex East) said all Canadians should be given an equal chance to survive nuclear war. The government should embark on a program of public shelters.

Mr. Diefenbaker said he agrees with the principle "equality" should be applied, but first shelters be built for? how some equality and priority be acquired?

Walter Pitman (NDP—Peterborough) and George Cruickshank (Lib.—Fraser Valley East) urged debate on an additional expendi. ture of $201,500,000 for the Emergency Measures Organization, that a Commons committee be set up to hear expert opinion.

Mr. Pitman said it would be very to ridicule civil defence but that it would be difficult to advance an alternative policy. He could not quarrel with what had been done but the record showed that only 34 Canadians had taken out loans to construct shelters.

Health Probe Head Says Doctors Too Touchy Over Who Pays Them

OTTAWA (CP)—Chief Justice Emmett Hall of Saskatchewan, chairman of the royal commission on health services, has criticized the medical profession for the importance it attaches to the way doctors get paid.

"I think it is important that the basis of remuneration and to some extent the amount paid play a very important part in the allegiance of the practitioner," Mr. Justice Hall said at a public hearing Friday.

The witness was prompted by a statement to the commission submitted by the Canadian Association of Anesthetists.

"The principle of remuneration, fee for service or salary given, being the most effective to establishing a firm relationship between patient and his doctor, is especially significant in the provision of anesthetic care. It is a most intangible guarantee of the allegiance of the anesthetist."

Taken in the over-all context of the brief, however, it seemed clear that Chief Justice Hall was referring to the oft-repeated insistence of the medical profession in general that fee-for-service form of doctors' remuneration be retained.

At another point in Friday's brief the chief commissioner sternly rebuked Dr. R. G. B. Gilbert of Montreal, president of the Anesthetist Society, for the way in which he answered questions from the chair.

Chief Justice Hall said he had found an inconsistency between the medical profession's endorsement of payment through voluntary prepayment plans and its opposition to payment through a government plan—"a matter of considerable involvement. What was the explanation?"

His question was predicated in both cases on a fee-for-service basis. Dr. Gilbert then started to discuss the difference between commercial voluntary plans and non-commercial ones. Chief Justice Hall cut him off.

"Deal with the question on the brief, put it to you," he snapped. "I have asked you a question which you are free to deal with, but you are not free to. But don't try to transpose it into a debate and suggest that you are giving me an answer to my question."

Dr. R. A. Gordon of Toronto, the society's first vice - president, then tried answering. The difference was in who exercised control. Under a state plan, control was "in the hands of government bodies." He went on to state that service by government control, he said, led to budgetary limitations, would deteriorate,

BUDGET DEFICIT FOR 11 MONTHS IS $355,900,000

Lower Revenues, High Expenditures

OTTAWA (CP) — A sharp rise in expenditures in February combined with lower revenues increased the government's budgetary deficit for the first 11 months of the current fiscal year to $355,900,000.

Finance Minister Fleming's monthly treasury statement released Friday night showed that the 11-month deficit was $15,400,000 greater than the $340,400,000 deficit for the 1960-61 fiscal year.

In his budget last June Mr. Fleming forecast a deficit of $650,000,000 for 1961-62. Government expenditures tend to pile up towards the end of each fiscal year.

Expenditures for February rose to $532,980,000 from $490,000,000 a year earlier, Budgetary revenues were $387,400,000, down from $411,900,000 in February of last year.

Most of the decline in revenues in February was caused by a drop in personal income tax collections and in non-tax revenues from the operation of government, which very month by month.

The $355,900,000 deficit for the April-February period of the current year compares with a $30,100,000 deficit for the corresponding period in the previous fiscal year.

Budgetary revenues in the 11-month period rose to $3,300,900,000 from $3,105,900,000 a year earlier. But budgetary expenditures advanced more rapidly to $3,564,700,000 from $3,196,000,000.

A total of 9,242 patients were treated at Belleville General Hospital last year, the average length of stay being 9.2 days with an overall total of 82,320 patients days.

In the same 12-month period there were 1,516 new born babies at the hospital.

Hospital Board chairman J. N. Vanover in his chairman's message to the board reported that the hospital was beset with accommodation lack problems, which in recent months was becoming "very critical".

He said the hospital was currently operating at an occupancy rate of 123 per cent.

"Your board in dealing as best it can with this situation and has made strong representation to the proper and to the city councils to obtain the funds needed to substantially increase the number of beds requisitioned.

IN TO TRAINING

Mr. Vanover made note of the hospital laboratory school where 23 students now are in training as laboratory technicians. He hoped that the acute shortage of such technicians might be soon alleviated.

The board chairman said the board and the patients using the hospital owe a debt of gratitude to the nurses and staff who, he said, were carrying on their duties under "very difficult conditions".

He said, too, that the hospital board appreciated the work of the Hospital Women's auxiliary in their efforts on behalf of the patients and the hospital.

He personally thanked the members of the Medical Staff and the board for their co-operation.

"It is only with the complete assistance and efforts of all the persons involved in the operation of our hospital that we can make this an institution of which we all can be proud", he said.

SET 124 YEAR'S LOSS

The hospital financial report for the year showed revenue of $2,250,528 including earnings from services to patients of $1,981,170 and $99,043 from out patients.

Expenditures for the year totalled $2,308,740, resulting in a loss of $57,814 on the year's operation.

A break-down shows that 62.8 per cent of hospital expenditures went for wages and salaries; 10.9 per cent went for drugs, medical and surgical supplies; 6.6 per cent for dietary supplies and expenses; 4.6 per cent for administration supplies and expense; 5.8 per cent for depreciation; 8.3 per cent for other supplies and expense.

An amount of $25,219 or 1.1 per cent of the total hospital expenditure, went to the city of Belleville for debenture costs.

ONE OF CRIBS

Hospital Superintendent W. O. Deacon filed in his report to the board stated that the year 1961 would be one of crisis and important decisions.

Plans for meeting the needs for adequate hospital facilities did not result in a satisfactory solution as approved at by the hospital board.

Because of crowded conditions that is due to increased bed-cult in 1961 to provide adequate service and safe medical care for patients.

Mr. Deacon warned that a disaster in Belleville hospital service calls for a decision on the hospital site and the lack of access to areas which could accommodate extra patients under such circumstances.

He said the lack of hospital facilities placed a very heavy burden on all associated with the provision of hospital service, the physicians carrying the heaviest burden.

136 STUDENTS ENROLLED

The report of the Hospital School of Nursing showed a student enrollment of 135 of which 47 were first year, 44 second year and 44 third year students.

It was noted that the student enrollment had increased considerably since 1958 when there was an enrollment of only 66 with seven graduating. Last one year's practice of nursing. Last year's enrollment of 135 had a total number instructional staff.

Reports of the different activities of the Women's Hospital Auxiliary were also received. The report of the Auxiliary's receipts and expenditures of $18,-723.11 of which $11,000 went for the purchase of Hi-Lo beds for the hospital.

Women's Hospital Auxiliary volunteers during the year gave 7,351 hours of service in six different projects at the hospital. At the present time there is a staff of 54 volunteers, who in the words of Mrs. J. E. Buchan, director of volunteers, brought "extra warmth and friendliness to the hospital".

Quinte Skating Club Marks Another Success

Ice Revue Colorful Show

By GEO. R. CARVER
Sports Editor.

Spring arrived in the city last night in silver-lined container and on skates.

To did Summer, Autumn and Winter garbed in the brilliance of seasonal colors and packaged in the colorful ice spectacular of the Quinte Skating Club's 1962 Ice Revue.

Produced and directed by Dr. W. C. McCutcheon, the revue with its cast of 150 performers, highlighted by professional calibre specialist easily rates with the best of the Canadian competition.

It is a colorful presentation of the revue theme "The Four Seasons", that is represented in prettily-garbed ensembles and outstanding soloists against the melodic background of topical music.

The show, Quinte is cleverly sequenced and spaced with lighter-vein ensembles and comedy. The timing is excellent with the improved skating of the younger members a fine endorsement of the new Star system of skating.

Kemptville Breeders Back Quinte Amalgamation

Members of the Eastern Ontario Cattle Breeding Association at Kemptville yesterday voted decisively in favor of amalgamation with the Quinte District Breeders at Belleville.

With approximately 400 members attending the annual meeting at Kemptville, over 90 per cent voted in favor of amalgamation with the Belleville association.

Thursday members of the Quinte district breeders voted 91 per cent in favor of amalgamation with the Eastern Ontario Association.

Dr. J. M. McLean, manager of the Quinte district breeders, said today that legal aspects of the amalgamation would now go ahead, with a new board of directors elected.

He said the amalgamation would go into effect Monday May 1st. Headquarters of the joint association, to be known as Quinte-Kemptville Breeders Association, will be at Kemptville.

Dr. McLean said amalgamation would mean the shifting of some Hereford and Holstein cattle from Belleville to Kemptville, while certain bulls of other breeds would be transferred to Belleville.

It was expected that all additional personnel of the two associations would be retained in the new set-up, although it is certain amalgamation might mean certain shifting of personnel.

Main purpose behind the amalgamation was to allow fuller breeding facilities with a view of even greater herd improvement. Operating separately, the two associations do not have enough volume to justify the testing program economically.

Mayor Haig Will Be Asked To Open Fair

This year the Belleville Fair, which will be held from Monday, May 14th to Thursday, (Thursday), inclusive, will be opened by Mayor A. McLean Haig if the unanimous request of the board of directors is granted. The decision was made Thursday evening at a meeting of directors in the city council chambers.

A closer reign is to be kept on the complimentary pass system this year in order to prevent number of people from using one pass. The secretary and the treasurer were instructed to investigate this situation fully.

Alderman Ross Bailey was again appointed in charge of obtaining special prizes for the prize list. Since these items have contributed to the success of the fair, it was the board's hope that the number of prizes would be increased this year.

IN MEMORIAM

BELHAP — In loving memory of a dear friend, Ronald Belhap, who died March 24th, 1956, and every March 24th, 1956.

A page in the book of memory silently turns today,
No words are said in silence,
And make no outward show,
But in the heart's deep core you live,
Dear Ron, we love you so.
—Ever remembered by friends and neighbors.

BELHAP — In loving memory of Ronald, who was killed five years ago, March 24th, 1956.
Forever in our hearts.
—Mother and Dad.

BELHAP — In loving memory of our son, Ronald Henry, who was instantly killed March 24th, 1956.
Though tears in our eyes do not show,
Our sad faces do always say,
There is never a night or a morning
But we think of the son that we lost.
Not a day do we forget you,
Not a thing do we ever say here,
For we loved you and we miss you,
Dear Ron, more than words can tell.
—Ever remembered by Mom and dad.

MONDEVILLE — In loving memory of our dear son, Walter Mondeville, who passed away March 25th, 1961.
Though tears in our eyes do not show,
We sad faces do always say,
There is never a night or a morning
But we think of the son that we lost.
Not a day do we forget you,
Not a thing do we ever say here,
For we loved you and we miss you.
Dear Walter, more than words can tell.
—Ever remembered by Mom and dad.

CARDS OF THANKS

I sincerely wish to thank all my friends and neighbors who sent to kind during my recent illness in Belleville General Hospital. A special thanks for cards, gifts and flowers, Dr. Ross, Dr. Wright, Rev. Smith, Rev. Kirk, Rev. Walker and Russell Bateman, nurses and staff, 3rd floor south, for all their kindness.
Ethel Coulter.

We wish to thank the Avondale Church and Sunday School and the Belleville Cemetery for kindness and gifts received during our recent retirement.
Ethel and Walter Thornton.

Boys' Judo Club Takes Part In Competition

A number of members of the BCKA's Boys' Judo Club took part in a recent judo tournament held in Toronto at which 250 boys representing clubs from Metro Toronto, Stratford, Oakville, Niagara Falls, Oshawa and Belleville participated.

For many of the lads the event was their first experience in tournament competition. There were two entries in the team competition, each club with over their first match but were eliminated in the second round. Taking part in the team competition were Gary May, Ian Marshall, Ron Morrison, Jeff Carswell, Peter Parker, John Andrews, Peter Fleming and Lander Barter.

Those competing in the individual matches were G. May, I. Marshall, R. Morrison, B. Carswell, P. Parker, J. Andrews, P. Fleming, L. Barter, B. Luck and P. Priadie. Bill Luck reached the quarter-finals and Gary May and Ron Morrison reached the semi-finals.

The judoists were accompanied by Instructor R. Pore and K. Carswell.

EXPERIENCE

Thirteen-year-old Roderick Woodcock of Glenridge Street, shown a copy of the Canadian Bill of Rights by Lee Grills, MP for Hastings South, at a Progressive-Conservative get-together in Trenton last night. Roderick was the youngest Conservative in attendance, John Johnson, 87, at right, the oldest.

Our Economy Never Better, Grills Tells Conservatives

TRENTON—Lee Grills, MP for Hastings South, told the members of Progressive Conservative Association at an informal get-together in Trenton last night, that Canada's economy was "never better". "Even better than in war-time" avowed Mr. Grills.

Mr. Grills said that in spite of what the opposition was saying, Canadian export business was up over anytime in history.

"But it's opposition tactics to belittle everything we do," he said.

About Prime Minister John Diefenbaker, Mr. Grills had this to say: "He's one of the greatest humanitarians we've ever had in this country and never seen a more able man in public office in my lifetime. Wherever he goes in the world he makes a name for himself and Canada."

Mr. Grills had a few words to say about Trenton, too.

"The Trent Canal improvement program started right here in Trenton," said Mr. Grills. "Your Chamber of Commerce and other Trenton organizations and individuals had a hand in it."

ACQUIRE SITE SOON

Mr. Grills told the assembly that the site for the new federal building in Trenton, would be purchased by the government in the near future. He also commented on the recent shipment of prefabricated pier warehouse units, from Central Bridge to Iran.

Industrial and commercial growth in Belleville was also encouraging, said Mr. Grills. In fact, he said, progress was good all over his riding, and that this indicated a very strong economy across the country.

Mr. Grills had a word for opposition leader Lester Pearson too. "I think our friend who wears the bow tie has the economy of the country mixed up with the state of his own party".

And a word for the press . . .

"The press likes to pick on sensational things in parliament", he said. "Sometimes they don't tell the whole story and this leads the government look as if it's irresponsible. Our government is responsible. We are going to have an election this year . . . we don't know the date yet . . . but it will be this year."

Mr. Grills urged his constituents to conduct him if he visited Ottawa and he promised to show them around the parliament buildings.

"Write or phone me", said Mr. Grills, "I'm always available".

Elmer Sandercock M.A. followed Mr. Grills to the platform. Mr. Sandercock, who is the member of the Ontario Legislative for Hastings West, told the party members that he, too, was "disgusted" with opposition tactics. He said that sitting Liberal members in Toronto were capable of manipulating sessions so that they could get their names in the headlines.

Mr. Sandercock contended that the Conservative party would go back into power in the coming election without any trouble.

PLEASED WITH ROBARTS

Speaking of Ontario premier John P. Robarts Mr. Sandercock said that the party had picked the right man.

"Mr. Robarts has his head on the right way", said Mr. Sandercock. "All the cabinet ministers are delighting with him".

Chairman for the evening was N. J. "Dick" Mahoney, president of the local association.

C of C Plans Many Projects; Has 71 Members

TRENTON — Nostrand Sprague the secretary of the secretary of the Trenton Chamber of Commerce, reports that since the first of the year the chamber has acquired 71 members—twenty-seven of these are new members. A number of out-of-town firms, which do business in the city, have joined.

Mr. Sprague said that the chamber would sponsor a "clean-up" campaign this year with the unofficial slogan, "Plant flowers they're prettier than trash".

The chamber has ordered 1200 tulip bulbs from Holland and when they arrive in Trenton, they will be given to one or a number of community bodies for planting. Possibly the Parks' Board will receive the donation.

Mr. Sprague said that he had mailed out a large number of maps and booklets this year to people in the United States and western Canada who had requested information about the Trent Canal or other areas in the near future.

Among future projects, the chamber is making enquiries about the possibility of setting up a bonded warehouse for transient storage. It is understood that a local trucking firm has a building available for such a purpose. Enquiries are being made in Ottawa about securing a permit to set up a warehouse along this line.

STREET NAME PROBLEM

The chamber also plans to approach the town council about having streets which bear the same names as older streets in the town changed to avoid confusion in mail delivery, store delivery and so on.

Another Chamber recommendation will be that signs be placed near subways north of the town, advising truck drivers of the location of other entrances into the town. Many drivers find that the underpasses are not sufficiently high to allow their loads to pass under them or, even worse, turn off the load under the subway, only to get jammed indefinitely.

Yesterday, town engineer Eric Alderspy said that the Canada Cement Company would start the sewer installation on Front Street sometime in April and that the dock area will be needed to place equipment and store pipe for the ready use.

Tenhams had two pieces of machinery in the Front Street area yesterday, and work, at one end of the street or the other, will commence on Monday.

Break-in Followed by Fire In Trailer Used As Office

TRENTON — Around 11.30 o'clock last night, the Trenton fire department dispatched two trucks to Front Street, where fire had broken out in a small house trailer, which was being used as an office by the Quinte Plumbing, Heating and Electrical Company. The large business office of the company was destroyed a few weeks ago.

Subsequent investigation by Inspector R. J. Rutherford of the Trenton police department established that the trailer had been broken into prior to the fire. Missing were several pieces of office equipment, a typewriter, cash box, an adding machine, a small amount of cash and several small cheques.

At 10.30 a.m. Saturday Earl Graham, aged 26, of 98 Division Street, Trenton, was apprehended by Inspector Rutherford and Constable Fred Noakes and was charged under the Criminal Code, with possession of stolen goods. A brief case, typewriter, adding machine and cash box were recovered by police.

Cause of the fire is still being investigated by police.

Entry to the trailer had been gained through a back window. The thief or thieves had placed a high factory stool under the window, broken the glass and crawled in.

Destroyed in the fire were records, and other business papers. Property loss will stand at something over $1,000 with the loss of company papers as yet undetermined.

Owners Archie McNeil and Pat Topping, who have not yet recovered, in the business sense, from the $80,000 fire in their main building, wonder what can happen to them next.

Judge Criticizes Dependence Of Judiciary on Political Decisions in Closing Talk

TORONTO (CP)—Judge J. M. Godfrey of Sudbury Friday criticized what he termed the dependence on the Ontario judiciary on political decisions.

In his report as outgoing president of the County and District Judges' Association, Judge Cooper said:

"The cabinet in Ottawa is adamant in its attitude that a judge is a creature of a statute called the Judges Act and there is no room for political involved in bothering to amend the Act."

Judge Cooper was criticizing what he called the federal government's indifference toward judges' salaries. He said the government had in the last 10 years have raised salaries of deputy ministers and civil service servants to $21,000, while judges were maintained at a basic salary of $10,500.

Judge Cooper said that at a meeting with the prime minister on Aug. 16 last year, Mr. Diefenbaker agreed that the judges had a case for an increase in salary, but he added it was a matter of political decision of his own when the increase would be implemented.

Mr. Cooper suggested that unless salaries are raised the position will attract applicants of independent means who have been unable to compete successfully in legal practice.

CITES 'EMPTY PROMISES'

"For many years we have received empty promises and we will continue to receive them until we make our presence felt," he said.

Quebec judges receive the same salary as Supreme Court judges but Ontario judges, despite the province's rank as the greatest industrial province in Canada," are treated the same as judges in the poorer provinces.

Mr. Cooper quoted from a letter he wrote Feb. 8 to Justice Minister Fulton.

It said:

"Judges apparently do not regard the position of federal employer until it is politically expedient to do something about it. At least that is what has been said and, undoubtedly, that has been the adopted policy of both political parties in the past."

Man Who Ousted Peron Strives To Bring Peace

BUENOS AIRES (AP)— Gen. Pedro Aramburu, a hero of the revolt that ousted Dictator Juan Peron, strove today to keep peace in Argentina and preserve constitutional government.

The retired army general met in a three-hour presidents conference with top army, navy and air force commanders in an effort to persuade President Arturo Frondizi's latest crisis with the military, military. The meeting ended without apparent agreement.

Aramburu himself told reporters a solution always is possible if there is good will.

Reliable sources said naval officers had told Frondizi that they must get out by 6 p.m. this morning, but this was categorically denied by Rear Admiral Jorge Palma, a navy chief of staff.

Rear Admiral Clifton Clement, the navy secretary, said on leaving the conference that Argentina is considering its efforts at mediation. Asked about the report the navy had handed Frondizi an ultimatum to get out, Clement replied that he knew nothing about it.

Judge Anderson Named President County Judges

Hastings County Judge J. C. Anderson of this city was elected to the presidency of the County and District Judges' Association of Ontario in Toronto yesterday.

Judge Anderson served as vice-president of the association during the past two years.

Judge W. T. Robb of Orangeville, of the Ontario Liquor Licence Board, was re-elected secretary. He has served twenty years in the office.

Fifty-five judges of a membership of 67 were in attendance.

A highlight of the meeting was the discussion at some length of changes in the administration of justice, as brought up in new legislation, with Attorney General Kelso Roberts.

Also present at the meeting were Mr. Alan Lawrence, Q.C., chairman of the Legal Bills Committee of the legislature; Mr. A. Russell, chief inspector of legal offices, and Mr. Eric Silk, Q.C., assistant deputy attorney-general, and author of the Silk report on certain statutes affecting powers of county and district judges, and related matters.

Student Transfers Cause High Feelings in C. Hastings; Madoc School Approved

Feelings in the Centre Hastings High School controversy (Hastings Board, says, however the Madoc school will not be able to accommodate all students in September and in turn will have to transfer some to Marmora.

And Thomas Kielty, of Huntingford township, says the Tweed and Huntingford board to be set up in January would be prepared to build extra accommodation immediately at no cost to Centre Hastings.

"Students from East Elzevir and Huntingdon have traditionally attended high school at Tweed," he said. "They have come to us to be allowed to continue and will feel that we have let them down."

He said that the expected enrolment at the Tweed school next September would be 509, not 580 as reported by Mr. Kincaid, and also said the two townships which they were willing to build at Tweed would cost Tweed and Huntingford ratepayers a net of only $110,000 after the provincial subsidy of 75 per cent was received.

SCHOOL APPROVED

One of the conditions on which Tweed and Huntingford were granted permission to withdraw from the Centre Hastings area was that they receive public support for the technical school addition proposed to be built at Madoc.

Late yesterday Rod Webb, M.P., for Hastings-Frontenac announced that Federal government approval for the Madoc technical school had been given.

The Federal contribution for the school addition estimated to cost $1,056,000 will be $696,000.

Under the scheme the Federal government's contribution is 75 and 25 per cent of approved costs.

A Quarter-Century of Railroading

The layman, reading the 1961 annual report of the Canadian National Railways, could be pardoned for concluding that there is a simple explanation for if the CNR's financial woes — it is debt-ridden. Further study would show that this is only half the truth. While fixed charges swell the size of CNR deficits, it has had railway operating losses since 1957.

At the back of the report, under the heading "A 25-Year Synoptical History of the Canadian National Railways," appear statistics setting forth the system's operating revenue, operating expenses, operating profit or loss, other income, surplus after fixed charges, fixed charges, surplus or deficit after fixed charges, freight revenue ton miles, freight revenue per ton mile, revenue passenger miles, revenue per passenger mile, average number of employees and average hourly earnings per employee.

There is a tendency to regard the CNR deficits as a perennial problem. This is justified, if we are considering surplus or deficit after fixed charges. The CNR has had a deficit in 16 of the 25 years covered, from 1937 to 1961 inclusive. But before fixed charges there has been a surplus in all but three years, 1938, 1958 and 1961.

Largest deficit in the 25 years was that in 1960, $87,497,000, closely followed by the 1961 deficit of $87,308,000. Third largest deficit was way back in 1938, $64,314,000.

It is easy to see why the deficits in the past two years have been so large. They parallel fixed charges, $61,023,000 in 1960 and a record $62,476,000 in 1961, compared with $53,452,000 back in 1938 and a low of $25,415,000 in 1952, a year in which there was a modest $142,000 overall surplus.

In spite of the fact that deficits have outnumbered surpluses 16 to 9 over the 25 years, the railway operations have shown a profit in all but six years — and five of the deficits have occurred in the last five years. This certainly suggests that the CNR's present-day financial troubles cannot be dismissed as merely a revision to pre-war conditions. It was the fashion, when overall deficits followed surpluses during the five war years, 1941 to 1945 inclusive, to blame this on a falling off of traffic. Figures for revenue ton miles during these years do not bear the difficulty than this. True, tonnage fell but remained more than double the pre-war figures. Revenue ton miles in 1961 were higher than in 1945. Moreover, freight revenue per ton mile is up over 50 per cent over the war years. Then it was about 1 cent per ton per ton mile; in 1961 it was 1.48 cents per ton mile.

A simple explanation, of course, would be to blame all the troubles on increased wage costs. In 1937 average hourly earnings of employees were 61 cents, in 1961 $2.06. But even this would appear to be an over-simplification. There was a substantial railway operating profit in 1953. Unless employees are receiving longer hours today than in 1953, which seems unlikely, wage costs in that year would appear to have been almost as high as in 1961, for while the average wage was then only $1.52 an hour, compared with the 1961 average of $2.06, the CNR had 130,109 employees in 1953 compared with only 99,564 in 1961, a figure, incidentally, which is lower than the number employed during most of the war.

A Modern Trojan Horse?

Khrushchev's aversion to even a limited inspection team visiting all countries and policing potential manufacture of nuclear arms serves to reinforce the belief that the Soviet dingus is sincerity regarding disarmament in the fullest and most practical sense of the word is pure propaganda. The only disarmament which Russia appears to seek is that of the suspicions of the rest of the world as to her true intentions.

It is obvious that no detection device will ever serve to determine how many nuclear devices a nation is manufacturing and storing up in her munition dumps. Only a thorough inspection system can ensure this and this only if there are a considerable number of inspectors with extreme flexibility and mobility.

Anyone connected with any armed service knows how easily an inspection can be rigged to show the inspecting team only what the examinees want it to see.

The disarmament talks mean nothing if the Russians refuse to concede even such a fallible measure of world security as inspection teams. If the rest of the world accepts the sincerity of the Soviets without this factor as a prerequisite it has brought a modern Trojan horse into its kabis.

Some Tories Are Fearful Of Soft Policy With Grits

BY RICHARD JACKSON

(from The Ontario Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau)

OTTAWA — Some of the more meek and mild members of the Conservative Cabinet have been working on Works Minister Hellyer to "soften him up," it is learned in part.

Pity, this.

For if the Conservatives feel they aren't meeting with a shadow across the land as when they were politically tall in the saddle back just before their stunning 1958 election sweep, then one of the most needed is a disposition to be "mushy" among those members of the Cabinet who take the "soft" approach to things.

Nobody could reasonably expect the Conservatives to ride forever, and certainly it would be politically impossible to remain on that dizzy peak of popularity that won 208 out of the 265 seats on the Commons.

But this, admit many of them, is not to say that things are just exactly what they should be, for frankly, contrary these realists, they're not.

What bothers many is the suspicion that a small minority in the Cabinet has been "leaning down the line" from the "soft" attitude of compromise even when dealing with the Parliamentary Opposition.

SLAM DANCE

And in these days immediately before the just-around-the-corner Federal election, compromise, particularly in management, are two of the poorest faces a Cabinet can show in the Commons.

For it is in the House that the party differences are most sharply mirrored — the image that voters will remember when they go to the polls.

Walker has been front and centre in the House in these recent days, battling to put his Public Works Department estimates through the Commons.

And it has been a slam bang affair. For Walker works with a jack-rammer. Maybe that's an exaggeration, but it's not far off it.

He actually "anticipates" attacks, and, himself counter-attacks before they are launched.

This way he spikes many an Opposition gun.

But it's rough stuff, and it gives the more sensitive souls among the Cabinet the shudders.

Walker has to be tough.

His estimates cover Post Offices, bridges, docks, harbors, Federal Buildings, almost anything you can think of that the Government does in the line of "construction" — money important, capital works spending.

These are things that "get to" an MP 'where he lives", back to his home constituency where the voter pressure is just about every man-jack in the Commons has to have his say, the Conservatives, as a matter, to praise and pray for more, and the Liberals and CCF-NDP, naturally to criticize and cry the blues.

SPEAKS, BUT LOUD:

So Walker, from the bell (the one that sounds the opening of the day's business in the Commons) comes out swinging, and stands there, slugging it out in the British Commonwealth.

White Collars

Toronto Star

White collar workers present a very different unionizing problem than did blue collar workers a generation or so ago in industry. Their position is seldom so dire as to dictate dire remedies. They are not to have a feeling of superiority toward people who work with girls' hands, and are suspicious of unions. They are more conventional. They are not given to strikes and cannot imagine themselves upon a picket line.

In response to a request from the Ontario Department of Agriculture, Hastings County has set up an Agricultural War Committee. This Committee, with the Agriculture Advisory Committee—of the County Council as the basis, will stimulate interest by way of public meetings and other educational methods to increase production in every branch of Agriculture as this county's quota war effort for 1942. The first general meeting for the promotion of this scheme was held in Stirling on Thursday evening; and within the next few weeks every farmer in the county will be contacted personally and invited to give assurances whereby the demanded increase in agricultural production will be met.

Apiarists and beekeepers of the province have received the price of ten cents per pound for their honey this year, according to a decision of the Ontario Honey Co-operative Association. The decision to fix the selling price was made at the annual convention held in Toronto this week. It was stated efforts are being made to make Belleville the locale of the convention next year.

That there would be a short syrup season this spring was prophesied by a local grocer offering syrup and sugar on the local market this morning. It was pointed out that all the snow had disappeared from the sugar bushes and that from had almost entirely gone from the ground.

Letter To The Editor

Criticizes Council Vote on Margarine

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer:

In the Tuesday edition of your paper, in an article under the heading, "Council Votes To Remove Ban On Colored Oleo," it revealed a disappointing and I feel disgraceful fact — the decision on the part of the council of the City of Belleville to approve the removal of this ban on colored margarine.

This city is considered to be in the heart of Hastings County and Hastings is one of the dairy counties of the province. The governing body of a centre like this, which depends on and serves, to such a considerable extent, the surrounding country, could stoop to such a decision—I just cannot imagine.

However, it is gratifying to find that not all of the members were in favor. Congratulations to them. They are to be commended for their progressive thinking.

Two weeks ago Hastings County Cream Committee paid for time on CJBQ and for advertising in all the local papers in the county, in an effort to support and strengthen the dairy industry. Now, so soon and unexpected, comes their first reward — the council of Belleville, the only city in the county, of course, a great many other hospitals have clinics.

We now have a trend toward more neighborhood clinics, and up so that a group of cooperating physicians can share facilities that they could not afford individually.

And there's another use of the word in a slightly different classification. In research, many new and valuable ideas originate in laboratories. When there has been sufficient study and testing, the final and necessary step is clinical testing, which means testing of the methods or drugs or treatments with patients.

No, the word clinic isn't a little.

Dear Dr. Molner: My daughter, who is 13, asked me what appears to be a blood blister, but red, behind her ear. My doctor said it was a birthmark, but if so, wouldn't it appear at birth? — Mrs. A. T.

A "birthmark" is a mark of color which usually occurs because of some small quirk in nature, rather than being caused by any outside agency. Usually, it's not a good term, really, because it has nothing to do with the process of having been born. Such marks can, and often do, become larger or smaller than they are after birth. If your doctor isn't sure of it, you shouldn't be, either. If it is a birthmark, I would advise about having a skin specialist remove it, either sooner or later, the mark should be protected for the sake of appearance.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is it true that a woman becomes pregnant only at a certain time of the month? Could you explain it, please? — Mrs. H.

The ovulation — the appearance of an ovum, or egg, from the ovaries — occurs only at a certain time in the menstrual cycle. This happens, in the average 28 day cycle, between the 12th and 16th day from the beginning of the last period, but if often varies from this by a few days, that approximate timing. Fertilization of the ovum usually must occur within about 48 hours of the time of ovulation.

Are you bothered with ringworm of the scalp? If so, write to Dr. Molner in care of The Chicago Sun-Times Syndicate, P.O. Box 188, Dundee, Ill., for my booklet, "Her Noble Crown." Enclose a dime and a self-addressed, stamped envelope, to cover handling and postage.

THE EXPANDING LIFE

It is indeed a discouraging thing to feel that your life isn't growing. That is the saddest tragedy — reaching out.

How are you to know?

The more love he rises to a great thing, or wealth delights in sharing and strengthen the better industry. Now, so soon and unexpected, comes their first reward — the council of Belleville, the only city in the county,

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

GOD AND MAN TOGETHER

Christianity on its spiritual side is the religion of forgiveness. It is certain things we can never do for ourselves. We cannot effect for ourselves the atoning sacrifice, cannot bring about the regeneration of our souls by the Holy Spirit. These things are gifts from God and we have nothing whatsoever to do with their creation.

But on the ethical side of our faith everything depends upon us. It is what we do that matters. God does certain things for us, but there are certain other things that nobody can do for us except ourselves. These things have to do with the bringing of the heavenly gifts into daily life and putting them into operation. As long as men keep their religion in one compartment of their minds and their standards of daily conduct in another, their religious professions are ridiculous and hypocritical. It is only when men take the freely proffered gifts of God and by trusting faith prepare their hearts to receive them and with a revitalized will set themselves to make them work, that their lives are sound and pleasing in the sight of God.

The Creator and the creature must work together. God does for us what we cannot do for ourselves.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

All last summer, there was the friendliest rat about my kitchen the cosiest voice, singing on the radio a little ditty about the Kindly Fr. Rat, and I loved it. After a few beg, full of the greatest contentment with the vale of tears, he would end up by assuring you that you were the boss at the Kindly Finance Corporation.

I was tempted any number of times to go down and borrow fifty bucks just for the sheer pleasure of feeling like the boss. And besides, it would be a pleasure to have a chat with the most amiable old man, with his deep rich voice. He would be full of anecdotes.

Then, one fine thing and anoth. I never did get down to borrow that fifty bucks. Imagine my surprise, therefore, at last week, to be in a remote south-western county, two thousand miles from home, and on turning on the radio in the motel room to hear my old friend, woed fer word, inviting me to come down and be the boss at the Kindly Finance Corporation. Away off there! He wasn't a local man, after all. Not even local a here, down near Mexico.

I was disillusioning. But I suppose you have to be disillusioned to borrow fifty bucks.

A Lift for Living

Life's Many Invisible Links

By Dr. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

During World War II an American aviator wrote a letter to his mother in which he said, "From the air the world looks so small and so much one. If I am around when this is over, I hope to have a hand in helping to reconstruct the world. I have a deep and abiding faith that some day the boundaries between nations will be no more than the boundaries between states in our own country." When that young airman said the world looked small, he was no doubt expressing the feeling of that vast flock of fliers who are now getting a bird's-eye view of this old world.

To all these youths, how small the world must seem in comparison to the way it looked to me as a boy. They are familiar with faraway shores which were only dream spots to the youth of my generation.

In these journeying, our modern travellers are weaving webs of association. How often it happens in a company that we start asking if another person knows so-and-so in such-and-such a place, and before long we have uncovered such a meshwork of mutual acquaintances that someone is sure to come forth with the trite remark, "What a small place the world is, after all!" A company of people is like a clump of forest trees in that the members, like the trees, seem to be separate, but when you dig below the surface you find their roots intertwined. We are joined by so many of life's invisible links.

Are Two Ways

Thus there are at least two ways of making the world seem small — not only by travel over it with ever-increasing speed and frequency, but by digging down to the roots of these invisible links and seeing how large life is. Hence, let us put the letter of an aged man who also had seen the world along-side the aviator's letter from which I quoted. The distances the older man had covered would seem trifling to a modern air pilot, but to him — as he trudged along on foot or sailed in the little first-century sailing vessels — the distance must have seemed quite considerable.

He had been born in the city of Tarsus in Asia Minor. As a youth he had gone up to Jerusalem for study. Steeped in the knowledge and love of the Jewish people and faith, he had tried to stamp out what he considered the heretical sect which was worshipping Jesus of Nazareth. In his efforts to eradicate the heresy, this man Saul had gone to Damascus. On the road he experienced a conversion which changed him from a persecutor to a comrade of the Christians. After that came those missionary journeys over the Mediterranean world. Now he was in Rome, as a prisoner awaiting trial and probable death.

Paul, as he wrote this letter, might have been overwhelmed by the isolation and barriers of a cruel world. But strangely enough to him in his cell, as to the aviator in his plane, the world "looked so small and so much one" — not because the distances were so shortened but because life for him had become so enlarged. And he wrote, "I bow my knees unto the Father of Our Lord Jesus Christ, of whom the whole family in heaven and earth is named."

To Paul the world seemed a small place because he belonged to the world-wide and heaven-wide family of God.

These two ways of viewing the world must be combined if this earth, which has become a neighbor, is to become a brotherhood.

ENGAGEMENT NOTICE

Mr. and Mrs. Orland Herrington, of Rosemore, announce the engagement of their youngest daughter June Rachael Herrington, to Ernest Ray Jolley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Juby of Wallbridge. The marriage to take place on Thursday, April 19, at the home of the bride's parents, Rosemore.

Mrs. William Edwards and daughter, Sandra, of Barkers Falls, were recent guests of Mrs. M. B. Weese, Mrs. Len Taylor, and Mrs. Edna Zelen.

Recent guests at the Park Plaza Hotel included Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Kemp, and Mrs. W. E. Vaughan, of Belleville, who were visiting Toronto.

Mrs. William F. Finkle, 231 William Street, is a patient in Belleville General Hospital.

Church Women Study Better Stewardship

Wednesday evening the ladies of the Women's Department of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints met in guests at the home of Mrs. W. Harrison at 35 Spring St., Trenton.

The worship period was conducted by Mrs. A. B. Mogg using the theme "Be Ye Strong." formed Through Sharing at Home the Sentiment of Unity."

Roll call was answered by each woman in turn telling one way in which she might be able to cut her family food costs.

The lesson on "Spending the Family Dollar," from the book "Stewardship in the Home" was taught by Mrs. W. L. Cassell.

BUDGETING EXPLAINED

Mrs. Cassell explained budgeting and said that a budget is to help us, and that a spending plan is of no value unless it is put into operation. A mechanical device, such as a record book in which expenditures are entered, makes it easier to plan a future budget. She reminded the ladies that such a record is necessary to help plan tithing. She told as the church teaches its members to pay in tithing, one tenth of the income each year — or a tenth of income.

Mrs. Cassell went on to tell that women do about 80 per cent of family purchasing and, that they should endeavor to be good stewards in how they spend the quarter million dollars that a family may earn in a life-time. She pointed out several ways to help the ladies choosing purchases both of foods and other commodities. One of the commodities in today's market is credit and this should be used wisely and that daily obligations should be met with promptness.

WISE USE OF MONEY

Mrs. Cassell said that how well a family lives depends not only on the income but also on how well women spend the family dollar.

The business meeting convened with Mrs. R. C. Eles in the chair. A letter was presented outlining the Women's activities to be held during the World-Wide Conference in April at Church Headquarters in Independence Missouri.

Following the meeting a social hour was enjoyed under the leadership of Mrs. A. B. Mogg.

Lunch was served by the hostess.

Women's Institute

PARKDALE W.I.

During the business period, the secretary read several letters among them a thank-you from the Parkdale Girl Guides for a recent donation.

Further plans were made to enter to a wedding in May, and members have offered to make new drapes for the hall.

Current events were given by Mrs. Wilson and plans to entertain at the County home were discussed.

Mr. W. Cone showed two interesting films in keeping with Canadian industries. The first one was "Magic Mineral - Asbestos", after which two enjoyable games were played. "The Chairmaker and the Boys" was the second movie, ending a most enjoyable evening.

Lunch was served by the hostesses, Mrs. Aitchison, Mrs. Sprakett and Mrs. Nickel.

Friendship Guild Plans Projects

GILEAD — The Friendship Guild held a regular meeting on March 18 with an attendance of 31.

The president, Mr. Bert Grills, opened the meeting with hymn "Rescue the Perishing."

During the business part, "Mail You" letters were read from Gordon Pound and Mrs. Gerald Livingston.

Earl Ross explained that the committee had met and recommended: finishing the washroom; put a fence around the property; and buy 100 chairs. It was decided to leave the finishing of the hall for a few years as the final date for the grant does not expire with this year, but a decision was made to buy 100 chairs.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Howe are in charge of the next meeting.

Mrs. Bert Grills closed with prayer and Mrs. Gerald Swan took charge of the following program which was of an Irish nature:

Reading, "With Our Colors Waving Bright"; Doreen Grills read Scripture 1 Corinthians, 13; Community Singing, "The Black Keys and the White Keys," by George Clare; the Young Farmer's Quartet led in several Irish songs with Kenneth Leavens at the piano; Dorothy Howe recited two numbers; Cynthia and Elizabeth Grills took part in their Earl Ross, a humorous reading, "How Paddy Stole the Rope"; Dorothy Howe sang a beautiful solo, "That Old Irish Mother of Mine," and Mrs. Keitha Swan read, "Tim O'Larry's Marriage."

Mrs. Gerald Swan led in contests and several interesting games with many prizes for the lucky ones.

Community Fetes Couple With Shower

2nd THURLOW — A community shower was held at the Nelahow Old Mill in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Tony Weaver who were recently married. There was a large crowd present for this event.

Mr. Sam Dillon acted as chairman on behalf of Mrs. E. Jeffery, president of the Neighbor Aid, and the following program was enjoyed: community singing with Mrs. M. Hubbard at the piano; several Irish songs; baton twirling by Peggy Thomson with Mrs. M. Hubbard accompanying at the piano; a duet by the Misses Marlene and Carolyne Mitchell; guitar music by Margaret Chumbley; an instrumental number by Donna Lazarini; and a humorous reading by Mr. Arnold Mitchell.

The bride and bridegroom took seats of honor and Mrs. Arnold Mitchell on behalf of the community read an appropriate address expressing best wishes for their future happiness and extending a welcome to the bride who had travelled so far to marry her former sweetheart and make her home here.

After unwrapping the many lovely gifts Mrs. Effie Dillon and Tony expressed their sincere thanks and appreciation.

Mr. Arnold Mitchell at this time spoke briefly and paid tribute to his former friend and employer of the 2nd of Thurlow. Mr. Thomas McGrath also expressed his sincere gratitude to the many friends and neighbors who so generously contributed and helped in many ways when they lost their home by fire, recently.

Refreshments were served and a social time spent.

Calypso Music Is Way of Life In the British West Indies

By SHIRLEY and BOB SLOANE

Jamaica, West Indies, — Throw "Jamaica" at a North American in a word association test and chances are he'll blurt out "calypso" back at you (either that or Harry Belafonte, which he thinks is the same thing).

Actually, calypso as we know it originally got from Jamaicans but from Trinidad, the bouncy little keystone of the British West Indies that is culturally, politically and economically the most vigorous of the British islands. It is also the most ignored by tourists because of its remoteness and high-priced hotels.

Like all Negro folk music, calypso's origins are buried deep in the jungles of Africa. It first emerged in the Western Hemisphere as a kind of commentary on world affairs on the part of the slave, in language the master could not understand — a kind of contrived yet of allegories that effectively fooled the plantation owner. The bossman without having him know exactly what it was all about.

It followed naturally that calypso developed into a highly inventive and effective form of topical music. Its subtleties became a developed art in that day even the dirtiest song can be disguised in double-meaning terms that never really spill over into vulgarity on the surface.

An Annual Competition

Trinidadians are so enamored of calypso that they have staged raggiest colonialists and mercenaries, calypso is in their blood. Every year in the hectic week, before Carnival, a competition is held for the best singer and best song.

Prizes are lucrative, as I remember, being made in factory lots and theatres called "tents" because, once they were built, they were used for aggiation of audiences, performers adopt names like Lord Kitchener, such as Mighty Sparrow, Lord Melody and Lord Kitchener, and proceed to sing for everyone they can get their G-strings on.

Many tourists have the idea that calypso is devised for tourists on the spot. But this is generally a showy night club trick which rarely can be done well. Most of the lyrics are far right out of stock. True calypso is thought out and composed with an artistry — sometimes deceptively childlike, sometimes bawdy and lewd. It can also be devastating.

Mrs. Jean Baptiste of Jamaica, where tourism dictates much of the island's economy and culture, not to mention its politics, the racy pace of the music was slowed down in keeping with Jamaica's easier approach. The informal meter of fun and satire was usually some which would shock Ogden Nash, my favorite poet. Finally Harry Belafonte and others got hold of calypso, turned it into a big beat, and inevitably it watered down and died out.

Hilarious Classics

Some of the absurdly costumed bands which haunt hotel patios and night clubs are usually come up with some of the hilarious classics of calypso, such as "Day-O" (Banana Boat Song), "The Bedbug Song," "The Big Fellow Is Dead," and the masterpiece interpretations of varying shadings. Mostly, however, they stick to "Island Boy," "Island Ann" and other bland Tin Pan Alley-cane.

Whatever they're about, the musicians all sing after a fashion, have a terrific sense of golden teeth, and rock their knees and hips to the oddly gaited Jamaican-mento dance. They strum assortments of guitars, banjos and a home-made substitute for a bass viol known as a rumba box, the only instrument you're ever likely to see that was designed to be sat on.

What some visitors find even more intriguing than the calypsos music is the speech — a conglomeration of distorted English that is unique to Jamaica which is the nearest thing to an authentic African language left in the world. Many a tourist has spent fascinated hours in bars almost entirely populated by his native language and not understanding a word of it. Wondering, along with Prof. Henry Higgins, why can't the English learn to speak?

White Cane Club Plans Future Events

The March business meeting of the White Cane Club was held at the Y.M.C.A. on March 6 present. President Pat Baverstock welcomed all and executive Miss O'Shea, Miss Cowle, Jimm Brennan and Franklin Pratt. Grace was been sung a long time owing to ill health and the cold weather.

The executive were reminded of the birthday party to be held on March 20 at Bonnie Corner early in April and a banquet at the Moose Lodge, later in April.

The correspondence included a letter from the C.C.B. entitled, "Which Side Are You On?" This was written by a blind person. It was to explain the many reasons why he prefers to walk on the right side of the guide using his left hand on his or her right elbow. Only those who have a blind person's right hand is then free to carry his white cane or any other parcel.

Mr. Sittsens and Mr. Hazen of the Canadian Reform Church were guests during the evening and played an enjoyable session of bridge which they donated to the club members tribute to his former friend and records would come every second month for any of the club members who wished.

Quinte WI Hears Talk by District Pres.

Mrs. Holmes opened with her disappointment at the unavoidable absence of Mrs. Donald Sandercock at the February meeting, owing to the bad weather conditions at that time. Mrs. Ernest Curtis and Mrs. Donald Sandercock will be in charge of the next card party at Harder's School on April 6th. It was moved to send $2. per member towards the scholarship fund which is to pay for sending a member to an underprivileged country to attend Women's Institutes there. It was also decided to send contributions to the Foundation Fund and the Adelaide Hoodless fund and that the secretary buy purchase necessary cards. Mrs. Alva Meyers is in charge of a tea to be made by the members to be sent to the W.I. adopted 10 - year - old boy, Chesang Ying Gay of Macao, China, for his birthday in September.

GUEST SPEAKER

Mrs. John Reid was convener for the program. Mrs. Dunn introduced the district president, Mrs. Percy MacMullen, guest speaker of the evening. She felt that the success of one meeting a year dealing with W.I. procedure and stressed that one way to put a lot of work in the Institute to get results. She felt that the province of Ontario should be proud that the W.I. has such a heritage in Canada, reminding members of the Adelaide Hoodless Home. She expressed pleasure at the large number who attended the 45th anniversary in February. Each member could celebrate the 45th anniversary anytime during 1962". She spoke briefly about that the officers conference at Guelph was a great success and Mrs. Maggerison was also a speaker. She announced that the district annual will be held on last and will be Sidney Baptist Church.

Mrs. John Reid reported on the, 45th anniversary in Toronto to which she had attended, which was a most memorable present. She regretted that three chartered members were unable to attend due to the bad weather. The head table for this special occasion was prettily decorated with yellow daffodils and pussy willows and centered with a large birthday cake. Letters of congratulations were received from many dignitaries including one from Prime Minister J. Diefenbaker. Mrs. Smith international vice - president was also spoken of and spoke in regards to being neighborly.

Mrs. Clayton Curtis gave a reading and an interesting demonstration of Wedgwood china was put on. Mrs. Reid, Mrs. Don Sandercock and Mrs. Alva Myers were the two contest winners.

Mrs. Dunn expressed sincere thanks to Mrs. Holmes, Mrs. Hall, Mrs. MacMullen and Mrs. Hall for helping to make such an interesting evening.

Dr. Luis Conte Aguero suggested the food for prisoners trade on a broadcast intended for Cuban listeners.

Chi Rho Chaplain Continues Talk on Ministry Preparation

Recreation period got things rolling last Wednesday evening. The regular games of target baseball, volleyball, checkers and roulette were played in competition to accumulate valuable points for the individual group. One group in particular, found the knack in target baseball and scored thumerable well earned points.

President Allan Gardiner told the group of two appointments that had been discussed at the last executive meeting. These were in turn; the Rev. Michael Cassell, Anglican Church and also Herb Cavalier for membership secretary. Both appointments were carried in agreement by the members.

Mention was made of a new project to link a young missionary couple who are in the process of building a new church. It was decided to wait for information as to the kind of building materials needed and also by doing so the fellowship would be in a better financial situation.

President Allan Gardiner reminded the club of a future date coming up for the entertainment evening for the Country Home. This is going to be held in Christ Church, on Wednesday evening, April 1st instead of the usual Communion Service. Chi Rho members expressed their hope for a keen outside interest in their play and also extended a warm welcome to all.

"IRISH INSPIRATION": FASHION

Last week we turned our thoughts to Ireland — and an Irish girl, whose name has become a household word throughout the entire fashion world, Sybil Connolly.

Miss Connolly attained world-wide acclaim when one of her dress designs appeared in magazines seen throughout the country a model creation that was to influence a Belleville wedding.

This was worn by Mrs. James Forrester, 65 Bridge Street.

"I remember seeing Sybil Connolly's famous dress in a magazine, said Mrs. Forrester. "It was a vision of white and I fell in love with it. Some years later, on a trip to Ireland with my family, upon our arrival in Dublin we noted a Georgian mansion on Merrion Square, "restored and refurbished" as a fashion salon nested. The House of Connolly. Could this be the same Sybil Connolly? We made enquiries. It was!"

Mrs. Forrester not only went in to enquire about the beautiful dress and saw it, but was asked if she would like to try it on. She certainly did, and it fitted perfectly". This was a thrill for me to slip in such a dress of dreams". The dress was to be used for late. It is Miss Connolly's prized possession.

"At that time", Mrs. Forrester recalls "our daughter, Anne was planning a June wedding. If ever, we exclaimed, was the time to decide upon a wedding dress, here was our chance".

To have a dress made by Sybil Connolly is something of a ritual.

First", Mrs. Forrester says, "Georgian doors were shown to us, on living models. Anne noticed a brown gossamer linen and wished her wedding-gown to be like it, in white. After bolts were made, several girls took her measurements. Then we waited.

Then two weeks later, we were asked to return, to find a silk-dress sort of lining or outline of the dress ready for a fitting. Then, upon this lining was added, stitched by hand the white gossamer linen, which had made like crushed, gathered veiling or chiffon a fabric Miss Connolly develop-

Kenneth W. — There's nothing I like better with our child. It's Winnie who needs attention.

Kenneth W. — We're having some difficulties with our 11-year-old son. He's been pilfering his mother's pocketbook, stealing school supplies and is generally bully. When we punish him, he packs to leave home. Even though he gets over it and we make it all up each time, I know we'll keep on having trouble unless Winnie pays more attention to him.

She should quit her full-time job and go on half-time so he can find someone at home after school. We don't get home those extra few dollars. He'd never see his mother! She has him all signed up for Scouts, play groups, music lessons — things to fill up his days and keep him off her neck.

Clyde's teacher suggested that he get some special counseling. My plant now offers this as a fringe benefit. But I want Winnie to get it.

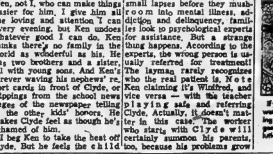
Winifred W. — I know Clyde is having a hard time. But it's Ken, not I, who can make things easier for him. I give him all the loving and attention I can every evening, but Ken undoes whatever good I can do. Ken thinks there's no family in the world as wonderful as his. He has two brothers and a sister, all with young sons. And Ken's forever waving his nephews' report cards, in front of them, and clippings from the school newspaper of the newspaper telling of the other kids' prowess. He makes Clyde feel as though he's ashamed of him.



I beg Ken to take the best off Clyde. But he feels the child can see give him things to brag about, live up to his family does. I signed up for full-time work. There's nothing I can do at home to help Clyde. But Ken could help us all, if he'd only take the guidance counseling himself.

The Council: Guidance counseling is still so new (as compared with blaming and punishing) a resource that one of its greatest boons, its inclusiveness, is often overlooked. The matter whom it starts with — whether a parent, a wife or a husband — the whole family is in a family are touched upon by one of the other members. The high road lead to Scotland, says the wise old saw, "Everything you do affects everybody else".

Modern family psychiatric services to the fridge benefit with retail clerks in Los Angeles, supermarkets in Toronto and Philip which, in the years ahead, can have a miraculous effect upon bone life, as well as work efficiency. Clyde's teacher is right. The boy needs careful examination. And Ken has a place to turn so the counseling staff of his firm's medical department.

As the trend gains momentum to look for the causes behind small lapses before they reach room into mental illness, addiction and delinquency, family-life look no psychological experts for assistance. But a strange thing happens. According to the experts, the wrong person is usually referred for treatment! The layman rarely recognizes who the real patient is. Note this challenging 11-year-old, vice versa — with the teacher posing as the referring Clyde. Actually, it doesn't matter in this case. The worker who starts with Clyde will certainly summon his parents, because his problems grow out of theirs.

If you're a boat owner, keep bilge water germ-free and fresh-smelling with a strong solution of powdered automatic dish detergent. A milder solution is good for scrubbing decks.

WHA Holds Successful Strip Tea

The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Hospital Auxiliary of the Belleville General Hospital was held in Education Hall last Tuesday afternoon, with the president, Mrs. M. F. R. Jones, in the chair.

Following the business on the agenda, the convener, Mrs. J. R. Casey, the staff and the workers of the Opportunity Shop were introduced to the ladies present. The staff consists of bookkeeper, Miss Eggleton; treasurer, Mrs. W. W. Shand; staffer, Mrs. A Mair; princes, Mrs. J. A. Young, Mrs. R. van Everding—and Mrs. R. J. Long; thank-you, Mrs. D. Lunn.

The meeting was later turned over to Mrs. J. H. Casey who welcomed all to the fashion show which followed. Mrs. J. Lennox Smith was the convener and commentator, assisted by Miss Nina Gault.

Against a gay background of flowers, flowering trees, and travel posters, the show was opened by an outstanding wedding party. Bride and Bridesmaids Are a Girl's Best Friend. The bridal party was accompanied on the piano by Mrs. J. Parrott. The jewelry for this ensemble during the solo were courtesy of Ronald Hagerman Jeweller Limited. Later in the program, this same soloist gave her interpretation of The Twist.

CHARMING MODELS

The charming models showed a number of chic ensembles from the Opportunity Shop. A navy blue polka-dot dress with navy accessories looked smart on Mrs. Nina Gault, while Mrs. Jean Bowerman did displayed an attractive turquoise chiffon afternoon dress. Highlight of the show was the lovely bridesmaid's outfit worn by Miss Nina Gault and Miss Donald Heath. At intervals the commentator would call upon a member of the audience to donate part of her afternoon's entertainment. Three minutes was all the time necessary to secure the desired article.

The jewelry worn was by courtesy of "Baubles, Bubbles and Bangles"; make-up was by "Scuffcoat"; and hair spray by "Spar-Val." Mrs. J. H. Forrester and Mrs. W. Fiskle deserve special mention for their amusing and informative skit on "How and What to Smuggle Through Customs." The stock of the Opportunity Shop will be greatly enlarged by the addition of their "loot."

The draw for the door prize was made by Mrs. Fred Beeby and the grandfather clock, donated by Simpsons-Sears, was won by Mrs. H. Mallory. The beautiful shawl donated by Miss Bellie Merry, was won by Mrs. E. Dempsey.

Mrs. W. Kempston thanked the convener, her assistants, and the models for all their work in this most unusual fashion show.

Those who assisted by looking after the donations brought by all the ladies present were: Mrs. K. M. Bird, Mrs. W. R. Bradshaw, Mrs. G. H. Bliment, and Mrs. J. H. Sloan.

QUESTION:

With the low cost of potatoes (recently I got lovely New Brunswick potatoes — 50 pounds for 99c) I'd like to use them as much as possible (Could you send us a recipe for German Potato Salad — it's served hot and is delicious with ham — Mrs. R. K.

ANSWER:

GERMAN POTATO SALAD:

2 tablespoons finely chopped onion, ¾ cup French dressing, 1 quart (3 cups) sliced or chopped cooked potatoes, (preferably hot), 4 slices crisply cooked crumbled side bacon, 1 teaspoon salt, dash of freshly ground pepper, leaf lettuce.

Gently cook the onion in the French dressing in a frying pan until tender. Add the potatoes, bacon, salt and pepper. Toss together lightly until the potatoes are well coated and hot. Serve hot in a serving dish which has been lined with lettuce.

QUESTION:

I hope that you can help me concerning fowl stuffed with rice. I was wondering perhaps if you have made it for duck or goose — Mrs. J. S.

ANSWER:

RICE STUFFING FOR FOWL (often used for duck or goose):

½ cup chopped onion, ¼ tablespoons butter or margarine or bacon drippings, 1 cup rice, 1 cup water, 1½ cups hot water, 1½ to 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon sage or rosemary, ¼ teaspoon thyme, 1½ cups spoon grated orange rind.

Lightly brown the onion in the fat until limp, then add raw rice and saute until rice is straw-colored .Add the salt and water and cover tightly and simmer 20 minutes (barely tender). Add remaining seasonings. Sufficient for one 3½-lb. duck. Double these amounts for a goose.

NOTE:

One-half cup white raisins may be added if desired.

QUESTION:

Would you give me a recipe for simple chocolate fudge? — Mrs. N. H.

ANSWER:

SIMPLE CHOCOLATE FUDGE:

2 cups granulated sugar, 1 cup (8 oz.) evaporated milk (2 oz.) unsweetened chocolate, cut up, 1 cup icing sugar, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Mix together in a heavy saucepan the granulated sugar, cream, cut up chocolate and icing sugar. Cook until soft-ball stage, 234 deg on candy thermometer. Stir just enough to keep fudge from scorching. Remove from heat. Add the butter and vanilla without stirring. Beat until it begins to lose its shine. Spread in an 8 x 8x 2" buttered pan. Cut when cool.

SATURDAY. Dinner Menu

Crab, Shrimp or Lobster Cocktail (optional); Virginia's Pizza (see Thursday's); Corn on the Cob; Fresh or Fresh Frozen Strawberries; Walnut Refrigerator Cookies; Tea.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

DON'T BE AN EARLY-BIRD GUEST

A hostess may fret about the guest who is late, but the one she fumes about is the guest who comes early.

When a party's in the offing, every minute counts, and a hostess usually likes to devote the last 60 of them to combing her hair and putting out the finishing touches. Consequently an early arrival might catch her in the midst of opening a jar of cold cream with one hand and a cruet of chicken livers with the other.

The early-bird usually arrives in a party mood, a full 30 minutes before the hostess has donned hers. To put him at ease, she then has to turn on her brightest smile even before she's had a chance to etch it with lipstick. A drink has to be poured, and the time the clock keeps ticking away and a dozen of details have yet to be tended to.

The guest who arrives far ahead of time usually puts a pretty much strain on himself as he does on hostess. He naturally feels dreadfully apologetic and to make up for his blunder is only too eager to help, which is probably the worst mistake he can make.

When a hostess is caught in a pincer-movement — caught between the living room, kitchen and bath, in effect — the last thing she wants is a Helpful Hannah underfoot as she scurries back and forth.

A guest who puts his hostess in such a perplexing situation can best help ease it by making himself as scarce as possible. If he sees she's really in a rush he'll avoid catching glances, the kindest words he can utter are "You just forget I'm here" — and mean it.

If ever you're the cause of just such a predicament, here are a few don'ts to remember:

Don't follow your hostess from room to room, chattering as you go. It's distracting when she's a number of details on her mind and is trying to keep them off in order.

Don't offer to arrange the canape trays. She probably has a pattern worked out and would prefer to follow her own blueprints. Take them into the living room, if you're asked, and put them exactly where directed.

Don't try to settle the kiddies down with a story. A guest in the nursery usually stirs things up and mother only has to go through the "tigits out" bit again.

Don't dirty up all the ashtrays. If you're smoking the same one as the harried hostess does, you'll have to make a clean sweep before other guests arrive.

Don't clutter newspapers and magazines all over the living room as you sit out the waiting period. Same reasoning, same reason.

Above all, don't tell guests when they finally arrive about the rush your hostess was in minutes before the bell rang. She's striving for a relaxed, easy effect. It is the most courteous thing you can do is preserve the illusion.

Corporal H. D. Sears Addresses Consolidated H-S Assoc. On Traffic Safety Problems

TWEED—The regular monthly meeting of the Tweed Consolidated Home and School Association was held at the school on Wednesday evening. The meeting was opened by the president, Mr. M. McTaggart.

The room count was tied between Mrs. Montgomery's room one and Miss Baker' room four.

It was agreed that the executive would look after the nominating committee and bring the slate of officers to the May meeting.

SAFETY PATROL

The safety patrol was discussed at great length as to what assistance could be given to them. It was reported that a letter had gone to the Department of Transport in regards to a light at the intersection and the Association is waiting for results from this.

It was also agreed that an electric kettle and cream and sugar would be purchased for the kitchen. The Local Association are going to try and make arrangements for a public library so children may go to obtain books as it is felt that a number of school children are not able to obtain books because of the open hours of the library.

GUEST SPEAKER

The guest speaker, Corporal H. D. Sears of the O.P.P., Madoc, was introduced by the president, Mr. McTaggart. Cpl. Sears is the present president of the Ontario Home and School Association. Cpl. Sears' talk was on "Traffic Safety Problems". Cpl. Sears said he was glad to hear Tweed was interested in the safety Patrol. He pointed out that motor vehicle accidents accounted for more deaths than all the dread diseases combined. He said that mothers and fathers can do a great deal to teach their children safety at home as well as in school from the time a child is old enough to gesticulate until the time he gets behind the wheel of a car. Safety he should be safety conscious.

He pointed out some of the dangers parents' cars are bad drivers. He stated. "We don't suffer as good citizens because he doesn't try to draw attention to himself by not making a show of himself. Some

Henry invites letters from readers, and awards each week a best-selling book for the most interesting letter he receives. This week's winner is Miss Georgina Bentley of St. Catharines, Ont., who receives a copy of "Beaver Business" by Glen Rounds, published by Prentice-Hall, Inc.

Dear Henry:

I am the same age as you. My parents and I continually argue about my allowance.

Some girls get $2 or $3 a week, while I am getting 50c. Therefore I can't save to go bowling, swimming or indulge in any sports. They laugh when I have so little savings and they have $20 or $50.

Henry I am desperate, what should I do?—DISTURBED FAN.

Dear Disturbed Fan:

You may not have heard of this but some people earn their spending money. It really isn't as bad as it sounds after you get used to it. So set up some business and open for business.

Our church group is having a debate on teen-agers. Our leader has been trying to convince us that the average teen-ager is rude, lazy, incompetent, ignorant and chicken.

We disagree on most of these remarks and he will not change his mind and we haven't yet changed ours.—GEORGINA.

Dear Georgina:

There is not such a thing as an average teen-ager. You can't say teen-agers are chicken and rude and you can't say that teen-agers are trustworthy and hardworking.

If you want to show him that you are right you've got to win the debate.—HENRY.

Dear Henry:

I have a 7½-year-old sister who gets quite nervous and then she starts to cry. We are not allowed to slap her, although we do, because she becomes very angry and cries till her eyes are all red.

There are five kids in our family and they were all spoiled at one time, but she is getting just too spoiled.

It sure gets everybody down when they see her with tears in her eyes. Every day someone spoils her even more. How can we break this habit?—SPOILED SISTER'S SISTER.

Dear Sister:

Since every kid in your family is spoiled, one more spoiled kid is not going to cause World War III. But if you don't want to contribute to getting your sister spoiled and cry and her eyes red and her body nervous, you can stop slapping her.—HENRY.

Dear Henry:

Does success and popularity spoil a child? Are you spoiled?—A FRIEND.

Dear Friend:

Some kids can get spoiled if their parents let them. "Are you spoiled" is quite a question. An average guy would say: "Me? Gracious no!" So I am saying: "Me? Gracious no!"—HENRY.

Dear Henry:

May I comment on the "To spank — not to spank issue?"

Unfortunately not all parents are real grown-up adults so advice has to take this fact into consideration. When a child is told or forbidden to do something, he should not be threatened with spanking.

If more parents told and showed their children what to do rather than what not to do the children would learn to use their brains and imagination, and would learn more that way. —AUNTIE C. G.

Dear Auntie C. G.:

I fully agree with you about the advice. I have said before that I think spanking is sometimes necessary — but there are better ways.—HENRY.

How Can I Meet a Man?

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS:—I read an article the other day (not in your paper) saying that my girl could get married if she met a large enough number of eligible men (single, widowed, divorced).

I'm well aware of my shortcomings but I feel I still have something to offer a man (I'm 31), if only I could meet one!

In a large city maybe this would be possible and where I live one sees plenty of men but how on earth does one go about meeting them? I've tried the usual things like night classes and church, with singular lack of success! And I work in a hotel, meeting people all the time, but no eligible men!

Much as I like my home town, I'm thinking of moving to a big city in a last effort before I accept what I suppose is inevitable!—STILL HOPING.

DEAR STILL HOPING:—If she met a large enough number — there's the rub. How many does one need to choose from? Statistics tell us more men than women in Canada are without mates — but it's still true that the Over Thirties have trouble finding them.

There's a surplus of males in the north, if you're equal to the weather, and unattached males in large centres than in small. You meet them by circulating.

Part of the trick is not to be too anxious. The next group you join should be interesting to you because of its pursuits of a skill or new interest, entirely aside from the pursuit of the males therein!

Be prepared for a life of single blessedness, even as you continue your search.

DEAR DORIS:—Is it wrong to like a boy a year younger than myself? I'm in my teens. I like this guy and think he likes me, but how do I find out for sure? Please help me with this situation.—FORLORN.

DEAR FORLORN:—You are not exactly robbing the cradle. There are times when even six months is a big difference, but people mature at varying rates.

Is he ahead of you or behind you in school grades? Is he tall for his age or are you small for yours? Do you both engage in the same activities? These are ways to test whether you would make a good pair.

As to whether he likes you — show yourself friendly, but not forward, and you'll soon find out.

DEAR DORIS:—I was born in 1936, the year my father was acquitted on a murder charge. I do not remember my mother as she ran off with a chinaman. I have another brother who is on charge now for horse stealing, petty theft and larceny. I have another brother who works as a plumber.

I have just been paroled myself, serving time for taking part in an abortion, but I am keeping straight and have just met a beautiful girl. She knows of my past and I love her very much. I do not want to lose her.

My problem is this: should I tell her of my brother working as a plumber?—ALL MIXED UP.

DEAR ALL MIXED UP:—Mixed up is right. What's the matter with having a plumber for a brother?

If your girl can swallow your titles of father, mother and horse-stealing brother and your own weird past, I should think a plumber-brother would be a relief. Unless you think she might fall for him.

Whatever your reason for hesitating, I'd say tell her. Even introduce her. She'll meet him some time and it's better to know now than later what her reaction is.

60th Wedding Anniversary Being Observed

PICTON — Former residents of Prince Edward County, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hubbs of Cedar Springs, are marking the 60th anniversary of their wedding on Monday, March 26, 1962.

This auspicious occasion will be observed at the home of their son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Leland Hubbs. Among those who will be present to felicitate the esteemed couple are Mr. and Mrs. A. Hall of Saskatoon and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hubbs of Sudbury.

Mr. and Mrs. Hubbs were married in Wellington by the late Rev J. W. Shier. She was formerly Nona Vandervoort, and daughter of Mr and Mrs. David Vandervoort, and was born on May 11, 1882. Her early life was spent in Wellington. Mr. Hubbs, who was born on June 26, 1882, is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Haviland Hubbs, and his early years were spent in Bloomfield.

At the wedding 60 years ago, the flower girl was Ciela Hall, now of Napanee, Saskatchewan.

Following their marriage, Mr. and Mrs. Hubbs resided in Consecon, Ont., and Cedar Springs, Ontario. He is a retired Shell Oil dealer and restaurateur. Members of the United Church, Mrs. Hubbs is also a member of the Women's Association. They have a son, Leland Hubbs. The couple enjoys good health and always retain a keen interest in their native county.

WON'T AUCTION SKETCH

LONDON (Reuters) — British Royal Academy Thursday decided to postpone auction of Leonardo da Vinci sketch following strong criticism from the press and parliament. The sketch, of the Virgin and Child with John the Baptist and St. Anne, was expected to bring £1,000,000, or more. A postponement would enable a special appeal fund to be set up to buy the masterpiece for the nation, rather than allow it to go abroad.

Garden Notes

A Flower Garden From Seeds

By FLORA M. SAVELLE

Some years back Oshawa built a new city hall. The grounds on the south west side sloped sharply down to the east street.

This slope had been broken up into several levels with wide bands of flowers between strips of grass. From the street below it looked like one great crazy-quilt of color. Between the rows you could admire the multi-colored groups that went to make up these rows. The great variety of flower and leaf shapes and texture were amazing.

This is a remarkable achievement. The gardener told me the plants, all annuals, were grown from seed out of doors, since the city had no greenhouse at that time. The gardener, who was responsible for the plan had been a gardener for the late Mrs. R. S. McLaughlin.

It is a real challenge to grow at least some of your bedding plants from seeds. There are many handy annuals that grow readily and go on blooming for months. To get off to a good start sow those that are slow growing, or slow to germinate, about six weeks before the last frost. Since it is usually safe to plant even the tender annuals out by the first week in May you should start the seeds in the greenhouse of April. Plant not too soon, and with the limited light available in the average home, the plants become too leggy and seldom recover and become compact thrifty plants.

New Hybrid Strains

Many of the old favorites have exciting new hybrid strains. Look for these. Cynoglossum is hardy, bear and drought resistent. Just the plant for that hot dry spot. There are light and dark blues, white and a pink. Thirty inches tall. Giant California Asters are single with a tufted yellow centre. Lovely for bedding and cut flowers. Heed of three and Powder are other good asters. Asters, take two to three weeks to germinate get them started early. Snapdragons too are slow coming into flower and need an early start. Some of the new strains are excellent. Look for these. They are bigger and have tall sturdy stems.

Godetia is one for poor soil. Mix one part of leaf mold, or pick garden soil to three of sand. Water sparingly. The compact plants will be covered with lovely pink, salmon, crimson or white blooms. The colors can be bought separate or mixed. Bush morning glory Japanese Imperial has saucer size blooms in mixed colors and Blue Knight is a bright blue, also bush type. Both these are good for window box or planter. Cherry Rose nasturtium is unusual in several ways, the brilliant pink scarlet color, the semi-double blooms and the flowers are carried well above the foliage. A real find for semi-shade.

Other Good Annuals

Other good annuals are phlox drummondi, stocks prized for their fragrance and their handsome spikes, for bedding and for cutting. Periwinkle Little Bright Eyes is a new bright dwarf. Torenia, or wishbone flower spreads and makes a mass of blue and gold color in almost any place but damp humid settings.

Bartonia, (Blazing Star) Stella Polaris has big yellow blooms with a burst of golden stamens in the centre. Longlasting, good cold-hardy in are transplanted the better.

poor soil. Lisaria Fairy Bouquet is like tiny snapdragons, good for a solid bed, bands or edging. Annual larkspur should be planted in the fall where it is to grow. You can get it to sprout if you put the seed in water and allow it to freeze. Leave frozen for two or three weeks. This softens the seed. Fill flats two inches deep with good garden soil and cover with half to one inch of perlite or vermiculite. Damp it down and with fine spray or set the flat in water until the top feels damp. Press the seed into the surface cover with plastic or glass and place in a warm place. When the seedlings sprout give them good light but not hot sun.

Transplant to two inch pots when the second pair of leaves develop. Nurserymen are finding that the earlier the seedlings are transplanted the better.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO H. CARVER, Sports Editor

This is the Night of the Hunter!

And a mighty Hawk will be on the prowl scenting the biggest game of the puck-hunting season.

If the hunting is good, a double-barrel blast could bring him a pair of golden pheasants.

But Hunter Bobby Hull will be seeking his titular bags on the none-too-productive gaming estate of a fierce enemy feudal baron.

He must needs keep his shooting eyes sharp, his fowling piece cocked and ready to fire in split times. For fiercely-determined enemy forces will be on a sixty-minute qui vive ready to pounce and spike the breech of his record-seeking arquebus.

And on the sidelines a record near-16,000-supporters (there will be friends, too) will note with almost bated breath his every goal-seeking fury.

For they too had a mighty hunter, in fact two of them, who are enshrined in their almost fanatically loyal hearts, and who share the record of fifty "birds" in one season.

But beneath their "Canadien" loyalty there is a fine spirit of sportsmanship. Should the record-seeking Hawk achieve his ambition, I believe they will give him the spoils of accolade that go to the victor.

Tonight the Black Hawks invade the Montreal Forum to do battle with the league-champion Canadiens. Gentlemen it is just another tilt to be played out in the schedule. The result means nothing to the teams' standings.

But the eyes of the hockey world are centred on the Hawks blonde star Bobby Hull. The sixty minutes of tonight's clash could be his finest hour. He needs two goals to tie the goal-scoring seasonal record of the great "Rocket" Richard and the Canadiens "Boom-Boom" Geoffrion.

A double-barrelled blast tonight would not only tie the Canadiens' goal-getting record but the two points secured would bring him alongside the Rangers fine Andy Bathgate at present leading the National Hockey League scoring race with 83 points. Bobby has 81.

A movie script writer could not have dreamed up a better setting for what might be another brilliant chapter in National Hockey League history. The could-be hero of the piece is invading the partisan-packed stronghold of the twin holders of the record.

In baseball parlance, the Chicago challenger has "one strike against him". He is playing on the home hunting grounds of the foemen. The threated thunder of acclaim will not be for him. Consolation will come through the Forum for the desperate defenders who thwart his efforts. French Canadiens are proud people. They are proud of their hockey idols and their achievements. And rightly so.

They know that Hull with the entire Hawks club behind him will go all out to reach the record goal. They will remember that on his last appearance in Montreal, the Hawk star scored twice despite the fact he was shadowed by the powerful hard-hitting Boom-Boom Geoffrion.

And should Hull fail to score or add a point to his collection tonight, he has one more chance. Tomorrow he will be playing in the Rexforum shadow of the real goals in Madison Square Garden against the New York Rangers.

The Broadway Blues, too, may have something at stake tomorrow night. At present they lead the Detroit Red Wings by three points in the race for the fourth playoff spot. If Toronto defeats the Wings tonight the Rangers are in. If not there could be complications.

If Detroit loses the Blues will concentrate on helping Bathgate in the scoring crown. Bathgate is quoted as saying "I do not care as much about winning the scoring title as I do getting into the playoffs."

And get this one. Coach Sid Abel of the Detroit Red Wings claims Bobby Hull scored a goal against the Red Wings in Chicago earlier in the season, but he wasn't given credit for it.

"Hull's shot was deflected by Warren Godfry into our net. The official scorer gave it to Ken Murphy. We told him about it, but nothing happened," said Abel.

Strange indeed are the "breaks" of the game. The other night against Boston, Charley Burns kicked the puck into his own net accidentally after it was shot by Dean Prentice. Bathgate drew a mighty important assist on the play.

Home Was Never Like Thi·!

VANCOUVER (CP)—The wife of a Vancouver millionaire is going to lodge a protest about a wing-ding time members of the visiting New Zealand univer. sities rugger team had in her posh university-area home.

Mrs. F. Ronald Graham said Friday she intends to complain to the New Zealand-trade commissioner about damage which she said amounted to several hundred dollars.

She said during the party 1963, Thursday night beans and hamburgers were tossed on the floor, a pie was smashed against the mirror in the men's washroom, forty glasses were broken, glasses and beer bottles were tossed into the swimming pool, which lost an iron railing, a tea wagon was smashed and towels and bathing suits reserved for guests were used to wipe floors and the pool side.

The British Columbia Rugby Association apologized and offered to pay the cost of damage.

Fans Pack Forum For Hull Assault

Provost Is 'Shadow' Man

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The spotlight is on Bobby Hull as the National Hockey League winds up its 1961-62 regular-season play this weekend.

Hull, the burly Chicago Black Hawks' left winger, will be striding to equa or break the league's 50-goal scoring record in games at Montreal tonight and New York Sunday night.

He goes into weekend play with 48 goals, two shy of the record set by retired Maurice Richard of Canadiens 1944-45 and equalled by Bernie Geoffrion also of Canadiens, last season.

Getting two goals in as many games seems like a tall order. But Hull has been a scoring rampage since Dec. 11, scoring 33 times in his last 29 starts.

Two close races—the struggle for the fourth and last playoff spot and the battle for the individual scoring championship—also remain to be settled.

SEEK9 FOURTH PLACE

In the fight for fourth place are the Rangers and Detroit Red Wings. The Rangers currently trail by three points and must beat the Maple Leafs at Toronto tonight and the Canadiens at Detroit Sunday night if they are to overtake the Bluenshirts.

Even if the Wings win twice, Rangers could still sneak in by winning their home weekend start against Chicago Sunday night.

The only other weekend game is of little significance, pitting the Maple Leafs and the last place Bruins at Boston Sunday night.

Hull and Andy Bathgate of Rangers are involved in the scoring race. Bathgate now leads by two points, 83 to 81, but has only one game to play to Hull's two.

Hull's assault on the 50-goal mark had fans clamoring for tickets at Montreal Friday as the Forum game was the deciding contest of the Stanley Cup playoffs.

"There's not even a single seat left to be sold," Don Smith, the Montreal Forum box-office manager, said Friday. "I guess everybody wants to see Bobby Hull break the record."

Coach Toe Blake of Canadiens says he has no special plans to check Hull, but it's likely that Claude Provost will draw the shadowing assignment.

Barons Bow To Amerks

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—Two goals in the final nine minutes gave Rochester Americans a 4-2 victory over Cleveland Barons in an American Hockey League game here Friday night. The decision left Cleveland with 75 points, Buffalo with 73 and Rochester with 70 in the league's Western Division.

Rochester scorers were Jim Pappin, with two, Dick Gamble and Alex Faulkner. Cleveland goals were by John Ferguson, Aldo Guidolin and Freddy Glover.

Hornsby Blasts Maris

'He Couldn't Hold My Bat'

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—"He couldn't carry my bat."

With those stinging words, Rogers Hornsby, Hall of Fame hitter, turned up the heat Friday on his feud with Roger Maris, the 61-homer hitter of New York Yankees.

Hornsby, now a coach with New York Mets, called Maris "little punk ball player," "swelled up guy" and "bush leaguer"—the last perhaps the most scathing of a potentially unique major leaguer can call another.

It was the latest incident in a turbulent spring for Maris—who hit more home runs last year than any other man in a season.

HE DISAPPEARS

Hornsby obliged, but Maris turned his back on the Mets camp.

The Rajah still was fuming many hours after the incident. He said Maris muttered something when he turned his back on him.

"Something about 'that guy has been trying to give me the business'," Hornsby said "I know what he meant. Last season I told a writer there was only one thing Maris could do better than the Babe—that was run.

"I also said Mickey Mantle has all types of ability Maris doesn't have. I said I'd like to see Mantle lead in home runs. He hits over .300 and is a much better all-around player."

Maris hit only 2.69 last season, while blasting 61 homers, and has a lifetime mark of .261. Hornsby's lifetime mark was .358, and he topped .400 three times, reaching .424 in 1924.

"I'll give Maris credit for hitting 61," Hornsby said. "That's a tremendous feat. But he has the advantage of playing in Yankee Stadium. The stadium is a short right field and Maris is a right-field hitter. The fellow's behaviour off the field is unforgivable," Hornsby added. "I just can't imagine anyone refuse to sign autographs.

"As for having good relations with newspaper men, that's basic for a ballplayer. I always got along well there, and most of the players I know do the same."

Champion Paret Rated Underdog

By MURRAY ROSE

Fight — Facts

Odds—Griffith favored 17-5.

Site—Madison Square Garden.

Time—10 p.m., EST.

Distance—15 rounds or less.

Records — Paret 34-11-2, 8 knockouts, knocked out by 3; Griffith 28-3-0, 10 knockouts, never stopped.

Scoring — Rounds system by referee and two judges; supplementary point system also used by each three, winner each rounds gets 1 to 4 points, loser none.

NEW YORK (AP) — Apparently operating on the theory that the world welterweight crown is hard to hold, the oddsmakers have made champion Benny (Kid) Paret of Cuba a 17-to-5 underdog to lose his title again to Emile Griffith tonight.

Only two of the last seven rulers of the 147-pound division have held the championship more than a year and Paret is not one of the exceptions.

The odds, however, seem as ridiculous as the 4-to-1 favorite's price on Griffith for their last fight here Sept. 30. Paret upset the harder-hitting Griffith on a 15-round split decision. Griffith won their first fight and the title on a 13th-round knockout at Miami Beach, Fla., April 1, 1961.

Tonight's scrap is expected to draw a crowd of about 7,500 and receipts of $25,000 at Madison Square Garden. The big money, $90,000, comes from the television fee. The bout will be televised by ABC starting at 10 p.m. EST and CBC-TV Toronto. Paret has been guaranteed $30,000. Griffith gets $10,000 plus 20 per cent of the gate.

WHAT ARE ODDS?

Why the big odds favoring Griffith? It's obviously based on Griffith's kayo victory in the first fight and the terrific lacing Paret took last Dec. 9 from Gene Fullmer of Ogden, Utah. 20 recognized as the 160 - pound world middleweight champion by the National Boxing Association. Fullmer belted the Cuban all over the ring before he stopped him in the 10th round.

Everyone but Paret seems to be overlooking the last Griffith-Paret fight. Griffith, from New York, insists he deserved the verdict although he admits he didn't do much in the closing rounds.

Griffith, 24, a designer of women's hats when he's not fighting, is eager to regain the crown so it will fit with his new millinery line for Easter.

Says Curling Will Join Pro Ranks

KINGSTON (CP)—Bayne Secord, one of the many Westerners who does his curling in Eastern Canada, said Friday the groundwork for a Canadian professional curling association will be laid at Vancouver April 9.

Secord, a farmer from Rideau, Sask., said in an interview with Paul Rimstead of The Whig-Standard, "things should come to a head" during a $20,000 car bonspiel in Vancouver at that time.

Secord curls out of the Tam O'Shanter club, last north of Toronto. He represented Ontario in the Canadian curling championships at Kitchener this year.

He said he plans to enter his club rink in the Vancouver event, which would make him ineligible to curl in Ontario next year.

The Ontario Curling Association has a rule stating curlers may not compete in bonspiels which offer more than $600 a rink in winnings. The Dominion Curling Association will confirm the matter during the 1963 championships at Brandon, Man.

"I don't know if they would have let me curl here next year anyway," he said.

RAN WESTERNERS?

"I wish they would just come out and say that, just name it, that no western farmers will be allowed to curl in Ontario.

He commented on the residence rule change adopted by the Dominion Association this year that stated curlers in Canadian championships must have been with their clubs from Aug. 1 on the year in question This was a change from the old Sept. 1 date.

"We're not here to sneak into the Canadian championship," Secord said. "It's merely a matter of finding a winter job."

There are 16 curlers from Western Canada who spend their winters in the vicinity of Toronto and most of them are farmers. None can leave their farms to take up residence elsewhere before Sept. 1. The move to have the residence date moved up was spearheaded by the Ontario body supported by the Saskatchewan association.

WORK AT RINK

Secord and his rink mates have been employed at Tam O'Shanter for the last three years.

The first two years they were instructors, but a subsequent rule change barred instructors from curling competition.

"So we all became ice-makers and drawmasters.

"We don't enter Ontario competitions . . . but we feel the Canadian curling championships are just that—open to any Canadian.

In Toronto, E. N. Gregory, president of the Ontario Curling Association, said he would not be surprised if professional curling "comes about."

However, the OCA is against playing in "spiels for large prizes or for money.

Don Campbell, rink owner and a member of the Saskatchewan team that won the Canadian championship in 1956, said Ontario's strict rules are keeping curling from advancing.

Earl Hushagen, another former Saskatchewan curler who runs a rink in Metro Toronto, said professionals in curling are very close."

"I think the OCA has forced the issue with its many rules.

"But I think the average club member would like to see them. As in golf, if a player wants a lesson he goes to the pro."

He predicted the day would come when there would be open and amateur bonspiels, but that the reception to professional curlers would be better in Western Canada than in the east.

"I don't know what all this fuss about Secord is. He's a good curler and has a tough rink, but he can be beaten."

Van Luvey said he thought professional curling was a long way off and added that "the majority of curlers I know play the game for fun."

Pepsi's Defeat Lindsay

The Belleville Pepsi's captured the Lakeshore Intercounty title "A" playoff championship last night and advanced into the Ontario semi-finals by defeating the Lindsay Lumbermen 5-3 in Lindsay.

The Pepsi's will meet either Collingwood or Marked in the OHA Intermediate "A" semi-finals. Collingwood, with Harry Lumley in goal, leads the Georgian Bay Group finals two games to noce with two games tied.

Belleville outplayed Lindsay most of the way last night but failed to pull away for the decision until the final twenty minutes. Lindsay opened the scoring and it was tied 1-1 at the end of the first. It was 3-3 for the Pepsi's after two periods and Lambert's crew outscored the Lumbermen 2-1 in the final twenty minutes.

The Pepsi's were minus forwards Gary Goyer and Keith MacDonald and defencemen Floyd Gerrans and Eddie MacIsaac but still outshot Lindsay by a 34-28 margin. The series which started out to be a best of five affair went to Belleville in two consecutive games. The series was closed out by the Pepsi's won by a 21-1 score a week ago.

Steve Jones and Bob Taylor sparked the winners last night, each scoring two goals. Playing coach Jean-Paul Lamirande added the other goal. Ronnie Kelly earned two assists with once each for "Wiener" Brown, Jack Boldy, Jones, Duke Dorman and Floyd Crawford.

R. Pillsworth and Ron Jewell scored for Lindsay while J. Williams and J. Lucas drew assists.

After Pillsworth opened the scoring for Lindsay at 4.31 of the first, Dave Jones got that back for the winners at 13.24. Jones netted the only goal of the second beat at 17.58 to put Belleville in front to stay.

Three quick goals in a little over two minutes sewed up the win midway through the third beat. Lamirande got one at 10.19 and Taylor added his pair at 11.42 and 12.35. Jewell bagged Lindsay's final goal in the last minute of the game.

Belleville picked up half a dozen minor penalties while Lindsay had five. None of the penalties figured in the scoring.

Musials Last Season

Wants Out in Glory Blaze

NEW YORK (AP) — This will be Stan Musial's last baseball season as a player. He's ready for a good year.

That's the report from St. Louis Cardinals' camp, where the 41-year-old great has been warming up his big bat on the exhibition trail in preparation for his bid to grab five more National League records before he retires.

Musial continued his solid hitting Friday by stroking a double that scored the winning run in a 4-3 St. Louis victory over Philadelphia Phillies.

It was the second straight day Musial, who has led the league in batting seven times, accounted for two hits and a pair of runs batted in. It also was the Cards' sixth consecutive triumph and left them holding the top spot in the NL standings with a 9-4 won-lost record.

A .300 hitter for 16 consecutive seasons through 1958, Musial has been below the mark for the last three years and wound up with a .288 average for 1961 with 15 homers and 70 RIs.

GETS RECORDS

He hopes to close out a 20-year major league career by adding National League records in most games, most hits, most RBIs, most runs and most at-bats to the league marks he already has established for most total bases, most long hits and most doubles.

Houston Colts moved into second spot in the exhibition standings with their fourth straight victory, an 8-5, 10-inning win over Boston Red Sox. Los Angeles Dodgers, beaten 4-3 by New York Mets, dropped into third place.

Milwaukee Braves beat New York Yankees 3-2. San Francisco Giants edged Chicago Cubs 3-2. Cleveland Indians defeated Los Angeles Angels 4-1 and Minnesota Twins beat Chicago White Sox 6-1.

The Kansas City-Washington and Pittsburgh - Cincinnati games were rained out. Detroit Tigers and Baltimore Orioles rescheduled their rained - out battle for a doubleheader today.

GETS TRIPLES

Musial's key double in the first inning capped a four-run uprising—Bill White tripled the other two runs home—that won for the Cards.

The Colts won their game in the ninth inning on Johnny Weekly's homer and a run-producing single by Von Mathenet, then beat the Red Sox on Bidge Browne's three - run homer in the 10th.

The Mets edged the Dodgers with an unearned run in the fifth inning after Gus Bell's RBI single and two-run single by Frank Thomas gave them three runs in the third inning.

A Yankee throwing error enabled Phil Roof to score from second base for the Braves' winning run Zubveig a home run by Milwaukee's Tommy Aaron that sent the engagement into extra innings.

Orlando Cepeda, Manuel Mota and Charlie Peterson drove in the Giants' runs while Mike McCormick checked the Cubs on one run and seven hits for seven innings. Jerry Kindall's three-RBI performance co-

Scot Lassies Swap Romance For Rugger

The girls belong to the Amazons, a team of darkly lassies who like nothing better than a muddy brawl on the football field.

Rugby is supposed to be a he-man's game, but lots of Edinburgh girls have taken it up.

"When our boy friends learned we were serious about playing rugby they gave us an ultimatum. They told us to drop it or they would drop us.

"But the girls are so dedicated to rugby that only one chose romance."

Sheila's eyes flashed.

"Our next game will be a massacre. We're a pretty hardtempered bunch at the best of times, but now we're positively full of hate."

The Amazons' unfortunate opponents in the April 19 game will be the Virgin Valkyries, composed of strong girls studying at Edinburgh University.

a single and two doubles paced the lodians' attack as Dick Donald pitched seven innings of one-run ball against the Angels.

The Tribe hopped on the White Sox for three-run spurts in the first and fourth innings for all the runs they needed behind tire pitching of Jack Kralick.

Second Defeat in Row

Red Wings Shade Flyers

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Outside of the impending Stanley Cup, the Ontario Hockey Association junior A final between Hamilton Red Wings and Niagara Falls Flyers is developed into the hottest pice of shinny property in Ontario.

Capacity crowds have been the order of the day since Niagara Falls Flyers bounced their way out of the depths to make the playoffs for a single notion, then cast aside the mighty Montreal Canadiens in six games.

The Flyers' luck has changed since they entered the best-seven final against the Wings, but the crowds have kept pouring in. Another one will be turned up Friday night in the Falls as the Flyers seek a two-up, 4-3, their second defeat in as many games.

MENARD BREAKS IT UP

Team captain Howie Menard gave Hamilton the two-game bulge last night when he scored with less than six minutes, left. The goal came after the longed assault when he banged Paul Henderson's rebound into the open side. The Flyers had come from behind in the second and third periods after opening the scoring with Billy Kaldeo's 40-foot backhander.

Henderson, Lowell MacDonald and Ron Harris were the other Hamilton scorers. Howie Drichuk and Gary Dornhoefer tallied for the Flyers after Kaldeo. In the Dukes-Marlies meeting Mike Walton, Gary Dineen and Paul Coulis scored two each for St. Michael's who won, never behind. Billy MacMillan scored a single. For the Marlboros it was Grant Moore, Mick Harbuck and Gary Jarrett.

INDIA RALLIES

BRIDGETOWN, Barbados (Reuters)—India's cricketers recovered after the bad start against the West Indies when the third Test Kiddo began. After losing half their side for 112 runs, they were finally all out for 258 and by the close, the West Indies had made five without loss.

Wolves Shade Soo Birds

SUDBURY (CP)—Neil Furth's goal with only four seconds remaining gave Sudbury Wolves a 5-4 victory over Sault Ste. Marie Thunderbirds in an Eastern Professional Hockey League game here Friday night.

The game had no meaning—Wolves are definitely fourth and T-Birds are out of the playoffs and practically certain to finish last.

Nevertheless, close to 2,409 spectators turned out to watch the fast, pleasing game which gave the Wolves the season's series against the T-Birds—seven wins, three losses and four ties.

Gord Haworth, Leo LaBine, Ed Stankiewicz and Jack Hendrickson also drew Sudbury goals. Defenceman Dino Robazza led the T-Birds with two. Merv Kurylink and Ed Kitchur contributing singles.

Downes Gets Boston Green Light

BOSTON (AP) — Terry Downes, who owns the middleweight crown recognized in Massachusetts, New York and Europe—and seven bookmaking dogs in London—got the green light from local boxing authorities Friday.

Downes risks his title against the man from whom he lifted it, Paul Pender, in Boston Garden April 7. The Massachusetts Boxing Commission had announced intentions of investigating the legality of Downes' dual life as a boxer-bookmaker.

Chairman Herman Greenberg and his fellow commissioners said in a statement:

"The Commission consulted with the office of the attorney-general who stated that it is not illegal for Downes to box in Massachusetts.

"The commission's only interest in Downes is as a boxer that he comply with the law, rules and regulations relting to boxing in the state. . . .

"As far as Downes' boxing and booking on big own fights in London is concerned, he is a British subject and bookmaking is legal there."

CINCINNATI (AP)—Bill DeWitt, whose trades and front-office string-pulling helped the 1961 Cincinnati Reds to their first National League flag in 21 years, won an agreement Friday to buy the club for $4,625,000.

DeWitt announced that his agreement with the directors will be submitted to the stockholders for their approval April 3. The transfer must also be ratified by three-quarters of the nine other National League clubs.

President Warren Giles of the National League said Tuesday he knew of DeWitt's negotiations for the club and approved. Giles added:

"I feel a foundation is not the proper organization to run a major league ball club."

Powell Crosley Jr., longtime owner of the Reds who died last spring, willed his 90 per cent plus shares in th, team to a charitable foundation he had established earlier.

Japanese Crowds Are Wild Say Horse Opera Stars

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Found: Something to scare television's horse opera heroes in Japanese crowds.

Clint Eastwood and Eric Fleming, a couple of six-foot-four giants, have faced just about every kind of hazard in four years of starring in CBS' Rawhide. But they hadn't seen anything until they went to Japan recently for a goodwill trip at the behest of their Japanese sponsor (a whisky maker!).

"I thought I didn't scare easily," said Clint, "I've appeared at rodeos and on the Dick Clark television show where you get crowds that are pretty wild. But nothing like Japan.

STAMPEDE

"I guess our biggest scare was in the railroad station at Osaka," added Eric. "There were 5,000 people. We had bigger crowds elsewhere, but never so many packed into one enclosed area. For a while I wondered if we would get out alive."

Their arrival at the Tokyo airport brought 3,000 fans—the Japanese are wild over westerns, and have been exposed to Hawkins for two years.

"There was a bit of a delay, because the police wanted our sponsor to put up a bond for extra police protection charges," said Eric. "At first they didn't even want us to enter the country.

"They managed to hurdle the red tape, though they had to leave their shooting irons in customs. The new, pacificist Japan doesn't approve of anybody, even play-cowboys, toting six-shooters.

If you hanker for the good old days when a Hollywood comedy was a comedy, I am entering a nagging mass of uncontrollable bellylaughs, be of good cheer.

"One, Two, Three," the new Billy Wilder picture which opened Friday at the Mercury Theatre, is the funniest picture Hollywood has spawned this year — maybe even the funniest Wilder has turned out, which is something of an accomplishment.

THE PLOT and its accompanying gags are topical. The hero is James Cagney, the promotion-obsessed manager for Coca-Cola's West Berlin operations, who is trying to finangle an Iron Curtain franchise out of the Soft Drink Commissar.

Into his gimmy life seems more than his share of trouble of a runaway Coca - Cola heiress (Pamela Tiffin) who is nothing more than pea-brained. The girl, Scarlett, falls in love with a crazy Red, (Horst Buchholz)

Then Scarlett's daddy informs Cagney that he is coming all the way from Atlanta to see if his little old girl is behaving herself.

(There is a good gag about here where Arlene Francis, Cagney's wife, says of Scarlett: "She can't stay here long; can she? Doesn't school start soon?" Says Cagney: "In Georgia, you never know.").

AT CAGNEY prepares to force Pamela to sever relations with her Red Communist Man, he learns that they are married and soon to be parents of a cuddly little card-carrier.

Watch for...

A quick appearance by comedian Red Buttons in "One, Two, Three." He plays an American military policeman who visits Cagney's office at the height of the confusion.

Well, what happens after that is too convoluted to explain. But it is funny, be advised of that.

Some of the funniest business is conducted by a blonde beautiful with the name of Lilo Pulver, who plays Cagney's personable secretary, and Leon Askin, Peter Capell and Ralf Wolter, cast as butter - fingered Bolshevik bureaucrats.

One of the most hilarious scenes, a car chase sequence past the Brandenburg Gate, reminds you or Keystone Cop days.

IF THERE is a flaw in the film, it is that the jokes are heaped so high on one another and are tossed off with such rapidity that about a third of them fly past the audience. You can't, in short, hear the yuks for the yukking.

Wilder, who wrote (with I. A. L. Diamond), produced and directed "One, Two, Three," ought to get some kind of award for this one.

Astrological Forecast

Sunday, March 25
By SYDNEY OMARR

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19)—Spiritual guidance is key to satisfaction and fulfillment. You may be skeptical early, but later realization hits . . . what you "give out" is returned. Strive to be potty.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20)—Cycle at low tide. Lunar aspect to your Sun sign adverse which means good time to plan for the future. Conserve energy for more opportune time to launch projects. Read, relax.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21)—Diplomacy in dealing with family members strongly indicated. Let others express themselves freely . . . sit back listen. Your day to take floor comes soon.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21)—Favorable lunar aspect to your Sun sign means romance is in air. Go forth and mix with friends, relatives, loved ones. Turn on personal magnetism. Display best aspect.

Leo (July 23 to Aug. 21)—Love is key. By giving of yourself you gain much in return. The answer to most problems today lies in the simple approach. Trust intuitive intellect . . . follow your hunches.

Virgo (July 22 M. .: vf-Vu

Virgo (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22)—If you try to be perfectionist . . . you are asking for disappointment. Why not relax! Take key from Leo introspection. Don't carry chip on shoulder.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)—Practical matters, including income, budget, come to the fore. Don't look at situation through rose-colored glasses. Face facts . . . act intelligently . . . you'll come out on top.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)—Spiritual guidance helps but you must . . . first and foremost . . . be willing to help yourself. Set example for others. Assume responsibilities. Don't shirk duty! You gain.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)—Get rid of the fear within. Bring secrets out in open . . . air them. You have nothing to hide. The load off your shoulders will inspire you.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)—Stress on romance, friendship, willingness to share. Key word is generosity. Help others. Do your best and others will rally to your cause.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)—Cooperation in community or church projects highlighted. If you attempt to withdraw . . . you will find that you are wasting your time with needless brooding. Offer your services.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20)—Favorable lunar aspect today enables you to put across your message. If you have a lesson to teach . . . get ahead and do so. By teaching you also benefit by learning.

If today is your birthday . . . now is the time to begin new projects, with month of July highlighted. Don't be afraid to be alone. Much of the best part of you requires solitude . . . if it is to blossom.

General Tendencies: Cycle up for Libra, Scorpio, Sagittarius. Excellent day for inventors . . . and those who are willing to try new dishes, adventures. Perfect day for self-discovery. Time for Taurus to listen . . . and read . . . and absorb knowledge.

By SYDNEY OMARR

Aries (March 21 to April 19) Take forthright approach. Any form of deception apt to backfire. Bring forth the best in yourself. This may not appear practical. But you will be more successful by doing so.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) Could be power day for you if you are willing to invest in own talents. Strike while iron is hot. Don't let opportunity pass you by. Think, plan, stream ahead.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) Not day to show off . . . to permit excess nervous energy to get you into embarrassing situations. Take it easy . . . do more listening than talking. State your position, but don't push!

Cancer (June 22 to July 21) Favorable Jupiter aspect today means you can expand activities . . . generously . . . express love. If you allow genuine affection to show . . . it will be returned.

Leo (July 23 to August 21) No one can tell you how good you are today . . . and make you happy. You must be satisfied with your own efforts. Shun flattery. Face facts. Do your best . . . and then do better.

Virgo (August 22 to Sept. 23) Beginning of work week could appear dark . . . but you will through your diplomacy. Responsibility key word today. If asked to perform favor or extra task . . . do so with a smile.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Let "darker" side of nature come to fore. Your sense of humor, justice and beauty can win the day. Your cycle moving up. You can expand, extend influence. Project yourself.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You could receive aid or pleasant surprise from one associated with you. Be willing to listen to suggestions, ideas. Being courteous could make day profitable.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Cycle at peak. Be independent willing to "take a chance." Trust intuition. You are apt to judge situation, persons with great accuracy. Avoid minor dispute.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) An old feud could end. The hand of friendship is offered. Clasp it! Today favorable for some behind-the-scenes maneuvering. Lay groundwork for new project.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Aspects encouraging for putting to make perfect in business or at home. Suddenly others are your side of problem.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Take advantage of this by obtaining favorable agreement.

Places (Feb. 20 to March 20) Fortune rides with you . . . bringing you out on top of a complicated situation. Knowing this, accept challenge. Career, ambitions, hopes highlighted.

If today is your birthday . . . coming months could see you realizing many ambitions both in professional and personal life. Month of June highlighted. Outstanding characteristics are determination, courage to finish what you start.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Cycle up for Scorpio, Sagittarius, Capricorn. Highlight is on Frankness . . . people in news are outspoken. And many could make news through some form of "confession."

11TH BELLEVILLE CUBS AND SCOUTS ANNUAL FATHER & SON BANQUET

The annual Father and Son Banquet of the 11th Belleville Cubs and Scouts was held in Bridge Street United Church on Monday, March 19th.

Head table guests included Mr. Ken Mallory, Secretary of the District Council, Mr. F. J. Pickering, President of the District Council, Rev. H. Davis, Mr. Leslie Claus the guest speaker, Scout Gary Chaplin, Mr. Rex Chaplin, chairman of the 11th Belleville Group Committee, Cub Ronald Chaplin, Mr. M. G. Mew, District Commissioner, Mr. L. McQuaid, Bridge Street United Church Sunday School Superintendent.

After Sag broke and the singing of God Save the Queen, grace was said by the Rev. H. Davis and approximately 130 cubs and scouts and their fathers sat down to a delicious dinner, complete with all the trimmings, served by Mens' Auxiliary.

A toast to the fathers was proposed by Scout Chris Stock and was responded to by Mr. Al Revill. Mr. Alec Gordon, the church organist and a friend of scouting then accompanied the group in a sing-song led by the chairman.

The Rev. H. M. Davis in his remarks praised the Scouting movement and the moral influence which is so necessary in the upbringing of today's youth. Mr. Mew stated that he knew personally of the time and efforts which the Bridge Street cub and scout leaders were putting into their work and sincerely hoped that the fathers appreciated their efforts. He took the opportunity of presenting new Cub Leader badges to scouts who had recently gained them. Cub Pickering outlined to the fathers the need for the financial assistance which is necessary in carrying on scout work, not only at the local level but on the regional and country-wide organizational level. He also stated he had noted with pride the number of first-aid and resuscitation kits were being used which the Bridge Street scouts were wearing. A thanks to the Mothers' Auxiliary for their fine supper was extended by Mr. W. Biddle and responded to by Mrs. R. Berry on behalf of the ladies.

sponsoring the International Plowing Match held recently to the north of Belleville. He also showed slides of the reservation fair, their school, church and the various buildings and memorializing the landing of the Mohawks which is held every May, and at which the Governor Queen Anne Communion Silver used in the service. He went on to tell how much better off the Indian in the East is compared with those living out West where he said Chief Hill of the local Indian Council had the opportunity of attending a conference on Indian affairs in Winnipeg during this past winter and saw first hand the conditions of abject poverty under which many of the western Indians lived. However, he felt that in many instances the Indians themselves were to blame and they had the East were doing everything possible to try and encourage the western Indian to better himself and take his proper place in the community.

He felt there was a real problem and one which could only be resolved by understanding on the white man's part, particularly that of the white man. He concluded his remarks by pointing out that while each one of us is proud of his own natural ceremony, he felt that in many of his heritage, it is a truly integrated community it is necessary to remember that we are all primarily Canadians and he sincerely hoped that the cubs and scouts listening to him would consider the Indians as an equal and not as the second-class citizens which unfortunately so [illegible] while he did feel that he [illegible] because of lack of knowledge, and an unwillingness to provide assistance. He invited any of the cubs and scouts with their fathers to come down to the reservation if they would like to be said he would be most pleased to show them points of interest.

The speaker was thanked by Mr. Hugh Sullivan and after the singing of O Canada the benediction was pronounced by Rev. H. M. Davis.

17TH BELLEVILLE LADIES AUXILIARY

Ladies Auxiliary of 17th Belleville Cub and Scout Organization held their March meeting in Bridge Street United Church with Mrs. J. Barton presiding. The meeting opened with the Scout Prayer and Mothers' Promise.

Following discussion was held on the forthcoming Father and Son Banquet, and it was decided that due to the number involved, the banquet would have to be held on two nights, May 10th and 11th.

Mrs. Barton introduced the guest speaker of the evening, Mr. Ford Bray, Akela of the Pack. Mr. Bray spoke on several aspects of Cubbing with emphasis on the importance of the Auxiliary members. He also reported on a "Variety Show by the Boy Scout Association", for the Greater Toronto Region, Monarch Park District, which he had covered along with Scout Leaders of this city attended in Toronto. This show was a great success and it is hoped that the Belleville Scout Organization will be able to produce its own similar production in the future. Mr. Bray concluded his talk by informing the members of the need of the 17th Pack for camping equipment and requesting their assistance. The speaker was thanked by Mrs. G. Hutchinson.

The meeting closed with the "Scout Vesper Song" and the "Scout Mizpah." Refreshments were served.

Giving out information and Keating with a "flagrant breach of discipline" by refusing to answer questions by department inspectors is investigating the matter.

"Unlawful behavior of an officer cannot be tolerated in Mr. Haskett said. "The publicity given the incident created unrest and dissatisfaction among Indian inmates."

Both Vernon Staley (I.—Toronto-York Centre) and Mr. Bly-

then expressed dissatisfaction with Mr. Haskett's replies. If the hair-dyeing was not the reason for the disciplinary action, both said, it was up to the minister to say what was.

Mr. Haskett repeated previous statements that Keatings wasn't called up "before a disciplinary board) because he fired his hair, he was called up because of the clothes he had had developed."

Mr. Bryden said the "only reasonable conclusion" about Keatings was that he was "fired because he was president of the employees association."

THE GOLDEN YEARS

Living in Peace With Retired Not Easy for Younger People

By THOMAS COLLINS

"The loneliness plaguing retired people is partly self-made. . . . many of them are rather unpleasant to have around."

This sums up the views of a long-suffering woman who has tried to live in peace with the retired generation. She speaks out to those approaching retirement where they will make their mistakes in human relations. She continues:

"The first common sin of retired people — usually relatives — is that they compare the home in which they are currently enjoying hospitality with the one they last visited. This includes the contrast between the behavior of your child and the child in the other home. Also their scholastic ability. And always the economic status of the two families.

"I know many families of my generation," she continues, "who brace themselves mentally in preparation for the visit of their elderly relatives. They know they are about to get criticism on the most minute details of their lives — the brand of coffee they use, the lights that are left burning, the hair styles. The list is endless.

Always A Comparison

"Always there is a comparison with some other family the older people know, usually another relative. They make other pastures seem so green you soon feel you are living in a desert . . ."

Another common sin, according to the woman, is that the elderly come to visit unprepared to occupy any of their time independently . . . but rather expecting you to entertain them all the time. Yet, she says, they do not accept the fact that they are not really the heads of this household and will not hesitate to suggest that you reschedule your day around them.

"By now you must be thinking how heartless I am toward the aged," she says. "I am not heartless. I recognize that these faults are also prevalent among young people. However, society permits the younger generations to be criticized openly, so we can put each other in our places with a little sparring.

"Society decrees that the older people must be treated with deference and never crossed. This is fair and just. But the elderly should strive to deserve it.

"The older people have much skill and knowledge they could share with us. But they seem preoccupied with other things

$300 A Month

"Your constant harping on the theme that a retired couple can live on $200 a month seems to be valid, as far as the fact is concerned," a 65-year-old wife reluctantly admits. "But you are doing a great disservice to the people who try to help by printing it.

"You know it is a very low standard of living that $200 a month will buy. It is almost indecent, in fact, for civilized people. So why should you indoctrinate people to accept any such thing?

"Also, do you know what effect such advice has on children who are supporting their retired parents? They wave a clipping of your column in the air and promptly cut their contributions down to $200 a month . . ."

It is an important consolation for retired people with about $200 a month to know they can live on it. Most of them would prefer to make their way and not appeal for help. As for the children who are supporting their parents — well, would you mislead them?

The various theme threads the show pattern with close continuity the contrasting effects of different seasons providing a delightful variety.

SPRING IS HERE

Spring jumps from around the mythical corner following a touch of military, medley of recruiting. The topical numbers were strictly by the children and first nighters were thrilled with the fine performances of the youngsters.

"April Showers", "Spring Flowers", daffodils and tulips mark the entrance of the vernal season. Pure white "Bunnies" and colorful colds denote December.

Also adding to the summer scene are "The Beach Boys," a group of "near senior citizens" creaking slightly, but willing, who give an hilarious display of precision, ballet, swan-diving and other figure skating numbers. Featuring the number is the rib-tickling antics of Jack Dickens, this city's master of ice comedy. . . .

The "Snow Balls," a fine ensemble costumed in pure white, bring "Winter" to the show. A beautiful "Snow Queen" highlights this climax to the "Four Seasons" theme.

PROD. OUTSTANDING

The feature attraction of the Revue is the brilliant performance of Miss Elinor Flack and Phillip McCormic, the 1961 Junior Pairs Canadian champions.

The handsome young couple in a poetry of motion executed the various pairs figures in a thrilling exhibition that drew a tremendous ovation from the estimated 1,400 first-night patrons. /

Not less was the ovation given Belleville's sensational young skaters Peggy and Jane McCutcheon. Their exhibitions in similar pairs skating and in solo were given in the complimentary hush of the arena. Their seemingly effortless ease of execution was graceful evidence of the skating artistry of these potential champions.

Their skating exhibitions in solo were flawless. Their teaching ability needs no more recommendation than the fine performances given by their youthful protegee last night. Their directional and organizational efforts also were evident in the production of the show.

The music, always an important part of skating shows, was perfect. Taped by Dr. McCutcheon the topical melodies were in perfect accord with the theme of the revue.

Also an outstanding feature of the show were the colorful variegated costumes. To Mrs. Charles Duesberry and Mrs. Gloria Weese goes credit for a "wardrobe" effort that was by no means the smallest contributing factor to the production's first-night success.

"The Four Seasons" will be presented again tonight, curtain time eight o'clock.

ments at both railways, the disputes are not identical since different conditions are being battled over. . . .

Both railways implemented Jan. 1 the majority recommendations of federal conciliation boards that provided for a 6%-per-cent wage increase over a three-year contract instead of the 15-per-cent boost the union had sought.

The union rejected the majority recommendations, saying they would take more away from the engineers than they would give them. . . .

The railways say the average wage of an engineer is about $7,300 a year; the union says the wage varies between $4,000

Sixty Leaders Of Freedomites Seized In Raids

Plotting to Intimidate Parliament Is Charged

NELSON, B.C. (CP) — Sixty leaders of the Sons of Freedom Doukhobor sect were in appear in police court today on charges of conspiring to intimidate Parliament by violence.

They were arrested during the weekend in raids which climaxed months of intensive police investigation. Community leaders said the arrests the beginning of the end of terrorist activities which have plagued the Kootenay district for 40 years.

The sixty arrested, and 10 others picked up earlier in a police get-tough campaign which started last November 1, are charged with conspiring to commit acts of violence to intimidate the Parliament of Canada and the British Columbia Legislature.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner said other charges will be laid in many cases.

Only two Freedomite leaders were not in the warrants with which RCMP made a series of raids on Doukhobor villages Saturday escaped arrest. They are spiritual leader Stefan Sorokin and Jim Hoodikoff, head of a former Freedomite council secretary-treasurer in Grand Forks.

Crown Prosecutor T. G. Norwen-Colburn said it is the first time in Canada in history that charges of intimidating Parliament have been laid. Conviction carries a maximum penalty of 14 years' imprisonment.

RACIAL CHARGES

Local civic officials welcomed the arrests:

"I think the end of the trouble is in sight, with the arrest and charging of the Freedomite leaders," said Mayor Cyril Shoup of Nelson.

Said Mayor Joe Paiyne of Trail: "I can't help but be pleased with the progress police are making."

Mr. Bonner said the fact many Freedomites are arresting against their ruling Fraternal Council — several of those charged with terrorist activities have named sect leaders as the instigators — is the healthiest sign of an end to terrorism.

The first time Freedomites are charging the belief that the leaders have unques, Mr. Bonner declared. Mr. Bonner said, "The Sons are starting to the police — the council's police and orders are coming from nowhere."

Mr. Herridge, CCF member of Parliament for Kootenay Fort, said enforcement of the law is a necessary step in solving the Freedomite problem.

"The Freedomite problem can be reached only through social and economic measures.

"Punishment of necessary many guilty persons, but many of the innocent persons are just misguided and need correction and guidance," he said. "Mere law enforcement is not enough."

Jackie Kennedy and Sister Ride On Old Camel of Johnson's Friend

KARACHI, Pakistan (AP) — Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy's visit today met Bashir Ahmad, Pakistan's famous camel driver, and went riding on his camel—side saddle in a tight skirt.

The wife of President Johnson's camel - driving friend at first rather a hectic last day of her three-day visit to India and Pakistan.

Mrs. Kennedy wanted to meet Mrs. Kennedy because he missed him when he visited the United States as the guest of Johnson last year, Johnson, who had befriended Bashir on a visit to Pakistan, had given the camel driver a pickup truck.

Bashir was waiting at the Presidential House when she arrived from a visit to the Taj Mahal at the tomb of Mohammad Ali Jannah. And he had brought his old camel, named Ghazi, not the truck.

He also brought his wife and three of their four children.

Mrs. Kennedy met Mrs. Bashir, chatted with Bashir, then expressed a desire to ride the camel. When she had ridden in an elephant in Jaipur, India, earlier in the day that rounded up 60 Freedomite Doukhobors here. Elasoff is Halson officer and secretary of the radical sect's fraternal council. FRENCH ARREST NUMBER 2 MAN OF SECRET ARMY

Salan's Aide Flown To Prison in Paris

CP from Reuters-AP

ALGIERS—France dealt a setback to the diehard advocates of a "French Algeria" today with the announcement that the number two man of the Secret Army Organization had been arrested in Oran.

Edmond Jouhaud, 56-year-old former air force general, was arrested Sunday night in the western Algerian port city and flown to Paris this morning. He was jailed in Sante prison.

Jouhaud was long known to have spent most of his time in Oran, a hotbed of French Algerian sentiment, since the abortive military coup in Algiers in April of 1961.

Jouhaud was sentenced to death in absentia last summer for his part in the coup. Also sentenced to death for the vain plot was former Gen. Raoul Salan, leader of the Secret Army and still at large somewhere in Algeria.

OPPOSES INDEPENDENCE

The Secret Army is bitterly opposed to independence for Algeria. Since the Franco - Inaurant agreement ended a seven-year Moslem insurgency March 18 it has waged a fanatical terrorist campaign to prevent the accord leading to independence.

Police said Jouhaud was arrested along with three men and a woman Sunday night. Shortly afterwards all were flown to Paris, where they were taken to the Sante prison at 10:30 a.m. today.

A French spokesman announced that Jouhaud and his staff were captured during a 16-hour battle that raged through the heart of Oran, Algeria's second city and Western Algeria.

TELLS OF CAPTURE

The operation began at 6 p.m. Sunday in the centre of Oran, when 10 companies of gendarmes, reinforced by detachments of infantry moved in on the city.

The troop movement provoked harassing fire by Secret Army commandos who began to build barricades with cars and buses, aided by the civilian population.

By 4 p.m. the objectives in the centre of Oran had been reached.

Jouhaud and his staff were trapped in a building on the waterfront that had been under surveillance for some time. The house had been searched previously but without success.

The captives were transferred to a gendarmerie barracks. Minutes later a French Army commando group attacked the barracks. They

May Abolish Closure Rule In Commons

OTTAWA (CP)—Echoes of the Arctic pipeline debate of 1956 will be heard in the Commons today.

Debate will be launched on a resolution sponsored by Prime Minister Diefenbaker for the appointment of a select committee to consider the "desirability" of abolishing the closure rule in the Commons.

It promises to be one of the most controversial issues of the current session of Parliament.

The closure rule was employed in 1956 by the Liberals to shut off the pipeline debate. The action was vigorously protested by the Progressive Conservative opposition and in his successful 1957 general election campaign Mr. Diefenbaker promised abolition of closure.

The three speech opening the current Parliament session said the government plans to ask for the reconstitution of the special committee on procedure "to make recommendations on the elimination of closure in debates."

HOPES FOR CRUISE

LONDON (Reuters) — Sir Winston Churchill — now 87— hopes to go on a Mediterranean cruise next month, usually well-informed sources said Friday. But Mr. Friends commented on the continued "good-fettle" he displays for a man of his advanced age.

East-West Talks Renewed On Germany and Atom Tests

GENEVA (CP) — Renewed East-West contacts on Germany and informal talks on nuclear testing held the stage today as the 17-nation disarmament conference postponed its scheduled formal session until Tuesday.

Today's plenary meeting was put back 24 hours because of the sudden death during the week-end of V. G. Narayanan, a United Nations official from India.

External Affairs Minister Green of Canada had intended to address the morning session. It was believed he planned to urge an early start to consideration of the peaceful uses of outer space.

The speech will likely be delivered Tuesday.

U.S. State Secretary Rusk also delivered a final appeal he had planned to make to the disarmament committee for a new study of the arms problem.

The postponement of the formal meeting placed even greater emphasis on the informal talks that have been a feature of the conference from the start.

Rusk had a scheduled afternoon meeting with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko and the Big Three ministers

11 Die as Europeans Storm Police Barricade in Algiers

CP from AP-Reuters

ALGIERS, Algeria — Hospital sources said 11 persons were killed and 150 wounded when French security forces opened fire on European demonstrators who stormed a police barricade in downtown Algeria this afternoon.

The victims were cut down by a heavy blast of machine - gun fire from a distance of about 15 yards.

The outburst of firing came after a line of riot police on the Rue D'Isly was harassed by shots from snipers holed up in nearby buildings.

The police were lined up shoulder to shoulder across the street in the path of the advancing crowd of demonstrators.

The crowd included many women who fell down screaming under the hail of bullets.

The police fired an initial volley over the heads of the demonstrators but the second cut through their ranks.

Europeans returned the police fire with a hail of small arms fire from balconies and rooftops.

Supreme Court Turns Down Appeal in '52 Murder Case

OTTAWA (CP) — The Supreme Court of Canada upheld lower court judgments today in the case of Sydney Arthur James Kendall of killing his wife Dorothy Bruce Pennington in a cabin in August, 1953, and disposing of her body.

The court in a unanimous judgment rejected an appeal by Mr. Justice Wilfred Judson, who wrote the court's reasons for judgment, said that when the children gave their evidence in 1961 "they were testifying as mature persons to what they had observed as children."

But he said they were not testifying in a routine matter that had taken place nine years earlier.

Yet they were telling the truth what they had seen must have made an indelible impression on their minds at the time and must have been something that they could never forget."

Kendall earlier lost an appeal to the Ontario Court of Appeal, which scheduled to be hanged April 17.

Kendall was convicted at Walkerton, Ont., last October of the capital murder of Helen Robson Bashir was willing. He made his camel kneel. Fortunately, it had a double, carpet, covered saddle.

The princess had trouble, and the two Pakistani officials to get her aboard. Mrs. Kennedy jumped backward into the saddle with her help.

But the camel just knelt there, ruminating on his cud in the early morning sun.

"Come on, get up!" called the princess.

Finally, however, the camel was persuaded to rise. He turned from side to side as he stood up. So did Mrs. Kennedy and her sister.

Then with Bashir guiding, the camel went rocking off. Half a dozen Pakistani officials walked alongside, ready to catch anyone who fell off.

But Mrs. Kennedy, an accomplished horsewoman, landed at last without incident. So did her sister.

The Crown charged that Kendall killed his wife while the family was living in a cabin at Johnson Harbor on Bruce Peninsula. Mrs. Kendall's body has never been found.

The court rejected argument by Charles Dubin of Toronto, counsel for Kendall, who contended before the court March 16, that Mr. Justice Gibson did not pre-

TRADE SURPLUS WITH STATES IN JANUARY

Imports Also Hit Peak in Month

OTTAWA (CP) — A strong gain in exports to the United States helped Canada start the year with an $8,200,000 trade surplus in January.

A year-to-year rise of 37.3 per cent in sales to the U.S. produced a record January export figure of $501,200,000, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics said today in a preliminary report. Exports to all other main areas were down.

However, imports in January also hit a peak for the month of $492,000,000, also due mainly to United States trade.

The January export total was 19.1 per cent higher than the previous January peak of $455,300,000. The imports were 14.3 per cent higher than the $431,200,000 of imports in January, 1961, when there was a $24,100,000 trade surplus.

Today's trade statistics continued no information on new commodities contributed to the change.

The trade figures by major areas for January this year and last, in millions of dollars:

	1962	1961
Exports
United States	$308.1	$224.4
United Kingdom	67.8	87.2
Other Commonwealth	16.0	20.6
All others	100.0	107.7
Total	501.2	455.3
Imports
United States	333.7	298.3
United Kingdom	43.1	46.2
Other Cmwlth	22.3	18.4
All others	73.9	68.3
Total	492.8	431.2

FORECAST GOOD YEAR

The gains in imports, which have been rising strongly since late summer last year, indicate Canada's export performance this year likely will have a good one if the 1961 trade surplus is to be retained.

Last year a surplus of $87,600,000 on merchandise trade was the first since 1952.

Export sales to the United States have been rising sharply, reflecting the economic recovery south of the border. Unofficial deficit on Canada-U.S. trade was cut to $45,600,000 in January from $73,900,000 a year earlier.

E. Sandercock Suffers Mild Heart Attack

TORONTO (CP)—William E. Sandercock, 67, Progressive Conservative member of the Legislature for Hastings West since 1945, was taken to Toronto General Hospital today after apparently suffering a heart attack.

He was in the barber shop at the Queen's Park when he was stricken. Hospital authorities declined to comment on his condition. An electrocardiogram was completed.

4,500 Engineers Of CNR, CPR Get New Terms

Details Promised Later, Everyone Is Satisfied

MONTREAL (CP) — A walk-out, against the CNR and the CPR was averted early today when the railways and their 4,500 engineers reached agreement on new labor contracts.

The agreement, one week before the strike was to start, was announced by railway and and union negotiators after 23 hours of weekend bargaining.

Details of the agreement were promised later. It was reported, however, to have included acceptance by the independent union of a 6-per-cent wage increase recommended in both contracts by federal conciliation boards and implemented by the railways Jan. 1.

O. J. Travers, chief negotiator for the railroads and Locomotive Engineers, said Sunday night the strike threat, against the two railways were being called off immediately.

The union had set Monday, April 2, as the strike deadline against the Crown-owned CNR and April 3 for the CPR, the nation's privately owned CPR.

HAVE OTHER TROUBLES

Both railways still are trying to negotiate new contracts with their trainmen, and are also awaiting conciliation with their 110,000 non - operating employees.

The CPR also is in conciliation with the Firemen's Union, although the CNR signed a contract with that group March 6.

The Engineers' agreement came as the railways were facing themselves for expected freight losses they could have run as high as $1,000,000 for $2,000,000 a day if engineers, the walkout would have started.

Shippers generally were worried by the possibility that their goods could be stranded in the middle of the country as reported already looking for other methods of transportation.

Both railways had been prepared to issue embargoes early this week against perishable traffic, freight shipments if the strikement had not been reached.

STARR GETS ACTION

The agreement clearly were started under the prodding of federal Labor Minister Starr, who had met with the parties in a telegram urging their utmost efforts to reach a settlement and avert a strike that would be "utterly disastrous."

Earlier conciliation board recommendations gave the engineers, who now average $6,000 of about $7,300 last year, a wage increase of 6% per cent over three years, compared with the union's original demand of 15 per cent during two years.

Embattled Mine-Mill Union Stages International Convention in Canada

TORONTO (CP)—The International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers, claiming 100,000 members in Canada and the United States, opened its convention on its 57th convention and the first in Canada today.

International President John Clark of Denver, Colo., made opening remarks as the convention began five days of discussion.

About 200 delegates are expected to attend.

The list of speakers includes Canadian president K. A. Smith; liberal member Arthur J. Moore representing Windsor-Essex, Ont., in the legislature; NDP house leader H. W. Herridge; Harry Bridges, president of the International Longshore- with the National executive.

men's and Warehousemen's Union; Madeleine Parent, secretary-treasurer of the Canadian Textile Council, and C. S. Jackson, president of the International United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America.

One issue expected to come before the convention for ratification is a proposal that the per capita contribution to the international union be increased. A similar request last year was rejected by membership referendum. The union has increased the per capita contribution from $1.75 to $2.75. Part of that would have gone to help bolster the union's strike fund.

The convention was called to order today by Mike Solnik of Sudbury, president of the union's District 2 in Canada. From a Canadian standpoint, the most topical question before the convention will be the situation at Sudbury, where the union's local 598 is at loggerheads

Donald Gillis Will Carry PC Banner

SUDBURY (CP) — Donald Gillis, leader of a bitter revolt in the ranks of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (Ind.), was nominated by acclamation Saturday to contest the Nickel Belt riding for the Progressive Conservative party in the next federal election.

Some 50 members of the divided union picketed the meeting hall in nearby Chelmsford protesting against Gillis, who is seeking to pull the 17,000-strong Sudbury local out of Mine-Mill into the United Steelworkers of America (CIO).

In Sudbury, the Conservative association nominated its president, Hugh Doig, to represent the Sudbury riding.

He won on the first ballot over Controller Grace Hartman, retiring Conn. Attorney E. D. Wilkins and Basil Scully, who ran as a Liberal. Liberal Leader Lester Pearson in Ottawa Easter in the last election.

Magic Fortnight Ends for Jackie

KARACHI, Pakistan (AP) — Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy headed home today from what she called the happiest two weeks in my life."

Carrying memories of elephants and horses, maharajas and tribal chieftains, Mrs. Kennedy ended her first Asian tour and said she hoped to come back someday.

"It is terribly sad to be leaving today," she said as she left a Pakistani Air Force jet for London.

She will spend three days in the British capital at the home of her sister, Princess Lee Radziwill, then flies on Wednesday with the Queen, Mrs. Kennedy flies to Washington Thursday.

Behind her was a weekend in Pakistan, where she met with Pope John, and 24 days in India and Pakistan packed with elephants, camels, pandas, snakes, horses, band concerts, fashion shows, hospital tours and exotic foods.

TWO JUVENILES BEING HELD AFTER CAR THEFT

On Friday, Mrs. A. Herrington of R. R. 1, Belleville, reported to the city police department the theft of her automobile, 1951 Chevrolet, which had been parked opposite the police station on Market Street.

In the afternoon of the same day Ontario Provincial Police in Brighton reported that they had apprehended two youths in possession of the stolen car. They were returned to Belleville by city detectives.

As a result two juveniles are being held in connection with the theft.

IMPORTS BULLFIGHTS

LEEDS, England (CP)—Yorkshire theatre owner Ernest Stott has begun importing bullfighting to Britain. He says he will use the "Portuguese version," in which the bull is not killed, but animal protection societies may prove an obstacle to his plans.

Rodney Wood, 4, Is Killed In Schoharie Rd. Accident

A four-year-old Prince Edward county boy died Sunday when he was pinned beneath his mother's car as it was thrown from the vehicle when it went out of control on the Schoharie Road near Bowerman's.

Dead is Rodney Wood, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glendon Wood, R. R. 1, Bloomfield.

Mrs. Wood escaped from the overturned vehicle and was later treated for cuts on the head.

Wellington Police Chief Earl Marvin said Mrs. Wood and her young son were on their way to a store when she lost control of her car in loose gravel. The car spun sideways into a water-filled ditch, then rolled three times, pinning the boy underneath as it came to rest in a field. The accident occurred about half a mile from the Wood home.

Bruce Delnard, of R. R. 8 Picton, was an eye witness to the accident, which occurred about 40 rods away as he approached in the opposite direction.

Mrs. Wood and three other children were at home at the time of the accident.

Establish New Centre to Treat Crippled Kids

An estimated one-third of Ontario's crippled children cannot take full advantage of the techniques that have been developed to help them overcome their handicaps.

They are the children living in parts of their area where treatment centres are located. They are children in those rural districts and in the north province who require—residential care. They are the children for whom over-crowded general hospitals have no room when surgery or other corrective procedures are completed.

In keeping with the demands being placed on those treatment centres already established in some of the large Ontario cities, a provincial treatment centre will be established in Metropolitan Toronto. Extremely difficult cases will be referred from all parts of the province where their problems will receive the attention of leading medical, dental and surgical specialists, where they may remain for a short period of study and observation, and where crippled children residing in a heavily populated part of central Ontario will have for the first time, adequate outpatient services available.

During this Easter season, recognition and support for the 1962 Easter Seal Campaign is needed to guarantee that more children will graduate to young adults, able to take their place in society.

Skating Club Carnival Voted Huge Success

The Quinte Skating Club's 1962 annual ice revue "The Four Seasons", closed a highly successful two-nights run in Memorial Arena Saturday night.

A near-capacity crowd thrilled to the fast-moving colorful show, the sensational skating of professional and junior stars and the many fine ensemble numbers.

Among the special guests of the club, Miss Elinor Flack and Paul McCormick, Canadian junior pairs champions drew a splendid ovation as did the Misses Jane and Peggy McCutcheon and the club pros Paul Totten and Mrs. Bonnie Boundy.

Club president Dr. W. B. Beattie, who produced and directed the show, said today he was "very pleased with the success of the 1962 presentation."

It was strictly a group or team effort, he said, with the members of the executive and others did a fine job and all deserve credit for helping produce a very successful show.

"We were fortunate in getting good weather or both Friday and Saturday nights", Dr. Beattie said. "The ice was excellent and in fact, everything was everybody associated with the presentation contributed to the general success."

Around The Tee

Bayne Secord's rink of Toronto round the going pretty tough at the Red Devil spiel at the Oakwood Curling Club in Kingston over the weekend. Mr. Secord was not in bad but his vice skip, Vern Larsen was in the cooler with the other two members of the rink moving up and another western curler in the lead and this rink tied into a rink of Zeke Toles, Ron Bean, T. C. Carruthers and Mac White as skip it from the Quinte Curling Club in the finals for the second event she White rink won by a last score.

The Second rink scored two on teh first end and White picked up singletons on the third, fourth and sixth ends, while other two ends being blanked.

Secord scored singletons on eighth ends were also blanked before White went to work. Mac with his first stone drew in behind one of the shots to be crossed to the button and Larsen in attempting to take out the rock wicked off a guard — but rolled in to be shot. White then took out the shot rock to the count two and win the game. There was no doubt about the winning. The Belleville rink lost their first game to Al Tyler of Kingston, 8-4, and also to Ken Adam of Toronto, 9-4. On Saturday they got their first game they defeated Al Cromarty of Kingston, 7-3 and then C. Lawrence of Napanee, 8-3 Kingston, 12-3 and finally the Secord rink won its win the second event of the spiel and received stone stoves for their prizes.

On Saturday night a rink of Howard Thompson, Jack Hall, Ed Lewis with Ron Bean skipping defeated Wayne Macquodale's rink when the "A" and "B" sections of the club were played off previously and Benn rink had defeated the Secord rink to get into the finals. Next Saturday night, the Benn rink will tackle Mac White's rink for the championship and the Bill Gault trophy.

On Saturday at the local rink a junior bonspiel was held between the Quinte Curling Club and the Trenton RCAF rink with 6 rinks in play. The high three-game winners was Wayne Wilkinson with a rink of Frances Shelton, Paul Ward and Anne Bateman. The runners-up were a rink skipped by David Livingston. The consolation winner was a rink skipped by J. McKean with Ken Hall, Ken Bateman and Richardson's rink from Trenton Station. The one-game winner was Ron Bateman's rink from Quinte Curling Club with Scott Duncan, also in the Quinte Club, as runner-up. The consolation prize went to a rink of MacRae of the RCAF club. The Wilkinson rink was presented with the Pepsi-Cola trophy donated by Jack Spinelli, who was also chairman of the junior curling section this past season. The annual meeting of the local club provided the junior curlers with the bonspiel dinner. All report an excellent time.

The Northern Electric mixed bonspiel will get on the road tonight and continue throughout the week. The skips are requested to notify their players of any changes made and also to have their rinks ready to play at the time scheduled.

Two Sick Giants Dominate The Map of South America

By ROMAN JIMENEZ

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Two sick giants dominate the map of South America.

Uncle Sam is the only doctor available, according to one view. According to another, Uncle Sam has a degree in imperialism rather than medicine.

Last week's crisis in Argentina reflects the illnesses that afflict this country and its vast neighbor, Brazil. Both countries are rich or potentially rich. But both look to the United States to help them regain lost ground and strengthen their economic backbones.

Major elements of the population, especially in Argentina, are ready to strike back at the helping hand. The leading backers of exiled former dictator Juan Peron who won last week's elections contend that the United States engineered the fall as Pentagon or Peron.

CAN BE FORGAVE

That can be a popular issue to rally the Argentine common man, who balks at a program of austerity introduced by President Arturo Frondizi with the announced aim if restoring economic health. The common man remembers how Peron used to picture him as a king. He may think Peron also brought the nation to chaos and built up military moved in.

Seven years later, the military is insisting that the Peronist influence be nullified. Frondizi has moved to do so — the last word on that is still to be heard.

Whatever the outcome, one thing is clear. It's going to take U.S. money and lots of it to help cure the poverty and sloth plaguing Argentina and Brazil. It's going to take strong cash medicine to help them away yearnings for Castroism, communism and dictatorship.

In their view, the funds must power a massive effort toward industrialization and over - all economic development to halt the tide of discontent.

DOUBT STRESS

They doubt the wisdom of stressing such projects as social welfare in the form of funds for housing, schools and medical care.

"We wonder," a diplomat asks, "if this smacks too much of trying to change the structures of the population without attempting to cure the grave economic ills which make the mixture so many countries."

It is claimed, for example, that no amount of welfare spending can possibly pull the 22,000,000 inhabitants of Brazil's sprawling northeast out of their poverty. Basic industrialization is needed.

But the problem facing a successful aid program are enormous. In Argentina, for example, relist rejection of capital investments in basic industries still persists.

JFK-IKE MEET

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — President Kennedy and former president Dwight Eisenhower talked alone in Eisenhower's desert home for 45 minutes Saturday in their fourth meeting since Kennedy became president. There was no immediate indication what they talked about. Presumably their discussion dealt largely with the international situation.

Meeting with the Bowlers

In the second week of the weekly King of the Hill tournament at the Bowl-O-Drome on Saturday, Cec Hamilton came out on top with 1014 for four games.

In a challenge match Hardwick also defeated last week's King Geo Sarich. Hardwick had 994 for four games while Saylor had 885.

Shirley Rochon, one of three girls in the Beat Your Average tournament, defeated the men with 816 for four games, beating her previous average of 163 by 41 points.

In a challenge match with last week's champ, Jim Elliott, Rochon was defeated even though she put up a strong fight.

Elliott had 1063 (355) for four games, beating his average by 51 points, while Rochon had 796 beating her average by 35 points.

FRENCH ARREST

French forces repelled an attack. One gendarme officer was killed and 18 gendarmes were wounded in the fighting.

Officials said today that Joubaud was arrested Sunday about 4 p.m. it was not until 10:30 p.m. that the police realized how big a catch they had made and his identification verified.

In addition to false papers in the name of Gerberd, Joubaud had a moustache, a false beard, and was wearing civilian clothes. At the moment of the arrest, Joubaud was in a meeting with 18 other persons. About 10 of them were taken to the police headquarters. Only five were known to be OAS men. It is known if the others are still being held in Oran or have been released.

One of those arrested with Joubaud was identified as a former major named Gamelle. The others were reported to be of lesser importance.

One source close to secret army circles in Oran said that former Gen. Paul Gardey, once the commander of the Foreign Legion, would probably take over as commander of the Oran region for the Secret Army.

ROLAND COBB, who studied trumpet at the Royal Academy of Music in London, has been concert soloist for the past twelve years in the Salvation Army's International Staff Band which will present a concert here at the B.C.I. April 16. Bandsman Cobb has been heard over the BBC network on many occasions, and has made many excellent recordings. He was principal cornetist in the Band of Her Majesty's Welsh Guards which played at Buckingham Palace and for royal functions elsewhere. He is bandmaster of the noted Hendon Salvation Army Band in North London where his father, retired bandmaster, F. H. Cobb, was bandmaster for many years.

Trenton Audience Enjoys Belleville Festival Entry

TRENTON — Audience reaction to "The Chalk Garden," the Belleville Theatre Guild's three-act entry in this week's two-day's Eastern Ontario Drama Festival at Kingston, was supplied by an almost hand-picked cross section of Trenton theatregoers in the high school auditorium Saturday night.

Comments, gleaned during intermission by those attending, were complimentary on the whole. Some were enthusiastic.

"This play's not everything," said one lady, "mystery, comedy, drama and poetry with Freud thrown in for good measure."

On Wednesday, the Belleville players will vie with groups from Kingston, Cornwall, Ottawa and Hull-Eardley festival honors. The winning group will go on to compete in the Dominion festival in Winnipeg next month.

The cast includes Flo Yanover, Garth Allen, Helen Sullivan, Beryl Sketch, Nicky Hall, Nicky Thomas, Lynne Thomson, Margaret Jardine and Jim Alexander.

Stage manager is Ruairi Butler.

Belleville Firm Gets Contract to Repair Church

TRENTON — It was learned today that the contract for the reconstruction of the King Street United Church in Trenton had been awarded to Hugh Murray Construction Co. of Belleville.

Cost of the program to the congregation will be $150,000 and the contract calls for the building of a two-storey extension at the north end of the 87-year-old church where a new organ will be located. Plans also called for the relocation of the choir loft and pulpit.

The lower auditorium will be completely renovated and a new King Street entrance built. A ventilation system for the auditorium and kitchen will be incorporated.

The tender also called for the complete repainting of the interior of the building.

Items not included in the contract price are the new organ, chancel furniture; repair and refinishing of the new seating; floor rugs and minor repairs. Architects' fees will be extra also.

Starting date for outside work to the church is slated for April 3; completion date, July 14.

Will Represent Trenton Group At Convention

TRENTON — Quinte Toastmistery have come up with a unique idea in the way of programming.

On May 1 a "model" United Nations Assembly will be held, with each member taking the role of a representative of one of the UN countries. Debates will be carried on, with an agenda of resolutions proposed by the Secretary-General.

Trenton group is the McKeen as.

On March 31, Douglas Tufford will represent the Trenton group at the Area No. 1 Toastmaster speech contest in Toronto.

Members of the Trenton club have served as judges at a number of Quinte area speaking contests. Among them are Johnson, Doug Tufford, Doug Rushnell, Tom Minaudo, Jim Rombough, Jim Byers, Les McKenna and Graham Lodee have all been active in the adjudging field over the past few weeks in Trenton, Brighton, Wooler and Campbellford.

A number of new members have joined the club recently and have embarked on their speaking courses. At the regular meetings, now held every second Tuesday, club members take a step up the ladder of their public speaking careers and presently address, graduated as to difficulty, for the evaluation of their fellow members.

Last week Trenton Toastmasters Rombough and Johnson attended a meeting of the Glenshaw City club at Kingston and on April 3, Belleville Toastmasters have been invited to a Trenton meet.

Green also attended, along with delegates from Brazil, India, Italy, Poland, Sweden and the United Arab Republic. It was likely they would consider Canada's plan for enlarging the Big Three nucleus; subcommittee lay inviting some neutral countries to join the talks.

Rusk's meeting with Gromyko was expected to be a final effort at Geneva to see whether any progress toward agreement on Berlin was possible.

Western officials said they would see little or not the chance of a last-minute move by Gromyko.

In the course of the talks, which began two weeks ago, Rusk is reported to have emphasized repeatedly that the United States and its allies want a Berlin settlement — but never at the cost of yielding their right to maintain troops in the city and to have access to it.

The United States and Russia opened the way for actual negotiations at the disarmament conference by agreeing on a system of procedures to do the detailed bargaining.

Western and Soviet officials both were on hand Saturday as failure their efforts thus far to reach agreement on what is a clear - weapon test ban. The U.S.-British talks on this issue broke down over the problem of safeguards to prevent cheating.

Gromyko again refused to consider any control system providing for on-site inspection by teams operating within the Soviet Union.

But Rusk, Foreign Secretary Home of Britain and representatives of other countries at the conference refused to accept the nuclear - test stalemate as final.

John Hayman Named President Y's Men Club

John Hayman was re-elected as president of the Belleville Y's Men's Club during the club's recent annual elections. This is the first time in over a decade that a president has been asked to serve a second term in office. Mr. Hayman is vice-principal of Quinte Secondary School.

The other members of the 1962-1963 executive are Bill Prentice, vice-president; Vern Wolf, secretary; Bill Hutchinson treasurer and special committee chairmen Colin Nicols, Doug Trumble, Max Woolley, Doug Sim and Ron Moorman.

On March 31st the club will hold its annual President's Night. Mr. Max Dinsdale of Kingston will give an address on reconstruction on the art of glass blowing.

Conference Developing Into Big-Power-Little-Power Act

By ALAN HARVEY

GENEVA (CP)—The Geneva conference is developing into what may be called a struggle between the power, politics and the conscience of humanity.

At issue, the immediately important one of nuclear tests. The United States is going to resume tests next month unless Russia accepts a safeguarded test treaty.

The new factor is that in this disarmament conference, there is pressure for agreement for the first time at a meeting of this kind. Public opinion in general is being heard through the land.

Eight non-aligned nations, representing a middle-of-the-road position, are mobilizing their influence against a resumption of tests.

They are not going to be a veto, bess of it. Indian Foreign Minister Santiago Danias of Ireland.

MAY OVER-RATE

It would be wrong to over-rate this new articulateness among the uncommitted nations of the world. When basic interests are involved, the big powers undoubtedly will be the decision-makers.

But the pressure is there.

Nevertheless, Geneva may witness the beginning of a hopeful trend—allowing away any old monolithic big-power setup.

It may have no practical result at this conference. In the United States, Public opinion and Congress will probably make it impossible for President Kennedy to resume testing in the latter part of April.

Canada is doing its best to foster neutralist influence. External Affairs Minister Green, who daily seeks to inject a sense of urgency into proceedings, proposed Friday that there be a clear big three subcommittee should be enlarged to include an unspecified number of non-aligned powers.

He is believed to favor Egypt's Mahmoud Fawzi and Brazil's Dantas.

HAS SYMPATHY

Canada understands and sympathizes with the U.S. position on tests. But Green does not always go all the way with it. He is known to have been irritated by U.S. State Secretary Dean Rusk over a minor procedural point that developed Thursday and he does not endorse Rusk's view that Russia wants to resume tests and therefore is cold to a ban.

Green is believed to feel that this is a completely reasonable viewpoint, and that it hurts the conference, if anyone, to make propaganda play with it.

Frondizi Wins Time for More Manoeuvring

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—President Arturo Frondizi won a reprieve from the army today to continue his manoeuvring to stay in office but military chiefs made clear any compromise in Argentine's nine - day crisis would be on their terms.

Guards at Government House were garbed in battle dress, machine-guns were mounted on the building, and security checks were tightened in the area.

The precautions were taken apparently to forestall a sudden coup by admirals and some army generals reported to be determined to get Frondizi out.

On the Same Theme

Judge Lactare Roy of Quebec City has just made Ald. Robert Templar of Belleville look like a major prophet.

Last Thursday, Ald. Temple was telling the Lions Club at Trenton that, if a current move by some people to abolish the jury in civil cases was successful, there would be pressure to abolish the jury system in criminal trials. On the same day, in Quebec City, Judge Roy told another service club that trial by jury should be abolished at criminal assizes, the jury being replaced by three judges who would have to agree unanimously before an accused person could be convicted.

We hold no brief for Judge Roy's proposal. At the same time, we suggest that the possibility of the jury system being abolished is one of the lesser threats to civil liberties which Ald. Temple cited in his address. That it was once the foundation stone of British justice, nobody with any knowledge of the history of British law will deny. It ought, though, to be possible to question whether this still holds true without being branded as false to the spirit of Magna Carta. A man was assured a hearing before a jury of his peers, that is his equals. This was an assurance that his fate would be decided by those who would have an innate understanding of, and sympathy for, one in his station of life. But the deep class distinctions which made such a system imperative have long since passed away. Today all men are equal before the law. Nobody need fear that the judge upon the bench is a member of a hostile class.

Would an innocent man feel more apprehensive if the verdict on his case was given by three learned judges, who must be unanimous, rather than by those that number of citizens unlearned in the law? It is a question to which the answer, upon consideration, will be found to be not quite as easy to come by as might have been first imagined. Indeed, we should not be surprised to learn that some will suppose that fewer jurors would encourage punishment, but fewer innocent men would go to jail, if Judge Roy's system were adopted.

Unusual Criticism — And Reply

Hon. W. A. Goodfellow, MLA for neighboring Northumberland, who assumed the portfolio of Minister of Highways in the Cabinet shuffle which followed the assumption of the premier's office by John F. Roberts, presented his first highways estimates in the Legislature Monday.

The occasion was unusual, if not unique, in that Mr. Goodfellow faced criticism because his department, during the past year, had spent less than it had estimated.

This fact led Elmer Sopha, Liberal member for Sudbury, to ask whether the estimated net expenditure figures for the province were not "just a wild guess." Mr. Goodfellow replied in the negative. We can imagine circumstances under which criticism of a department for under-spending might be legitimate—but not in this case. For Mr. Goodfellow was able to explain the reason that last year's expenditures were lower than had been estimated was due to the fact that bids on tenders had been below estimates. In other words, all the contemplated projects had been undertaken, but they had cost less than had been expected. Almost a miracle, in this day and age.

Strip Teas

At their most recent monthly meeting, the charming and energetic members of the Women's Hospital Auxiliary unveiled a novel method of raising money for the worthy cause the Auxiliary serves. They plan to stage, as a function in which those in attendance are required, at intervals, to donate part of their costume or accessories. The resultant loot will enlarge the stock of the Auxiliary's Opportunity Shop and will eventually be converted into a considerable sum in cash.

The news desk in the editorial room is sorely disappointed over the manner in which the report of this enterprise was handled by the society desk. It was the news desk's feeling that this was the type of story which called for the utilization of the newest wrinkle in news handling, coverage in depth, especially as, in this case, this could have been achieved with speed and ease, requiring no more than the appropriate heading to reveal all the implications of the Auxiliary's innovation. Unfortunately, the women's page editor rejected, out of hand, the suggested heading, "No Nudes Is Good News at Strip Teas."

Prosperity is only an instrument to be used, not a deity to be worshipped.—Calvin Coolidge.

40 YEARS AGO

March 24th, 1922

The amusement tax last year in Belleville amounted to $4,384. This means between thirty and forty cents for each man, woman and child in the city. Most of the tax was collected through theatres. Kingston's tax was $17,025.76, and Peterborough's tax was $13,-902.76.

Herb Welsh, a Belleville bagage twelve years, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Welsh of Foutroit, Mich., formerly of Belleville, is on the way to win fame for himself as a player of the piano. Two weeks ago he presented to the piano in the absence of the regular pianist in the Cass Technical Orchestra which numbers sixty musicians. He is said to have given a remarkable performance for a boy of twelve years. His brother was formerly Miss Margaret Backus of this city.

Belleville Market prices Eggs 24 cents per dozen, which is the lowest price in eight years; butter 40 cents per pound; chickens $2.50 to $3.50 per pair; potatoes 60 cents per quart; or $2.75 per gallon; potatoes $1.80 per bag.

March 24th, 1912

The members of the Belleville Gun Club held their weekly shoot yesterday afternoon and the scores were as follows, the target being 25 birds: Dey 22; McGregor 19; Andrews 19; Thompson 18; Harris 17; Mott 16; Miller 15; Howie 15; Davis 14; Cone 14; Turley 12; R. Dey 12; Stanford 11.

Mr. W. C. Mikel K.C. was elected Grand Foreman of the Grand Lodge of the Ancient Order United Workmen in Toronto recently. Mr. A. A. Moore of Trenton was elected Master of the sixth time District Deputy for Hastings and Prince Edward for the same order.

Mr. Ernest Hagerman has returned to Toronto after visiting his parents here.

The post office known as Foodrey's Mills, in future will be called Letta. At one time it was called Letta Mills.

Warns Vodka Sneaky Drink

Chicago Tribune

The internal-revenue service, in its capacity as collector of liquor taxes, has found American drinkers are gradually shifting from whiskey and gin to vodka.

The production of vodka rose last year to 10½ million gallons; the output of whiskey dropped to 135 million gallons (10 per cent less than in 1960), and the fell off to about 18 million gallons.

There's nothing subversive about liking vodka or cavias; but prospective police detectives should be warned that it is some ways vodka is very much like a communist agent.

The one doesn't taste like liquor, and the other doesn't act like a spy. Both carry out their sentinel function subtly but efficiently and before you know it, you're either stinko or pinko.

Bedstead's Brakes Poor

Cleveland Plain Dealer

Richard Brown, 19, the only bedstead driver in the British isles, (or anywhere else as far as we know) has had his "reins into cour" in Aldershot, England, fined the equivalent of $36, and suspended from driving beds and-or cars for a month.

Brown, an aircraft engineering student, piloted his bed by way of a motorcycle engine, and drove it in a thrifty parade, to the great delight of all who saw it. But he failed to carry any "learner" plate, he didn't demand proper insurance, his braking system wasn't adequate, and the police had to join the party.

But we wonder whether young Mr. Brown's Bedstead was actually any more dangerous than some of the automotive wrecks we have seen on the streets of Cleveland?

STRENGTH for the DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

PROPER BALANCE

"I don't care what anybody thinks or says about me; I just go along doing what I believe is right and the rest of the world can go hang for all I care."

Now wait, brother, use a little common sense. Do you care what people say about you and think about you, or you did not, then it would mean that you live stark and alone in the vast universe by yourself. That you certainly do not do, and that no sensible person would want to do.

Reputation has a legitimate place in life. We are willing to quite proper bounds if we covet the good will and esteem of our fellows. The person, however, who carries this too far is a compromiser and an egotist. The person who has no desire for the commendation of his fellows — or at least claims he has none — is a social misfit, looked upon with some disdain and deserving that unpopularity which he gets.

Balance, balance, balance. This secret of wholesome, happy, healthy living is balance. our fellow men but not let it get out of hand. We should act with decisive independence where moral principal is at stake, yet do so in a way that will cause even our opponents to admire us.

All things in their place. All the factors of life in proper proportion. Balance, balance, balance.

Individuals Vary Widely In Their Reaction to Drugs

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am 36 and take a tranquilizer before meals. Lately I have been getting them with a cycle of 2 days between meals and early in the evening.

What do you think is the cause of this? — A.D.

The dose of tranquilizer may be too great for you. Its reaction may be all that is necessary.

However, since there are varied reasons for taking tranquilizers, you should tell your doctor about this, and let him supervise the change in dose — or, for that matter, it is conceivable that he may even want to substitute some other tranquilizer.

If the purpose of the drug, in your case, is simply to calm your emotions and nerves, then it would appear to be simply a case of your being made "too tranquil.

At the same time, the tranquilizer — and the very the original use to which they were put — are more specifically aimed at controlling blood pressure. It could be that your dose is more concerned over that than he is over your downside. That's why I want you to talk to him.

This sort of reaction is worth keeping in mind in view of the widespread use of tranquilizers these days.

It should equally be kept in mind that individuals vary considerably in their reaction to tranquilizers or, for that matter, any of the drugs we prescribe.

It is possible for the manufacturers to indicate an average dose, but there is a big gap in the word for them to arrive at a dose that will be right for you.

If we started making all shoes of a single average size, think how many of us would have sore feet!

This dosage-drug be individualized, adjusted up or down to suit the person who doesn't happen to fall into the big average way.

The same principle applies to "side effects" from drugs. It is possible, after considerable observation, to arrive at various side effects that can occur; however, this is a different matter from saying that they will occur, or predicting in advance whether any side effect will appear within any given drug.

As I have said before, this is one basic reason for insisting that drugs be taken only on prescription. No two people are exactly alike — even identical twins, although they tend to react similarly.

Dear Dr. Molner: Can a ruptured testicle cause a man to become sterile? If not, what would be a woman's most fertile days with a cycle of 28 to 28 days? — Mrs. M.B.

It could cause sterility if both testicles were injured. If in doubt, medical tests would give the answer. Fertility is nearly always in mid-cycle, about the 13th to 16th day in the 28-day cycle. This can vary, earlier, or later, so for any individual case, morning temperature readings daily (watching for a slight rise in temperature) will give a better clue to the correct time.

Fall Is Time For Vacation

St. Thomas Times-Journal

A tourist organization advises people to take their vacations in the first two weeks of June, the last two weeks of August, in this way, it says, the highways and the crowded accommodation facilities would be avoided; motel and other costs would be reduced.

It is natural to desire one's vacation when the weather is at its best, but it does make for discomforts. Holidays are scheduled, for convenience, with Labor Day — the first Monday in September. The effect is just the best time of the year for taking one's holidays, when we have to go back to the happy medium of neither too warm nor too cool, and comfortable weather may even be enjoyed through the first two weeks of October.

One of the advantages of a late vacation is that it hastens being under the obligation of returning home because children have to go back to school a large percentage of cars are on the road.

There is a lot to be said for a September tour.

TODAY'S TALK

DEFECTS

"Paint me as I am — want and all." This was the instruction given the artist who went to the gaudy Cleopatra to put his portrait upon canvas. And so we all know that she was well had a wart upon his nose — and wasn't bothered by it!

Some years ago I bought myself a new car. I loved it very much — was much taken with it — love a mere material possession. Its comfort, its grace, its splendid appointments all combined to make me very happy as it took me here and there.

One day I went to the country and left my car in charge of a under a great group of pines. In the morning I noticed tiny specks of pitch all over my lovely car's hood. I tried several things to remove these specks. Finally, I decided to give it a heroic remedy and tried scraping it myself a new car. But the car traveled just as beautifully as before. It gave me the same delightful pleasure. It took me where I wanted to go. It fulfilled every purpose of a car. The effort to remove the little defects, however, resulted in something that made me think. The little specks really didn't matter, but when I tried to remove them, I brought on a much greater defect.

We lot, friends this way. We see little defects in them and try to improve them. We overlook the big, lovely qualities of character which are so much to them, and magnify the little defects that amount to so little.

We try to make over our friends to fit our ideas. And friends were not made for this purpose. Friends were to help make us, love us, help us become happier.

We feet, big hands, freckles, warts, or other characteristics that belong to my friends, do not bother me in the least. I love them for what they are in the parlor, of their hearts.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

On revisiting a small and thriving American city in the mid-west, a population of about 50,000, I was stuck by the change in what had been the down-town district. Ten years had passed since I last saw it. Fine new office buildings of the semi-skyscraper type rose steadily above the old ones. Big stores had become something like — modified versions of departmental offices. The down-town was deserted of normal shopping traffic.

When I enquired, I was told the shopping business had moved to the shopping centres out on the fringes of town. Then I remembered the extremly attractive "village", as they called it, on the edge of my last shopping centres I had seen ten years ago. Glittering, spacious, fresh: the ideal atmosphere for shopping. In due course, I drove out to the "village."

My immediate impression was one of shabbiness. Something had happened. The large roomy shops seemed full of cheap goods, what you might call the "patent" merchandise, with "nationally advertised" items. On the more modern items I wanted, not one was to be had. I asked one of the shop women clerks, what had happened to the "village."

"Oh," she said, "there's a new shopping centre over a mile, or two, north of here. You must go over there and see it."

So I did. It had all the charm this old one had had ten years ago. And all the goods. Call it the "quality" area. Fair up, fast, down, appears to be the law of modern merchandising.

Each Unit Costs $3,200,000 And Houses Only One Guest

By JACK EYGMOND

The most expensive housing development in the United States is being rushed to completion on the high plains of Montana.

One hundred and fifty homes are under construction. Although each costs $3,200,000, not one is fit for human habitation.

They're all basement, 94 feet deep. Each will house but a single guest; a rocket loaded with one megaton of death and destruction.

The rockets are called Minutemen, an understatement. Actually it will take only 30 seconds for four different, officials in two separate rooms to activate controls and send a Minuteman shrieking from its underground lair.

The guest, a determined impact point 5o it, nuclear warhead may be up to 6,500 miles away, enough range to carry over the Arctic deep into the Soviet Union.

'PUSHBUTTON' ROCKET

With solid rocket fuel eliminating long intake-ready periods prior to launching, the Minuteman is the only intercontinental weapon in the U.S. arsenal with a true "pushbutton" capacity.

The first of 150 operational, hardened launching silos in Montana may be ready for their missiles by late summer. Other silos are under construction in North and South Dakota and work starts will later, in Missouri.

When the 150 Montana silos are operational they will more than double the Strategic Air Command's force of intercontinental ballistic missiles. Presently the U.S. has about 130 Atlas and Titan missiles operational. Before 1965, the air force hopes to have a total of 800 intercontinental missiles, about 600 of them Minuteman missiles.

The Atlas and Titan missiles have longer ranges and carry heavier warheads but they are more expensive and slower in getting ready to their targets than Minuteman. Prior to launching they must be fueled with something like 40,000 gallons of liquid oxygen and kerosene. It takes at least 15 minutes.

SILOES 14½ MINUTES

With a make-ready time of only 30 seconds, Minuteman silos are approximately 14½ minutes. That's important. Military planners count on 15 to 30 minutes between radar detection of attacking missiles and the first hits.

Safe from anything but a direct hit or a near miss, the Minuteman will be in its control panel in a distant launching house. Not only that it will put out a prerecorded tape that announces its invisible area. That brings on a maintenance man.

The 150 Montana silos are grouped in flights of eight with a diameter of 350 miles. None is closer than 7 miles to its neighbor, to reduce the possibility of two silos being damaged by the attacking missile.

NO GUARDS REQUIRED

Once installed, a Minuteman is handled entirely by remote control. No one goes near the silo, not even a guard. But each silo is watched, around it and a monitoring system so sensitive, is can detect raindrops, sabotage. Edgar Hoover's perfect engineer.

The four-inch-thick concrete and steel slab seals the silo hole. It weighs 70 tons. It can be opened in 15 seconds only with a specially - geared winch or hydraulic jacks. Here, too, is the seven-ton hydraulic - operated concrete and steel hatch-cover used to decontaminate personnel.

The blast of a gas generator takes care of the slab roof prior to a launching. in seconds the cover is shot away on steel rails.

Bone-Chilling Retreat From Pole Told by Scott

By DON GUY
Associated Press Staff Writer

The men marched to their doom like actors in a Greek tragedy.

But this was a real - life drama and the stage was a frozen hell.

Just a half-century ago, Capt. Robert Falcon Scott of the Royal Navy and four companions died in a plodding, bone-chilling retreat from the South Pole.

It was one of the most heroic failures in the history of exploration. Scott gained greater fame in death than he had in life.

Had he lived, Scott would have earned but a niche in the history of exploration as the leader of the second expedition to reach the bottom of the earth.

Instead he died in a grim climax of horror and heroism, only 11 miles from life-giving food.

TALE OF COURAGE

As he lay down in his tent to die, his starving body slowly freezing, Scott wrote: "Had we lived, I should have had a tale to tell of the hardihood, endurance, and courage of my companions which would have stirred the hearts of every Englishman. These rough notes and our dead bodies must tell the tale . . ."

The tale did stir the hearts of Englishmen. And indeed, of all who admired courage throughout the world.

On his 32nd month, the little party dragged a sledge 850 miles across the Ross Ice Barrier, up the mighty Beardmore Glacier and across the two-mile - high Polar Plateau. On Jan. 17, 1912, they reached the barren windswept pole.

But it was a day of cruel anti-climax. A few hours, earlier they had seen tracks in the snow indicating Roald Amundsen of Norway had beaten them to their goal. At the pole, they found a tent and a note left by Amundsen, dated a month earlier.

Great God! This is an awful place and terrible enough for us to have labored to it without the reward of priority," Scott wrote, adding with grim prophecy: "Now for the run home and a desperate struggle. I wonder if we can do it."

The best weather of the brief Antarctic summer was behind and the circling sun was already lowering towards the frigid six-month winter night.

The temperatures dropped daily, rarely climbing above minus 40 degrees Fahrenheit.

BIGGEST DIED FIRST

The first to die was Taff Evans, the largest and strongest man of the party. His greater need for food because of his size spelled his doom.

Titus The Soldier Oates died next. Oates had suffered a frostbitten foot. He knew he was delaying the others. One day as the party lay huddled in sleeping bags in the tiny tent during a blizzard, he told them: "I am just going outside and may be some time." He walked away to his doom.

Three days later the three survivors reached a point only 11 miles from a depot where ample stocks of food and fuel were cached. Then a blizzard pinned them down in their tents.

During the 10-day blizzard, the group considered and rejected a plan to kill themselves with opium. Scott wrote a series of letters to his wife and friends.

His last entry was dated Thursday, March, 29 (1912). Dr. Edward A. Wilson and Henry Bowers lay dead or dying beside him as he wrote:

"Outside the door of the tent it remains a scene of whirling drift . . . It seems a pity, but I do not think I can write more.

23 Fatalities Across Canada During Weekend

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Twenty-three persons died in highway mishaps in Canada during the weekend, while four more deaths resulted from other kinds of accidents.

Only Manitoba and Prince Edward Island reported no accidental deaths in a Canadian Press survey from 6 p.m. local times Friday to midnight Sunday.

Four persons were killed on the roads each in British Columbia and Quebec; three each in Alberta, Ontario, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia; two in Saskatchewan and one in Newfoundland.

Three others died in Quebec, one in a drowning accident, another by asphyxiation, and another as a result of a fall.

KILLED BY TREE

In British Columbia a seven-year-old child was killed when hit by a falling tree.

The survey does not include known suicides, industrial accidents or slayings.

Ontario fatalities:

Four persons, all of Bowmanville, 10 miles east of Picton, who died when their car, driven by his mother, Mrs. Glendon Wood, went out of control and turned over.

TIN CAN MAIL

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (AP)—The famous "tin can island mail" is being resumed after a 15-year lapse. This is the mail to Niue-foou in the Tongan islands, which has put its mail in cans and dropped offshore because of the rough seas. It was stopped in 1947 when the island was devastated by a volcanic eruption.

Belief That Natural Gas Exists Keeps Drillers at Work

Pointe du Lac set on sand frozen onto the rock of the lake worked up to 16 hours a day, in the face of blizzards and biting winds, sub-zero temperatures and heavy machinery, investigating the area 300 feet beneath the lake bottom.

Inhabitants of the area have known for years the lowland between Montreal and Trois-Rivieres contains natural gas.

Joseph L. Auger, a native of Pointe du Lac, heads his home, a restaurant and 21 tourist cabins with a well he dug on his own land six years ago.

"There's plenty of gas around here," he said. "But I'm not telling just anybody where it is."

"My well gives me 5,000,000 cubic feet a day."

If the field turns out to be as extensive as its promoters claim, it could supply the heavily populated surrounding area, Montreal included, with all the gas it needs at a lower price than gas from Western Canada, the present source.

Promoters say the gas would cost less because it is much closer to the consumer, it's purer and there are only hundreds of feet from the refinery rather than thousands.

For the last six years, motorists driving along the shore of Lake St. Peter, on the north St. Lawrence just upstream from Trois-Rivieres, have been able to stop briefly at a sandy sand and water thrown into the air by the drillers' pressure pumps.

Promoters have obtained gas rights to land bordering the lake, and the six years, a 40-mile-wide circle.

Ice was removed in 2,000-pound blocks before drilling be-

Little Theatre Groups Stage Five Festivals

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Theatres were busy in five regions during the weekend as amateur groups began competing for the Dominion Drama Festival in Winnipeg May 14-19.

Regional finals were held also in Alberta, Saskatchewan, Western Ontario, Eastern Quebec and Nova Scotia.

Man May Be Near Point Of Man-Powered Flight

By MILTON MARMOR

LONDON (AP)—Since mythological times man has dreamed of getting off the ground and flying by his own muscle power.

Now, as he stands on the threshold of the space age, man may also be near the point of man-powered flight.

Reputable scientists in Britain have sponsored three projects aimed at getting man in the air on his own. The Soviet Union is also reported interested in this field and there are similar scattered efforts throughout the world.

Man must find an airframe that can be flown with much less than ½ horsepower, all the power man can generate without aids.

Some scientists insist man has just enough muscle power to fly—but not for long. They say it will take a skilled aerodynamicist to work out a way for him to overcome his unfavorable power - weight ratio. That's what they're trying to do in England under the watchful eye of the Aeronautical Research Society.

The society two years ago took the enthusiasts—they included engineers and biologists—to see a demonstration of ornithopter flying by his own muscle power.

The society two years ago took the enthusiasts—they included engineers and biologists—to see a demonstration of ornithopter flying by his own muscle power.

Then along came a London plastics manufacturer, Mr. Jim Kremer, 54, who offered £5,000 prize to the first man-power flight over a mile-long course.

The course would consist of eight to show that the aircraft could be manoeuvered and would not be kept in the air by favorable winds like a glider.

The three groups in the forefront of the man-powered flight dream are: A Southampton University team; a team of aircraft designers at de Havilland's plane factory at Hatfield; and a team of engineers working for Tradair Air Craft at Shoreham.

The groups who are working diligently on creating such apparatus have kept their findings secret.

It is known, however, that the most promising shape for such an aircraft would be an ultra-light structure, with a balsa wood nose and ribs of spruce covered with a thin fabric or plastic sheeting.

The propeller would be mounted on the rail to be as big as possible to move the maximum amount of air—a diameter of about eight feet. The wing span would be about 80 feet.

Power would be transmitted to the propeller through a drive geared to the standard mechanism of a bracing bicycle.

The Southampton and Hatfield have begun test flights.

Last Dec. 30, 1961, test pilot James Phillips flew with a straight line at several feet. His craft is called the Puffin.

WHEN YOU BANK
we simply try to make it easier
Even bank people get annoyed when their customers are subjected to delays. (The line-up on pay days is a favourite example). We know how inconvenient these things are for you . . . and we're constantly looking for ways to improve them. No bank is perfect—but we try to make the Toronto-Dominion as close to it as humanly possible! Both in the bank and behind the scenes, we feel we really do have the people who make the happy difference in banking . . . and we'd like to prove it to you.
NEW ACCOUNTS
A TORONTO-DOMINION BANKING SERVICE:
JOINT ACCOUNTS
A Joint Account is one where two people (very often a husband and wife) have the right to make deposits and withdrawals. It can be a Current Account, a Personal Chequing Account or a Savings Account. Naturally this is a great convenience to the housewife whose husband is often away on business, and to both parties when both contribute to the family income. A Joint Account has many advantages and is easy to arrange. Simply see The Bank for details.

St. Columba Iona Groups Hold Tea

The Iona group of St. Columba Presbyterian Church held a successful "St. Patrick's Day Tea" last Saturday. Fair ladies and mild weather were the order of the day and an excellent crowd turned out to the tastefully decorated manse for tea.

Pourers were: Mesdames, Hutchinson, MacLean, MacKay, and Millar.

Receiving the guests were: Mrs. J. Brasford and Mrs. J. Hayman; while Mrs. J. Cathcart was at the door to take tickets and give a word of cheer to all comers.

Serving were: Mesdames, Rosehill, Peterson, Brain, Baldwin and Ward. Mesdames Turnbull, Scott and MacDonald held up the most important end of all — doing kitchen detail.

FINE HOME BAKING

A fine array of home baking that sold out all too quickly was booked after the tea.

Mrs. Fontana, director of the group, was the one to limit on the expense number and mother-in-law-to-be of being the most elegantly married in the party.

Usually both will come to Mrs. Fontana for advice and cushioning, putting her in the uncomfortable position as fashion arbiter.

MOTHER'S LAMENT

"I'm heart sick. I should have picked the color that Mrs. So-and-So picked for her dress," Mrs. Fontana describes a typical conversation with a mother of a bride or groom. "That's really my very best color. Could I possibly persuade her to let me have it, and have her pick another?"

Mothers keep abreast of each new change in the others wardrobe and try to outdo it until both has spent more than the bride.

However, Mrs. Fontana, as diplomatic as she is creative, tends both women into the nuptial activities feeling sure she has won the friendly fashion battle.

STITCHED CAREER

Anita began her career in the garment district with Cell Chapman in 1936 where Sam Fontana, then a pleater, met, wooed and married her.

After the war they went into the ready-to-wear dresses here. But when ready-to-wear was not exactly what her customer wanted, she got out her needle. And her reputation for custom-built gowns grew with each stitch.

TEARS TO DRY

Today she exhibits dresses in places—this and that kind of places, quantities, according to until the bride-to-be has a batch of how her gowns will look.

Mrs. Fontana's job does not end with the delivery of the dresses to bride, and bridal party, however. She's usually behind the scenes at the wedding seeing to it that all the little slips and hooks are in place on everybody.

That service includes the reading mothers "Not only do both look beautiful during the services," observes their coutu rier "but each cries beautifully too."

MIDWIVES COLLEGE

The Royal College of Midwives, founded in London in 1881, raised the status and improved the education of British midwives.

Mothers Are Fashion Rivals

NEW YORK (AP)—Mothers of the wedding party play a friendly game of fashion rivalry that seldom begins to fight. And in the end often wind up spending more on their attire than the bride.

In the middle of such contests is stet-eyed bi-haired Anita Fontana, who has been custom-dressing members of the wedding party both here and in Coral Gables, Fla. for 15 years.

Today' bride-to be comes to her serene, knowledgeable and practical, says suite-sized Anita. Her purse is stuffed with clippings, swatches, and sketches that indicate her dream of a wedding dress.

She may have plenty of money in her purse, for most of Mrs. Fontana's clients are well-to-do. But unlike her sisters of a few years ago, today's bride is too practical to lavish much of it on her wedding dress. Although Anita Fontana makes them with $1000 price tags, the average bride visiting her shop spends a third of that.

On the other hand, the brides mother may be limit on the expense

Mr. and Mrs. John Earle Meyers are pictured following their marriage in Christ Church, Belleville. The former Miss Ann Ivan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ivan of Frankford. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Meyers of Belleville.

MEYERS — IVAN

Tall white standards of pale pink roses, gladioli and Mrs. John ed the chancel in Christ Church and white satin bows designated the guest pews on Saturday, March 3rd, at 1.30 p.m. when Ann Ivan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ivan, of Frankford, became the bride of John Earle Meyers, also of Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Meyers. The ceremony was performed by the rector of the church, the Rev. Archdeacon J. B. Creegan.

Mr. Ron Cogdon, Wilfrid's church organist, presided at the console of the organ, rendering the traditional nuptial music before the ceremony, and accompanied the soloist, Mr. Philip Bennett, of Belleville, who sang during the signing of the register, "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by Mr. Murray Arnott of Belleville, the bride was charming in her street length white nylon bridal gown over taffeta featuring a fitted bodice with empire waistline embroidered with beaded pearls and rounded neckline. The long, sheath like sleeves ended in lily-points over the wrists. She wore a double tiara of beaded pearls, with waist length veil of illusion tulle, and carried a semi-cascade of white hyacinth pearls, and white orchid with yellow throat.

The bride was attended by Mrs. Jane Arnott, of Belleville, as matron of honor, who was attired in pastel green nylon over taffeta in street-length with short sleeves, with matching headdress. She carried a crescent shaped bouquet of yellow Sweetheart roses and feathered white carnations.

Little Miss Christine Arnott, of Belleville, as flower girl, looked demure in her pastel green frock, made on lines similar to that of the matron of honor, with short sleeves, matching baudeau centred by a rose, and carried a little white basket of yellow Sweetheart roses and tiny baby white mums.

Mr. Patrick Smith, of Belleville, was groomsman, while Mr. Dan Stanton, of Picton, and Mr. Grant Badgley, of Belleville, ushered the guests.

The reception was held at the Shrine Club, where the bride's table was prettily appointed with white damask, and centred by a three-tier, all-white, pedestal cake, topped with yellow Sweetheart roses and misted about the base with white tulle. Tall white candles in silver candelabra and the bridal bouquets completed the pretty setting.

For the wedding trip to Florida and visiting friends in Hamilton, Virginia, the bride wore a beige sheath with beige and tan accessories, and orchid corsage.

Guests were present from Belleville, Toronto, Ottawa and Picton.

Prior to her marriage, the bride was entertained at two miscellaneous showers; one at the home of Miss Vila Kanzler, of Belleville, with Miss Anne Graham as co-hostess, and one at the home of Miss Jane Arnott, with Mrs. Ann Arnott, as co-hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. Meyers are residing at 36 Thorncliffe Park, Toronto.

Fellowship Supper Honors Missionary

One of the features of the World Missions Week held at the Alliance Church was the Ladies' Missionary Fellowship supper Wednesday evening when 84 ladies gathered in the lower auditorium of the church to enjoy fellowship with Miss Ruth Patterson, Reg. N., returned missionary from the Congo, and to hear a stirring message from that field.

Miss Patterson has completed two terms of missionary service under the Christian and Missionary Alliance in the Congo and returns to that land in July of this year. In her message to the ladies, she stressed the importance of love one to another. She stated that in the land of Congo, and especially in her medical work, she could see how sadly love was lacking.

LOVE ESSENTIAL

Even in the hospital where she trains 14 Congolese nurses at a time, she could notice that their work was done technically correct, but they lacked the love in their hearts. Also Miss Patterson's own patients would often point this out to her as she waited on them and would often ask her why she and her people really cared for them so much. She stated that they needed to know in experience the love chapter in the Bible, 1 Corinthians, chapter 13.

Following her address, an opportunity was given for the ladies to ask questions and much information was gained about the customs in the Congo, the spiritual conditions in these days of unrest there, and what our responsibility really is to these people.

After this question and answer period, the ladies adjourned to the sanctuary of the church to see Miss Patterson's colored pictures of the Congo.

"The room upstairs," was read by Mrs. G. Roth. Mrs. Stanley Bonter, Mrs. Hutchinson and Mrs. Bishop Dutton".

In the business, presided over by Mrs. Huntman, the minutes were read by Mrs. Bowers.

The treasurer reported the amount on hand and it was voted to give a sum to the Board of Stewards for the parsonage funds.

The first in a series of Bible studies is to be held on Monday evening at Mrs. Charles Huntman's home. Several smaller items of business were dealt with and the meeting closed with the benediction pronounced by Mrs. Robson.

Mrs. Robson and her assistants served refreshments.

Women Take Less Time To Become Alcoholics Than Men, Report Shows

VANCOUVER (CP)—A year ago one in every six alcoholics in British Columbia was a woman. Now more than 4,000 B.C. women—a ratio of one to five—are problem drinkers.

And the woman alcoholic, says secretary-manager R. E. Kerslake of the B.C. Alcoholism Foundation, has three strikes against her.

"It's not only the 'double standard' but facts and figures prove women tend to become more intoxicated, more quickly, more frequently and in the final stages are heavier alcoholics than men.

"From moderate social drinking, it usually takes a woman less time to become an alcoholic."

Says Harold C. Huggins, director of education for the foundation:

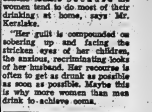
"No one is a social drinker on Thursday and an alcoholic on Friday. Some people have five to 15 years, but without a doubt women make the transition more quickly than men."

OTHER DIFFERENCES

The foundation has discovered these other differences between men and women drinkers in its early history of alcoholism:

1. Few women alcoholics become sober, as is the case with many men alcoholics. Their behavior is much more devastating.

2. They show more "setting out" and impulsive "living out" of underlying personality problems.



3. Their psycho-social ills appears to be more frequently and more completely involved in their alcoholism.

4. They make more suicide attempts and actually commit suicide more often than men.

K. M. Master alcoholism is checked, they more frequently develop other serious psychopathological states that could require treatment in an institution.

Alcoholic mothers also have a worse effect on children than alcoholic fathers because the women tend to do most of their drinking at home, says Mr. Kerslake.

"Her guilt is compounded on sobering up and facing the stricken eyes of her children, the anxious, recriminating looks of her husband. Her recourse is often to get as drunk as possible as soon as possible. Maybe this is why more women than men drink to achieve coma.

Beauty Parlor Is Bringing Chic Back to Hungary

BUDAPEST (AP)—That capitalistic device, the beauty parlor, is bringing chic back to Budapest and personal grooming is party's program to convince the Hungarian people communism can deliver the goods.

For the equivalent of 75 cents, a girl can get a shampoo and set, for $2.40 a hair tint job and for $1.20 a facial.

The day is gone when makeup was sinful and nail polish considered decadent. Beauty parlors are increasing throughout Budapest and the government says the city of 1,000,000 by 1965 will have 864 beauty salons.

The attempt to win the allegiance of the people is master minded by the party chief and premier, Janos Kadar, who rode to power as Soviet tanks crushed the 1956 revolt.

He and his followers evidently believe that ultimate victory will be theirs if they can supply things people want and if they can sell themselves as workers to serve, not bludgeon, the population.

The party has been criticizing its own mistakes in the controlled press. It seems to have clipped the wings of the secret police.

Official primness on moral issues has given way to less anachronistic attitudes. The party has told its members to start realizing that people are made of flesh and blood and therefore are fallible.

Hungary's standard of living now is second only to Czechoslovakia among satellite states. The shops offer good quality foodstuffs and rather inferior clothes.

Translated into dollars at the tourist rate of exchange (twice the official rate), the average industrial wage is $55 a month. By the pound, chicken costs 52 cents, butter $1.12, cheese 80 cents, sugar 13 cents and brown bread 22 cents.

Rents are low by government decree. A two-room apartment in Budapest — there are not nearly enough to go around—costs $4 to $10 a month.

Bemersyde IODE Meets At Merryvale

CAMPBELLFORD — The March meeting of the Bemersyde Chapter, I.O.D.E., was held at Merryvale School with 40 members present and the Regent, Mrs. G. Vice in the chair.

Mrs. E. Craighead read the treasurer's report followed by other reports from group leaders and convenors.

Correspondence was read by a committee of the group leaders re enquire into the possibility of having a school meeting at Kent School. The members were asked to consider the question of whether to meet in a hall or the homes. This issue will be voted on at a future meeting.

Mrs. J. Anderson thanked all who helped with and attended the Hospital Bridge at her home and reported that the bridge had netted $32. for the hospital.

Mrs. F. M. Rutherford, Educational Secretary, reported that she had the address and information about the school in Jamaica, which the Chapter has adopted. Fifty dollars worth of books have already been sent to the school.

After the meeting closed Group 1 served lunch.

Hot Cross Buns

by Mary Moore

Eleanor and I are munching on hot Hot Cross Buns just out of the oven. If and when I get to Heaven any idea of a perfectly heavenly service would be an instant distributing system to all of my readers of baking things as they come from the oven, with this issue dripping with butter. How's that for an outside wish?

MONDAY

Dinner Menu

Chilled Vegetable Juice; Beef Stew with Vegetables and Dumplings; Pickled Beets; Baked Coffee Custard with Chocolate Sauce; Coffee.

HOT CROSS BUNS (18): ½ cup milk (scalded), 1 tablespoon sugar, 1 package granular yeast, ¼ cup lukewarm water, ½ teaspoon salt, 1½ cups sifted all-purpose flour (more if needed), ¼ cup soft butter (or margarine or shortening), ¼ cup granulated sugar, 1 beaten egg, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ (or ¾) teaspoon cinnamon, ¼ (or ½) teaspoon cloves, 1 cup currant or raisins or mixed peel or ½ cup of each, 1 cup sifted all-purpose flour (second amount).

Scald milk first. When it begins to shimmer on top and bubble around edge remove from heat and add the 1 tablespoon sugar and cool to lukewarm. Sprinkle yeast over water in large mixing bowl. Add the 1 teaspoon sugar, the ½ cup lukewarm water, in a separate cup, and sprinkle yeast evenly over top of water. Then let it rise little and let stand for 10 minutes, or until it rises to top of cup. When milk is lukewarm, add yeast liquid to it and beat in the 1½ cups sifted flour until sponge is smooth. Cover and let rise at 80 deg. Fahr. for 45 minutes. While sponge is bubbly and beaten, ½ cup sugar, beaten egg and, cinnamon, cloves (if used) and salt. Add to sponge and beat in the ¼ teaspoon amount of spices) and the dried fruit and 2 cups of the second amount of flour. Mix as well as you can in bowl. Sprinkle board with remaining ½ cup flour, turn dough out on board and knead for 100 times. Replace in greased bowl, butter the top, and allow to rise until doubled-covered. This requires 1 to 1½ hours. Keep covered temperature at 80 deg. Fahr. Turn dough out on lightly floured board. Knead it down and cut in half. Roll each half under your palms into a roll and cut into 9 equal uniform pieces — making 18 balls in all. Turn under your palms and place on greased baking sheets 2" apart. Mark deep cross on each with back of knife. Let rise until light and doubled — about 45 minutes in 1 hour. (Bakeries put their yeast products to rise in a "proofing cabinet". You can improvise by placing a large shallow pan containing boiling water in your unheated oven! Put in pans of buns and let rise until light in the humid atmosphere. Remove from oven before turning on heat.) Bake at 400 deg. Fahr. for 15 to 18 minutes but when baked just still pale and interwoven with slightly beaten egg white to glaze and return to oven to brown lightly. Cool on cake rack. When buns are cold mix together ¾ cup sifted icing sugar, 1 tablespoon warm milk and ½ teaspoon vanilla and pour in fine stream from spoon over tops of buns to form cross.

Mary and Ella decided to sell tasty beverages at both ends of the bazaar grounds, thus saying: "Lemonade ... 10 cents!" were placed at their tables and they were in business. And excited about it.

Soon many customers were moving from booth to booth. As they passed Mary's table, she would look up hopefully. When an occasional shopper asked for lemonade she served it delightedly.

But there were many attractions to claim their interest and often the shoppers did not notice Mary and her modest display.

Meanwhile, Ella was doing a land-office business. As folks drew near she took the cares of their missing her. She would call out in her hearty tones: "Would you like a drink of ice-cold lemonade?"

At the mere suggestion many stopped in their tracks and bought. If they hesitated, she would add: "It's very good. We made it with real lemons. We squeezed them all morning!" And that usually did it!

She chatted with all who came. If her words failed to persuade them, her bright smile succeeded in it. She was never out of lemonade and racing to the other end of the grounds for reinforcements from Mary, who still had a large part of her supply remaining.

So they joined forces. Mary moved over to Ella's table and worked as server of beverages, while Ella drew in the customers by her merry call. Their wares were all gone in two hours.

SALESLADY-TO-BE

The bazaar chairman, who had noted Ella's performance, remarked to Ella's assistants: "Now there's a real saleslady in the making!"

And that she is! Ella had what it took to sell. She loved talking to people; and she was enthusiastic about what she was selling. She was not hampered by the timidity that had prevented Mary from speaking up boldly.

For selling is not just pouring out a drink and taking the money. It is really putting an article in a bag and handing back the change. It is a little more than that.

It requires an interest in the other fellow and his needs. It requires a belief in the desirability of the product or service which is being sold and interest enough to learn the historical facts about it.

Above all it means service with a smile— if the saleslerk is giver going to get anywhere. It means a way of handling from a crosspatch or a dull old lunkhead who doesn't even want to make friends! It was Ella's smile and that infectious desire to be friendly and helpful which attracted the buyers.

Are you one of those who sells tickets to the school play with scarcely a smile, and have a hand in the money-making ventures of your church group? Do you make the

Mr. and Mrs. W. Fox Happily Wed 60 Years

Today marks the diamond wedding anniversary for Willoughby and Zella (nee Thompson) Fox of the first concession of Ameliasburg. They live on the same land on which Mr. Fox was born and on which he built a house for his bride from Picton in 1902.

They were married in the Rednersville parsonage 60 years ago by the Reverend R. Bamforth. A son, the late Earle Fox of Belleville, was the only child. Leo Fox of Ottawa is the couple's only grandchild.

The distance between them and their family does not worry the Foxes, however, for they are very happy where they are thanks to having a "wonderful" neighbors." When they wish to travel, Mr. Fox gets out the family car and they motor. They enjoy driving, having been a mechanic during his younger years, and prides himself on never having had an accident. Long trips, such as to Ottawa, however, Mrs. Fox prefers to travel by train.

During these 60 years of married life the Foxes have never had any serious misunderstanding. The secret for this might be found in Mrs. Fox's policy of never discussing something of her husband until the time was right and she was pretty sure he would do just what she wanted, Mr. Fox had little comment to make on this but his surprised look at this statement was worth a thousand words.

The Foxes have many friends this afternoon and will welcome visitors between 7.00 and 9.00 o'clock. Arrangements for the anniversary celebrations were arranged by their neighbors.

Emmanuel Baptist Church Dedicated in Solemn Service

By MRS. M. B. WEESE

With bright skies overhead, and warm sunshine streaming through the frosted windows of Emmanuel Baptist Church into every corner of the same, one felt conscious of God's spiritual blessing and good will at this dedication service.

The dedication of this new church marks another milestone in the spiritual and family life in this community.

Attending the morning and evening service and signing the guest book, were the guest speakers, ministers and their wives from many denominations (it as well as relatives and friends of those who had worked so faithfully that their dreams have been realized.

In his welcome, the minister, the Reverend Eric Quirk, B.A., used these words: "This is the house of God. You enter this church, not as a stranger, but as a guest of your Heavenly Father. Come in that you may worship and feel His presence. Go forth that you may serve and know His Blessings."

The opening hymn, "Praise My Soul, the King of Heaven, To His Feet Thy Tribute Bring" with Mrs. B. Hamilton as organist, was followed by the invocation prayer by the pastor and the responsive reading Psalm 122.

Mrs. Diana Woolly, guest soloist, contributed two numbers, while Mr. S. Whitaker led in a prayer of dedication. The Scripture lesson was read by Dr. A. Arthur.

The presentation took place with the extension committee chairman, Mr. E. A. Orr, reading: "With deep gratitude to Almighty God, we are assembled within this church. We have come to this high moment through the vision and concern of fellow men who have sown seeds, and through the devotion of those who have maintained the witness of prayer. By the love and the courage of those who have ventured forward in faith. We gather that Emmanuel Baptist Church is now a reality, and rejoice that the building we house 'this young church is ready for use in the Master's service. I now request the architect to present the key."

Mr. Paul Wiegand, of Watson and Wiegand, called upon Mr. Hugh Murrey, the builder, to bring forward the key who, in turn, handed it to Mr. G. A. Gordon, the trustee, who on behalf of the trustee board, accepted it.

The dedication service was most solemn and impressive. The minister's address: "God, our heavenly Father, having by His grace brought to the consummation their work of building a house for the worship of His name, and with those walls prayer is to be offered; the gospel to be preached; His ordinances to be administered and His praises sung, we are now gathered for the purpose of dedicating it to its proper and sacred use to the glory of God, the Father, who has called us by His grace—to the glory of His Son, who loved us and gave Himself for us, and to the glory of His Holy Spirit."

This was followed by the reading of the various duties and obligations of the church and of life in the congregation (standing) replied to the charge: "We do dedicate this House."

Following the hymn, "The Church's One Foundation," Mr. Quirk introduced the guest speaker, Dr. N. E. Parker, principal of McMaster University, who spoke on "The Early Christian Church," meeting in the Upper Room, with no plans for building, yet witnessing daily from the teachings of Christ.

During the afternoon "open house" visitors wandered from room to room, and in friendly fellowship enjoyed a cup of tea and cookies, served by the ladies of the church.

EVENING SERVICE

The evening service, one of thanksgiving and rejoicing, was combined with Victoria Avenue Baptist church, and opened with soft music by Mr. William Connor guest organist and a number of hymns led by Mr. Arthur Wynn.

A period of thanksgiving was led by Mr. N. L. Orr with the congregation standing and responding with, "We give Thanks and we rejoice".

A most impressive prayer of thanksgiving was given by Dr. C. Dondale which opened with "Our Father which art in heaven" and closed with "Grant that our every act, affection, each for the other may to deepen in Thee that we shall call that thankfulness for friendship and the anticipation of Thy kingdom on earth".

The dedication service greetings were read from Mr. D. Young and Mrs. Eastmen, Dorothy and Ruth, messages of interest that she late Reverend Mr. Eastman did not with those who were now here.

THANKSGIVING ADDRESS

Dr. Parker's address was one of thanksgiving on "Give Thanks Unto God" for the numerous blessings we enjoy; for our heritage of freedom and justice and, above all, for Our Christian faith and hope for the future". A hymn and the benediction closed the service.

The beautiful basket of flowers at the entrance hall was presented by Victoria Avenue Baptist Church; the tall standards of white, yellow and crimson 'mums by the chancel were the gift of the architect and builder; and the centre of the table on the table by the designer of flowers, Mrs. C. Ayre.

An outstanding event in the new church will take place on Tuesday evening when the Trent Valley Association will accept the new church body into the Baptist convention of Ontario and Quebec. The president, the Reverend Emlyn Davies D. D. will be the speaker of the evening. All Baptists are invited to attend.

Why Do Girls 'Go Wrong'?

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS:—I have followed your column quite faithfully and often I have used some of your articles for health class.

What causes teen-age girls to get into trouble? What can a girl do after she finds herself pregnant and unmarried? Should she be forced to marry the father of the child?—GRADE ELEVEN TEACHER.

DEAR TEACHER:—She does it because: (1) she wants to "get back at" her parents; (2) she sees other girls doing it; (3) she craves affection; (4) she does not have the self-discipline to control her feelings; (5) she does not know how to protect herself; or (6) an unscrupulous man has taken advantage of her.

Her best move is to seek the help of a trained social worker in a recognized child care agency. Such a practitioner knows best how to help her make plans for herself and her child.

No marriages should ever be forced. Unless the two young people have a real chance for happiness in joining up for life, it is folly to add this second terrible mistake to the first one. What chance does the baby have in a loveless marriage, doomed before it takes place?

For answers to your other questions and for helpful literature, write again, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

DEAR DORIS:—Have you any suggestions for games and variety dances a mixed group of around seventeen years would be interested in?

I have found that so many games require too much explanation or do not keep everyone's interest up for very long.—TOPSY.

DEAR TOPSY:— Don't expect any game to last. Twenty minutes to half an hour is loads of time. Have several up your sleeve.

I am sending you the name of a book of party games which will help. It also has a section on Social Dancing Aids, some of which can be hilarious.

DEAR DORIS:—I am going to celebrate my 25th wedding anniversary soon and would like to have friends join me for the evening. Should I have a cocktail party or an "At 8 o.'?" What should be served as refreshments? Should I send out invitations or phone personally, and should I mention my anniversary? Should I personally write invitations or send printed ones?—GRATEFUL

DEAR GRATEFUL:—From 5.00 p.m. on an At Home may take the form of a cocktail party, tea or buffet supper.

Invitations may be engraved, handwritten or telephoned, according to the formality of the occasion. They may or not mention the occasion.

A sample might read:

"To celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary of their marriage" might be inserted in a line to follow "At Home".

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Mr. H.K. — A mother should lead her daughter, not be led around by the nose!

Mrs. H.K. — She wants to look older and I agree with her.

Mrs. H.K. — A father is not supposed to butt in too much concerning his daughter's clothing. He just looks over the cash. The rest is between the girl and her mother, usually. But I admit, when up and down the way my wife permits our 13-year-old to dress, instead of talking her out of her ideas for looking like an 18-year-old model, my wife gives in to the child's every whim.

Joyce is small, even for an 11-year-old. Imagine how it'll look in short tight skirts, lipstick, high piled high hair. Zowie! My wife would be doing Joyce a favor, to insist that she grow up naturally, look it her age. What's the hurry? Instead of wanting to be the mother of a teen-ager, my wife wants Joyce to look like one now. The high heels, girdles and bra-cut dresses, are disgusting.

Mrs. H.K. — I know what I'm doing. I know where to draw the line with Joyce. For example, at cocktail parties; I let her feel like one of the group that her marital is made of ginger ale with a cherry in it. But if I dressed her the way her father would like, she would look like six or seven. And if she wore little-girl fashions she could not move around with her best friends, who happen to be girls of 13 and 14.

Henry should see things straight. Joyce is bored with kids her own age. She is very bright and fits in fine with older girls. But they won't associate with her if she looks like their kid sister. What's the crime if I help her look like one of them? My husband should face the fact that Joyce is advanced both mentally and socially. We must help her reach her own level.

The Council: Poor Joyce! According to the actuarial tables she has at least six decades to go, probably seven —and all of them in girdles! We echo Mr. K.: "What's the hurry?"

There's no denying that the in-between age is hard. The 11-year-old isn't nearly as cute a child ("just a kid" to the teenagers) and being an almost-adult ("a preadolescent" to the little ones). But it is a legitimate age, not to be ploughed under. It has its own glories and prerogatives. Some day in Joyce's life, Joyce may wish her mother had made her expendable special treats of preadolescence, instead of wishing her handicap into the teens, years before she calendar placed her there.

It can be an age far from the mirror! After the morning washup and hair-comb, Joyce might be free to delve into library instead of fashion magazines, to really throw on blue-jeans and like it instead of collecting crooners' autographs. But to "like" is not her choice, nor she must reject the naturalness which is her birthright as a child, and cover herself with an unbecoming veneer of sophistication.

Of course, the big girls don't want to be seen with a baby. Joyce, however, is neither a baby nor a big girl. Among the middle of kids is a rare boat, surely Joyce and her friends can get social graces mingling soul mates with whom Joyce can be her honest self.

We agree with Mr. K. However, as a practical matter now that Joyce has adopted grown-up wear, we'd suggest letting her wardrobe stand, but toning down the extreme of conformity necessary to "belong." Both Joyce and Mrs. K., perhaps with help from the school, should slow up and look closely at the 10, 11 and 12-year-olds who may be just as advanced, though not as impatient as Joyce. We've met youngsters in this age group who, through their reading, thinking and experiencing are stimulating and rare companions. They may not be up on the latest hairdo or the meaningless words of the top-ten teen-twists. That can wait for tomorrow.

Mrs. K. is hastening her daughter as though there's no tomorrow!

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

GOOD HANDWRITING IS A BUSINESS ASSET

Bad handwriting is not necessarily a sign of bad manners, but it doesn't rarely meet a cultured person who doesn't have good handwriting.

Handwriting, after all, is a basic form of communication. You can say it poorly or well, depending on your literary style, but it ought to be understood.

Children's tracks across a sheet of paper may have some meaning to their teacher and parents. But since writing is mostly a people-to-people activity, legibility is as much a social grace as talking clearly.

Like other social graces, good handwriting tends to create a favorable impression in business life as well as in other circles. More and more employers are judging prospective employees by their handwriting — in addition to speech, clothes and manners.

There's a good reason for this. According to Wesley E. Scott, handwriting consultant for the Sheaffer Pen Company, American business loses millions of dollars annually because of illegible writing.

Department stores particularly suffer because sales clerks misread illegible order slips. Recently I heard of an oil company truck that pumped hundreds of gallons of fuel oil into the basement of an empty building at 110 X Avenue, when the delivery should have been made to 770 X Avenue. A careless scribbler at the office was the culprit.

Scott believes that good handwriting, like good manners, begins in elementary school and he is encouraged by the revived emphasis on proper writing habits in schools across the country. Currently, along with Sheaffer, he is supervising corrective handwriting courses for more than 20,000 students in 38 Philadelphia secondary schools.

Where does it go off key? Well, illegible handwriting results from any one or more of these 10 basic faults in writing the letters of the alphabet: irregular slant, poor spacing, inconsistent size, bad alignment, thin or poorly formed loops, crooked backhand, bad closings, uneven roundings, wandering retraced and fancy endings.

Application and patience are the keys to good penmanship. The five basic characteristics of good writing are slant, size, alignment, spacing and letter formation.

Holding the pen properly is the first step to legible handwriting. Hold the pen lightly, because a tightly-held pen will result in cramped writing. The point of the pen should be towards the left shoulder (if you're right-handed), the paper tilted so that the long edge is about parallel to your writing arm.

Forget about speed when you're writing. Concentrate on legibility. The results of fast writing too often are partially formed letters, such as carelessly dotted "i's," and "t's" that are scarcely distinguishable from "e's." Another habit that contributes to bad writing is looping the "t's" so they look like "l's."

There are other easy paths to good handwriting — more than can be mentioned here. If you would like to receive a free booklet on how to improve your penmanship, send me your name and address, care of this newspaper, marking your request "Handwriting."

Focus on Health

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

This week: Cancer — and what that dread word means in 1963.

Perhaps the most fearsome shadow that falls across human life is cancer. Each this year—today—that shadow is lightened and the outlook against cancer is more hopeful than it has ever been.

You could hear and feel that hope in the hold new reports on cancer treatment, experiment and study released this month by scientists at the American Cancer Society's seminar at Phoenix, Ariz.

Listen to what they had to say:

Dr. John Heller, head of Memorial Sloan - Kettering Cancer Centre, New York—Almost two of three persons who get cancer can be teamed at them and they still slowly wither/leaving normal tissue to take over the function of living.

New methods were described for aiming radiation into deep-seated tumors of the brain.

New glimpses into the factors that lead to cancer were seen. One scientist showed evidence that cancer-causing chemicals—such as the products of smoke and charring—enter the lungs, are given through the stomach and cause cancer in far-removed areas of the body.

HORMONE IMBALANCE

More work, tracing the action of hormones in the body and with cath other, tended to show that possible hormone imbalance might set up a situation that causes change of tissues toward cancer.

So the reports went. Even the most cautious attempt to carry the hopeful notion that "there is a crack of light" and the way out may be in this direction.

In the last session of the meeting, Dr. Bertil Bjorklund of Sweden told of the search for a common agent to stimulate immunity to cancer. He has already begun injecting that agent into humans, a hopeful beginning test of a vaccine.

Those attending the meeting got the feeling that it was one of the most hopeful yet—that there were short-term hopes that more people could be saved, that there were long-term hopes that cancer itself might be defeated.

Only 25 years ago, only one in seven cancer patients could be saved. Today, one in three is the cure rate—and two in three is possible, some believe, with the best use of today's knowledge.

Cancer Talk Given at Pinegrove W.I.

MARSH HILL — The March meeting of Pine Grove W.I. was held at the home of Mrs. Harold Detlor with 10 members and one visitor present.

Mrs. Charles Ross, the president, called the meeting to order.

The correspondence was read which included a letter from the Provincial president, Mrs. Lymburner and also a letter from Canadian Association of Consumers concerning action of Consumers concerning action to the bulletin.

During the business it was decided to renew the subscription to the C.A.C. bulletin and also a donation is to be made to the Red Cross. Conveners of the standing committees reported.

Mrs. Fred Campbell read an article from the Country Woman magazine written by the area vice - president of A.C.W.W. and Mrs. Charles Ross read an article on "Fenzies for Friendship". Mrs. Don Irish gave interest sweets asking each member to give an item. Mrs. Gary Duyzer, convener of health standing committee, presided over the program and it followed in a short sing-song.

Mrs. Duyzer called on Mrs. Bazil Kuglin who spoke to the members on cancer.

What is cancer? It is a new growth of tissue cells, normally any organ is composed of cells and tissues which conform to a definite pattern of growth. These new growths multiply abnormally. They serve no purpose and are detrimental to body function.

There are two groups benign and malignant. The benign growths grow slowly, by expansion pushing tissues aside. It does not spread to other parts of the body. It does not destroy vital tissues around it and will not weaken the body. This growth will not recur if removed and is not fatal unless located where it will damage a vital organ such as the brain.

The malignant growths grow rapidly, and grow into the tissues surrounding it like a claw. They destroy surrounding tissue and weaken the body. It usually re-occurs if removed because of the claw like infiltration.

The malignant growths are accompanied by various types of discharge.

There are several known causes of cancer and also danger signs such as: any sore which does not heal; any lump or thickning in the breast or elsewhere; unusual bleeding or discharge; any change in a wart or mole; persistent indigestion or difficulty in swallowing; persistent hoarseness or cough; and a change in normal bowel habits.

There are three ways of controlling cancer after it has been diagnosed: by medications; by surgery and by radiation therapy.

There are two reasons why patients do not go to the doctor early — fear and ignorance. If people are educated it will lead to useful action rather than panic.

Mrs. Kuglin showed two interesting films on cancer, "Traitor Within," and "Self Examination". This was followed by a question and answer period.

Mrs. Duyzer thanked Mrs. Kuglin for her most informative address and also for showing the films.

The meeting was brought to a close after which the hostess assisted by Mrs. Kuglin, Gwenda Detlor and Linda Finkle served refreshments and a social half hour was spent.

Women's Activities

W.M.S. - L.A.

IVANHOE — The regular monthly meeting of the St. Andrew's W.M.S. and Ladies' Aid met at the home of Mrs. Harry Benson, recently.

Mrs. David Fargey presided over the fun program, which opened with the Scripture reading Psalm 71 by Mrs. Tuinman. After which a short business session was conducted. Mrs. Donnan read "Learn to live as well as make a living." Mrs. William Donnan gave two readings, "God's Love for the Whole World" and "He Knocks" and Mrs. Arthur Hassall rendered a piano selection. Miss Patsy Benson favored with a solo, "O Come in Childhood Sunny Hour". The meeting was concluded with a reading "He Leadeth Me", by Mrs. Barton Hagerman.

Mrs. Lindsay Sills voiced appreciation thanks to the hostess, the program committee and to those who had contributed to the program.

Mrs. John McInroy conducted a contest, after which refreshments were served.

DEFIES FRENCH

PARIS (Reuters) — Prince Rainier of Monaco is reported to be defying French demands for an end to special economic privileges which have allegedly turned his tiny principality into a "beachhead" for foreign penetration of the European Common Market. The French argued that Monaco, with its lenient tax laws, has become a "haven for capital" seriously threatening some sectors of French industry.

FORD FAIRLANE

FAIRLANE IS THE NEW STANDARD SIZE FORD!

What is a standard size car? You know about the big cars; you know all about the compacts. You may or may not know that now there is a new standard size car—and the leader in this new class of car is the Fairlane. It' fits right between the big cars and the compacts. Fairlane is a foot longer than the average compact . . . and a foot shorter than the average big car. Fairlane's wheelbase is 6.1 longer than the average compact—just 3.5 inches shorter than that of a big car. In terms of interior roominess, Fairlane is as large as many big cars of a few short years ago. And it gives you Ford's famous Twice-a-Year Maintenance features that most other cars lack completely! Price? Fairlane actually costs less than some of the compacts. Test drive this new standard size Ford. Get the feel of it. Like most people, you'll probably feel that it's just right for you—in every way.

Albert Lowder, West Lake, Builds Large Fishing Boat

PICTON — Believed to be the largest boat built in Prince Edward County in many years is a fishing craft constructed for commercial fisherman Stanley Rankin of Cherry Valley by Albert Lowder of West Lake, 10 miles west of Picton. The boat is of all-steel construction and is 36 feet in length, with an 11.1-2 foot beam. It is powered by an Allis Chalmers Buda diesel motor. Mr. Rankin designed the three-ton-capacity boat, which is named "The B.J." It will be stationed at the Salmon Point fishing harbor.

Work on "The B.J." began at a new shop building shop on the Lowder farm, Ridge Road, on Jan. 15th. It was launched in the Outlet River Monday and is now being made ready for its maiden voyage to its Lake Ontario destination.

Mr. Lowder has an order for 11 all-steel 14-foot boats and plans to expand his new business by manufacturing other steel products as well. He had previously built a 22-foot boat for a Niagara Falls fisherman. "Steel is ideal for a rough duty boat — it will stand up to rocky shores and ice better than other surfaces and will not rot", the builder said.

A resurgence in boat building is now taking place in Prince Edward County. Once famed as the birthplace of sailing ships, the demise of the wind-propelled vessels spelling the doom of the industry. At the present time, however, at Milford two commercial fishermen, brothers Raymond and Melbourne McIntosh, have a crew of six welders building steel boats.

They have four 30, 25 and 22-foot boats under construction and have orders for several more.

A thriving pleasure craft operation is located at Bayeres, Big Island, under management of Al Owen and son David. There are also numerous individuals engaged in the craft in various sections of the county.

Keep Good Ear Turned Toward Transmission

By EUGENE B. MILMOE

You've probably heard it many times — low fluid level accounts for many automatic transmission troubles, such as slip, erratic shifting, overheating, etc.

These conditions are not always noticed, so the car is often goes uncorrected. Meanwhile, performance and economy really suffer, and expensive repairs threaten the car owner's budget. On the other hand, the driver may have been lucky enough to have done a bit of love listening and decided to investigate.

Only certain transmission noises, of course, are caused by low fluid — buzzing, whining, ringing are the most common, but if you keep alert for these, chances are you will be immediately aware of any other abnormal noises which signal transmission troubles. If you detect chatter, hum, click, growl, whistle, grind, rubbing or clunking sounds from the transmission, you may be sure it's time to see a mechanic.

From S.P.: What causes my brake to stick? They don't release immediately when I lift my foot from the brake pedal.

(A) Many conditions can cause this, such as: improper adjustment, binding pedal linkage, clogged bypass port in master cylinder, or defective master cylinder piston spring. You probably need a brake man to pinpoint the trouble.

B.L. asks: Why, when a car is going downhill and the driver takes his foot off the gas pedal, do you see so much smoke from the exhaust?

(A) This exhaust smoke is from oil which is sucked into the combustion chambers when the throttle is suddenly closed.

C.H. writes: I'm puzzled by your advice about pulling out of a skid — "steer in same direction as the skid." If the car rear starts sliding to the right, should one wheel be turned right or left?

(A) Cut wisely to the right. Swinging toward the left would throw you into a spin.

From S.Z.: I had a '56 6-cylinder sedan which took regular gas. It was stolen, and I recently bought another '56 six — but not the same make. It hasn't been running right, and the dealer suggests I try premium. Does this sound right?

(A) Not unless their is an abnormal amount of carbon formation in your present engine. Both '59's, when new, required only regular gas.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By WINIFRED WILSON

Many bird lovers when asked to name their favorite species instantly say, "song sparrow" — and no wonder. Coming as it does in very early spring, its sprightly, cheerful song warms our hearts.

In spite of the fact that no two song sparrows ever sing identical songs, this bird is one of the very easiest to recognize by its voice. There seems to be a distinctive quality, difficult to define, but unmistakable to anybody at all familiar with bird music. Perhaps the words "bright, musical, sweet" would best describe it — yet these might equally apply to many other songs.

Pattern and pitch vary with the individual, but there is always pure sweetness. The character of the music is always the same. The song, given from a fence post or high branch, generally (though not always) starts with three identical notes, followed by several very rapid notes that form a trill. Then the individual is off on his own private tune — reminding us of the cadenza in a concerto. Sing Beautifully

Many kinds of birds sing beautifully at nesting time, at dawn or dusk, in fine weather. The song sparrow is noted for singing almost any month of the year, day or night at certain seasons, in sunshine or in rain. What a thrill when we hear those three clear, piping notes on a wet March morning, or at midnight in May!

How often have you come upon a sparrow of some sort hopping about in the brush and wondered what kind it could be — until it turned and faced you, showing the little dark spot in the centre of the breast? Then you knew for sure that this was "only another song sparrow". In flight it may be recognized by its long, rounded tail that is so frequently bobbed up and down.

May have stayed

The little fellow you first notice in spring may have wintered in your locality, because a few regularly remain the entire twelve months in the north of our province; nearest our southern neighbours. In his home making is not begun until somewhat milder weather than is usual in March or even April.

Song sparrows often bring up two broods. The first nest is generally placed on the ground, mixed up with the old grass from the previous year. The cup is formed with grass, leaf stems and weeds, and is lined with hair. The second nest is more often found in a thick bush or young cedar, several feet from the ground. Why? Your guess is as good as anybody's.

Communists Leaders Step Up Anti-Religion Campaign

By ROBERT ELPHICK

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Soviet Communist leaders have stepped up their anti-religion campaign and teams of atheists are being trained all over the country to do battle for the souls of citizens who still believe in God.

The Communist party defines all religious belief as a "superstitious survival of the past" and believes every problem has a scientific solution.

The Russian Orthodox church is still tolerated and allowed to keep a few churches open. But no priest is allowed to try to win converts. When a layman attempts to spread the Christian faith, he is liable to run afoul of the law.

Newspapers publish articles designed to ridicule priests and all their preachings. But most of the atheistic ardor is directed against "sectarians," a term which includes Baptists, Seventh-day Adventists, Jehovah's Witnesses, Pentecostals and a sect known as the "Shakers."

Several of the more extreme sects teach children to refuse to sing Communist songs and to avoid military conscription, mandatory for every Soviet citizen.

JAIL SECTARIANS

Soviet officials always deny that the anti-religious campaign is inspired by the state, saying the campaign is the result of "public opinion."

The new campaign takes its cue from the Communist party program and sets as a paramount task the education of everyone according to Communist ideals and the rooting out of all "bourgeois views and morals."

Recently, in the central Asian republic of Tadjikistan, a new team of atheists was formed to lecture on bringing up children as atheists.

The team descended on a village near Moscow, packed 150 "believers" into a bus and returned to the capital to listen to an anti-religious lecture by a former priest.

TREE TAPPING — Mechanical boring equipment has taken over in some sugar bushes, but Garnet Denyer, Plainfield, still uses brace and bit for tapping sugar maples.

SUGAR SHANTY — Use of horses and sleighs is still most convenient method of gathering sap in Quinte district sugar bushes. Here is seen sugar shanty on farm of Mr. Denyes at Plainfield with hired men Irvine Park and Frad Outwater readying to unload sap at shanty.

SAP BOILING — Traditional sap evaporator is seen being stoked by Mr. Denyes who augments fuel supply by burning old tires and binder twine. Columns of steam rising from boiling sap are characteristic of the sap shanty. Regulated flow of sap enters pan in foreground and is run off at far end as finished syrup.

Warm days and cool nights with lots of snow still in the bush.

That is the happy combination of weather which this year is expected to result in a good maple syrup season.

Garnet Denyes of Plainfield is one of the few farmers in the Bay of Quinte district who still carries on the maple syrup making tradition which if changed but little from the days of the pioneers.

True, metal spiles have taken the place of wooden ones and evaporators have ousted the old fashioned pole and kettle. But the technique is the same and it goes without saying that the finished product — syrup or sugar — has the same maple flavor as that made three or four generations ago.

Mr. Denyes this year has approximately 900 maples tapped in his bush on the east side of the Moira River directly opposite the village of Plainfield. And until the sap stops running and the buckets are stored for another year the eight-hour day will be out of place at the Denyes household.

TAPPED MARCH 16

Mr. Denyes tapped on March 16 and 17th and did his first boiling the following Monday.

"The snow is still deep in the woods — something unusual in the Bell' ville area after the syrup season starts.

For Mr. Denyes syrup making has changed but little since his first introduction to the sugar bush when he was a lad of 14 years.

Tapping is still gone with the brace and bit and sap gathering is done with a team of horses and sleighs. And the evaporator in which the sap is boiled into syrup is the same one with which he started syrup making 35 years ago.

Another thing which hasn't changed is the amount of fuel it takes to boil the sap down into syrup. It takes approximately 40 gallons of sap to make a gallon of syrup and that means a lot of boiling — and a lot of fuel.

Years ago fuel was not such a problem with lots of rails, and other wood on the average farm.

PICTURE CHANGED

But today the picture is changed and wood represents money whether the farmer himself gets it together or whether slabwood is purchased from the sawmills.

To augment the fuel supply, Mr. Denyes burns discarded rubber tires and for a quick fire even burns binder twine, today used in large quantities on almost every farm for hay baling operations.

Both the rubber tires and the binder twine give a quick and hot fire for boiling. Some syrup makers use soft coal for fuel.

Sap boiling is a progressive operation with the raw sap moving progressively through the big sap pan and through the two smaller syrup pans. When the syrup reaches a certain temperature or thickness it is run off and strained through heavy felt syrup strainers. The making of maple sugar calls for continued boiling past the syrup stage.

When the sap season is over the buckets have to be taken in and washed. Then along with other evaporator equipment they are stored to be taken out again next spring.

But most maple syrup lovers see only the finished product as it is offered on the local market or in stores.

Maple syrup and pancakes — Yummy.

Soviet Cities Now Equipped With Shelters

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Soviet cities now are equipped with nuclear bomb shelters but there are no signs that any new program to effect a hydrogen bomb attack is under way.

The underground system appears to have been laid since the Second World War and to be designed to provide protection against atomic rather than hydrogen bomb attacks.

Evidence of the shelter program came to light here only recently following visits by Western observers to an "anti-a Moscow suburb.

The exhibition appeared to have been running for several years for the benefit of military personnel, factory groups and members of a voluntary society that provides military training to civilians.

The exhibition showed that in a construction program after the war builders laid an extensive system of shelters located in Basements of office and apartment buildings. Air was purified by filters and steel doors usually sealed off the shelters.

The exhibition proved what Western observers had long suspected—that the concrete installations about six feet high and four feet across to be seen in several Moscow courtyards were in fact the ends of tunnel escape hatches.

But the exhibition, which also outlined measures of combatting radiation, provided no proof that the Soviet Union was still engaged in a massive nuclear shelter program.

Western observers have seen no evidence of shelter construction on the new housing developments going up in and around the capital.

Soviet leaders and even Mrs. Nina Khrushchev have frequently insisted that shelters against nuclear attack are useless.

Man Claims He Was Sent By Communists to Help Organize Mine-Mill Local

TORONTO (CP) — The CBC broadcast a television program Sunday night in which a man claimed he was introduced by the Canadian Communist party to the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (Ind.), then was sent to Thompson, Man., to help organize a Mine-Mill local.

Walter Kazmaar, an immigrant from an unnamed European country, declared a Communist group later was formed in Thompson for the purpose of influencing the union local.

The statements were carried on the program Close-Up. Kazmar's charges were denied by Ken Smith, Mine-Mill national president, and other union officials appearing on the program.

Bill Claus, a member of the pro-tem Mine - Mill executive board at Thompson in 1960, admitted to membership in the Communist group and declared some other members — he wouldn't say how many — were also on the union board. He declined, however, that the club had effective control of the Thompson local.

Charges of Communist domination of Unifitration have been hurled periodically at Mine-Mill, which the United Steelworkers of America (CLC) currently is trying to displace from bargaining rights at International Nickel Company installations in Thompson and Sudbury.

It was stated on the program by Kazmar came to the Close-Up offices nine weeks ago to tell of his Mine-Mill experiences, and that he had sworn out an affidavit, portions of which were read during the program.

Kazmar said on the program he met "these people" they were not specifically identified) and "they told me that Mine-Mill was requesting some people from the LPP (Labor-Progressive Party, which later changed its name to Communist Party of Canada) and the Polish Club and other ethnic clubs too—that they can send some men with experience in the labor movement or some trade union or somebody who's willing to do some job to organize a new union in Thompson, Man."

Kazmar said he was not then a Communist although he joined the party later at Thompson. He said he took the offer simply because he wanted a job.

He said he and several others went to see Smith in April, 1960, in Toronto, "and we gave him the note from the LPP that we're the men sent up by the party, you know, on his disposal like for this Thompson plan. . . ."

Claus said he was one of the group but had not knowledge of any letter. Smith denied any such letter was received by him or his office.

". . . Whether they (the men) were sent or not, I wouldn't know but I know I did not and I'm sure that no other officer of the Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers requested that anyone be sent from the LPP or any other political party," Smith said.

Use of New Sabin Oral Polio Vaccine Rolling to Cautious Start in Canada

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The use of the new Sabin oral polio vaccine is rolling to a cautious start in Canada.

In most provinces, use of the vaccine—developed by Dr. Albert Sabin of Cleveland—is merely "under consideration."

Only Saskatchewan, Manitoba and Quebec have announced plans for full-scale use of the vaccine immediately.

In other areas, the reaction was varied—including consideration only in emergency in Prince Edward Island, British Columbia's plan to leave the "oral-or-needle" choice up to the individual and Ontario's proposal to use the Sabin vaccine as a booster to needle-administered Salk vaccine.

The Canadian Press, in a cross-Canada survey, found initial acceptance being general through the western and central provinces, with the Atlantic provinces less enthusiastic.

By regions, the situation appeared like this:

Atlantic provinces — P.E.I. health officials say the Salk vaccine has been so successful that they feel no need for the oral vaccine; Nova Scotia says its use is being considered, but that no action will depend on how much will be available; Newfoundland says an oral vaccine campaign is being planned; New Brunswick is considering its use in certain areas with a decision set for May 1.

West — Alberta reports no consideration of an oral program yet; B.C. officials say citizens will have a choice of either shots or oral vaccine this year. In either case, it's free to everyone under 40 years of age; Manitoba will launch a community immunization program in May to provide free Sabin vaccine to everyone over six months of age; Saskatchewan, which planned to launch a mass Sabin vaccination program today, has been forced to hold off for a month while initial batches of the vaccine — produced in Canada by Toronto's Connaught Laboratories—are given federal tests.

Central — Quebec plans a mass vaccination program using the new product to begin in a few weeks, it will start on a small scale and increase as the vaccine becomes available; Ontario plans to use the Sabin as a booster to Salk.

When J. Waldo Monteith, federal health minister, announced licensing of the live Sabin vaccine in Canada, he termed it a great medical breakthrough, one which could result in the most complete eradication of paralytic polio.

He said, however, the Salk vaccine still should be used in the four-way shots given infants to protect them against diphtheria, tetanus and whooping cough as well. After the first inoculation, he said oral vaccine should be given.

Federal approval of the Sabin variety came following the test. ing of more than 25,000 persons in Saskatchewan, Manitoba, Quebec and Nova Scotia during the last year.

Distribution will be handled through the provincial health authorities.

COST SHARED

Cost will be shared 50-50 by federal and provincial governments. Last year the Salk program cost $12,500,000.

Dr. Matthew Dymond, Ontario's health minister, said the vaccine will be sent free to local health boards, for administration by local health department staffs in the beginning.

"Until the supply is unlimited, we will have to restrict the distribution in this way."

Already the new vaccine has been the focal point of a controversy—between Dr. Dymond and Dr. Sabin.

The man who developed the vaccine said it should be used by everyone in the community, not just as a booster for Salk and that the Ontario health minister would be responsible for every polio case in the province this summer if it was not used this way.

Dr. Dymond countered with an accusation of "most unprofessional" conduct on the part of Dr. Sabin and said Ontario's program was decided upon after extensive consultation and with the best advice available.

Prove Chilean Is Not Bormann

BERLIN (Reuters)—A fingerprint check has ruled out the possibility that a man detained here carrying two Chilean passports is the notorious Martin Bormann, Hitler's deputy, West Berlin police said today.

The police said they used a set of prints taken 32 years ago from Bormann. Earlier they had said it was thought that no copies of Bormann's prints existed.

A Chilean newspaper had first expressed suspicion that the man, who gave his name as Juan Keller, was Bormann.

One of the passports listed the man's age as 58 and the other as 48. He was detained two weeks ago and has refused to talk to police.

Is the Silver King Overrated?

Everybody, I suppose, has a friend about whom seem places the tarpon. Tarpon atlanticus, the ichthyists call him. But he has a lot of other names — Tarpum, Silverfish, Grande Escalle, Sabalo, etc., to list a few. We think of him as a southern fish but actually his range as far north as Nova Scotia and is fairly common off the Atlantic coastal states as far north as Cape Hatteras, North Carolina. Mostly, however, he is actually fished for in the United States off the west coasts of Florida and in the Gulf of Mexico.

The tarpon is purely a sport fish. Listed as one of the "bony fishes," his flesh is dark in color and quite bloody. In the Bahamas he is used by some of the natives but never in Florida have I heard of anybody trying to eat one of them.

The sports writers of this country have for many years been featuring the tarpon as the king of game fishes. The Silver King, they call him, and countless pictures of him have been published, showing him leaping clear of the water in his frenzied attempt to rid himself of a bothersome hook. Well, he's spectacular, all right — no doubt about that, but his fighting ability for his size leaves something to be desired. Compared with other salt-water game fish, actually the tarpon is a big seagoing pantywaist.

Stock is Tougher

For example, it took me 25 minutes to land a 25-pound snook, using standard tournament fly-rod gear — a 9½ foot fly rod, a Zwarg single-action reel, and a leader tapered to a 2 pound nylon point. On identical tackle I saw my son, Dick, whip a 97 ½ pound tarpon right flat-out on the surface and brought to gaff in 21 minutes. I know because I held a stop watch and timed the fight from strike to gaff. A 97 pound snook on that same rig (if there were such a thing as a 97 pound snook) would take you a week to get him in the boat.

There are several ways to fish for tarpon. Mostly the boys use bait. Out of Everglades, the boat is anchored in a good tarpon cove, the bait cast out and allowed to settle to the bottom, and you sit there and wait for something to happen. In Boca Grande Pass, certainly the tarpon capital of the United States, the current is too strong to anchor, so you drift back, dangle a bait in six or seven fathoms of water.

In Florida Bay, however, the story is quite different. This broad expanse of shallow water is a famous spawning grounds for tarpon and in March and April the migratory schools come in. We don't bother with bait in Florida Bay. There we use fly-rod tackle and stalk our fish. This way, tarpon fishing can be a lot of fun.

Mostly the fish use what the guides call "serious bushes" — actually these are king-size potholes, the bottoms of which are covered with turtle grass. We drift these places, starting at the up-wind side and letting the wind take us slowly across the basins. The angler stands in the prow of the skiff, jacket ready, and both angler and guide watch for tarpon.

Once a likely tarpon is sighted, then the guide must maneuver the boat into casting position. Now, a tarpon has few natural enemies; thus, he is not particularly shy. You can cast a fly fairly close to him without scaring him off. And of all the lures that have been devised for tarpon, the big streamer fly is unquestionably number one.

but he is an absolute patsy for a well-placed and well-handled streamer. Red and white or red and yellow seem to be his favorite colors but we have had excellent luck with the Knight-hawk which has a brown and orange wing.

The strike of a tarpon to a fly is oft very impressive as a rule. He doesn't rare up and smash into it like a smack or a jack crevalle. Instead, he simply rolls up, opens his mouth (which, at that point, looks like a bushel basket) and takes it into camp. Then, as a rule, he will turn and go back to his original position.

Has Bony Mouth

The mouth of a tarpon is a bony affair. You can take a hook, hald in a pair of pliers, and you simply can't punch that hook home anywhere in a tarpon's mouth save in a few places. Where the jaws hinge together there is cartilage and in this the barb can be set. Should the fish move the fly deeply enough, the barb can be set down among the gill. A side from these places, the mouth is tough bone. For this reason, we wait until the tarpon turns and then yank the hook solidly, hoping that the point engages in one of the soft spots.

The first thing a tarpon does when he feels the pull of the hook is to take to the air. I have hooked literally hundreds of them and I have yet to see the exception. Up he goes in full power, mouth open and gills spread, shaking his head to rid himself of that hook. That very trait, I suppose, is what endears him to the heart of the angler. His attack, while not as robust as it might be for his size, certainly is spectacular.

But a tarpon lives quickly. Three or four jumps take a lot out of him. Then, when he is too tired to jump, he will bulldog against the tackle. This means that you must pull him to the boat sideways and that is a chore. After all, he weighs anywhere from 60 to 100 pounds and this weight is much in his favor. Fighting him on light tackle is a real job of work.

Well, I've caught my big-tarpon — 133 pounds. For that one I have my Field and Stream button, worn on my fishing hat, and my Ft. Myers silver trophy also on my hat. Now, when I fish for tarpon, I'm satisfied as long as the big fellow wants to jump; when the bulldogging begins I simply point the rod at the fish and snap the leader. In a week's time his body acids will decompose the hook and he is none the worse for the wear.

Yes, tarpon fishing can be fun. I have done it in all varieties of water and with all kinds of tackle. But the best of it can be found in the shallow waters of upper Florida Bay. There, with a goodly supply of streamer flies and suitable fly-rod gear, you really can find some thrills for your money.

Senior Finals Opener

Bulldogs Nip Maroons

WINDSOR (CP) — Windsor Bulldogs defeated Chatham Maroons 3-1 Sunday and in their best-of-seven series for the senior Ontario Hockey Association championship.

Right-winger Bob Brown, in his first start since returning from the world hockey championships where he played with Canada's Gall Terriers, scored twice to pace the Bulldogs before a crowd of 1,200.

Linemate Tom Walker scored the other Windsor marker while Connor Doyle tallied Chatham's lone goal in a close-checking contest that was more solid than exciting. It ended a 16-day layoff for Windsor after eliminating Stratford. Chatham ousted Strathroy and Woodstock to gain the final.

The teams return to Chatham Monday night for the second game, in fact, they'll play every night this week except Friday, in order to declare a winner to play the Northern Ontario senior representatives Kapuskasing Kaps, next week.

Windsor drew five of the game's nine minor penalties but made good on two Chatham penalties to build a 2-0 lead.

Brown flew in alone midway through the first period to break a scoreless deadlock while Maroons' Bob Seymour served a tripping sentence. Chatham's George Aitken was off early in the middle period when Walker tapped in a loose puck from just outside the crease.

Leyte lashed home a wide pass from defenceman Elmer Skoy to make it 2-1 in the third period but two minutes later at 11:15, Brown, with his back to the net, managed to tip in John Palenizia's long shot.

Booths Meet Joyces In Finals

Booth TV's came up with their best game of the season here last night to whip Napanee Pringle's Falcons 5-0 and earn their way into the Belleville Industrial Hockey League finals against Joyce Real Estate.

Joyces and Booth's will open what should be a nip 'n' tuck best-of-five finals next Sunday night at 6.30.

Napanee protested last night's game on the grounds that Booth defenceman Doug Murray had played OHA hockey this past week with a Picton team. Napanee later withdrew the protest in a telephone conversation with league commissioner Russ Soule.

Murray and goalie Claude Carr admitted they had played briefly with the Picton team, eliminated in two consecutive games by Uxbridge, but said they had done so after receiving permission from Soule.

The TV's were flying going both ways last night and also got a strong game from Carr who earned his second shutout of the year. The win gave Booth's the series two games to one. Napanee is presently taking part in a Napanee league finals.

The clubs battled through 32 minutes of scoreless hockey last night with both goalies standing out before Frank Orris scored what proved to be the only goal that Booth's needed, Kaye Elliott made it 2-0 before the half-way mark and early in the second half, with a Napanee player just coming out of the penalty box, Milt Pukancik upped the lead to 3-0.

Booth's killed off three penalties in a row without damage and the score remained 3-0 until late in the game when Bobby Hughes and Elliott, with his second goal, made it 5-0.

The clubs evenly split six minor penalties but two of Napanee's cost them goals.

Pair Leads $50,000 Tournament

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Paul Bondeson and Bobby Goalby led the year's finest collection of pro golfers into the final round of the $50,000 Doral Country Club Open today, with at least half a dozen others in position to strike for the $9,000 winner's purse.

If the blonde, sunburned Bondeson should come out on top, it would be the most surprising development of 1962. The 22-year-old newcomer won a grand total of $182.50 on the golf circuit before this tournament.

Entering the showdown round Bondeson was tied with Goalby, 10th biggest money winner this year. They were five under par with 54-hole totals of 211.

Bondeson shot a five-under-par 67 in the third round to rocket to the top out of seventh place. Goalby got there with a 72 when the half-way leader, Bill Casper, lost his touch and soared to a 75, eight strokes more than he needed in the second round.

Casper still was only a stroke out of the lead, in a tie with Jack Nicklaus.

Also, in contention were Ted Kroll and Dave Ragan, tied at 214 and Arnold Palmer and Tommy Bolt at 215.

The cutoff point for getting into today's third round was 153 and 94 just made it.

Among those who failed were Stan Leonard of Vancouver, eight-time Canadian PGA champion, and Al Balding of Toronto.

Leonard shot an 81-77 — 158 and Balding a 79-75—154. Other Canadians failing to qualify for the third round were Jack Bissegger, Val Morin, Que., 77-78—155 and Jerry Magee, Toronto, 76-78—154.

Metals Nip Kingston in Hoop Series

Belleville Crawford Metals advanced to the OABA Intermediate "C" Ontario quarter-finals here Saturday night despite dropping 72-71 overtime thriller to Kingston B'nai B'rith.

Crawford went into Saturday's game, the second in a two-game total points-to-count series, holding a slim 55-53 edge. Kingston led at the end of regulation time 66-66, thus tying the series.

A five-minute overtime period was played with Belleville holding a 7-6 margin to capture the round 138-135.

Crawfords will meet a Guelph team in the provincial quarter-finals and the first game will be played here next Saturday night.

Saturday's game at Moira Secondary School gym was a cliff-hanger all the way. The Crawfords took a slim lead early and held it through most of the game. They led by ten points at one time but B'Nai B'rith continued to fight back and finally took the two-point lead to tie the series near the end of regulation play. Crawfords had led 39-35 at half time.

Teddy Batchelor's field goal proved to be the series-winning basket with 21 seconds left to play in the overtime. Batchelor also paced Belleville in the scoring department with 21 points. Bert Faulkner, playing one of his best games of the season, hooped 18 while Don Smith collected 17.

G. Gregson led the Kingston scorers with 23 points, followed by M. Carswell with 19 and Roger Wallers with ten.

Wallers, who paced the Kingston club all season, hooped all of his ten points in the game's first half. The Crawfords put Bill Green on him in the second half and held him pointless. Wallers, and Belleville's Earl Naismith, fouled out of the game with the end of regulation time.

The game was cleanly played most of the way and the clubs came out pretty evenly in the foul-shooting department.

KINGSTON B'NAI BRITH (73): R. Cline 9, R. Wallers 10, C. Martin 6, M. Carswell 19, G. Gregson 23, B. Spencer 5, W. Gargaro, J. Springer, M. Robertson.

BELLEVILLE CRAWFORDS (71): T. Batchelor 21, B. Faulkner 18, B. Green 6, E. Naismith 3, D. Smith 17, D. Skinner 2, M. Carswell 4.

Crothers, Irons Win

Break Two Hoary Marks

HAMILTON (CP) — Toronto runners crossed out two hoary Hamilton armories' track records here Saturday night, including one established 28 years ago on this banked wooden track by the great Glenn Cunningham.

Gill Crothers, long-striding University of Toronto star, beat out Frank Tomeo of Fordham University in the 1,000 yards and lopped more than a second off the 2:12.2 record set in 1934 by Cunningham, the Kansas runner who held the world record for the mile.

Crothers clicked 2:11 in his specialty, which he has won three times in four starts at major American meets during the current indoor season. His best time was 2:07.4 when he finished behind New Zealand's Peter Snell at Los Angeles Feb. 10.

Jim Irons of Toronto Olympic Club edged Ezra Leps of the University of Michigan in the open mile and srated a 15-year-old track record in the process.

His winning 4:10 bettered the 4:10.6 record set here in 1947 by Boston's Gil Dodds, dominant indoor miler of the 1940s. Irons' finishing burst also left behind his more famous fellow Torontonian, Bruce Kidd, who finished third.

Only Two Fatalities In Title Bouts

NEW YORK (AP)—Only two ring fatalities have occurred in world championship fights—the first in 1897 and the last 50 years later.

The last death in a title bout came June 24, 1947, when Jimmy Doyle died of injuries suffered when he was stopped by Sugar Ray Robinson in the eighth round of their battle in Cleveland. Robinson was making the first defence of his 147-pound welterweight crown.

The other fatality on record came in the Jimmy Barry-Walter Croot 20-rounder in London, Dec. 6, 1897, as Barry won undisputed possession of the bantamweight title. Croot died of a brain injury.

There were nine deaths in 1961 attributed to injuries in fights.

CANADIANS TIE CZECHS

GENEVA (CP) — A "Canadians in Europe" hockey team tied 3-3 Saturday night with a Czech team in a special tournament arranged to coincide with the Geneva Motor Show. The Canadians, drawn from Swiss teams, scored a 13-1 victory Friday night over the third tournament entry, a selection from western Switzerland.

HULL TIES RECORD; WINS ROSS TROPHY

Ontario Intelligencer
SPORTS

Sport Slices...

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Last night a tired but happy "Golden Hawk" sheathed his scoring talons, and folded his wings for a two-day respite from rigors of hockey trophy-hunting.

Bobby Hull closed out a sensational season when he joined the charmed two-man circle of seasonal fifty-goal scorers after the Hawks' 4-1 loss to the New York Rangers in Madison Square Garden.

Hull added a record of his own after a fantastic second-half resurgence in which he scored 17 goals in 33 games, by winning the Art Ross Trophy. He is the first National Leaguer to equal the scoring record and win the Art Ross Trophy in the same season. He shares the 1961-62 points championship with the New York Rangers' star, Andy Bathgate. His goal-scoring mark gives him the trophy and its $1,000. Bathgate also picks up a thousand.

Hull started the season as though he were handcuffed and foot-shackled. He blamed a too rigorous training season, and exhibition schedule. But in the second half he found himself. He flashed a meteoric path across the NHL horizon, leaving an array of beaten goalies behind him. He scored four in one game against Detroit.

Hull's consistency was amazing. He relied along getting better than a goal a game until suddenly it dawned on the "experts" of the NHL that equalling or bettering the 50-goal mark held jointly by Rocket Richard and Boom-Boom Geoffrion was not beyond the realm of possibility.

He passed the "forty mark," and friends and foemen alike began the countdown. 40-41-42 and so on as the games were ticked off until Hull came to No. 48, which eluded him. Now it was two games to go with two goals needed to tie the record.

Hull came through handsomely. He whipped No. 49 home in the Montreal Forum Saturday night. Last night came No. 50 and the mark was tied.

Others may equal or even break the present 50-goal-per-season record. But it will be many a year before a youngster yet to celebrate his 24th birthday will be accorded the hero's kudos by equalling or breaking the record and tieing the league scoring champion-ship the same year.

Now it will be interesting to note how the season-end National Hockey League all-star squad lines up. The nonsensical system of selecting a "half-and-way" all-star squad should be tossed out the window.

At the midway mark Frank Mahovlich led Hull by a large majority. And by the selections points system it could be that the Toronto star gets the nod over Hull. If he does it will be only a noted theft from the greatest hi-jacking since the Great Mail Robbery.

Incidentally the current Maclean's has a piece about an all-star team being selected by the players themselves. I'll tell you about that tomorrow.

And just for the record, is the fifty-goal sojourn, Hull beat Montreal's Phanie Gilmour, the Rangers' Worsley nine times; Detroit's Terry Sawchuck seven times and three again Hank Bassen. He scored six against the Leafs' Johnny Bower and two against Don Simmons.

District Loop Airs Plans

Will Play Night Softball

Belleville's entries in the Belleville and District softball league decided yesterday to go ahead with plans for night softball at the Fairgrounds once again this season.

Talk of changing back to twilight ball at the CNRA Park has dominated the last two meetings. Such was the case again yesterday.

Picton while not represented at the meeting, has let it be known that the Walls would likely be back "in" if night ball was played here but would definitely be out if twilight games were played.

Trenton RCAF also announced yesterday some doubt as to their status if earlier games were scheduled.

Joyce Real Estate and Bobcat representatives after listening to the Fairgrounds' side of the story and with the hope that a third city entry will help absorb operating costs, decided to return to the Fairgrounds this year.

The number of entries for this season also remains a mystery but those in attendance yesterday said they would operate with anywhere from four to six teams.

Bobcats, Joyce's and RCAF Flyers are definite entries. Picton has announced several teams that the Walls will be back. If there is night ball, and the Belleville junior team is still waiting on their sponsor.

Cobourg has announced plans to join an interlocking league with Peterborough and Oshawa teams but still wants the door left open to enter the Belleville league if no one else will take them.

Those at yesterday's meeting voted to have the entry deadline moved from April 15 to Monday April 2. Cobourg will have until that time to file entry, with an entry fee ready for $35.

Cobourg's Bob Neill told league commissioner Cliff Beckett they would not pay for their entry or whether until after the OASA convention in Hamilton on April 6 and 7. The OASA will consider Joyce's application as an amendment to the league constitution will forces a decision before that time. Cobourg has not been represented at a league meeting this year.

The league has signed its annual agreement with the Bay of Quinte Umpire's Association to handle all league games. Gerry Allsopp and Ken Rowland are returned as league assistants.

No date has been set for the next meeting but it will likely be scheduled for immediately following the OASA convention.

Shares Points With Bathgate

By BOB EXELL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Bobby Hull was cutting inexorably toward the right corner of New York Rangers' net when Reg Fleming's quick pass came across the goal mouth.

It was right on his stick. With a backhand flip, the puck sailed neatly into the corner of the net. And that was all there was to it—Hull had scored his 50th goal of the National Hockey League season on the last night of the regular season.

New York went on to defeat Chicago Black Hawks 4-1 Sunday night—the Hawks also lost 5-3 at Montreal Saturday when Bobby got his 49th—but the third-place Hawks left the ice behaving as though they had won the Stanley Cup.

Ranger Andy Bathgate came back to score a goal that tied him with Hull for the NHL point-scoring leadership at 84 points, but Hull's higher, number of goals earned him the Art Ross Trophy. Both men will receive $1,000 from the league.

Hull's phenomenal scoring burst of 17 goals in 33 games to give him 50 for the record set in 1944-45 by Maurice Richard of Montreal Canadiens and equalled last season by Montreal's Bernie Geoffrion.

CANADIENS SET MARK

The Habs set a record of their own. In the course of beating Detroit Red Wings 5-2 Sunday night, they ran their goals-scoring total to 298, one more than their own mark of 1958-59.

Detroit's last hope, of a playoff berth had vanished in Toronto Saturday when they were held to a 2-2 tie by the second-place Maple Leafs. New York's victory over the Hawks left the fourth-place Rangers a comfortable four points ahead of them.

In a game that meant nothing to either side, Toronto bowed 5-4 Sunday to the last-place Boston Bruins.

Both Hull and Bathgate were checked vigorously and often illegally after their first-period tallies as their team-mates tried to lend them a hand in setting the scoring race. Both finished with 84 points—Hull having 34 assists to go with his 50 goals and Bathgate getting 28 goals and 56 assists.

Bathgate's goal came on a play similar to Hull's with Earl Ingarfield feeding him the pass. Ingarfield, Andy Hebenton and Ted Hampson got the other New York goals. Bathgate, figured in Hebenton's goal but two other Rangers, touched the puck before it went in so he didn't get an assist.

HAWKS MAKE SURE

In the last period at least three penalties were committed on Bathgate—two of them in the dying seconds of the game when the Hawks took a no-holds-barred attitude to keep the scoring title for Hull.

Stan Mikita set up Hull's goal at Montreal, rifling a pass into the goal mouth that went in either off Bobby's stick or his body. It temporarily tied the game at 3-3 in the third period.

Ralph Backstrom scored twice for the Habs, whose other goals came from Don Marshall, Phil Goyette and Gilles Tremblay. Mikita and Ab McDonald were the other Chicago marksmen.

The Wings went down fighting at Toronto. Alex Delvecchio gave them the lead in the first period but they fell behind as Toronto got goals from Al Arbour and Dick Duff. Then Forbes Kennedy, the Charlottetown sniper recently recalled from Edmonton Flyers of the Western League, fired his first NHL goal of the season in the third period.

The game ended with the Wings burning around the Toronto net but the Leafs managed to hold them out.

TWO FOR HICKE

Billy Hicke led Canadiens' assault at Detroit Sunday with two goals and became the seventh Montrealer to reach the 20-goal mark. Claude Provost, Geoffrion and Gordie (Red) Berenson, a rookie from Michigan University, completed the total while Norm Ullman and Doug Harvey scored for the Wings.

At Boston Don McKenney fired the winning goal 22 seconds before the final whistle as the Bruin overcame an early 3-1 deficit. Jerry Toppazzini, Doug Mohns, Charlie Burns and Tom Williams were the other Boston marksmen. Duff scored twice for the Leafs, whose other goals came from Tim Horton and Billy Harris.

The Hawks return to Montreal Tuesday to open their best-of-seven Stanley Cup semi-final against the Canadiens while the Rangers begin a similar series with the Leafs at Toronto.

The Big Seven

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Bobby Hull of Chicago continued his great stretch drive to its logical conclusion Sunday night — he won the National Hockey League scoring title and tied the one-season mark of 50 goals.

Hull scored a goal Saturday and one more Sunday. Added to one assist he got Saturday at Montreal, that brought his points total to 84, good for a first-place tie with New York Rangers' Andy Bathgate.

Bathgate, who led the league practically all season, managed one goal Sunday night. The points tie means that the scoring title goes to Hull as the player with the most goals.

Bathgate leads the league in assists with 56.

Gordie Howe of Detroit and Stan Mikita of the Hawks each picked up two points, during the weekend and remained deadlocked for third place at 77 points.

The leaders:

Blasts Pair in Yankee Victory

Maris Hits Critics With Homers

NEW YORK (AP) — Home run king—Roger, Maris, buttressed by backing of manager Ralph Houk in a controversy provoked by his off-the-field feats, has fired his first on-the-field salvo.

Buoyed by Houk's assertion that "Rog is a team ball player and a 110 per cent at all times," Maris responded with two homers Sunday that led New York Yankees to a 6-3 victory over Cincinnati Reds.

Maris has been criticized by sports writers lately for refusing to give interviews. Last week he balked at a photographer's suggestion he pose with former baseball great Rogers Hornsby. Hornsby, now a coach with New York Mets of the National League, then called Maris a bush leaguer.

The two homers doubled Roger's output for the entire 1961 exhibition season, when a hitch during the regular American League campaign prompted Houk to be compelled to step into the dispute over Maris' deportment and keep the peace of discussion among the world champs.

SAYS NO DISSENSION

Houk said:

"The fans of New York, and everywhere else, are entitled to know our position. There isn't any dissension on the club due to Maris or anyone else. Any suggestion that Maris presents a problem to us is false and misleading."

Maris tagged a Sam Ellis pitch for a solo home over the 343-foot right-field fence in the first inning. He hit a two-run ining base at Tampa, Fla., then cracked a fourth-inning Ellis serve for a one-on homer over the 377-bot marker in right center.

Dale Long took over the home run lead with his start of the spring in Washington Senators' 9-3 triumph over the Mets at Pompano Beach, Fla., and Warren Spahn of Milwaukee Braves became the first pitcher to go nine innings although the Braves lost 7-1 to Baltimore Orioles at Miami, Fla.

Cleveland Indians walloped Boston Red Sox 8-1 at Tucson, Ariz., Minnesota Twins beat Los Angeles Dodgers 3-2 in 11 innings at Orlando, Fla., Chicago Cubs defeated San Francisco Giants 8-4 at Phoenix, Ariz., Kansas City Athletics whipped Detroit Tigers 6-2 at West Palm Beach, Fla., and Los Angeles Angels edged Houston Colts 5-4 at San Diego, Calif.

BLANKS YANKS

In Saturday action, the Yankees were overpowered 11-0 by the White Sox at Sarasota, Fla., Philad e l p h i a defeated Pittsburgh 3-1 at Fort Myers, Fla., St. Louis beat Minnesota 6-2 at St. Petersburg, Fla., and the Mets belted the Athletics 14-7 at West Palm Beach.

Baltimore and Detroit split a doubleheader at Miami, the Orioles winning the first game 9-6 and losing the second 9-4, Washington beat Milwaukee 7-2 at Pompano Beach, the Dodgers defeated the Reds 7-4 at Tampa, Baltimore picked up a 9-6 triumph over Detroit at Miami, Cleveland edged San Francisco 5-4 at Scottsdale, Ariz., the Cubs beat Cleveland 2-1 at Mesa, Ariz, and the Colts defeated the Angels 6-1 at San Diego.

N.H.L. Weekend Stars

Chicago's Bobby Hull, who scored two goals and an assist to tie the NHL one-season scoring record of 50 goals, despite the Black Hawks' two losses 5-3 to Montreal Canadians and 4-1 to New York Rangers.

Boston's Jerry Toppazzini, who scored one goal and set up two others as the Bruins closed a dismal season Sunday with a 5-4 win over Toronto Maple Leafs.

Billy Hicke of Montreal Canadiens, who scored two goals and one assist, and Bernie Geoffrion, with a goal and three assists, in Montreal's 5-2 victory over Detroit Red Wings Sunday.

Toronto's Dick Duff, who scored one goal and set up the other as the Leafs tied Detroit 2-2 Saturday.

This Could Be the Big One!

Junior "B" hockey at its best will be on the sports agenda once again this evening when the fast-skating Kingston Frontenacs and the Belleville Mohawks clash here at eight-thirty.

This will be the fifth game in a five-game seven series for the OHA Eastern Junior crown and the George "Red" Sullivan trophy. At present each club has won two games and tonight's winner will have one foot in the doorway to provincial playdowns.

Both clubs realize at this point that they will have to throw everything they have into it. There last two or three games if they are to advance in the playdowns. One mistake at this point can cost the series.

All games to date have been hard-fought affairs with neither team giving an inch. Feelings run high among certain players and apparently some of the fans are getting a little action-hungry too.

In the four games played so far there has been enough action on the ice to satisfy most hockey fans for a month. Tonight and should a seventh and final game be necessary it will be played here in Belleville, likely on Friday night.

Unconscious After Severe Beating

Ex-Welter Champion Is Near Death

By EDDORRIGAN

NEW YORK (AP) — Benny (Kid) Paret, who rose from a 62-a-day sugar cane cutter in the fields of Cuba to welterweight boxing champion of the world, was fighting for his life against astronomical odds today.

He was battered senseless by Emile Griffith in defending his 147-pound welterweight title in Madison Square Garden here Saturday night and was still unconscious today with head injuries.

Surgeons drilled four holes in his skull to relieve the pressure of blood clots on both sides of the brain.

Manager Manuel Alfaro said a doctor told him Paret's chances of recovery were "one in 1,000."

Alfaro, who spent the night in Roosevelt Hospital where Paret was being treated, said he believed the boxer could hear and feel "to some extent."

MOVES IN BED

"I put my hand on his wrist and talked to him," Alfaro said. "He moved his body in bed as if he were fighting in the ring."

Paret's pregnant wife, Lucy, who came here from her home in Miami, Fla., also stayed all night at the hospital.

Meanwhile, the New York State Athletic Commission was rushed to complete a report on the fight ordered by Governor Nelson Rockefeller, in a tersely worded telegram to the commission the governor demanded the report be in his hands today.

Paret, 25, took a fearful beating before referee Ruby Goldstein stopped the scheduled 15-rounder at 2:05 of the 12th round. Ringsiders counted between 20 and 26 punches that connected while Griffith had Paret in a neutral corner.

As Paret, his head caught between the ropes, slid slowly to the canvas, Griffith retiring to regain the championship he had lost to Paret last Sept. 30—blazed away with uppercut after uppercut.

STOPS FIGHT

Goldstein rushed in to stop it and had to pull Griffith away from the helpless form of Benny Paret. Griffith still tried to keep punching and his cornermen Gil Clancy, dashed into the ring to help Goldstein pull him away.

"I didn't realize the fight was over," said Griffith, a native of the Virgin Islands who now lives in New York. "I thought Goldstein was trying to break up what he thought was a clinch.

"And now this. I have never had to undergo an experience like this. I pray to God I never have to again, or anyone else has to."

Griffith, a Methodist, said he went to St. Malachy's Roman Catholic Church to say a prayer for Paret.

"When I went in, I broke down. I usually go there before a fight because it is Clancy's church and it is right around the corner from the Garden. I pray that it is a good fight and that neither I nor my opponent gets hurt.

"I have been so edgy that I even snapped at my mother when she came over to visit me."

CLANCY WORRIED

Griffith said Clancy had been worried about the beating he was giving Paret for the last four or five rounds.

"Between each of those rounds, Gil would ask if a doctor had looked at Paret. Finally, at the end of the 11th, Gil told me he looked tired and to try to get it over with. So I went out with that purpose in mind"

Clancy said: The way it ended takes all the joy out of regaining the title. I think Goldstein did a good job the way he handled the fight and stopped it.

Paret had been super-human earlier in absorbing punches and weathering Griffith's barrages.

Alfaro bitterly criticized Goldstein for permitting the fight to go on as long as it did.

"When Paret's head got caught between the ropes he screamed for Goldstein to stop it. But apparently he didn't hear me."

PARET BATTERED BY GRIFFITH — Welterweight champion Benny (Kid) Paret's head was through the ropes as he was battered in a corner by Emile Griffith in 12th round of title fight at New York's Madison Square Garden Saturday night. Seconds later Referee Ruby Goldstein stepped the fight and Paret slumped to the canvas unconscious. He was rushed to hospital where he underwent surgery for the removal of a blood clot near the brain. (AP Wirephoto).

Thinks Used Good Judgment

Referee Defends Action

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK (AP)—Did referee Ruby Goldstein, often charged with stopping a fight too soon, allow Emile Griffith to pound Benny (Kid) Paret too long in Saturday night's world welterweight title bout?

So long that the deposed champion's life was in grave danger today?

Many boxing fans, those who were at ringside, and others who watched the battle on television, must be asking that question.

Goldstein, a veteran of 70 professional fights during his career, sticks by his judgment in letting Griffith slash until he stepped in at 2:09 of the 12th round to stop the fight when Paret had his head caught between the ropes and offered no resistance.

"Lots of fighters put their heads between the ropes that way to avoid punches," Goldstein said. "They do that and roll with the punches. Many times they don't get hit as hard as people think.

IS TOUGH BOY

"Paret is a rough, tough boy and he has a reputation for taking a lot of punches and coming back fighting. In the 10th round, for instance, Griffith had him against the ropes and hit him I don't know how many times without a return. But as I recall it, Paret was back fighting strongly with about 30 seconds left in the round."

Was Goldstein able to count the seemingly endless staccato of punches Griffith threw at Paret in the 12th round?

"I don't count punches," Ruby said. "No one punch does the damage. These things pile up. This was a championship fight and I realize the people want to give the champion every opportunity. That's what I was trying to do.

"As soon as my instinct told me that Paret couldn't fight back, I rushed in and stopped it. I think I acted with good judgment. These things aren't easy, I just try and do the best I can."

He estimated he has refereed between 500 and 1,000 fights.

He would wipe out the championship possibilities.

As it is, the Bisons have the most crucial week of the season ahead of them, for they must beat Rochester to keep second place. Buffalo has 73 points, four behind Cleveland and only one ahead of the Americans, who missed a golden opportunity to take second by losing to Providence Reds 4-3 Sunday night.

In Sunday's only other game, Cleveland routed Pittsburgh Hornets 13-2. Cleveland's Fred Glover all-time leading league scorer, scored only once, but it was the 367-yard winger's 400th AHL goal.

Flag Race May Mean Round Robin

The American Hockey League's Western Division pennant may revive around a home-and-home series the first-place Cleveland Barons and Second - place Buffalo Bisons have scheduled this week to climax the regular season.

Each team has three games remaining and only a loss by Buffalo against the third-place Rochester Americans Wednesday night and a Cleveland victory or tie against the eastern champion Springfield Indians

Lead Series 3-0

Red Wings Whip Flyers

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A four-goal splurge in six minutes early in the second period enabled Hamilton Red Wings to defeat Niagara Falls Flyers 9-2 Sunday and gave them a 3-0 lead in their best-of-seven Ontario Hockey Association Junior A final.

The underdog Flyers, who extended Hamilton to the limit in dropping the first two games 5-3 and 4-3, had the Wings on even terms in the first period before 3,833 Hamilton fans and the teams were tied 1-1 before the home team broke loose.

RUTLEDGE STARS

Niagara Falls netminder Wayne Rutledge kicked out 43 shots and robbed the Wings on at least six breakaways. He made 31 saves in the scoreless third period. His team-mates fired a total of 18 shots at Bobby Blom in the Hamilton goal.

Hamilton took four of the game's six penalties, which included majors to Menard and Billy Harris. Harris was given a scrap near the Niagara Falls goal.

Kingston Tied With Beavers

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Orv Tessier scored his 48th, 49th and 50th goal of the year in Eastern Professional Hockey League weekend action, to make Kingston Frontenacs the only team in league history with two 50-goal scorers during one season.

Teammate Tom McCarthy has 51 marks and in his credit. Tessier scored his 50th goal at Kingston Saturday night, Frontenacs trounced Sault Ste. Marie Thunderbirds 8-3.

The win kept Kingston in a tie with Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen for second place in the Beavers split a pair of 4-2 decisions with North Bay, winning a home game 5-3 and bowing to the fifth-place Trappers at North Bay Sunday.

Hull-Ottawa Canadiens, three points ahead of the Beavers and Frontenacs, moved a 3-2 verdict to the fourth-place Sudbury Wolves at Hull Sunday.

Here's Your NHL Semi-Finals

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The semi-finals for the Stanley Cup pit the National Hockey League champions, Montreal Canadiens, against last year's Stanley Cup winners, Chicago Black Hawks, who finished third in the regular schedule.

In the other semi - final bracket, New York's fourth-place Rangers play the second-place Toronto Maple Leafs.

Winners of the best-of-seven semi-finals meet in a best-of, seven final. For the first four games, each team has two consecutive games at home with the higher-place team getting the first two games in its own rink.

The final three games, if necessary, are played alternately except in the case of New York, where Madison Square Garden is committed to other entertainment. The fifth and sixth games in that series are scheduled for Toronto.

The schedule:

Series A

Tuesday, March 27 and Thursday, March 29: Chicago at Montreal.

Sunday, April 1 and Tuesday, April 3: Montreal at Chicago.

Thursday, April 5: Chicago at Montreal.

Sunday, April 8: Montreal at Chicago.

Tuesday, April 10: Chicago at Montreal.

Series B

Tuesday, March 27 and Thursday, March 29: New York at Toronto.

Sunday, April 1 and Tuesday, April 3: Toronto at New York.

Thursday, April 5 and Saturday, April 7: New York at Toronto.

Sunday, April 8: Toronto at New York.

Western Hockey

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Western Hockey League brought down the curtain on the regular season Sunday night with Edmonton and Portland winners in the Northern and Southern divisions.

Playoffs for the league title, won last year by Portland, begin this week. The Northern Division semi-finals get under way Thursday night with Calgary at Seattle and move to Calgary Saturday night. A third game, if one is needed, will be played at Calgary Monday night.

The Southern Division semi-finals start with Spokane at San Francisco Tuesday night. They move to Spokane Thursday night and a third game, if needed will be played at Spokane Saturday night.

The regular season ended Sunday night with Spokane downing Seattle, 4-0 and San Francisco beating Portland 5-3 in the two scheduled games. Spokane's shutout deprived Seattle of second place and gave it to Calgary on the strength of the Stampeders having scored more goals than the Totems. Seattle's defeat gave both the Totems and Stampeders identical won - lost records, and point totals.

NBC's 'White Paper' Tried To Cover Too Much Ground

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — NBC's "white paper" Sunday night was a current event, show in search of a point of view.

It started with some interesting, if overlong, pictures inside a missile base. Then it described the effect of a missile plant in a community. Then it moved along to the effect of a missile on a defence plant in a community.

Finally the program showed some modern weapons in action and wound up with statements by a lot of people, mostly Washington officials, about the defence effort.

Obviously, it was trying to cover too much ground. The result was a dull, rambling report.

Saturday night's CBS special Tonight in Samarkand, was a slick thriller. You know the kind. The human characters fated to be on a doomed ocean liner, and the effort of her owner, a fortune - tiller whose crystal ball foretells all, to keep them on land. James Mason and Janice Rule serve better material for their talents.

AT THE BELLE — Troy Donahue and Connie Stevens head the all-star cast of the Warner Bros.-Technicolor production of "Parrish," which opening today at the Belle Theatre, is directed by Delmer Daves and produced the top love romantic drama which also stars Dorothy McGuire, Lloyd Nolan, Brian Aherne.

Departing with Jack one week will be his old buddy, Joe Mellc, who will presumably do the musical chores on Jack's weekly variety hour next fall.

The producer, Paul Orr, also is leaving Jack Paar to be replaced by Perry Cross. He was the original producer of the Paar show, but left after a time when he and Paar failed to see eye to eye.

Greg Peck Does Something Good for American South

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—At last has been made in race relations.

The changes have come, he believes, because of the extremists, but because of the people. Peck was reacting a scene in which he stands off a lynch mob at the family jail. The murderers are dissuaded by the appearance of the lawyer's two children. They are played by Mary Badham, 9, and Philip Alford, 11, both of Birmingham, Ala.

After the scene, Peck discussed the amazing success of To Kill a Mockingbird.

"It has just come out in paperback," he reported. "Actually, the paperback should have come out six months after the hard-cover edition, as most books do. Nobody could foresee that the book would get on the bestseller list and stay there 80 weeks."

Pair Wins Endurance Auto Race

SEBRING, Fla. (AP)—Joakim Bonnier of Sweden and Lucien Bianchi of Belgium scored an upset victory in Saturday's 12-hour endurance auto race but Olivier Gendebien, as usual, cut in on a man-sized share of the gold glory.

Teaming with Phil Hill of Santa Monica, Calif., the 1961 driving champion, Gendebien shared in 60,000 prize money and earned 40 championship points for the Ferrari factory in the car manufacturer's championship. They drove a Ferrari grand touring model to the Improved GT title. Bonnier and Bianchi won only 8200 for taking the overall crown.

Favored Stirling Moss, teamed with James Ireland of Scotland in a Ferrari, was disqualified at the 7½-hour mark. Moss and Ireland had taken the over-all lead from the Mexican Rodriguez brothers two hours earlier and appeared to be on their way to victory.

Although they were disqualified for an unauthorized pit stop, made at 2 p.m., the ruling was not handed down until 5:30 p.m. It was explained that the Moss-Ireland Ferrari had only 18 laps, instead of the required 20 laps before refuelling. The drivers disobeyed the rule and took an extra pit to change brakes and lose only when a pit official broke the seal on the gas tank.

FREEZES INSTANTLY

CAHOKIA, Ill. (AP)—A man was frozen to death almost instantly Wednesday when a valve popped open and sprayed him with liquid ammonia being unloaded from a barge. John Thomas Fernandez, 37, was dead on arrival at a hospital.

AT THE PARK — James Cagney stars in Billy Wilder's new comedy, "One, Two, Three," which opens tonight at the Park Theatre for its first Belleville and district showing through United Artists release. Filmed in Berlin, in Panavision, the movie stars Cagney as an executive who becomes involved in several hilarious situations. Two shows nightly, 7.00 p.m. and 9.00 p.m.

Julie Andrews Would Like To Play Role of Motherhood

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Julie Andrews, whose bell-sweet soprano has enchanted millions, is looking forward to singing a few soft lullabies to an audience of one.

Then she'd like to build up the audience to two, three, four —maybe more.

"I'd like very much to have some children," she said. "It's very much in the air.

Julie was world fame in eight years in 3,000 nights and matinees playing three musical comedy roles — a flapper, a Cockney flower girl and a queen. But her heart really is in marrying the lifetime offstage role of motherhood.

She soon will bow out of her latest hit show Camelot, in which she plays King Arthur's wife. Then she hopes to take a long holiday with her husband, Tony Walton, the theatrical designer, and settle down for a while in the comfortable privacy of being an English housewife.

"I think I'd be a very good cook," she said lightly. "But so far I've never seemed to have the time and just the right ingredients."

Julie came here as a shy and somewhat bewildered unknown in a British musical, The Boy Friend, in 1954. She won instant recognition, enlarged its immeasurably with her spectacular triumph as Eliza Doolittle in My Fair Lady.

Happy as she is with success, Julie's only major production plan now "is the hope of the baby."

Both she and her husband are set on having a large family.

"They teach you how to and be generous," she said. "And a large family is such fun . . . and there are all those lovely wedding gifts to be used for children grow up."

Julie, who converses in long pauses and bursts of breathless exclamations, has none of the hardened surety of many theatrical stars. She still has the fresh air of a college girl who has just come back from a walk in the woods, her hands full of invisible flowers.

Sports Snapshots

By JACK SULLIVAN,
Canadian Press Sports Editor

Six months ago people were saying the dear old Montreal Canadiens were heading for a tumble. Some said that if the old Flying Frenchmen didn't fall to fourth place in the 1961 - National Hockey League championship shuffle around, they could about every five years. And it all ade to fourth place this season —or even lower.

There had been precedents. The New York Rangers finished first in 1942 and a year later had plunged to last place Canadiens, themselves, had a somewhat similar experience with a first-place finish in 1941 and a drop to 4th in 1948.

But last October, when Canadiens were starting out for their fifth consecutive NHL title and before the start of the 70-game schedule, just about everybody around the circuit was predicting dire things for the champs. They needed help.

They had been rather thoroughly beaten by Chicago Black Hawks in the Stanley Cup semi-final last spring without Maurice Richard. And they were starting the 1961-62 campaign without all - star defenceman Doug Harvey who had gone to New York as player-coach.

SELKE GLOOMY

Even Managing Director Frank Selke was a bit gloomy. "Without alterations we can't finish first again next year," he said.

Canadiens didn't make many alterations. Along with Harvey, they lost Defenceman Jean Guy Talbot and picked up an exciting youngster, Bobby Rousseau, who probably will end, as the rookie of the year.

These didn't excite the experts who probably recalled the dire predictions made in 1958 by Jack Adams at a time when Canadiens were walloping everybody in sight.

"The Detroit Red Wing general manager, who knows all about the decline of Stanley Cup and dynasties in the semi-finals, folks can ponder these statistics:

Claude Provost, a young right winger took up the slack when Bert Olmstead, Dickie Moore and Geoffrion couldn't buy a goal and, up to Thursday, had scored 32. That is more than double his output of the previous two years.

Then there is centre Ralph Backstrom who is sailing into the final stages of the schedule with 25 goals, the most he has scored in his four years with the club. His previous high was 18 in his rookie year in 1958-59 and he followed with 15 - goal and 12-goal efforts in the next two seasons.

Then, of course, there is the masked Jacques Plante, After a terrible 1960-61 season, he's heading for his sixth Vezina Trophy, awarded annually to the goalkeeper who has played the most games for the team with the fewest goals scored against him.

If he makes it, he'll tie another great Canadien goalie— Bill Durnan.

Astrological Forecast

By SYDNEY OMARR

Tuesday, March 27

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19). By trying to see the best in people, situations . . . you can actually make them better. Moon's favorable aspect to Venus in your sign spells success . . . if you don't look too far afield.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20). Drive, energy apparent. But don't go so fast that you miss the beauty of the day. Temper your energy with moderation and you may solve that problem that eludes you!

Gemini (May 21 to June 21). Think twice . . . go slow cycle is so-so. Take advantage of day to study, socialize, social work. Allow intellectual curiosity to come to the fore. Get new ideas from reading newspaper, books.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21). Tendency is to seek perfection. This practically defeats purpose before you start. See others as they are . . . not as they appear in your private dream world. Take adult attitude.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21). Favorable lunar aspect to your sign brings a new zest to life. Welcome persons, experiences with enthusiasm. Others will respond. Remember, friendship is not a one-way street.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22). The kind of day which requires caution. Listen to those with more experience. An older person . . . one with your interest at heart . . . could come to fore. Be patient. Don't "knit."

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct 22). Have you neglected letter-writing, reading, visits to relatives? Catch up today! If bargain luxury item offered, better read between the lines as well as fine print. Consider, though.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21). Would be wonderful evening for intimate dining with one close to your heart. No glaring lights . . . just quiet, warmth, the solitude that can be shared. Let your heart rule today.

Sagittarius (Nov 22 to Dec. 21). The "right touch" advised. Replying to threats or foolish agreements merely drains energy. A laugh gains you more than the shelving of a fat. Stress originality . . . be individual.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20). Could be some deception. Be sharp. Remain alert, observant. You will not be taken advantage of if you are ready. Think things out on golden rule basis.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19). Change, travel spotlighted, along with renewal of old friendships. Favorable lunar aspect highlights time for invigorating activity which brings both physical and mental pleasure.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20). Plenty of drive evident . . . if you will channel it in right direction. You cannot expect results merely from being "lucky." Call out ideas, make every action count. Be selective.

If today is your birthday . . artistic ability evident in Solar chart. So is unique style, in whatever you do. You learn by the rules . . . but then you are not afraid to break them. Excellent for writer, teacher. Exciting social year ahead.

General Tendencies: Travel spotlighted. News is made because of developments in transportation. Persons in the news are to be travelling and talking. If Gemini, they may talk out of turn.

Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain And Itching As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain and itching. Thousands have been relieved with this inexpensive substance right in the privacy of their own home without any discomfort or inconvenience.

In case hemorrhoid case after case, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observation.

Pain was promptly relieved. And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were examined over a period of many months!

The healing substance was discovered by a famous rectal specialist. Now, this same substance is available to sufferers everywhere in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

Even if you've suffered for years and have given up hope that anything will ever relieve your hemorrhoids, don't despair. Try Preparation H. Only 90¢ and $1.75. Money back if not delighted.

CAMPBELLFORD

'Democratic System' Talk At Lions Club

CAMPBELLFORD — Guests from Cobourck and Belleville attended the regular meeting of the Campbellford Lions Club when the guest speaker was Dr. Paulloo Jewett of Brighton, Ont., who is the liberal candidate for Northumberland county.

Dr. Jewett spoke to the group on "The Escentials of a Democratic System." One of the controversial topics of today is how much freedom can you give? For instance, in Burma or Korea, the more freedom given, the further people go.

"A representative system is most important in a democracy. Such an emerging country or group will also give hope for the future. In order to have a good government in Canada or any other country, all persons, rich or poor, must be treated equally. All should work together so that youth of today may some day have higher ideals of good government. We also must have confidence in the young people of today to continue their education that some day we benefit from their education and have a good government, that our world may benefit from our democratic system.

The speaker was introduced by Cy Coughlin and thanked by M. Tanner.

The Lions Carnival will be held in July with a draw for a house trailer.

Appointees were named from the Lions Club to have a Santa Claus parade in Campbellford this coming Christmas.

JANET LEIGH HURT

NEW YORK (AP) — Actress Janet Leigh was described Sunday as much improved after a fall in her hotel suite bathroom; Miss Leigh, 35, was accidentally separated from her actor-husband, Tony Curtis, aligned early Saturday and hit her head on the floor.

Many Western Tourists Are Expected to Visit Russia Despite Tourist Spy Trials

By JOHN MILLER

MOSCOW (Reuters) — More Western tourists than ever are expected to visit the Soviet Union this year despite three well - publicized "tourist - spy" trials in 1961, involving four West Germans and two Dutchmen.

Since 1955, when Intourist, the Soviet travel agency, began to look Westward for business and hard currency, the number of Western tourists has risen by thousands every year.

This season about 250,000 are expected to come to see something of Soviet life through 32 itineraries, ranging from a trip to a collective farm to lazing on the beach along the Soviet rivers, the Black Sea coast.

Another popular tour, lasting 18 days, takes the visitor to Moscow, Stalingrad, Rostov-On-Don, Leningrad and Sochi, where Nikita Khrushchev and other top Soviet leaders take their summer holidays.

Intourist frankly says that camping arrangements for tourists have not been as successful as had been hoped. Motorists are welcome provided they keep to well-defined Intourist routes. Camping sites along the routes are generally equipped with kitchens, showers and tents and occasionally have a motel nearby.

But Intourist is clearly aware of the drawback which has deterred many people who have thought of lasting their car to the Soviet Union: That service stations on the roads running across the rolling Russian landscape are few and far between.

There are no restrictions nowadays once the tourist has settled in his hotels and provided that he keeps to his itinerary. He can wander at will through the streets and mix with all the Russians he can.

But the tourist cannot go anywhere he likes in the Soviet Union and would be unwise to try his luck. Something like 30 per cent of the country is closed to foreigners.

Tourists may take pictures of objects ranging from architectural monuments to museums, streets and squares. But they may not photograph state farms, railroad stations, government institutions, military objects, seaports or radio stations.

Chief Charges Wiarton Mayor

WIARTON, Ont. (CP)—Arthur Lemcke, chief constable of this Bruce Peninsula town, has charged Mayor Harold Wyonch with disturbing the peace.

The charge follows a quarrel between the chief and mayor March 18, which resulted in the chief clasping Mr. Wyonch down the main street. The mayor ran home.

Mr. Wyonch said Friday night the charge was laid Thursday. He is to appear in magistrate's court here April 3.

"Despite what some people say, I have no intention of resigning," the mayor said.

Murray Johnston, police commission chairman, said that since the quarrel, the town of 2,000 has been split into "two violent factions."

The controversy began after a citizen ripped off the mayor's coat button. The mayor complained to the chief, the quarrel erupted and the chief chased the mayor home.

A meeting of the police commission March 15 ended abruptly after a councillor nearly became involved in a fight with Constable Albert Lemcke, the chief's son and the other member of the two-man force.

Later that day, town council censured the mayor for his part in the dispute.

Public Transit System Deficits, Like Death and Taxes, Become Sure Thing

By BOB TRIMBLE

EDMONTON (CP) — Public transit system deficits, like death and taxes, are fast becoming a sure thing.

Winnipeg and Edmonton, the two largest Prairie cities, are studying multi - million dollar rapid transit system proposals aimed at removing the financial albatross from their necks.

Both have been caught in a vicious cycle of trying to reduce public transit deficits and the same time extend services to meet city growth.

Instead a series of fare increases, traffic tie-ups that produce discomfort and inconvenience to passengers, lower operating efficiency and dwindling public support have combined to increase the deficits.

The 1961 Greater Winnipeg Transit System deficit is estimated at $850,000 and the Edmonton Transit System deficit about $420,000.

The suggestion of a rapid transit system, utilizing existing railway tracks wherever this came from external surveys into both operations.

FAVORED SUBWAY

Mr. Wilson recommended a 10-year program of subway construction costing between $200,000,000 and $300,000,000.

First step would be an east-west tunnel under Portage Avenue, one of Winnipeg's main thoroughfares. The subway would run from neighboring St. James to the main downtown intersection with Main Street.

The second subway would run under Main Street and could stretch as far as neighboring St. Boniface and suburban St. Vital.

First trains would be running under Portage Avenue by 1970.

"When mentioning alternative methods of rapid transit," said Mr. Wilson, "some reference should be made to railway commuter service. There are so many railway lines intersecting Winnipeg that some suggestion may be advanced that some of them might be used to advantage in solving the problems of rush-hour congestion."

Mr. MacDonald's plan for Edmonton placed greater emphasis on the use of existing railway lines. He said they are a "basically sound and economically feasible" method of instituting a rapid transit system.

"By placing the major portions of the transit passenger volume upon a rapid transit system, it will be possible to provide adequate seating and smooth, comfortable passage, unimpeded by the regular disturbances encountered in a surface bus transportation system."

He estimated the cost at between $15,000,000 and $27,000,000.

COMBINE CNR-CPR

Heart of the proposed system would be a U-shaped line operating CPR and CNR trackage and a downtown subway system operating in conjunction with surface bus feeder and local bus system.

The Edmonton subway would run from the CPR-CNR transfer point, 12 blocks or a three-minute bus ride from the main downtown intersection of Jasper Avenue and 101 Street, to a point near Clarke Stadium.

Its purpose would be to join the east and west prongs and the main stem of the U. The east prong would comprise CNR tracks running from the west side of the municipal airport, 1½ miles from downtown Edmonton, to the transfer point. The west prong would comprise CNR tracks running from near the northeast corner of the city limits to Clarke Stadium.

The stem would comprise CPR tracks running south past the legislative buildings to the south end of the High Level Bridge.

In both cites the proposal calls for passenger - gathering stations outside the central business district.

Each system could also be expanded or extended to meet future growth and needs.

An advantage of the rapid transit system, said Mr. MacDonald, "is that capacities could be doubled by the simple addition of more cars to each train, at very little additional cost."

Both reports suggested that a rapid transit system would also help ease a companion problem — the rising tide of automotive traffic that threatens to overwhelm downtown street systems in the next few decades.

Other Prairie cities, also experiencing definite to public transit operations, are watching the moves in Winnipeg and Edmonton. Calgary, Regina and Saskatoon all had deficits in 1961, but so far have limited their plans to more efficient use of downtown traffic facilities.

However, in Saskatoon, a consulting firm has recommended to city council it proceed with a $24,000,000 traffic control plan. The report suggested construction of two new bridges across the North Saskatchewan River, a major system of grade separations to channel traffic in the downtown area and pedestrian tunnels.

The work would be completed during the next 20 years, during which time the report predicted the number of vehicles would climb to 80,000 from the current total of 32,000.

City of Algiers Held In Virtual State of Siege

Europeans Seething After Bloody Battles

ALGIERS (AP) — Thousands of steel-helmeted French troops backed by tanks and armored cars held Algiers in a virtual state of siege today as the city's European settlers seethed over the army's bloody suppression Monday of a demonstration supporting the Secret Army Organization.

Black — clad French flags flew at half-mast and stains of blood still marised the spots where at least 41 persons were killed Monday and about 138 others were wounded by French soldiers who blocked the demonstration in the capital.

Another 10 persons, all Moslems, were killed in a secret army raid about the same time in another part of the city.

Officials said the French Army's losses were one dead and six wounded.

The army appeared to have drastically altered relations between the citizens of Algiers and French troops.

SHOCK BECOMES HATE

Hate, it was said, is remaining French.

The settlers' fury threatened to touch off new outbreaks of violence, particularly during the funerals of the victims.

Spokesmen of the Secret Army Organization, which called the demonstration, declared it a "President de Gaulle's government "will regret this day." But de Gaulle, in a televised speech from Paris, warned the Secret Army it would be forwarded only to punishment for its campaign to sabotage the cease-fire agreement between France and the Algerian nationalist

STRIKE CALLED

A protest strike was called today by Europeans, plunging the city into mourning for the Europeans killed in the demonstration in support of the Secret Army Organization.

Algiers' transportation was at a standstill. Most European stores were closed. No newspapers appeared. Banks failed to open. The big outdoor market was silent and deserted.

Hundreds of Europeans jammed the streets and most of them seemed to head for the street corner in front of the Algiers post office where a shooting broke out. Some of the crowd placed modest bouquets of flowers on the bloodstains in the streets.

Douks Charged Under Early Criminal Law

OTTAWA (CP)—One of the earliest criminal laws passed by Parliament is the basis for the charges under which 87 Sons of Freedom Doukhobors appeared in court at Nelson, B.C., Monday.

The law now says: "Everyone who does an act of violence by order to intimidate the Parliament of Canada or the legislature of a province is guilty of an indictable offence and is liable to imprisonment for 14 years."

Conspiracy to commit the offence carries the same penalty under the 1955 Criminal Code revision.

Parliament first enacted laws to enforce its jurisdiction and protect its safety less than a year after Confederation in 1868 when in 1868, meeting before the Criminal Code was gathered together in one document embodying criminal law.

RECALLS OLD CASE

According to available law records here the 1868 enactment figured large in one case. Four men were charged in Toronto in 1884 with attempting to bribe members of the Ontario legislature to vote against the government. The bribe offered was money and promises of jobs under the federal government.

The defence tried to have the indictment quashed on grounds that an offence against the legislature could be tried only by the legislature itself, and not by the criminal courts.

The indictment, however, was upheld by a 3-to-2 judgment which ruled that it was a criminal offence to bribe or attempt to bribe members of the legislature.

Probably the most celebrated act of violence against a legislature before Confederation was the riot and burning of the Parliament Buildings in Montreal in 1849, after the governor, Lord Elgin, approved a bill providing indemnities for losses suffered in the 1837 rebellion.

Foulkes Beaten For Nomination

VICTORIA (CP)—Foster Lidwell, 42-year-old lawyer, was nominated Monday to contest Victoria riding for the Liberals in the next federal election.

He defeated Gen. Charles Foulkes, former chief of the army's general staff, by two votes at a nomination meeting. The seat now is held by Arnold McPhillips, Progressive Conservative.

Seek Amalgamation

TORONTO (CP) — City councils, school boards and ratepayers in 15 to 5 today in favor of asking the province to enact legislation amalgamating Toronto and the 12 suburbs in metropolitan Toronto.

No date was suggested for the proposed merger.

"The suburbs want all the goodies but they don't want to pay the bill," Controller Donald Summerville. He said the only way the city would get amagamation would be to ask the province for it.

Today's Chuckle

The average man wants to be the kind of person his wife men look up to. The average woman would like to breathe kind that men look around at.

THE WEATHER

Northern Ontario will continue to have dull, cloudy weather accompanied by occasional periods of drizzle or wet snow today and Wednesday.

The disturbances are not likely to affect the southern and central parts of Ontario, which will enjoy at least two more days of fine weather.

The slow increase in temperature which has been taking place in southern and central Ontario over the last few days will continue today and Wednesday.

DRS.. DENTISTS IN RURAL AREAS TO BE HELPED

$1,000 Bursaries Would Be Paid

TORONTO (CP) — Health Minister Dymond today proposed the establishment of bursaries to encourage budding doctors and dentists to practice in rural and outlying areas of Ontario.

As a beginning, 20 medical and dental undergraduates will be selected with the co-operation of Ontario's medical and dental colleges.

The bursaries to selected undergraduates would amount to $1,000 a year, each for four years in the case of physicians and three years in the dentists. After the graduate has completed two years of service in the bursary would be written off.

Dr. Dymond said Ontario's average of one doctor for every 1,368 persons compares favorably with the Canadian average of one for every 1,500.

However, some areas have one doctor for every 200 to 300 persons, while there are one to more than 2,000. Similarly, the dentistry of dentists varies from one for every 1,000 persons in some urban districts to one for 10,000 persons in areas, he said.

PRESS RESEARCH

Dr. Dymond said the education, research and drug addiction research foundation will be increased more than four-fold next year from $60,000 last year.

The foundation began the start of a three-year program aimed at raising the budget to more than $500,000.

In answer to a question by NDP leader Donald C. MacDonald, the minister said he personally doesn't favor the idea of doctors selling their files when a collection agency at a discount. He added he does not think the practice will last.

"I think it dreadful way to practise medicine," the minister, himself a physician, said.

"I never had trouble collecting my bills," he said in his next short breath. "I never had any."

Sgt. Anderson said raids on one of the clubs dwindled from 12 to 1961 to 4 so far this year and morale on the OPP detachment has seriously suffered because of the apparent favoritism shown by the commissioner.

Mr. MacDonald said a "soul-searching" examination by the agency has signed up 100 doctors and is signing up 15 to 20 more each year to fulfill their bills for a 14-per-cent discount.

TO PUBLISH FIGURES

Municipal Affairs Minister Cass introduced an amendment to the Municipal Act guaranteed by which municipal officials will be able to see his municipal tax and personal statement in his local paper or receive a copy of it through the mail.

The amendment, given first reading by the legislature, is aimed at focussing the public's attention on what his elected council is doing as a department official explained.

Another amendment provides that a person will be disqualified from holding office su-

Five Miners Are Killed

TOKYO (AP)—A section of a coal mine in Kyushu, southern Japan, caved in Tuesday, killing five of the 20 miners trapped inside. Six of the 15 were brought to the surface by rescue parties who required more than three hours to clear the tons blocked mine shaft.

Seven of the survivors were injured. Officials believed the cave in at the Kijima Mine was caused by pressure on a derailed coal car that knocked supporting beams loose.

Charges Communist Aide With Enhancing Personal Power

HAVANA (AP) — Premier Fidel Castro assailed "old Communist militants" Monday night for having appeared to have become capable of leading the Cuban revolution. He accused one of them, Anibal Escalante, of creating "real chaos" in Cuba by trying to impose his own political power.

Castro charged that Escalante, a top planner in Cuba's march toward communism, had created "a sectarian machine" similar to model Cuba's new monopolistic political party along his own sectarian lines.

The Cuban leader denounced his Communist aide in a radio-television address before a considerable number of visiting government members in the studio audience.

Castro did not specify that Escalante had been dismissed from his top posts but indicated the had, saying: "We have come to explain the separation of the companion whom we considered, confided in."

Escalante, a 53-year-old founder and former editor of the Communist newspaper, Hoy, only two weeks ago was named to the 25-member national directorate of the integrated revolutionary organizations, known as ORI.

Last year he was given the job of welding all Cuba's leftist factions, including Castro's 26th of July movement and the Popular Socialist (Communist) Party, into a single party to be known as the United Party of the Socialist Revolution.

In trying to carry out this task, Castro said, that Escalante "abused the confidence of... comrades, tried to create an apparatus to pursue personal ends."

Frondizi Refuses to Quit, Military Coup Imminent

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — A military coup to topple President Arturo Frondizi appeared to draw nearer today after he rejected a plea for his resignation from his own hand-picked mediator, former president Dr. Jose Aramburu.

Frondizi's insistence on holding on to the office to which he was elected four years ago drew a proclamation of open rebellion from Gen. Franklin Rawson, commander of the 3rd Calvary Division, based 180 miles south of Buenos Aires.

Rawson accused the president of betraying Gen. Aramburu's mediation efforts. He said the use of force remains the only path open to those opposing Frondizi.

He called on all other military units to join him.

There was no immediate evidence that Rawson's threat was being implemented by action on any front. The opposition of the air force and a large segment of the army still was not clear.

Aramburu, one of Argentina's most respected figures because he ended military government three years ago after the overthrow of dictator Juan Peron, issued a proclamation declaring the constitutional authority he consulted was that Frondizi's resignation was the only solution.

Frondizi appeared to stand virtually alone in the darkest hour of his four years in office. He had the backing only of a slim hard segment of his own Radical Intransigent party.

OPP Ordered Not to Raid 'Three Joints' Says Witness

TORONTO (CP) — Provincial Police Staff Sgt. John Anderson said today he was reprimanded on crime Monday that Attorney-General Kelso Roberts ordered the OPP not to raid three major gambling clubs unless they got complaints—which they rarely did get.

Sgt. Anderson also said Mr. Roberts called a meeting of chiefs of the three, establishment-minded clubs—the Centre Road at Cedarvale, The Rosedale and Windsor Golf and Curler near Niagara Falls — because a minister had trouble collecting his bills.

Sgt. Anderson said raids on one of the clubs dwindled from 12 in 1961 to four so far this year and morale on the OPP detachment has seriously suffered because of the apparent favoritism shown by the commissioner.

Mr. MacDonald said a "soul-searching" examination by the agency has signed up 100 doctors and is signing up 15 to 20 more each year to fulfill their bills for a 14-per-cent discount.

TO PUBLISH FIGURES

Municipal Affairs Minister Cass introduced an amendment to the Municipal Act guaranteed by which municipal officials will be able to see his municipal tax and personal statement in his local paper or receive a copy of it through the mail.

The amendment, given first reading by the legislature, is aimed at focussing the public's attention on what his elected council is doing as a department official explained.

Another amendment provides that a person will be disqualified from holding office su-

Offer Canada Joint Control Of Nuclear Arms in Country

States has offered Canada joint control over nuclear weapons on Canadian territory on the basis of the Anglo-American "two-key" system, a reliable source said Monday.

The U.S. offer has been agreed upon by the Canadian and American defence departments and by the U.S. state department but as yet has not been accepted or acted on by the Ca. cabinet, the source said.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker has said Canada wants joint control with the U.S. over any nuclear weapons in Canadian territory.

But he has not defined his interpretation of "joint control" and on Feb. 16 said the phrase means that joint control is "impossible" as long as U.S. law remains unchanged.

U.S. law stipulates that American nuclear weapons must remain in American custody until they are used.

NEW SUPREME WORKS

Under the "two-key" system, the authority to use the nuclear weapons would be shared by the U.S. president. This is one key. Then Britain can decide whether or not to fire the weapons. This is the second key.

In the U.S. there are actually two keys on the firing panel of the two weapons also in Britain. One must first be turned by an American officer, then a British officer. The British officer to fire the nuclear-headed rocket.

The system means that Britain cannot decide by herself to fire the weapon but has a veto power over any firing.

The U.S. now has proposed a similar arrangement for provision of nuclear warheads to Canada's Bomarc guided missiles and Voodoo jet interceptor squadrons in Canada.

Red Scientist Wants to Go Back to Russia

THE HAGUE (Reuters)—Alexei Golub, Russian nuclear physicist who vowed to stay in The Netherlands last October "to continue my work in freedom," was in the Soviet Embassy here Monday night—arranging to go home.

A Dutch foreign ministry spokesman said Golub had asked Dutch authorities to help him get a Russian passport.

Golub and his wife visited The Hague Embassy to apply for the Russian tourists last October. The scientist decided not to go home. His wife refused to stay in Holland.

When she left there were scenes at the airport between Dutch officials and Russian embassy staff who had to be in favour of the respective ambassadors to their countries.

At the time Golub said he had planned the flight because he wanted to work in freedom.

SEEK EUROPEAN TRADE

KITCHENER (CP) — Kitchener council Monday night decided to send a three-man delegation to Germany and the United Kingdom to seek new industries for the Kitchener area.

Mayor Jacob Wingard, city traffic director who speaks fluent German, will be hampered by officials. He had not heard the names of the other two delegates.

Harvey Sol Gebrtig told the commission, about walking into a Toronto bank with two garbage bags full of pennies to pay his bills to buy a helicopter.

He was questioning some of his connections with gamblers Joseph McDermott and Vincent Rizzo at the Ontario Supreme Court hearing.

The lawyer, who told of doing "favors" for both Mr. McDermott and Feeley, explained they were "friends" who wanted to borrow the helicopter to some mining company they were interested in.

"They were going to buy it. Then the three of them walked into the bank with $4,000 in a suitcase, in $100 bills. They bought a draft for $44,000.

"Where they got the money come from?" asked Mr. Justice W. D. Kelly.

"Out of the valise," Mr. Gebrtig replied.

"I don't know their business!"

"... they're gamblers."

In response to questions from Liberal Party counsel B. J. Arnup, Mr. Gebrtig said that he considered it none of his business where the money came from.

"This was normal" he was asked about the snatched-up money.

"It didn't strike me as unusual" he said.

Legion Concerned Over Crowding Of Hospitals By Non-Veterans

OTTAWA (CP) — The Royal Canadian Legion cautioned today against allowing veterans hospitals to be over-taxed by treatment of non-veterans.

There have been instances, it told the royal commission on veterans services, where the government made use of DVA hospitals to treat various non-veteran patients such as fishermen, mariners and immigrants.

The Legion said these uses does not wish to suggest the hospital space should not be utilized to the fullest, but rather that it wish to see the services overtaxed to such an extent as might tend to limit the treatment of veterans. . . ."

The Legion was referring specifically to overseas vets seeking treatment for a non-pensionable condition on a part-payment basis, during the Korean War and Suez action. Under DVA regulations they are given preference only where the physical space is available.

Ex-servicemen receiving war veterans allowances or requiring treatment for a pensionable condition cannot be excluded from hospital.

The Legion said that under no circumstances should facilities be converted to exclude the prior right of the veteran.

It said central supervision enables the maintenance of the highest possible standard of treatment in veterans' institutions.

"If the care of veterans was placed under the jurisdiction of the 10 provincial governments the Legion foresees that there will be a lowering of standard of this uniformity of treatment and the advantages that accrue from it."

This may have been a reference to the objections that have been made before the commission that DVA hospitals should be turned over to municipal or provincial authorities by the Canadian Legion.

They were based on the contention that hospital care of veterans are being treated "in these hospitals.

The Legion argued that the physical toll taken by advancing years will mean a growing number of veterans "eligible for treatment as of right" will have to be accommodated.

"In any event there is no indication whatsoever that our enlistment of services can be justified."

BILL TO ABOLISH CLOSURE RULE GETS SUPPORT

First Reading Given Legislation

OTTAWA (CP)—The stormy pipeline debate of 1956 hovered like a ghost over the Commons Monday.

Everybody was thinking about it but nobody talked about it.

Instead, there was almost complete harmony as the Commons took the initial step towards elimination of the contentious debate-limiting rule of closure that brought the House to the brink of ballot nearly 26 years ago.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker got the ball rolling when he introduced a resolution establishing a three-man committee to consider the desirability of repealing closure. It was passed after only two opposition comments.

J. W. Pickersgill (L—Bonavista - Twillingate) suggested, without any formal action, an amendment which would have resulted in immediate repeal of the closure procedure when the committee study.

"Having regard to what has happened," said Mr. Pickersgill, "I believe that no government will ever again have the temptation the existing closure rule in the House of Commons. I do not see any sense in leaving it there."

SAVED FOUR TIMES

Mr. Pickersgill was immigration minister when the former Liberal government used closure four times in some three days to gain Commons approval by a final decision of a total of up to $80,000,000 to finance the construction of the Trans-Canada natural gas pipeline.

The Liberals' parliamentary battle the CCF group joined with the Conservatives in a bid to block the $80,000,000 measure. But it was a CCF voice Monday which said: "Let bygones be down" when the Conservatives and Liberals joined forces in a bid to block the pipeline in the 1956 piece.

Ernest Regier (CCF — Burnaby-Coquitlam), who fought in the pipeline battle, made the only reference to the issue of 1956 debate, though he, too, carefully refrained from naming it.

He said it was "a very poor custom" to have to use the closure guillotine to get legislation through and completely abolish the rule. "It would be a step in the right ward a rule of peace and law not in quiet."

SUPPORTS MEASURE

Outside Conservative J. W. Hurdge, parliamentary leader of the CCF-New Democratic Party group, all Opposition members support committee study of the closure rule, and all put forward their views, on closure then.

Mr. Diefenbaker said that as long as the rules provide for the use of closure they are necessary. The procedure had been introduced in the Canadian parliament in 1913 when members could speak for unlimited time.

Canada Proposes Two-Point Draft For Space Peace

Asks Delegates for 'Solemn Agreement'

GENEVA (CP) — Canada today proposed a two-point draft declaration as a major step toward a "rule of peace and law" in outer space.

External Affairs Minister Green, speaking at a plenary session of the 17-nation disarmament conference, urged delegates "solemnly" to agree upon:

1. The prohibition of the orbiting or stationing in outer space of devices for delivering weapons of mass destruction.

2. Advance notification of launching of space vehicles and missiles to the secretary-general of the United Nations and, when established, to the international space organization or agency.

Green suggested that a discussion of the declaration should start not later than Wednesday morning.

He said it should be studied in the so-called "collateral committee," set up largely at Canada's insistence, to facilitate early consideration of certain initial disarmament measures not covered by the general committee.

The collateral committee has not yet met.

REES COMMON GROUND

Green said he regards outer space as a useful "point of departure" for discussion because of the swift pace of technology in the field and because of the common ground existing between the big powers on the issue.

"My delegation considers that it would be of great significance to give formal recognition to the large measure of agreement which already exists on these two points, (prohibition and advance notification) in the present 3-to-1 stage of the disarmament plans."

Green's contention is that the Canadian draft declaration should be signed by the 17 countries, and so the Geneva conference. Others could enter later.

"These two measures provide for early action which would immediately the climate of international confidence necessary to ensure further progress in outer space. The acceptance of the proposed draft declaration would be a significant step toward a rule of peace and law in outer space."

Green's speech dovetails with the strategy Canada has been pursuing throughout the 10-week meeting.

SHOULD START AT ONCE

While the big powers are preoccupied with Berlin and nuclear testing, Canada and the wavers patiently and persistently plug away on the theme that a start should be made on measures in the disarmament field which the area of East-West agreement appears promising.

The Canadian policy speech March 19, Green proposed seven

U.S., Russia Now Developing A Nerve Gas

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Army is making "considerable progress" in developing a nerve gas which could rob the inhabitants of a large city of any defence effectiveness, for several hours.

Finn Larsen, assistant army secretary, told the Senate armed services committee in testimony made public Monday that the Russians are stockpiling an appreciable amount of similar gas.

Larsen agreed with chairman Richard Russell (D—Ga.) that the Russians could use such a gas in an attempt to gain control of Western Europe's industrial complex without destroying it.

Considerable progress had been made in developing this gas.

"It is an effective . . . which disorientates a person, makes a person incapable of realizing what he is doing under the influence of the gas," he said. "It is a nerve gas, a new nerve."

Larsen said the victims would be disabled temporarily but would suffer no permanent injury.

Driver Found Dead in Car

PEMBROKE (CP) — William Hugh McLenehan, a 37-year-old salesman from Shawville, Que., near Bowmanville, was found dead near his overturned car, a mile north of Orono Monday.

The body was discovered by Constable Lawrence Gregg, Scugmiller of Golden Lake, Mr. McLenehan's car apparently went out of control on a cutoff from Highway 41.

Provincial police would be held today to determine whether he died of injuries in the crash or from a seizure.

DISMISS CAR THEFT CHARGE

A charge of car theft was dismissed against Peter E. Zilney in city magistrate's court when the crown told the magistrate it was offering no evidence.

Peter Zilney and a juvenile first been charged with stealing a 1951 Chevrolet from the market square, opposite the city police station, owned by A. Herrington of R. R. 1, Belleville.

The juvenile was returned to the training school in connection with the theft.

MONTREAL FAIR IS REMANDED

Two Montreal men, Leslie Lee and Gregory Slaimcek, appeared in city magistrate's court here this morning, charged with being in possession of an offensive weapon, a .22 calibre automatic revolver.

The two men were arrested over the weekend by city police on Bleecker Street. Bail was set at $1,000 each. No election was made and no plea entered at this time.

They were remanded until April 3rd to be further remanded until April 9, for trial.

TORONTO MAN FACES CHARGE

A 37-year-old Toronto man, Howard D. Beaus, appeared here in city magistrate's court today facing a charge of being in possession of a stolen car which was recovered in the city last Friday night. The car had been reported stolen from Toronto earlier this month.

No election was made today by the accused and no date was selected. Bail was set at $1,000. The case was remanded until Friday, March 30th.

PLEADS GUILTY TO SHOPLIFTING

A man of no fixed address, Leslie A. Fry, appeared in city court last Tuesday on a charge of shoplifting from a local clothing store.

The accused pleaded guilty to the charge and was remanded until today to appear for sentence.

He was sentenced this morning to three months in jail by Magistrate J. R. Wills.

Evidence in the case was heard last week.

BELLEVILLE YOUTH GIVEN SIX MONTHS

Magistrate Wills this morning sentenced a Belleville youth Joseph William DeSadie to six months in jail when he failed to make restitution to the court for damage caused to two automobiles, which he was charged with stealing earlier this year.

The magistrate had given the accused a considerable length of time to make restitution and told him in passing sentence this morning that he had brought this all on himself.

10 Per Cent More Paid To Agencies

A further distribution of 10 percent to the participating agencies was approved by the United Appeal Board of Directors at their regular monthly meeting held at the Y.M.C.A. last night. This represents an additional $7,250, and brings the total distributed from last year's campaign for the agencies' 1962 operations to $43,000, or 70 percent of the total objective.

The following appointments to the Budget Committee, chaired by Mr. E. G. Gurnett, were approved by the Board — Mrs. J. H. Forrester, E. S. Fairman, J. N. Vanover, Mrs. Whitehead, Mrs. Leo each and Harold A. Parker, E. L. Burnham and L. Macaskas. The duties of this committee are to investigate the financial position and requirements of the participating agencies and to recommend to the Board of Directors the amount of money to be raised in the city and surrounding areas for each participant.

Other committees, the "Participating Agencies" and the "Public Relations and Publicity" reported briefly on their organizing, the latter in particular, through the chairman, Mrs. J. Lennox Smith, outlining a basic plan to handle Community Relations, Publicity and Group Education.

Rotarians Hear Special Talk On Arthritis

Local Rotarians were given an insight of the problems of arthritic diseases and of the work which the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society was doing by Dr. J. R. Swanson, the medical director for the Ontario division of the CARS. Dr. Swanson spoke to the club members and guests at the regular weekly meeting of the Rotary Club yesterday afternoon at the Hotel Quinte.

Arthritis, the speaker explained, is a group of diseases involving the inflammation of the joints. Through research it is hoped to isolate these varieties of the disease so that the cure for each may be determined. Gout, he advised, which appears to be most readily contracted by businessmen or executives under pressure, is now curable. Several other cures are secured through the research projects carried on by the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society, were also mentioned.

Rheumatoid arthritis, described as a "living death," by the speaker, was listed as the most crippling of diseases. It has a very severe crippling effect upon the victim. But if caught in its early stages, can have these effects offset to a considerable degree through long-range treatment.

It was important for the public to be made aware of these diseases and to raise funds for research, Dr. Swanson said. He congratulated the club on being instrumental in the formation of the local branch of CARS which is a member agency of the United Appeal.

The speaker was introduced by Rotarian Harold Mott and thanked by Rotarian Enos Devid, the immediate past president of the local branch of CARS. Several members of the local branch were introduced by the club president Rotarian Robe Freeman.

Wellington Man Remanded on False Pretences

A 31-year-old Wellington man, Donald Lee McMeiser, was remanded for one week in city magistrate's court this morning when he appeared before Magistrate T. Y. Wills on a charge of obtaining food and lodging under false pretences.

Inspector McLauchlan told the court that the accused had been boarding at the home of a Belleville woman, Mrs. Isabelle Smith, survival _courte_ ' and that he had run up a bill in the amount of $60.

When a cheque, written by the accused in the amount of $40 was presented at the bank, it was found McMurter had no account there.

The Inspector said a warrant was issued and he was apprehended by the Trenton police and brought back to Belleville to answer to the charge. He will appear for sentence on April 3.

Rusk, Gromyko Say Talks On Berlin Are Progressing

GENEVA (AP) — U.S. State Secretary Rusk and Soviet Foreign Minister Gromyko announced today they have made "some progress" in their Geneva talks toward clarifying points of agreement and points of disagreement" in the East-West dispute over Berlin.

Rusk flies back to Washington today for consultations with President Kennedy that the Berlin dispute remains serious but is unlikely to explode into a new crisis in the foreseeable future.

In a joint statement the two ministers said they agreed to "resume contact in an appropriate way" after reporting to their governments and consulting with their allies. It was expected they would resume their discussions through their ambassadors in Moscow and Washington.

There was no immediate explanation of what else was meant by "points of agreement" in the Berlin discussion U.S. officials said they could not further size has made any change in the basic positions.

TALKS TO GO ON

But Rusk and Gromyko did apparently give each other the impression that they felt it was de important to continue discussing the dispute in order to keep it from leading to war.

Immediately after issuing the joint statement, Rusk met with the Western disarmament conference and proposed that it give priority to the discussion of steps he said could be taken this spring:

1. Reverse the upward spiral of destructive capability, which, he declared, could by 1966 double what it is today."

2. Reverse "the trend toward diffusion of nuclear capability to new nations."

3. Reach agreement on measures to reduce the risk of war by accident, miscalculation, or surprise attack."

P.E. County Mill Rate Struck at 17

PICTON — A county tax rate of seventeen mills is observed by Prince Edward County Council at its March session here today. This is an increase of .477 mills over last year.

The 17 mill rate raises $418,-200.00. There has been an increase of $20,000 noted in the value of the mill due to increased assessment, and the 1962 mill rate yields $7,178 and $803 more than last year's tax unit. In effect, the increase is more in the nature of one mill.

Contributing chiefly to the increase is the $400,000 for roads, salaries and the Health Unit.

Raised for roads in 1961 was $181,150, or 7.61 mills; for 1962 $400,000, or 7.78 mills.

Salary increases total $1,200. The Health Unit expenditure is for approximately $3,000, by virtue of employing a full time dental officer. Court of Health who will serve only Prince Edward County, and not also Lennox and Addington as last year.

Chief expenditures of the $706,138 budget include salaries, $19,844; indemnities of council, $4,000; printing and postage, $2,500; maintenance of Shire hall, $8,500; administration of justice, $5,875; industrial school, $1,750; weed inspector, $1,400; grants, $100,000; child welfare, $60,000; hospitalization, indigents and insurance $4,000; County roads, $52,421; interest on bank loan, $17,500; grants, $7,150; county office, $1,000; fair grounds, $2,000; Health Unit, $25,833; miscellaneous contingencies, $14,739.

Revenue includes: County rate, $418,200; fines and forfeits, $208,150; County House, $70,976; grants $1,000 for weeds, $1,500 for county assessor and $2,500 in lieu of taxes; $3,966 surplus 1961.

BOARD PLANS MOVE

KITCHENER (CP) — Kitchener separate school board took a first step Monday night toward vacating the converted school washroom that has served as its meeting place for more than 30 years. The board awarded a contract to build an administration centre at a cost of nearly $20,000 on the site of one of its 11 schools.

Woman Burned When Smock Catches Fire

PICTON — Mrs. Wallet Brough, Ferguson Street, was admitted to Kingston General Hospital suffering from burns on the hands and back as a result of her clothing catching fire. She was standing near the kitchen stove when her smock ignited and the flames shot up and caught in her hair. She pulled off the fire in an effort to extinguish the flames. Mrs. Brough's daughter Lise Ida, heard her cries and helped tear the smock from her mother's back. Mrs. Brough reported resting comfortably yesterday afternoon.

Youth Given Day in Jail

An Oshawa youth, James H. Campbell, was given a suspended one day in jail this morning by Magistrate Wills when he pleaded guilty to a charge of vagrancy.

The accused appeared last week and was remanded until today for further investigation.

Inspector McLauchlan told the court that Campbell was found late at night wandering around the Belleville C.P.R. depot without Ben Safe blocks.

Magistrate Wills told Campbell he would have to stay out of trouble if he was going to stay around here.

IN MEMORIAM

GRIFFIN — In loving memory of a dear wife, Lillian M. Griffin, who passed away March 27, 1956.

Now I rest their memory still,
Sh happy hours we once enjoyed,
But dearly has left a void,
The world can never fill.
—Ever remembered by her husband Ernest.

MARACLE — In memory of a very dear friend, Josh Maracle, who passed away March 27th, 1960.

In memory of bygone days,
And a gift for a friend.
A constant reading that God alone,
Knows just what should have been.
—Ever remembered and sadly missed by Ethel.

MARACLE — In loving memory of my dear father, Joshua Maracle, who died March 27th, 1960.

Only God knows how I miss you,
And his dear face I could see,
Heaven's gain is earth's loss,
I know would come over me,
But he is with God above,
Far from sin and pain.
We hope Jesus will receive in Me,
And then shall see him again.
—Ever remembered by his daughter-in-law Hazel and children.

SHERRY — In loving memory of my dear husband, Stanley Sherry, who passed away March 27th, 1960.

Oh happy home that we once knew,
Where love and memory still,
But death hath left a void,
The world can never fill.
—Ever remembered by his wife Maude.

WALSH — In loving memory of my dear son, Ronald Walsh, who passed away March 27, 1960.

Sweet memories are all we have,
And those we treasure most,
Now the day would bring;
For the call was sudden, the shock severe,
To part with one we loved so dear,
Sadly missed by Leona and Dad.

MOWES — In loving and cherished memory of our dear father, Delcie Margaret, who passed away March 27th, 1956.

Peacefully sleeps the one dear one.
In God's own garden she's now at rest;
She left us silently, her thought unknown,
But we left as a memory we are proud of her own.
Quick was the death they came the call
From above.
Her passing was a shock to all.
Deep in the hearts of those who knew her lives still.
—Sadly remembered by Mom, Dad and brother Bob.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Weakness prevailed on the stock market today, but Slater Steel continued to hold the spotlight, trading heavily amid the general decline.

Slater jumped into prominence Monday with the disclosure that it was the company behind the mysterious takeover bid for Foundation Company. With news the move had been successful, Slater climbed more than a point to 14.

In the first hour of trading today, the stock turned over 3,181 shares, rising ½.

Elsewhere among industrials, losses of ¼ went to Bell Telephone, Algoma Steel, Consolidated Paper, Imperial Oil and Bank of Montreal.

Among the few gainers were Consumers Gas, ahead ½, general Motors, up ¼, and Massey-Ferguson, up ⅛.

On the exchange index, industrials dropped 1.09 to 622.83 and golds 30 to 86.48—their lowest since September last year. Base metals rose .35 to 205.30 and western oils dipped .25 to 119.22. The 11 a.m. volume was 818,000 shares compared with 794,000 at the same time Monday.

Slater, acting vigorously on rumors that it was the company behind the mysterious offer two weeks ago for 300,000 shares of Foundation Company of Canada Ltd., jumped 1⅛ to 14, on a turnover of more than 25,000 shares. It had earlier gone to a new high of 14¾.

Following the close of the market, Foundation announced that Slater "is the new major shareholder" of the company.

Elsewhere on the market general weakness predominated and all sections of the industrial board were down. Federal Grain took the biggest loss, off 1¾ at 33 on a small turnover. Building Products dropped ¼ and Imperial Life and Maclaren Pulp and Paper A each one point.

On index, industrials were down 1.50 at 623.82 and golds 1.10 at 86.79, their lowest point since October. Base metals declined 26 at 205.24 and western oils advanced .16 at 119.47. The volume was 2,882,000 shares compared with 3,073,000 Friday.

Losses among junior base metals issues was mainly responsible for the decline in that index. Among seniors, Falconbridge and International Nickel each gained ½; Northgate was best among speculatives with a 40-cent gain at $6.60.

At one point last week it appeared that the Russian might succeed in smothering the Canadian "collateral" proposals under a procedural blanket, but Green in a firm speech insisted on bringing the collateral committee into being.

In his speech today, Green noted that Soviet and American proposals on outer space, as set forth in the Russian draft treaty and the U.S. plan for disarmament, are "almost identical" in some respects.

He said he is "aware" that a committee on outer space meeting in New York, its activities were, however, essentially restricted to co-operation in the peaceful use of outer space. Under his speech, the Canadian External Affairs Minister gave a luncheon at the hotel for delegates from the 17 countries.

Kiwanis Follies This Season Bigger, Better

Maintaining a well-established tradition of fine entertainment, the Rondeaunettes take the town by storm starting Thursday night—by a storm of laughter! Kiwanis Follies '62, fresh from three successful performances in Trenton, will treat Belleville audiences to rollicking wit—smartly paced song-and-dancer routines and novelty numbers that are guaranteed to bring the house down.

The years seem to add a special polish to Kiwanis Follies as well as evidenced by the shows this week. Twelve years ago the idea was born with William Long of Trenton, who organized a group of people who enjoyed playing together. Originally it was an all-girl group that took the name from the type of singing that it performed—and later the men joined up to help present identifit shows for the Community. Create and Save hospital. For the past five years its efforts have been on behalf of the Kiwanis Clubs.

Every member of Follies '62 —this year there are girls and eight men—is a volunteer and part of a closely knit group interested in providing solid, family entertainment. Sharp comedy touches are provided by the familiar team to Burke and Bannon—and institutions such as Belleville Tax—churches and J. F. K. all come in for a big spoofing that wins instant responses from the audience.

Mingled with the dashes of humor in Follies '62 are old favorites, sweet songs and patriotic tunes, pointed up with brilliant costumes and intricate dance routines. Versatile dancers Judy Lynn McKnight and Dianne McCallum add their special talents—and this year a four-piece orchestra organized by Jack Hammer adds the last professional touch to a sparkling show.

The versatile feminine chorus group includes Glenda Jeffery, Fran Beamon, Nora Stout, Iona Huber, Bernadette Logan, Iris Hawker, Josephine Mancaro, Dianne, Graham and Joan McAdam. Able male assistance is provided by Doug Beamon, Tom Fraser, Tim Cook, Bill White, Frank Hamilton, Al Hall, Roy Hawker and Bob Burke. Behind the quick pacing the original lyrics and the smart routines is the talented direction of William Long, who ably executes the responsibility of co-ordinating the many things into a solid, snappy and professional show.

Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week, Follies '62 goes on the boards for the Kiwanis Club of Belleville with proceeds going toward the many community projects undertaken by this club. From here the untiring cast moves on to a performance at the Ontario Hospital in Kingston and then on to a holiday weekend show to be presented at Twelve Lodge in Muskoka.

Two Trenton Students Win At Cobourg

TRENTON — The Royal Canadian Legion Branch of Cobourg this past weekend was the scene of the district Public Speaking Contest, the hall bubbled over with enthusiasm and excitement as 18 contestants prepared to give their best talk.

Approximately 150 proud parents and friends and interested spectators sat glued on their seats as these youngsters expounded with vigor as good as any professional speaker on the city.

There were four classifications and Trenton can be justly proud of Miss Isobel Williamson, who took top honors in the Junior High School division, and of Andrew Pipe who took top honors in the Senior Elementary division.

These youngsters now advance to Port Hope on April 3 to participate in the area finals, the speak-off will get under way at 8 p.m. and all those interested are urged to keep this date open.

Cobourg Branch of the Royal Canadian Legion are to be congratulated for the way in which they handled this contest and for the lunch and refreshments they supplied to the contestants and audience at the conclusion.

Operating Loss $50,353—Mayor

TRENTON—In a statement to the press today, Mayor James Mc Mullen reported that that there had been an operating loss on 1961 town expenditures of $50,353.

In 1960, there was a surplus of $18,000

"This loss", said the mayor, "was not the result of over expenditures but of significant amount but was due, rather to an overestimate of the revenues from other than tax sources."

This revenue was overestimated by $42,546, which represents the amount received by the town from the provincial government, over and above the capita grant

The mill rate has already been reduced by this amount and thus the effect was to duplicate the cutback.

Other factors affecting the deficit were principally the $15,000 increase in welfare needed to cover the taxes unpaidable, and the two items amounted to $21,000,

The town had budgeted for $1,643,258.14 to run its various departments. Actually, $1,639,-811.48 was spent. Total revenue was $1,589,257.62, leaving a deficit of $50,353.65.

Departments affected by the overexpenditure were: police department; fire department; health; education.

Spending in other departments and grouped under miscellaneous amounted for $30,-000 of the deficit.

Mayor MacDonald said that he had requested authorization of one grant allowance had come to light a few weeks ago.

Post Office Wins Bonspiel

Runners up was the Bachelor Rink, skipped by Ivor Elliott with Norm McKay, Don Bailey and Jack Price.

Sixteen rinks participated in the event.

New executive members for 1962 are: Angus Cameron, president; Bill Ley, secretary-treasurer; Ivor Elliott, treasurer.

John Howard Speaker Owns Affinity for Bank Robbers

TRENTON A. M. Kirkpatrick, executive director of the John Howard Society at provincial level, who admits that he has "an affinity for bank robbers," was the guest speaker at last night's annual meeting of the Trenton branch of the society.

"What I mean by an affinity," said Mr. Kirkpatrick, "is that I seem to have dealt predominantly with bank robbers of the society assist them in finding employment and supply financial assistance where possible and indicated.

Mr. Kirkpatrick spoke of the importance of the parole system that the parolee was, in effect, serving out the balance of his or her sentence, under supervision, in the community.

The speaker pointed out that it had cost the country $2,082 per man last year to keep men in prison. Added to this was the cost of providing for wives and families in some cases and the fact that the man had ceased to produce, in an economic sense. He said that operational costs to Canada for penal institutions last year had been upwards of 19 million dollars and $21 million had been spent on the various new prisons or additions to existing.

Mr. Kirkpatrick said that from an economic standpoint, if nothing else, it paid to place offenders on parole and see to it that they did not return to prison.

Speaking of the work of the society, Mr. Kirkpatrick said and he thanked, a visitor from Britain had told him that Canada was "twenty years ahead of the United Kingdom" in rehabilitation work.

He said that groups of citizens such as the local branch of the society, could reach out and help their fellow-man with compassion. They say to the offenders, in effect, "there's a hand waiting to help you back."

"It's useless to preach split. that's what men and women in prison unless you provide material assistance when they come out," Mr. Kirkpatrick said.

William Menzies, 1961 secretary of the local body, reported that the branch had dealt with eight cases in the last year. He said that the workers had had unsatisfactory results with two cases, but that the remaining six cases were showing progress.

Retiring president Jack Goldberg thanked his executive officers for their co-operation in the past year.

The 1962 slate of officers was read and approved by the members. Herb Hastey will be president and other officers are: Bill Lawson, vice-president; secretary, Alec Campbell; treasurer, Walter Stevie; immediate past president, Jack Goldberg.

Directors: William Menzies, Rev. J. G. Irwin, Rev. J. G. Clancy, Rev. Alec Wakeling, Eben James, Bob Rimmer, Eric Dewsnap, W. E. Donaldson, Ross Grier, Dr. C. K. Hers.

Canadians' Saving Habits

"There was a time when most of us were able to save a little as we went along and accumulate sufficient to enable us to finance our retirement years," says the writer of a letter to the Toronto Globe and Mail.

His contention is that it is no longer possible for Canadians to save because of high taxes.

This analysis of both past and present conditions is open to question. When taxes were lower, many Canadians did save, but there were others who, during their working years, never made much more than what was necessary to provide the bare essentials. Despite high taxes, because of higher incomes more Canadians could save today, at least as much as their fathers did, if they were willing to live as simply as did earlier generations. And, despite the higher standard of living and higher taxes, many Canadians still manage to save substantial amounts.

All this, though, is beside the main point which the letter-writer makes, perhaps unintentionally. "We are now on a different system," he says. We are indeed, and the extent to which it would be impossible to change it without grave injustice is proportionate to the accuracy of his earlier observation that high taxes prevent Canadians from saving. If this is true, it would obviously be most unfair if persons who had been unable to provide for their own future because they were so heavily taxed to pay welfare benefits to others were denied the right to receive similar benefits when their own earning days were over. Turning back the clock in the welfare field is virtually impossible, which is, of course, one reason why the most careful study should be given before instituting any new welfare scheme.

The major trouble with Canadians' saving habits, though, is not so much that they do not possess them but that they tend to save in the most cautious manner, according to H. Li Rowland, vice-president of a Toronto investment house, Canadians are actually saving at a high rate compared with the savings of citizens of other countries. Nearly a quarter of the gross national product goes into savings. But too large a share of this total is put in the equivalent of the traditional sock.

Canadians favor such investments as life insurance, government bonds and mortgages and other debt securities. Life insurance companies, in their turn, invest in bonds and mortgages. Such funds, of course, serve a useful purpose—but they do little to increase the country's capacity to produce. Risk capital is obtained from foreign sources, chiefly the United States, and Canadians then complain bitterly about U. S. control of our economy.

Perhaps the term "risk capital" ought to be changed. Such investment involves risk, it is true, but it would be equally true to call it "opportunity capital," for it carries with it the opportunity of gain. In today's world there is no chance of big gains from the investment (as distinguished from the insurance), angle of life insurance, or from investment in government bonds. There is, however, the virtual certainty of loss, that the invested dollars, when returned to the investor, will buy less than they would have done when he invested them.

In their caution, Canadians are defeating their objective, to conserve their savings. The current trend towards investment in mutual funds suggests that an increasing number of average Canadians are becoming aware of this fact and, while shunning the possibility of heavy losses always inherent in an effort to "pick a winner" in the stock market, are demonstrating their faith in the future of their country by the investment in equities rather than debt securities.

Sounds Like Interference

It appears that a few days ago four members of the Victoria College rugby team, in Victoria, B.C., of course, were originally charged with theft and causing wilful damage following a series of incidents aboard the government motor vessel "Sidney."

One lad was the son of a government official, whilst the others were "members of other prominent Victoria families," to quote the report.

When they appeared in court, however, the charges had been reduced to "interfering"; more specifically, interfering with a plaque, interfering with a life jacket, interfering with a lifebuoy and interfering with a "no admittance" sign.

Well, we are not too sure just how one manages to interfere with inanimate objects but it sounds as though there had been some interference somewhere along the line as far as the human element was concerned.

PC's Growing Restless As They Watch Liberals Electioneering

BY RICHARD JACKSON
(From The Ontario Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau)

OTTAWA — It must be getting increasingly difficult for Prime Minister Diefenbaker to watch impatiently Liberal Leader Pearson, footloose and fancy free, busily cultivating the grass roots, before he dares and just about everywhere across the country.

Little more than a week ago, Mr. Pearson was flying down East in a slick, new 50-passenger plane, with a full cargo of newspapermen, for five days of aerial whistle-stopping across the Maritimes.

That was his second Maritime excursion in the past six months to make speeches, knock on doors, visit hospitals, tour industrial plants, stop at gas stations and road-side dineries, shake hands, make friends, influence people and win votes.

Just the other day he did an afternoon-evening meet-the-people tour of Belleville, Napanee and Kingston, and this weekend will be appearing in Cobourg, Toronto, and all the satellite communities of Metro.

All this is making a great many stay-at-home Conservatives just a little restlessly anxious, for it demonstrates the comparative free-and-easy mobility of Opposition Leaders in contrast to the ties-of-responsibility-that-bind Prime Ministers to Parliament Hill.

TIME LIMIT

Of course, the Prime Minister can get away on a week-end for weekends and for quickie out-and-back overnight campaign excursions.

But during the regular Monday-through-Friday Parliamentary workday he remains pretty well stuck with the chore of keeping store in the Commons.

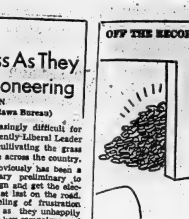
It means that when he escapes from Parliament Hill he has to make every minute count, and so takes those increasingly frequent trips travelling by air at night so that he may squeeze 16 to 18 hours of work into the day, an exercise that seems to leave everybody but him and himself limp with exhaustion.

It was just the other day in Toronto that Conservative party-spoken Works Minister Walker complained that "only nine" Liberals were in the House at work with him on examination of his departmental estimates.

The other Liberals were, after all out campaigning, but it's a safe bet that some, perhaps most, of them were.

Liberal Frontbencher and Old Pro Lionel Chevrier, who is both electioneering through Western Canada in general and his own Essex East constituency in particular "like it was his first time out," is the hare the admiring, and concerned, Conservatives tell it.

Mr. Chevrier, of course, is not alone.



Miss Julia Verlyn (Judy) LaMarsh, a young lady loaded with political pep and ginger has been stumping the land as if the voters were going to the polls next Monday.

BIG TEAM

Mr. Jack W. "Jolly Jawn" Pickersgill Opposition Frontbench sharp-shooter, has been hitting the hustings in his spare time medicine show man . . . and Leader (Dief the) Child Chevrier . . . Liberal Defence Critic Paul Hellyer . . . former C. D. Howe Transport Minister Mitchell Sharp . . . Toronto economist and effective whip, Walter Gordon . . . and a half dozen others on Mike Pearson's front bench, are busily out working as if the election were the day after tomorrow.

Meanwhile, outside the restless Conservatives, they sit warming their backsides in the Commons and they sit warming Opposition . . . and getting their political lumps from both the Liberals and the CCF-NDP Opposition, while they ply their daily trade working and their nights dreaming up ways of how to get themselves back.

As the days slip away, more and more Conservative members with the Prime Minister would quickly end what all

"Well, sir, your uncle has left you fifty thousand."

J. M. Carl of Stirling is the grand champion of the Quinte Seed Fair which concludes today in Kingston. Mr. Carl won the hanscome watch, emblematic of the title, presented by the Central Ontario Cheesemakers' Association. Other district prize-winners who finished well in the running are C. H. Ketcheson of Sidney, Harry Reder of Ameliasburg, R. Vandewater of Foxboro, Oscar Parks of Bloomfield, Roy Harmon of Plainfield old well in the grain classes.

Expressing the high measure of confidence placed in their previous year's executive, members of the Central Ontario Ayrshire Breeders' Club, oldest association of its kind in Ontario, returned its entire slate of officers at the annual meeting held at the Queen's Hotel on Friday afternoon. T. D. Creighton of Bath will again head the club for the ensuing year; W. A. Hunter of Campbellcroft was returned as vice-president and W. E. Trimmon of Foxboro as secretary-treasurer. Thirteen directors officiating last year were again voted into office.

Four baby girls were born and a girl, came before the magistrate's court on Friday, and the youths as well as their parents were all given a severe lecture by the magistrate, and warned that unless they changed their ways they would be dealt with severely. The parents were told they must have more time over their children and see that they kept the proper hours and the proper company.

To Your Good Health

Here Are a Few Things To Do if You Have the Itch

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: About six weeks ago I developed an intense itch. It comes and at unusual times and places — it wakes me out of a sound sleep from 4 to 5 a.m. and attacks the bottoms of my feet and toes, and palms of hands and fingers. It is more maddening than pain. Otherwise I am in superb health. — Disconsolate.

A casual itch, of course, doesn't mean a problem. Severers, continuing one, does. Something must be causing it. It's a symptom.

It's astonishing how many different things can cause an itch, from very simple to very complicated. Among them are metabolic disorders, infection, allergy, local skin ailments, external irritants, many types of clothes, at night), external irritants, excessive, dryness.

Blood disorders, such as which is common, leukemia which isn't, and others) can be associated with itch.

Plain nerves can cause it. For one possibility, a person can be laboring under some worrisome problem and, during sleep, the early part of the night, only to be wakened later as subconsciously the person senses in its way through to the conscious mind again. It's possible, I said! This is not an effort to guess the answer in the present case.

Since you are in "superb health," and things like this appeared only recently, it is not very helpful to speculate.

Here's what I'd do if it were my itch:

Consult a dermatologist to learn whether skin disorder is involved. A specialist can recognize and treat it, and, if never even notices, if the itch is a skin problem, it can be treated as such.

— If it isn't that, at least you've eliminated it as a big category of possibilities. At that point, I'd look for a way to see whether my health is really as superb as I think, and I'd have my doctor check, with at least basic tests to see whether my metabolism or other body system might be getting somewhat out of balance.

If it's nerves, allergy, some infection or one of the other possibilities, you've got pretty sure of having a strong clue turn up in one or the other of these examinations.

Dear Dr. Molner: We have a chrome plated vacuum coffee maker. The inside of the bottom has worn off. Is there any serious danger from the coffee? Would it be harmful to drink? — D.B.

It's doubtful if it could pick up enough of that to be harmful, and it did, the copper in such quantity would tend to induce vomiting and causes. Anyway, think of all the copper in a kettle, pan or stove we use for generations without harming anyone.

Dear Dr. Molner: I've read about venereal diseases in my wooden if it is possible to have one of them without knowing it.

Previous to marriage I had several affairs but so far as I know never contracted any disease. Once I was treated for a slight discharge but treatment was just douching with a solution.

I had the usual blood test for marriage and it was negative, and in six years I have had two healthy children.

I've been considering another blood test, but there are no symptoms except a guilty conscience. — Mrs. R.

Undoubtedly you had blood tests for your two pregnancies as well as before marriage and had disease been present, it would have been picked up and set it. The only advice I have for a nagging conscience is to let the past be forgotten and put all your thoughts on the present and future.

"You Can Stop Sinus Trouble!" is the title of my booklet explaining what sinus trouble really is, and encouraging sinus sufferers to do something about it. 'Help Wanted' Ads Are Not Always Honest

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

There is a lot of talk about honesty in advertising, and most of it is directed at the massive million-dollar radio pitches. But I would venture that most of the dishonest small advertising comes from people we know, when we insert a "Help Wanted" in the classified sections.

We advertised for a new maid last week, and our invitation sounded as though we were offering a palace and diamonds in the Garden of Allah. Your home — gas, TV, hot bath, pd. vacation, Blue Cross, etc.

Actually, if we had been honest, we would have advertised something like this:

"Wanted — General housekeeper, cook, maid, child care, laundry. Must be able to be industrious, faithful, cheerful, thrifty, brave, clean and reverent. Willing to work from dawn to dusk, and even later. Must have our children's best health, sacrifice days off for our convenience, keep our home personal life and be perfectly content to stay in a small cell with no privacy and relatively working.

No pension plan. No fringe benefits. No inducements that are offered by commerce or industry. Good, long hours, boring duties. If fascinated, call and come for interview."

It must be recognized, of course, that this sort of fraud is left both with the "Situations Wanted" columns, the job seekers interpreting the open grandiloquent deception by representing themselves as "Exp., Neat, Reliable, Refined, Attchv."

Why, too, had been wholly honest, they would have advertised something like this:

"Wanted — Middle-aged family of two employed adults and child of six. Must be indifferent housekeeper and poor cook; Saturdays and Sundays off; no dinner parties. Husband immediate alcoholic with arthritis; expect advances and raises by country, and will not accompany family on summer vacation; no time off for illness. Must clean with 'detached hostility; can not wash windows. Husband is arm-world's worst ironer. Smoke in bed. Require 21-inch color TV set."

I've never known a family who frankly stated, "We're strikers to work for, and you can't blame the last four maids for walking out on us. We're a domestic who ever admitted "I'm also a drunk, because I can't do anything else, but don't expect me to do it well."

At any rate, if you know someone who's looking for a housekeeper-nurse in the Garden of Allah, there's this marvelous family named Harris who's children make Albert Schweitzer look like a delinquent, and who do practically everything around the house themselves, except clean the rugs and iron.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

HOW YOU CAN SUCCEED

In the first place you must want to succeed. And that it's like selecting the ways and means whereby you take a journey.

But we will suggest a few ideas. First, it is most important that you have a well-rounded life. That will give confidence to the one who believes in his job, and who of us can succeed without some rare spirit believing in us.

You must have an objective. And that objective must be carefully planned out and outlined as is the drawing of the architect before the builder begins his work. Then you must stay with that objective. This is the most insidious and most discouraging of all your tasks. The long digging of the ground before the strong foundations are placed, discouragements, hours of hopelessness, and that distressing something that eats away at your energy like a thousand leeches as you plod out the great desires of your heart.

But remember this: It often takes much longer to lay the foundations than it does the building itself. And the building is dependent wholly upon a strong foundation.

You say you want to become a writer. Then you must be able to feel deeply. To feel deeply you must know life. To know life you must have experience, you must have a background of all kinds of things in life rich, broad and extensive to write deeply. Success but a matter of expression . . . revealing of your thoughts, a revelation of your hopes and sorrow along the way of your life and of other lives.

We all have eyes to see and minds to interpret. But no two of us interpret life in the same manner. If they expressed correctly.

If you aspire to write, then you must be you — none other! It is much easier to succeed than to fail. Success is always ahead — failure behind. You learn to walk right past failure on your way to success. Good luck to you, you can—I know!

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The hostility to jazz, and to the more abstract and non-representational art forms characterizes a good many of the older generation, according to the Packsack, writes, according to a psychologist friend of mine, from our ignorance of the perfectly natural and normal ordering of these new forms of expression.

Young members of the older generation," he says "have accepted, with the grandest assurance, the new forms of the push-button age. To you, the mechanization of music which began with the invention of the electric light. You are old enough to remember the talkies. You had to go to all the bother of getting rid of the horse manure. You have lived, then, all through the gradual and then furiously accelerating era that began with the light switch, then the electric refrigerator, the toaster, the oil furnace, the washer, the dryer, the radio, the TV, and now the electric carving knife and aged finger needs only to push a button to change gears. You have taken all this in your stride. It has all been a matter of course. Now you fall utterly to recognize is that the revolt in art, in music, in youth, is a perfectly natural revolt against this awful march of mechanization. Some of you are even angry. They do more than deplore you. They resent the way of life which you have perfected."

Mafia Drops Net of Fear Over Messina Assize Court

MESSINA, Sicily (AP)—The invisible hand of the dreaded Mafia has dropped a net of fear over the assizes court here where four Capuchin monks are on trial for murder and extortion.

Terror stalked the countryside around their Maggarino monastery deep in the mountains of central Sicily four years ago. Sums of money were extorted from wealthy farmers and shopkeepers. Refusal to pay meant a smashed shop, a home consumed by fire, a sudden beating—or death by the shotgun slaying of farmer Angelo Cannada, 74.

The four bearded friars were arrested, with three peasants, two years ago. Police said they were the authors of the terror, along with monastery gardener Carmelo lo Bartolo. His death in a prison cell after his arrest was listed as suicide.

The crimes ascribed to the defendants — Brother Vincenzo Cannada, 35, Brother Carmelo, 53, Brother Vittorio, 42, and Brother Agostino, 36—smack of the look of the Mafia.

In Sicily the Mafia says whether a new shop may open or an old shop close, how much "tax" must be paid into the illegal coffers, prescribes the punishment for failure to pay, and protects interests and clients alike.

BLAMED FEAR

With the trial going into the third week, the friars have testified that it was fear, that got them involved in the evil deeds around Maggarino.

When the trial began the robed monks sat stolidly. The oratory of the court lawyers brought terse to their faces. As it progressed the defendants became increasingly nervous.

One of the peasants on trial, Filippo Nicoletti, 23, asked on the third day of trial that the courtroom be emptied of spectators and the cage cleared.

"I am afraid," he said.

The monks finally took the stand. First Brother Vincenzo after" forced them to co-operate in the extortion rackets or be killed. The elderly white-haired Brother Carmelo explained why he didn't go to the police:

"I was afraid, I was not afraid for myself, but I was afraid for the monastery, for the brothers, for the seminarians."

WOULD BE KILLED

On the second day he testified, the friar said:

"Yes, I was afraid for myself as well. Because the maleficators had the power to beat me and kill me. At Mazzarino, who doesn't talk lives, who talks dies."

Brother Carmelo never identified the malefactors. He did not use the word Mafia. But his meaning was clear to all Sicilians.

The first break in the seven defendants' stout insistence of innocence came Monday with the admission by one of the peasants on trial that "I alone" attempted to kill a Mazzarino policeman.

Girolamo Azzolina, 28, said "I intend to free myself of a heavy weight on my conscience." He said police were holding his sister and brother-in-law and "assured me they would not be freed if I did not name my accomplices."

DAUGHTER TESTIFIES

A Mazzarino druggist, Dr. Ernesto Colajanni, trembling in fear of the vengeance of the Mafia, reluctantly told the court Monday that Capuchin monks served as go-betweens in extortion of money from him.

He testified that he paid out 1,000,000 lire ($1,700) in goodwill money after unknown persons had set fire to his store. He said two of the monks relayed the extortion demands to him.

Colajanni said he had been unwilling to go to the police after receiving a first threat because he was terrified.

Russia Will Reply to U.S. Nuclear Tests

GENEVA (Reuters) — Soviet Foreign Minister Gromyko said in a radio statement released today that if the United States resumes nuclear testing Russia "will be compelled to reply by carrying out a series of its own tests."

Gromyko, who made the statement for broadcast by the United Nations radio in Geneva, said the blame for a resumption of the nuclear arms race would lie with the United States.

"Consequently the United States will have started a new phase in the race of nuclear armaments."

The conclusion of a nuclear test ban agreement "is blocked by the unwillingness of the Western powers to agree to the prohibition of nuclear tests and their liquidation once and" to the arms race, he said.

The U.S. has announced it will resume nuclear testing in the atmosphere, probably late next month, if a firm test ban agreement is not reached by the current 17-nation disarmament conference here.

Bulgaria Would Help Our Mr. Green

GENEVA (CP)—Bulgaria, an iron curtain country, playfully volunteered today to help Canada's Howard Green with his domestic political problems.

After the Canadian External Affairs Minister Green had unfavorably appealed for support on grounds that he would get in trouble with Canada's parliamentary opposition if he returned to Ottawa empty-handed, Bulgaria's Carlo Loucanov took up the point.

He said he would be glad to support the Canadian plan —for a special committee meeting Wednesday on outer space—if it would really help.

Green returns to Ottawa Thursday.

Legal Machinery Capable Of Changing Rural Canada's Face Already on the Move

By ARCH MacKENZIE

OTTAWA (CP) — Legislative machinery capable of changing rural Canada's face is on the move. How fast and how far it goes will depend on the experts and money federal and provincial governments can supply.

With sufficient resources, the sky is the limit in such broad rural areas as:

1. Alternative use of land now classified as marginal or of low productivity.

2. Development of income and employment opportunities for farm areas.

3. Development and conservation of the country's soil and water resources.

The instrument is the Agricultural Rehabilitation and Development Act, approved by Parliament last May. Its language resembles a philosophic declaration rather than a firm legislative tool, hence the magnitude of its potential.

START BY SUMMER

Details will be nailed down in individual agreements with the provinces now being drafted after initial consultation with each of the 10.

There are hopes actual projects may be under way by summer.

Some hard federal-provincial bargaining remains. The federal cabinet must decide just how much it will put up. The figure of $15,000,000 a year has been mentioned but this is not firm.

Scores of suggestions have been made, says ARDA director A. Davidson. The over-all reaction had been much better than anticipated.

Conversion of marginal wheat land to grass—essential for beef raising—is a promising proposal. It is estimated there may be 20,000,000 acres suited to this purpose, including some in the Maritimes.

Pilot projects may take a certain community a sociological study of ways to improve income for marginal farmers. This might be done by retraining them for secondary industry, putting their land to use to meet the growing demand for recreation facilities, for woodlot production or for fish and game production.

MODEST AT START

Conservation and development schemes ranging from simple farms to whole river basins are possible in the long run but expensive projects, are unlikely at the outset.

With an election pending and criticism already of delay, the onus is on the federal government to translate complicated policy considerations into action.

Administrative details are due to be announced shortly. One is the formation of a federal committee including representatives of the department of agriculture, labor, citizenship and immigration, fisheries, northern affairs, forestry and finance.

Another will be a national advisory ARDA council bringing together prominent agriculture, farm group, farm commerce, adult education and university extension representatives.

The provinces will be asked to set up similar councils. A federal-provincial committee of senior civil servants and ministers to coordinate the operation at the policy level is planned.

MANY POOR FARMS

The forerunners of the ARDA machinery are the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Act and the Maritimes Marshland Reclamation Authority, both regional in nature and both expected to help implement ARDA projects.

If grasslands are a major Prairie preoccupation, woodlot production is the prime Eastern prospect.

The long-term objective, says Mr. Davidson, is fruitful planning of land use over the next 20 years following two decades of tremendous upheaval in the farm community.

Statistics from the 1961 census are expected to add fresh evidence to the need to re-

Common Market Talks With Canada at End

By ALAN DONNELLY

OTTAWA (CP)—Two days of Canadian government talks with Britains Edward Heath on the British negotiations to enter the European Common Market end today.

So far the discussions have been marked by public expressions of understanding and friendship, but little disclosure of the nature of the closed-door talks.

Mr. Heath, lord privy seal and chief British negotiator in the Common Market talks at Brussels, told reporters Monday the discussions have been "extremely useful.

"We've got a very good working relationship."

Finance Minister Fleming, who heads the three-man group of Canadian ministers, said the talks are "extremely helpful to the Canadian government.

"Mr. Heath fully understands on his part how very important these matters are to Canada

FEAR FOR EXPORTS

The matters to which Mr. Fleming referred are Canadian fears that Britain's annual some $900,000,000 a year—which the government says would be seriously harmed by British entry to the six-nation Common Market.

The British government is seeking concessions from the Common Market to protect vital Commonwealth trade interests in the British market.

The Canadian government has made clear it is opposed to stating its position on priorities —to say where Common Market concessions are essential for individual products and where they are not absolutely necessary. Instead, the government has said it is leaving it up to Mr. Heath and the British negotiators to get the best overall deal possible.

Mr. Heath told reporters that from now on the Brussels negotiations will gather momentum, and he indicated that Britain may be nearing the point where it will have to start making some firm decisions.

Reds Do Not Want Neutrals To Attend Test-Ban Talks

By ALAN HARVEY

GENEVA (CP) — Opposition from Russia appeared to have killed Canadian proposal aimed at associating neutral countries with the Big Three nuclear test talks Monday night.

External Affairs Minister Howard Green told reporters he had learned through formal contacts that the Russians do not want the non-aligned nations to sit in on the test-ban talks.

There is still a possibility that the neutrals will be linked with the talks in informal sessions later, but this would fall short of the Canadian hope and intention.

Green was eager to have the neutrals sit down with the big powers in an effort to reach an agreement before the United States deadline for resuming tests in mid-April.

AMERICANS WILLING

It was understood the Americans were "fervently disposed" toward inviting the neutrals.

With the Russian rejection a chance is lost of exerting "pressure from below" to resolve differences on secondary issues.

Green had said the neutrals might help create a stalemate. As things stand, the neutral nations are circling each other like cautious elephants, each convinced that the other wants to resume testing, each afraid the other will steal a strategic advantage.

Green admitted the proposition was a difficult one even from the standpoint of the neutrals, since it would mean "picking and choosing" among the non - aligned nations, some of which are not especially concerned with the fine print of nuclear problems.

DOWN PAYMENT?

Many purchasers of automobiles, furniture and such, pay on the instalment plan. You can put your savings on the same instalment basis. PSP, Scotiabank's Personal Security Program is the "instalment plan" way to save for a down payment for any project needing forward planning and saving. This is how PSP—exclusive with The Bank of Nova Scotia—works: You select a savings goal (between $100 and $2,500) which you reach in 20 equal payments. As you save, you're life-insured for the full amount of your goal. When you reach your goal, you collect all you've saved, plus a cash bonus. PSP is the ideal way to make sure your long-range plans are realized. Ask about PSP at your nearest branch of Scotiabank.

Music Pupils Present Fine Recital at Holloway United

A fine musical program was presented to parents and friends by pupils of Mrs. F. F. Townsend R.M.T., last Friday evening in Holloway Street United Church Sunday school rooms which were attractively decorated for the occasion.

The program consisted of two parts as follows:

Part 1: piano solo: "Frere Jaques," "Mary's Lamb" — Mary Ellen Sandford; "The Long Trail," "The Soldier" — Nancy Pringle; "The Spider" by Burmam — Karen Sillsbury; "The Butterfly," "Dolly's Dance" — Joan Parks; "The Wigwam," Solo: "Ballet Suite" — David Pulver; "Chimes," "The Swing" — Brenda McCulloch; "On The Telephone" — Glenda Ward; "Two Trill Pieces," "Three Clocks" — Linda Pulver; "Lightly Row," "Fairy Court" — Cheryl Beesley; "Yellow Butterfly" — Marlachlan — Pam Flindall; "The Old Clock" — Debbie Brethour; "May Baskets" — Emerson — Dixie Molfey; "Horn-pipe," "Bluebells," "Lavender Blue" — Kathryn McGowan; "Nineteenth Century Minuet," "London Bridge" — Susan Shaver; "Entertainment" — Pam McKibbon; study by Czerny — "Hare Chase Puppy" — Debbie Motley; "The Lincolnshire Poacher" — Marilyn May; "Fun Dance," "First Dancing Lesson" — Marilyn Sandford; "Over the Blue Danube" — Judy Burley; "Musette in D" Bach; "Sea Gulls" — Marilyn Parks, "Bourree" Handel; "Soldiers Pass" — Kathy May; "Soldiers Return" — Cheryl Friends" — Kathy May, Marilyn Townsend and Marilyn May.

Part two was as follows: piano trio, "Sweying Willows" — Dale Sobie, Steven Doyner, John Hutchinson; piano solo "Allemande" Haydn — Judith Sandford; "German Dance" "Down South." Kasbach — Madelyn Linda "Three Blind Mice", "Pop Goes the Weasel" Dale Doyner; "Albumblatt" Burgmuller — Marilyn Townsend; "Allegro in G", Haydn — Nancy Hawkins; "Minuet" in Bach "Allemande", Haydn — Steven Doyner; "Prelude Valse" Denee — Kathryn Sine; "Rondo in F", Beethoven — Linda Lisle, "L'Ete'eille" — Christine Baumuller, "Rumba" Weybright — Diane Doyner; "Albumblatt" Beethoven, — John Hutchinson; "Barcarolle" Hoffman — Gwynne Ward; "Field Chorale", Hymn Tune — Margaret Dracup; "See How They Run" Nancy Hawkins and Cheryl Vader; "Curious Story" Heller — Cheryl Vader; "Piccolo Pesaetti — Gail Ward; "To The Rising Sun" Torjussen — Donna Spooner; "Sonatina" Clementi Op. 36 No. 4 — Lynda Gunning; piano duet — "Parade of Wooden Soldiers" — Gail Ward and Gwynne Ward; piano solos — "Valse Brillante en Octaves" Concone— Susan Barnett; Concert Transcription of Crusaders Hymn— Wayne Sobie; and sing "Return March", Lichner —Susan Barnett.

At the close of the program the pupils presented Mrs. Townsend with a Meclgel metronome at which time several pictures were taken.

Refreshments were served by Winifred Parks, Thelma Townsend and Pauline Hutchinson with Susan Barnett, Donna Spooner, Lynda Gunning and Gail Ward assisting.

Weddings

HAGGERTY — LIVESEY

White chrysanthemums adorned the altar in St. John's Anglican Church, Stirling, for a double-ring ceremony on Friday, March 2nd, when the Rev. F. F. Downing, rector of the church, united in marriage Carol Patricia, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Livesey, of Stirling, to John Thomas Haggerty, son of Mr. and Mrs. Morley Haggerty, West Huntingdon.

The wedding music was rendered by Miss Helen Morrow.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was radiant in a floor-length gown of silk organza over taffeta fashioned with apron front, lavishly edged and scrolled with embroidered Alencon lace, scoop neckline and large butterfly bow back.

Her silk illusion veil, appliqued with French lace, was held by a crown of seed pearls and she carried a cascade bouquet of pink roses, white stephanotis and ivy.

Miss Jane Hakker of Foxboro, as maid of honor was gowned in a street-length dress of pink organza over taffeta with matching pink headdress. She carried a bouquet of pink and white carnations.

Mr. Allyn Warren of Toronto was best man, and the ushers were Messrs. Jim Tanner, Stirling, and James Wallace, West Huntingdon.

Following the ceremony, the reception was held at the bride's home. The bride's table was prettily appointed with white damask and centred by the traditional wedding cake. The bridal flowers added to the nuptial scene.

The bride's mother received the guests in a gown of beige brocade silk over taffeta with matching brocaded crepe with white accessories and corsage of pink carnations.

For the wedding trip to Quebec City, the bride chose a beige wool dress with brown mouton fur jacket, beige accessories and corsage of talisman roses.

The young couple will reside in Stirling.

Mrs. Plante Does Not See Much of Game

MONTREAL (CP) — Jacqueline Plante, slim, attractive wife of Montreal Canadiens spectacular goalie, will be as nervous as ever when her husband skates on to Montreal Forum ice tonight to begin his fifth season in playoff competition.

Jacquer, her 33-year-old husband, has led his team to the Stanley Cup, hockeys top prize, six times.

"But I might say I'm a constant worrier, Mrs. Plante said in an interview, "especially when theyre playing away from home.

"When I do go to the games, I rarely stay for more than two periods. I've really had it by then.

How does it feel to know your husband is bombarded from all angles with a piece of hard rubber travelling up to 100 miles an hour?

"Im always terrified Jacques and some of his teammates will get hurt, she said.

In contrast to her husband, who has trophies for golf, baseball and badminton as well as hockey, Jacquelin enjoys quieter sports like bowling and skating.

With their two sons, Michel, 10, and Richard, six, the Plantes live in a simple but tasteful home in the north-east suburb of Laval-des-Rapides.

Jacques, who likes to spend as much as possible of his time off the ice indulging a penchant for oil painting, has only one of his works on view in his home — a still life of flowers on the living room wall.

Mrs. Angeline Martin Will Celebrate 100th Birthday Today at her Son's Home

PICTON — A lifelong resident of Prince Edward County, Mrs. Angeline Martin celebrates her 100th birthday today at the Outlet, 10 miles south of Picton. Mrs. Martin will be guest of honor at a birthday party arranged by her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Martin of Outlet Park, with whom she resides.

Mrs. Martin is in good health at the present time and has been remarkably free of serious illness throughout her entire life. She has never had an operation and has never been in a hospital.

Living on farms most of her 100 years, Mrs. Martin said she thrived on hard work, a fact which she believes has contributed largely to her longevity. Rising at 5 a.m. every morning, she milked cows, pitched hay, and did many other manual chores around the farm. She made her own butter and had numerous customers in Picton whom she regularly supplied with butter, milk and eggs. Besides cattle, the Martins raised sheep and poultry and were breeders of rocker spaniel dogs.

While she enjoyed life in the pioneer days, Mrs. Martin prefers modern times. She thinks Canadians are much better off today with the many labor saving conveniences available. "We are living in a very thrilling age with astronauts and space capsules to fire the imagination," she remarked. Four years older she had her first airplane flight. Her grandson, Robert Brough, who operates Prince Edward Air Service, took her up several times and she is keen to do more flying but the family believe it is best to ground her. She enjoys reviews, automobile rides with her daughter-in-law.

Mrs. Martin was born on the 1st Concession of Hillier Township, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Bush. She married Mr. Martin in 1883 and after living on the 2nd Concession of Hillier for a few years moved to the farm on the Ridge Road and in the Cherry Valley district, Prince Edward County, where they resided for 50 years. Mr. Martin died in 1933. She has been a member of Bridge Street United Church, Picton, for many years.

Besides her son and daughter-in-law, she is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Jessie Brough, Picton; a son, Frank Martin, Picton; a granddaughter, Mrs. Arlie Brough, and two great grandchildren, Martin, 9, and Beverley Lee, 6.

Medical W.A. Enjoys Address On Oratory

The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Auxiliary to the Hastings and Prince Edward Medical Society was held at the home of Mrs. A. Elliot, 17 Orchard View Drive, Trenton, on March 22 with 31 present.

The meeting was conducted by the president, Mrs. J. Nelles. Reports by the secretary and treasurer proved the fall dinner held last month, a success.

After the meeting was adjourned, F-L. J. M. Gibson, instructor at the School of Aviation Technicians, Trenton, R.C.A.F. Station, was guest speaker. Mr. Gibson gave an informative and humorous address on "public-speaking".

At the conclusion, refreshments were served by the hostess.

Hubbe farm near Bloomfield on March 25th, 1893 she married George Martin and they settled on a farm in Hallowell township, later they moved to on the Ridge Road and in the Cherry Valley — Salmon Point districts. In 1939 they went to the Outlet to help their son, Bruce, operate a fishing enterprise. Her husband died in 1943. She has two sons, Bruce, and Stirling, of the Ridge Road; one granddaughter, Arlie Brough, and two great grandchildren, Martin, 9, and Beverley Lee, 6.

Women Geologists Have Hard Time Keeping a Position

CALGARY (CP) — Women geologists are always the last to get jobs and the first to dose them, says Dr. Helen Belyea of the Geological Survey of Canada, Calgary branch.

Of approximately 1,000 Calgary geologists, only 30 were women.

"Women geologists do extremely good work, especially with microscopes, Dr. Belyea said in an interview. "They have to, if they're poor they lose their jobs.

Dr. Belyea, born in New Brunswick, joined the Geological Survey in Ottawa in 1945 after a wartime stint in the navy and the intelligence corps.

A graduate of Dalhousie University, Halifax, she received her doctorate from Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill. She came to Calgary in 1950 to take charge of research on Devonian carbonates. Devonian refers to rock layers formed 300,000,000 years ago.

"I fell into the job just after the Second World War and in the job was bigger than anyone expected . . . Ive been at it ever since and I still dont know all the answers. The more answers we find, the more problems come up. Theres no end in sight.

She won the 1958 Barlow Medal for her contribution to Devonian stratigraphy, mapping of rock layers.

A hobby is horseback riding though she learned by necessity. "When I first went on party trips with survey parties I said in an interview. "There have to, if they're poor they lose their jobs.

Four-Fish Dinner

by Mary Moore

When my family was filled with fish — four different kinds — I asked for opinions and got a surprising one. We had poached salmon with egg sauce, broiled halibut steak brushed with mayonnaise and mustard sauce; perch fillets dipped in egg and cornmeal and first-run-of-the-year fresh smelts dipped in milk and crumbs. These fishes cost per pound as above order, $1.30, .90c, .49c and .30c. And it was the cheapest one — fresh smelts — that was the choice of all four present — for best flavor.

I was considerably heartened about this for I have been receiving pleading letters for inexpensive meals. (We also bought 3 pounds chicken backs for a huge pot of soup and lunches and ¾ pound chicken livers for $1.10) So you see you can buy quality food cheaply if you will shop hard and cook carefully.

Since we are in the middle of Lent and it is a good time since I gave you fish dishes I will outline each method for the fish I prepared last night.

TUESDAY

Dinner Menu

Chicken Fricassee; Buttered Noodles with Poppy Seeds; Spinach with Lemon; Cole Slaw; Apple-sauce; Hot Cross Buns (see Monday); Tea.

CRUMBED SMELTS:

Allow six average - sized smelts per person. Split smelts, clean, remove heads, (holes are easily removed. When cooked you eat the backbone just as you would in a sardine.) Wash and dry. Dip in milk, drain and roll in fine crumbs (or sifted flour). Fry for about 5 minutes in hot butter or margarine. Serve with lemon. Delicious flavour.

BROILED HALIBUT STEAKS:

(Note: This method is excellent for Haddock or other white fillets).

Mix together ¾ cup or 1-3 cup each mayonnaise and bottled mustard sauce. (Amount of sauce depends on number of steaks you are preparing). Spread on both sides of halibut steaks. Place on sheet of foil on broiling pan. Slide under hot broiler and broil until top side is flecked with brown. Carefully turn over and broil other side. No lemon or other sauce is required.

POACHED SALMON WITH EGG SAUCE:

Buy a piece of salmon — the tail end is desirable because it is bony. Allow about ¼ to 1-3 pound per person. Sprinkle with salt, wrap in greased foil or parchment, making airtight folds; and simmer in water to cover — allowing 8 to 10 minutes a pound. Unwrap but save fish liquid. Make white sauce and when blended add 2 cups liquid made up of fish liquid from wrapping, and cook stirring until thick. Add 1 or 2 chopped hard-cooked eggs and salt and pepper to taste. If desired, add 1 tablespoon lemon juice and/or a few capers may be added.

FRIED PERCH FILLETS:

Dip double perch fillets in 1 egg beaten with 1 tablespoon water. Drain, then coat in cornmeal. Fry in hot butter or margarine about 5 minutes, until crisp and gold. Serve with Swiss Tartare: Blend ½ cup mayonnaise, 2 small sweet pickles finely chopped, 1 teaspoon finely minced onion, 1 tablespoon finely chopped green pepper, 1 tablespoon lemon juice. Mix.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

MAIL CALL

Question: I like to include cookies in all my table settings, except for breakfast, of course, but I've been told by a "snooty" friend that it's incorrect to use candies on a luncheon table. Is this so? — Mrs. M.L., Chicago, Ill.

Answer: Candies are usually lighted only when the light may be used to brighten a luncheon setting if the room is dismally dark for some reason. But, generally, candies are used only for formal and informal dinner tables.

Question: I'm confused about how mail should be addressed to a widow and how she should sign her name. . . .

After the death of my husband, many friends and relatives started addressing their mail to me, using the name of "Mrs. Mary Smith." But I would like to have them address me as before.

To close friends, I sign "Mary," and to acquaintances, "Mary Smith." When I use the latter, where should I write "Mrs. John Smith," using parentheses? Should it be written next to my name, or below it? Also, is it permissible to use just the initial of my husband's first name, or must it be written out? How should I write my name when putting a return address in the upper left-hand corner of the envelope? — Mrs., S.A.C., Wainwright, Alberta, Canada

Answer: A widow's formal title does not change after her husband's death. Properly, your mail should be addressed to "Mrs. John Smith," as usual. Mail sent to "Mrs. Mary Smith" is addressed incorrectly.

Social notes and letters to relatives and close friends should be signed only with your first name. Business letters and those to acquaintances, should be signed "Mary Smith," with "Mrs. John Smith" written in parentheses below your signature. "John" should be written out. It's incorrect to use only the initial. You, full name; "Mrs. John F. Smith," should be used when putting your return address on the envelope.

About Teen Marriages

Some Are Mature Others Are Not

Not every teen marriage should be considered doomed simply because the bride has not had 21 birthdays.

One type of bride has matured early, doesn't want an advanced education, and believes that nothing is more important than establishing a home.

Parents and others who guide young people will make things easier if they admit that such sensible teen-agers do exist.

But the study hastens to add that the mature teen-age bride is the shining exception. Research reveals a second kind of teen-age bride who is emotionally unstable and has poor relationships with her family. She marries young to escape an unhappy situation at home.

Girls like this, and many more, marry early in pain and status and recognition. A young man may feel that being the head of the household will bring him added status, while a very young girl may look forward to having a baby, feeling that motherhood is an outward sign of maturity.

The study showed that many teen-age couples rely on their families for support, services, gifts and advice and help in bringing up their children. They do not assume much responsibility in civic or church affairs. In other words, marriage does not automatically make them independent.

The research papers concluded that these things can be done to prevent unhappy marriages, divorce and separation:

"Adults can learn to understand the need of the teen-ages for status and recognition.

"They can give recognition, a feeling of importance and responsibility to unmarried teen-agers. If young people can get such satisfactions, they won't marry for refuge, they won't marry to get away.

"Adults should deal with each person as an individual. They should differentiate between the prejudice that all teen-age marriages are bad.

"Marriage is very few—it's good. Adults should concentrate on helping the young girl or boy to find out what's right for them."

Pity the poor teen-age bride. There are times when she must wish she was back home with her stuffed animals, and high school memories.

The teen-age bride who has just cut loose from the family fireside is in for strikes of her own. The first is that everyone thinks her marriage can't possibly work.

We hear of those 4,000 or so divorces in the under-20 set, but seldom hear of more than a million successful young marriages. . . .

NOW CHIEF COOK

A young bride is expected to produce meals, too. She may have lived on pizza pies and chocolate malts left to her own devices before marriage, but now she must get her husband past his annual medical checkup.

If she is to be one of the lifetime of hard work, she must relax.

Mrs. O.R. — I am a woman of 68, still quite spry and healthy, I like to think. I live with my daughter and son-in-law (an attorney) and their three children, out in the suburbs of the large city where I used to make my home. I've been here a year now and I'm restless and uneasy. I don't feel my life is going the way I'd like, to spend it. I have nothing to do!

My daughter has a full-time maid who does all the housework. She herself is busy with committees and meetings and running around with the children. And the youngsters are in school and full of their own plans. Nobody around here needs me. Even the neighbors are all young folks. I miss my friends back in town. I miss cooking, sewing, baking. I'd like to move back.

Barbara R.T. — We have a large comfortable house and a Mother; has her own room and bath. The children love having their cute little Grandma in the premises and it's a comfort to me to have her here where I can watch over her.

The trouble with her is that she thinks if there's no housework for her to do, she has "nothing to do." This is her chance to read, take walks, watch television or listen to the radio. I drive her to the movies twice a week, to the beauty parlor and into town for a shopping day every few months. Surely a woman can a woman ask for at her age?

Mother worked hard all her life. She never had household help. As a child I permitted her. I'd take care of her and she'd never have to lift a finger, again. She can't get used to an easy life.

Th. Council: Mrs. R.'s plight points to the mind of the recent observation by Prof. Abraham J. Heschel of the Jewish Theological Seminary: "We've retired does not mean to be retained."

This mother is like the poor little rich girl for whom everything obvious and visible was provided, to the neglect of her inner needs. All the treats Barbara offers may help Mrs. R, pass the time and eliminate boredom for a while. But they do nothing to build the older woman's morale, to stiffen her spine and raise her face to the sun. That can only come from challenge.

What good is rest when you're not tired? What joy is there in leisure, when it's enforced, endless and unplanned? To feel fully alive, Mrs. R. must have more of a balance in her life — some duties, some responsibilities to offset the toiling and lazing. She must feel herself more than an ornament, more than a house guest. She must function.

We've had another "loose-ends" parent who, in desperation for something to do, re-vacuums the rugs after the maid leaves — to the despair of the housekeeper in charge of the electric company.

The present arrangement has enough advantages to warrant some serious effort by these women to overcome the disadvantages. The latter, Barbara, are real. Mother needs a fixed program, similar to yours, and the kids (and the maid's!), for which to build a fulfilling life.

Mrs. R. depends upon transportation facilities, but we suggest more "joining" for Mrs. R. A church group, a sewing circle, a volunteer brigade in a hospital or home for the aged — these thankers for a needed and healthy," as she describes herself. In addition to useful work, Mrs. R. will make new friends her own age. Also, the maid's night out can be Mother's big chance to shine in the kitchen. Picture a new career for her: jobs for her around the house. She wants to lift a finger. Doing so will lift her heart!

Women Act as Clerks For Committees in House

By EDNA BLAKELY

OTAWA (CP)—When Gabrielle Savard of Riviere-du-Loup, Que., was elected member of Calgary alt in on Commons committee meetings they have more than usual clerk into the proceedings.

It is vital to their jobs as clerks for the committees and private legislation branch of the House of Commons that they know and be able to follow the correct parliamentary procedure for committee work.

Miss Savard became the first woman secretary-clerk last June and Miss Ballantine joined the branch in November. There are four male clerks for the Commons and the three Senate clerks are men.

The 31st committee Miss Savard acted for, the miscellaneous private bills committee, considered a bill changing the name of the Girl Guides of Canada from the Canadian Council of Girl Guides Association. Temporary chairman of the committee for this bill was Judy La Marsh, Liberal MP for Niagara Falls.

EFFAGEETTE SUCCESS

When the committee's report was presented the regular chairman, Robert McIvor, Conservative MP for Halifax, said in the Commons: "One might say that the suffragette movement had blossomed into fullest and finest flower at that instant in our history."

The clerk's job involves a lot of detail. Minutes must be taken and records kept. The clerk issues notices of the meetings, summons witnesses, handles correspondence and advises members on questions of parliamentary practice and procedure.

With people wandering in and out of the meetings, it sometimes is a chore just making sure that a quorum is present at all times and that the person speaking are committee members and not observers.

Miss Savard, born and raised in Riviere-du-Loup, was secretary to Liberal Senator Jean-Francois Pouliot for 18 years before he moved from the Commons to the Senate. She came to Ottawa to stay in the 1940s but still considers Riviere-du-Loup as home.

Her railway-conductor father encouraged his family of 10 children to learn English although the community was French-speaking.

Miss Savard spent three years as a secretary in the committee clerks branch before she tried the examination for clerk in the fall of 1959. Three hours of the day-long exam were devoted to parliamentary procedure.

"I knew I could do the work and I had great confidence," she said. She was appointed a clerk three months later.

Miss Ballantine, who came to Ottawa in 1945 to work for the defence department, wrote the same examination in 1959.

"You can imagine how surprised I was when they called me two years later," she said.

Miss Ballantine was born in Regina but grew up in Calgary. Her mother and father retired to Vancouver Island. Miss Ballantine, now live in Edmonton.

An avid reader, she periodically did book and movie reviews for the Calgary Albertan. In Ottawa she occasionally contributes feature articles to The Journal.

After three years with a bank in Calgary, Miss Ballantine decided to come to Ottawa for "a couple of years just for a change of scenery."

"And here I am, 16 years later, I guess I've put down a few roots."

Both Miss Savard and Miss Ballantine say the civil service offers many opportunities to women willing to work hard.

"They're not just handed to you; you must go after them," Miss Ballantine said "But the opportunities are excellent."

Neither has lost her zest for parliamentary work.

Miss Savard was so excited the first time she signed a bill that she inscribed her name, Gabrielle, with three i's.

What Is the Proper Thing to Say?

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS:—1. When visiting a family at the funeral home, what does one say to the mourners? What should they reply? Anything? For instance, a woman shook hands and said, "I am so sorry," and the other woman replied, "Thank you." Some seemed to think she was not proper.

2. When attending a dance or such where there is a receiving line, what do the guests say as they shake hands down the line?

3. When attending "Tea and Sale" or a small affair where the president greets you: "Welcome to Tea; so glad you were able to come!" what is the proper reply?

4. When signing a school report, do you sign it: "Mary Jones," "Mrs. Mary Jones," or "Mrs. John Jones?" (I have seen it signed all three ways).—S. R.

DEAR S. R.:—1. Quite proper. You express sympathy; the mourner expresses gratitude.

2. "How do you do." If there is time, or if the person receiving is a good friend, govern yourself accordingly: "Mabel, you're looking wonderful!" or "How do you do, Mr. Jones. I have been looking forward to this event."

3. Let your conscience be your guide. "I'm glad I could come, too." Or, "I wouldn't have missed it for the world." Or, "Your club is doing a fine job for the church and I for one want to support such efforts."

4. "Mary Jones", or "Mrs. John Jones. Never "Mrs. Mary Jones," unless she has divorced her husband.

DEAR DORIS:—I have been married five years to a man six years younger than I am. He said age didn't matter, but lately seems to think my age a lot.

I have helped him financially a lot. Well helping him didn't help me any. He is drinking a lot and never knows when to stop.

We still have all kinds of excuses. One is if we had children it would be different. I went to see a doctor about this. I am healthy but very nervous. This drinking makes me really sick.

Unless you come up with some good advice, Doris, I may leave him. I never can trust him any more although I still love him.—DESPERATE.

DEAR DESPERATE:—He is drowning his sorrows. What are they—really? Alcoholism is escape.

Somewhere the drinker is escaping his own failure to cope with life. His failure financially (he took help from you); his failure as a husband (although he tries to blame you for childlessness); or some dissatisfaction with you.

The escape may have been done in his childhood, with an over-indulgent parent or one who denied the love he needed.

Find the cause. Open communications. Then with professional help you may be able to improve matters. Your resource is the Alcoholism and Drug Addiction Foundation, 135 James St. South, Hamilton.

DEAR DORIS:—I am interested in joining the Air Force and am wondering if you can tell me where to write to get information on this.

I am 18 years old and in grade ten. I know I won't be able to join for at least a couple of years but I want to know what subjects, etc., I have to take in school.—S. B. W.

DEAR S. R. W.:—Write to the Director of Personnel Manning, RCAF Headquarters, Ottawa. He will send you information about training and give you the address of the recruiting depot nearest you.

DEAR DORIS:—How old do I have to be to baby-sit? Yesterday my older sister refused a woman who wanted me to baby-sit for her. Don't you think I should have been the one to ask? I am in Grade ten, and 15 years of age.—FIFTEEN.

DEAR FIFTEEN:—At 15 there are plenty of girls taking care of Bouncing Babies and Terrible Toddlers.

What does Mother say? Have you done it before? Learn about how it is done — there's literature on the subject — then make your own approaches.

DEAR DORIS:—My sister is 19. She has been going with a boy of 21 and is very fond of him, but he has made her unhappy so many times.

It seems lately if he can get another girl to go out with him, he will take her out. And when he can't find someone to go with him, he calls on my sister. She has been very unhappy about this.

Am I doing the right thing by telling her to refuse going out with him next time he calls?

I want to give her a birthday party and invite some boys for her to get to know. Do you think I should invite her friend also?

DEAR SISTER:—If she enjoys her dates with him, why refuse? They aren't married, or even engaged. But she should not be dated with others, just as he does.

And I would leave him out of the birthday party, for once. He's possessiveness might cramp the style of other suitable suitors.

DEAR DORIS:—I am 55 years old. Have not lived with my husband for 20 years. Ten years ago I met a very nice man and am deeply in love with him. He has been seeing me all these years but has never mentioned marriage.

It seems to me by his actions he cares for me. He knows I only have a separation but don't you think if he intended to marry me he would ask me by now? I have visited him at his family and they all like me. His one sister-in-law even told me I should get a divorce and that this man cares, but needs a push.

I am in a position now where I could get a divorce, but would hate to waste the cash if this man does not intend to marry me. How can I find out what would you suggest I do? He has been a bachelor all his life.—LONESOME.

DEAR LONESOME:—Just enjoy him as he is. A man who has been a bachelor that long has no intention of breaking down now and getting hitched. He has thought of it — and his silence means No Dice.

* * *

TO HOPEFUL:—Say "Hi!" next time you meet or pass and smile. It is up to the lady to make the first move. He will doubtless be relieved.

Since he watches you and smiles, I think he is interested. Give the boy a break!

HELP IN HOSPITAL — Teen-age volunteers help hospital care for children after school and on weekends at Toronto's Hospital for Sick Children. The program is being carried out on an experimental basis but hospital authorities have found the girls work especially well with children. Ulla Jensen, a student at W. A. Porter High School, amuses five-year-old Megan Johnson (CP Photo).

Toronto Teen-Age Girls Learn Valuable Lessons In Care of Children

TORONTO (CP)—A group of teen-age Toronto girls are learning teen-age errands girls are learning valuable lessons in child care and gaining considerable satisfaction from the knowledge they are performing a useful service for children in hospital.

They have volunteered to work after school and on weekends at the Hospital for Sick Children where their duties include such tasks as reading for the young patients, walking with them and setting up playrooms.

The experimental program, also carried out at other Toronto hospitals, is not a haphazard affair. Students, 16 to 18, are chosen carefully.

"We screen them," says Chairman Philpott, director of volunteer services for the students. "We don't care about skills so much. What matters is that the teen - ager is stable and emotionally mature.

"Hospitals attract many volunteers who want to help. We must be sure the volunteer isn't seeking help for herself. For instance, the status-seeking girl who isn't popular at school may volunteer in her need to be accepted."

LEARN BY DOING

The girls are learning by doing. Each is assigned to a certain hospital area and is eased into jobs gradually.

Some work with only one patient. One of these is Kay Baldovich. She spends her time with one boy who has become attached to her, reading for him and writing his letters.

"We find teen-age volunteers are especially good with children," said Miss Philpott. "Often they will tell teen-agers things they won't admit to the hospital staff."

Some of the girls intend to put their knowledge to practical use. Ulla Jensen plans to go into training as a nurse next September and finds "volunteer work in a hospital is good preparation."

Bette Lindsay plans to study medicine: "I've wanted to do something useful for a long time and I find working in a hospital has made me more determined than ever to be a doctor."

Teen-age volunteer programs are also in operation at New Mount Sinai Hospital, Princess Margaret Hospital and Doctors' Hospital.

"We've got 60 teen-age volunteers helping in the hospital," says Marilyn Silver, director of volunteer services at Mount Sinai. "One important attribute is their enthusiasm for the job, a sign of youth. They take everything well and less of the frustrations that come in their stride."

U.C.W. Meetings

SPRINGBROOK U.C.W.

The March meeting of the Springbrook U.C.W. was held at the church in the form of a pot-luck dinner. The hostesses were Mrs. R. Thompson and Mrs. M. Mason, with approximately 60 people in attendance.

At two o'clock the president, Mrs. R. Wellman, opened the meeting, thanking everyone for making the dinner a success.

The worship theme was "Missions" by Mrs. D. Fleming. The Scripture was read by Mrs. G. McFaul.

Mrs. D. Fleming spoke on "The Church is Called to Worship". Missionary prayer for missionaries was given by Mrs. P. Smith.

Mrs. D. Fleming closed the worship service with a prayer.

The Mission Study, "The Rural Church", prepared by Mrs. G. Williams, was given by Mrs. M. Mason. The following five questions were prepared for the topic and answered by a number of ladies: "What is the Changing Ways of Life in Rural Areas?" - Mrs. G Webb; "Changing Ways of Rural Church Life?" - Mrs. C. Burditt; "What are the Marked Changes in Rural Life?" - Mrs. H. Pillen; "What are the Problems of the Rural Churches?" - Mrs. D. Fleming; "What are some of the Fundamentals for Good Rural Churches?" - Mrs. R. McKeown.

Mrs. H Pillen read the Missionary Letter and Reading prepared by Mrs. J. Thompson.

A number of thank-you cards were read by the secretary. The visiting committee, Mrs. C. Burkitt and Mrs. A. Reid, reported on visitations.

A ballot was taken for functional activities.

The president reminded the members of the World Day of Prayer to be held Friday, the 16th, at 2.00 p.m. at Saint Mark's Church, Bonarlaw.

Mrs. R. Wellman gave a brief talk on the Presbyty.

It was decided to get Lent folders for the lenten season, the latter was carried.

Mrs. R. McKeown was in charge of the program. A Shamrock contest was much enjoyed by all present.

RYLSTONE U.C.W.

RYLSTONE — Mrs. Jim Milne was hostess to the Rylstone United Church Women for their regular meeting which was held recently with nine members, three visitors and two children present.

Mrs. W. Spencer, president, opened the meeting in the usual manner, and gave a short reading, after which the theme song for the new organization was sung. Scripture selections Psalm 96 and Ephesians 2 were read by Mrs. Clarence Thomson and Mrs. Jack Spencer, respectively. Meditation and prayer were given by Mrs. W. Spencer.

A 15-minute Bible study period was conducted by Mrs. Will Rutherford. Arrangements were made to hold the April meeting in the church, and each member is to bring a friend or neighbor. Mrs. H. D. Pillen will be the speaker for this occasion and there will be an Easter thankoffering.

Mrs. Eric Jones was next conveyed for the balance of the program which was as follows: a reading "What Is the Church," by Mrs. Lindsay Finch; vocal solo "Change Your Own Way Lord," by Mrs Will Rutherford, with Mrs. Clarence Thompson at the piano; a reading by Cecil Finch; reading, Mrs. James Legge; a piano solo by Mrs. Clarence Thomson; reading by Mrs. Rose Dickie, and a reading by Mrs. Eilin Jones, who also conducted a Bible contest.

The meeting closed and refreshments were served by the hostess and her committee. Those on the program committee were Mrs. Eilis Jones and Mrs. Rose Dickie.

A treasure chest of small articles was passed among the members with proceeds to go for missions.

There was only one donation to the birthday basket for March from Mrs. Jack Spencer.

CANNIFTON U.C.W.

The Evening Group of Cannifton United Church Women held its regular monthly meeting in the church on the fourth Monday in March. Prior to the meeting the members sorted the Sunday School papers to be sent to missions.

The meeting opened with a

Alliance Church Pledges $6,768.10 For Missions

The highest amount of money ever pledged for foreign missions from the Alliance Church was pledged on Sunday night as a large congregation gathered for the closing service of the World Missions Week. $6,768.10 was pledged for the year 1962. Last year's pledge of $5,704.10 was overpaid by $788.60.

The Rev. William Newell, district superintendent of the Christian and Missionary Alliance for this district, opened the service in prayer and brought greetings to the congregation. He reminded the people that this was the diamond jubilee of the Christian and Missionary Alliance and that an important Council will be held this year in Miami, Florida, from May 13 to 20.

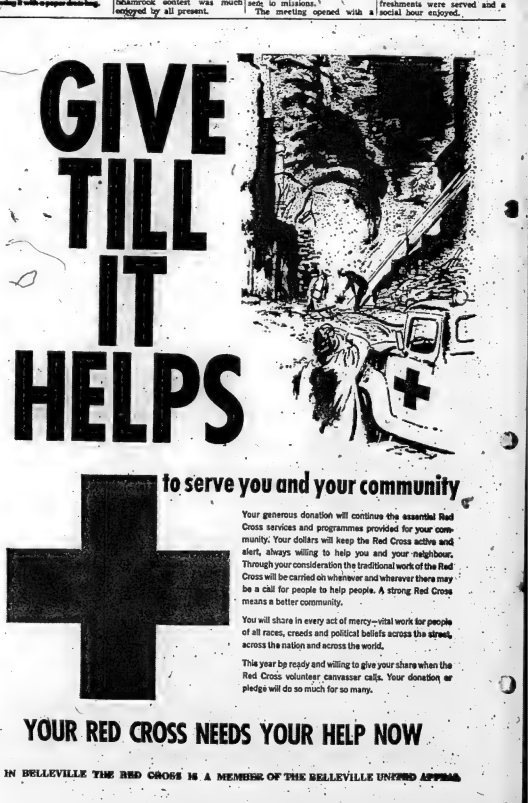
Miss Ruth Patterson Reg. N., dressed in her colorful Congolese costume, explained the native dress to the audience and then gave a stirring missionary challenge stressing the importance of doing the will of God rather than one's own will.

The music for the service was supplied by the choir and the girls' quartet.

The Rev. William Newell, hymn followed by prayer by Vera Mitchell. A Psalm was read responsively.

Joy Pulman gave the flower and card report. The treasurer, Gladys Brvston, gave her report.

Dorothy Dawson thanked Barbara Smith for her co-operation and help while she was in office and in getting the group organized.



Vera Mitchell asked the group to save their food labels to help the sunday group for the coffee urn.

It was decided to hold the April meeting on the 16th, instead of on Easter Monday. Those in charge of this meeting were reminded.

A short worship service followed with the theme, "Only One God — So Many Churches."

Vera Mitchell thanked the women for packing the papers.

After the meeting closed, refreshments were served and a social hour enjoyed.

W.I. Enjoys Social Event

MOUNTAIN VIEW — The members of Mountain View Women's Institute held a dinner and social evening at Maple Inn, Bloomfield on Monday evening with 34 guests present. The tables were attractively decorated, centred with spring flowers.

The president, Mrs. W. Barber, received the guests and invited them into the dining room where a delicious dinner was served which had been prepared by the proprietor, Mr. Channell, assisted by Mrs. Channell and staff.

The remainder of the evening was spent in playing progressive euchre with prizes for high score going to Mrs. F. Roblin and Mrs. A. Kolkman; for lone hands, Mrs. D. Hall and low score, Mrs. E. Wallbridge and Mrs. A. Conklin.

Mrs. E. Hall conducted a contest which was won by Mrs. A. Wallbridge and Mrs. W. Nightingale. The prizes for the evening were donated by Mrs. E. Hall, Mrs. B. Anderson and Miss L. Anderson.

The ladies who attended all had a wonderful time and hope to have another such treat in the future.

Rebekahs Hold Benefit Card Party

STIRLING — On Friday evening last a card party was held at the I.O.O.F. Hall, Charlotte Street, in aid of the Cancer, Polio and Tuberculosis Fund.

There were seven tables in play for euchre and one for bridge, and the prizes were donated by members of I.O.O.F. No. 230 and Laurel Rebekah Lodge No. 211.

Noble Grand Hilda Rose announced the awards as follows: ladies' high, Mrs. Sam Kirkey and Mrs. Guy Bradshaw; men's high, Mrs. Lyda McKee; playing as a man and Mac Sharp; for bridge: ladies' high, Mrs. Glenn Whitehead and low, Mrs. W. Webber. The birthday prize was won by John Carlisle.

Guests were in attendance from Frankford and Mount Pleasant.

Refreshments were served by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Carter, Mrs. Jack Cassaubon and their assistants. The treasurer was Guy Bradshaw.

HAS SORE BACK

LONDON (AP) — Joan Sutherland, noted coloratura soprano, said today a painful back condition has thrown her career into doubt. Miss Sutherland, 35, said in a statement she would finish her commitments for the season, then take six weeks to rest and treatment. She said her "future plans depend entirely on the result of this recuperative period."

Love Makes The World Go Round

Under foreign flags the customs are different, but the results are the same. For neither wars, nor floods, nor modernization changes a man's desire to take a wife, nor many of the traditional rites that surround a couple bethrothed.

In Formosa, for example, 267 officers of the Chinese National Army became bridegrooms en masse so that many pretty Chinese girls in bridal gowns.

A flood in the village of Mirmize, France, recently inspired a couple who had planned a garden wedding to create a tradition of their own. Everyone in their party, including the mayor who married them, went to the wedding in row boats.

A Japanese bride by the manner of her ancestors rode to her groom on a horse. But she bore a touch of modern Madison Ave. by the political campaign card she permitted her horse to carry.

In Brussels the ladies still begun the marriage season with a ride through the town in a carriage, urging eligible batchelors to come to a tea party where there awaited the unmarried girls.

A Hungarian refugee kept up the tradition of her country by wearing her native costume, including the large heavy headdress, for her marriage.

In the Italian mountain village of Orisei, youngsters took part in the procession following the wedding ceremony. Dressed in traditional costume, they were known as "I Promessi Sposi" (the betrothed) and symbolized early love that deepens as the young marrieds grow older.

Walking around the sacred fire in their bare feet was a painful Indian custom, but worth it to the maharaja and his new maharani. The father of the bride suffered pain, too. He paid the bridegroom a sizable dowry.

Ensemble From Paris

By TRACY ADRIAN

From Jacques Griffe of the French Haute Couture comes this handsome two-piece coat and dress ensemble of beige worsted woolen.

The dress has a long torso bodice with a collar-less, banded neckline. Its skirt is detailed with pleats on each side below a band of the fabric.

Over the frock is worn a straight coat with a cardigan neck, round shoulders, patch pockets and three-quarter sleeves. Fifteen tiny buttons form the closing.

'Greece' Topic At Recent WI Meeting

SIXTH SIDNEY — The Quinte Branch Women's Institute held the March meeting at the home of Mrs. Douglas Atkins, on Tuesday with a good attendance.

Mrs. Jack Parrot opened the meeting and thanked the hostess, Mrs. Atkins, for opening her home.

Correspondence was read and business was discussed. The W.I. is holding a tea tea and aprons in May for the Scholarship funds. Mrs. F. Sidell is the representative for the Hastings County Museum and Mrs. Dailey the County Home representative for the year.

Mrs Robert Atkins, convener for International Day, took charge of the meeting. It was near St Patrick's Day, everyone sang two Irish songs, "My Wild Irish Rose" and "Peggy O'Neil".

Mrs William Tufts gave the motto, "The Handclasp of Friendship is stronger than any Peace Treaty", which included a lot of good things to take to heart.

The topic "Greece", the fountainhead of western civilization" was given by Mrs Robert Atkins who showed the map of Greece, and told of the different places and what the people did; also some of their handicraft work which included interesting articles such as a scarf; dolls dressed in their costumes; kerchiefs and a lot of other little notions which Mrs. Diamentides, of Belleville had loaned for the day.

Mrs. J. Parrott also showed a skirt she bought while in Greece which was nice.

Mrs. Arnold Mitchell held a contest on words with "Greece" in them with Mrs. a Greatrix, the winner.

It was International Day and Mrs. Archie Greatrix gave a question and answer talk and showed the flags of the United Nations which was educational.

Mrs. H. Murphy spoke on the trip to Toronto to the 65th anniversary.

The nominating committee for 1962-63, includes Mrs. H. Murphy; Mrs. K. E. Vivian and Mrs. A. Cook.

Lunch was served and a social time spent.

Pr. Wales H–S Association Sponsors Successful Fair

The Prince of Wales Home and School Association held its annual "Fun Fair" in the School. It was well attended and people were lined up at the doors starting at 6.30 p.m.

Mrs. Hugh Teed, the convenor of the "Fun Fair" saw that everything got off to a good start.

Mrs. Billy Parkhurst provided cheage for everybody.

Inside the front door the bean jar was in charge of Mr. Hugh Teed. He had previously counted the beans in the jar.

There were two cost check rooms, one in charge of Mrs. Curtis Brown and the other in charge of Mrs. George Marriott.

The conveners and assistants of the various attractions were as follows — used books — Mrs. Donald Hunter; Mrs. P. Murray and Mrs. K. Whiting; popcorn — Mrs. Eugene Hartson assisted by Mrs. Gordon Oliver; films — Mr. Sargent assisted by Mr. Emerson; bake table — Mrs. R. Newspaper Man Appointed Public Relations Director Quebec's Cultural Affairs

MONTREAL (CP) — Ernest Pallascio-Morin, 52 - year - old newspaper man who earned a reputation for ingenuity in getting the story, is the public relations director of Quebec's new cultural affairs department.

The youthful-looking Pallasce, as he is affectionately known among newspaper-men, is also a playwright, novelist, poet and actor but says he has always considered himself first a reporter.

As public relations aide to Georges Lapalme, who holds down the dual role of attorney-general and minister of cultural affairs, he will be concerned with such matters as the purity of spoken French, arts and French - Canadian culture generally.

The department includes a bureau of linguistics, a provincial arts council and a branch dealing with the problems of French - speaking Canadians outside the province.

NOTED FOR RUSES

His ingenuity was demonstrated in 1932 when he was assigned to cover the explosion of the tanker Cymbeline in Montreal Harbor in which more than 30 died. Police cordoned off the area and refused to let reporters in. Pallasce got by police by hiding in a basket litter of a morgue wagon.

On another occasion he donned a cleric's garb he had used in a play to wheedle a photograph after his editor told him not to come back without a picture.

Pallasce worked his way through college as an elevator boy at a Montreal department store, then was hired for $4 a week by La Patrie. He was replaced in the office of the late Louis Francoeur, one of French-Canada's great newspaper men.

"This was an exceptional break," Pallasce recalls. "Just in talking with Francoeur, I reviewed my whole classical course of studies."

SERVED IN NAVY

Later he went to work for Le Canada under Olivar Asselin, who trained such newspaper-men as the late Eustache Letellier de Saint-Just and Roger Duhamel, former editors of La Patrie. Duhamel now is Queen's Printer.

Pallasce moved to La Presse and then to two weeklies, Le Petit Journal and Photo-Journal. In 1942 he joined the navy and served in the public section of its information branch.

Discharged in 1944 because of ill health, he spent much of his time in radio, until last year when he returned to newspaper work with Le Nouveau Journal. Montreal's new daily.

He is the author of nine plays and won the Gratien Gelinas Trophy and the Wood Prize in the Quebec drama festival in 1950. He has received an honorary doctorate of letters from Laval University, was made Knight of the Order of Sylvester by the Pope in 1957 and won the Lieutenant - Governor's Medal in a 1959 contest among members of the Society of French-Canadian poets.

Pallasce was born Ernest Pallascio, one of five sons of a professional soldier. At five he was adopted by Mr. and Mrs. Louis-Lionel Morin, friends of the family who had no children. He has always retained the name of his adopting parents as a "gesture of gratitude."

He married to the former Alina Massicotte of Montreal, he is the father of six children—one boy and five girls.

NOTED REPORTER — Ernest Pallascio-Morin, Montreal newspaperman, is the public relations director of Quebec's cultural department. The 52-year-old father of six changed to his new position after a reporting career that started in the 1930's. He is also a novelist, actor and playwright. (CP Photo)

SEEKS DAMAGES

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actress Juliet Prowse, accusing 20th Century-Fox of breach of contract, is seeking $51,000 she claims has been improperly withheld by the movie studio. Miss Prowse says 20th Century hasn't honored two provisions in her contract. She said one calls for her services 40 weeks a year and the other permits her to appear in media other than movies.

Britain's Sunday Papers Deepen Controversy

LONDON (Reuters) — British Sunday newspapers deepened the controversy over Prince Philip's "bloody awful" comment about Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express.

The Queen's husband described the Express, owned by the Canadian-born publisher, as a "bloody awful newspaper" and said it was "full of lies, scandal and imagination" while attending a British embassy reception in Rio de Janeiro last week. He later said his remark was intended as a joke.

The duke spoke a day after a Conservative MP, Sir Martin Lindsay, introduced a motion in the House of Commons, criticizing Beaverbrook for adverse comments on royal extravagance in his newspapers.

The Sunday Express carries an article by editor John Gordon which defends the comments under the headline: "Certainly I have criticized royal extravagance. But doesn't it exist? Isn't it a scandal?"

CAN BE CHEEKY?

The Observer argues that freedom of the press must include the right to advocate republicanism, to be cheeky to the monarch and her relatives and to do worse things than that.

But it warns that "regular public slanging matches" between leading members of the Royal Family and the press will impair the monarchy as a political institution.

Reynolds News, a left - wing Sunday paper, says Prince Philip's "bloody awful" remark would have been better applied to the "drivel" about the Royal Family which appears in other publications.

"The treacly flow of triviality and snobbery about major and minor royalty has never ceased to ooze over the bookstalls."

But the paper adds that it agrees with Beaverbrook press criticism of royal extravagance.

English Paper Says U.S. Acts Exceed Rights

LONDON (CP)—The Evening Standard says American fear of the Castro regime in Cuba is creating tense relations between Canada and the United States.

"Irritation is beginning to build into anger," says the newspaper in an editorial.

The paper adds that the U.S. fear of Cuba is "understandable," but that the American's have stepped entirely beyond their rights in trying to use Canada as an anti - Castro instrument.

"The U.S. wishes Canada to co-operate in the efforts of the Organization of American States to impose economic sanctions on Dr. Castro's regime. This is quite wrong. Canada is not a member of that organization. She is perfectly free to act as an independent and free agent."

The Standard adds that Canada's trade with Cuba and other Communist countries is a small fraction of the trade that U.S. allies do.

"It is also well known that American businessmen have set up dummy corporations around Latin America to do business with Cuba," it says.

The editorial also declares that Washington to hopeful Canada will weld itself in an economic union with the United States.

"Already friction and fears exist among Canadians that America will establish an economic stranglehold on their country. . .

"It is a situation which all those who wish to maintain strong Commonwealth links between Britain and Canada must watch with care and anxiety."

Fur Shops Employing Native Help in Arctic Communities Cannot Handle All the Work

EDMONTON (CP) — Indians and Eskimos in the far north long at the mercy of the swings in the market for their furs, have taken the matter into their own hands. They're becoming furriers.

Knut Lang of Aklavik, N.W.T., territorial council member for Mackenzie River, says government-sponsored fur shops employing native help in the Arctic communities of Aklavik and Inuvik now have more work than they can handle. The two settlements are 1,100 miles north of Edmonton.

"The fur shop in Aklavik, which is run by Ernest Latour, an experienced furrier, for the northern affairs department, now employs about 15 women and is training 10 more.

"They make parkas, fur coats, fur caps and slippers, all made to measure and ordered by people throughout Canada."

The shop in Inuvik is part of the centre's rehabilitation program and employs many disabled persons. The program also includes mechanical and furniture workshops.

Mr. Lang, during a stopover in Edmonton en route home from the council's two - week winter session in Ottawa, added that government officials hope to develop logging and fishing industries in the two centres to a degree where they will meet local demand.

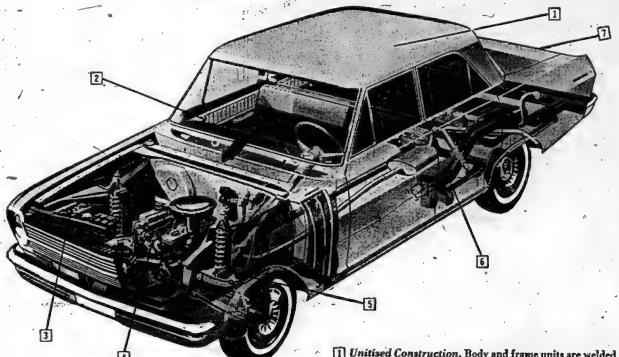
"However, there is little chance of our being able to export lumber or fish for a while yet."

John Goodall of Fort Simpson, another council member, said his hometown, likely will be named capital of the new Mackenzie Territory that will be created in 1966 from a portion of the vast Northwest Territories area.

The reason is its good communications and central position, said Mr. Goodall. It is also on the Mackenzie River, another "must" for any capital city.

Fort Simpson, he added, expects a rapid increase in its tourist traffic once an all-weather road link with Fort Nelson, B.C., is completed. Fort Nelson, on the Alaska Highway, is about 800 miles northwest of Edmonton.

"There are a great many fishing and hunting possibilities all around us and the Nahanni River hot springs should attract visitors."



About 100 government houses will be built at Fort Simpson, if it is named the capital.

Mr. Lang and Mr. Goodall are two of the four elected members of the council. Scotty Gall of Yellowknife and Pat Carey, who represents the south shore of Great Slave Lake, are the others. Five federal appointees and Gordon Robertson, assistant northern affairs ministers, round out the council membership.

OLD BONES

Fragments of bone with human attributes found in Tanganyika in 1959, have been dated by geologists as 1,750,000 years old.

Here's the inside story of CHEVY II!

BUILT INTO EVERY CHEVY II, YOU FIND A WEALTH OF UNIQUE NEW DESIGN FEATURES AND ENGINEERING ADVANCES. HERE ARE SOME OF THE REASONS FOR CHEVY II'S SUCCESS . . . FOR THE ENGINEERING EXCELLENCE THAT MAKES IT OUTSTANDING IN ITS CLASS.

1 Unitised Construction. Body and frame units are welded into one strong unitized structure, designed for rugged durability, dependable long life.

2 Interior Room. Trim in exterior dimensions, Chevy II nonetheless offers space-to-spare for passengers. And it's sensibly-apportioned space, too — head, hip, leg and shoulder room for six.

3 Functional Fenders. Chevy II's front fenders are bolted to the forward section of the body-frame, giving a rigid overall structure and allowing for easy repair or replacement.

4 New Engines. A sizzler of a 6 with spunk to spare, or a perky 4 for real economy, team with Chevy II's dependable Synchro-Mesh transmission for a smooth kind of go. There's also a specially-developed Powerglide transmission optional at extra cost.

7 Family-Size Trunk. There's plenty of space for every load in this 25.5 cu. ft. trunk, built to carry all your business or family needs. Just one more example of the craftsmanship that goes into every Chevy II.

Writer Says Cuba Desperate On Edge of Starvation Facing Economic Collapse

Following are extracts from a copyrighted report by Gerald Clark, associate editor of the Montreal Star, filed to his newspaper from Kingston, Jamaica, following his visit of Cuba. He second in about a year.

By GERALD CLARK

KINGSTON, Jamaica (CP)—If you have ever seen anyone die of cancer, you will understand what is happening to Cuba. I left there Saturday, dumbfounded at the shattering disintegration that has taken place since my last visit, just a year ago.

In 1961 some people in Havana grumbled and cursed the steady ingrowing of communism. But at least they looked healthy and well fed.

In 1962 the grumbling has taken on ominous proportions with women battling in market places for food for their children.

All of Cuba is hungry and has just emerged from the first week of rationing with hardly a hope that there will be any improvement.

An entire nation is on the edge of starvation and complete economic collapse.

LACK FUNDS

So desperately short of cash is Castro's government that it has not been able to place an order for the fish on which it has relied for some essentials since the United States embargo, for four months.

Butter has not been seen for several months. Soap has been reserved for children under the age of 7.

A year ago I wrote that any invasion of Cuba would be met with solid resistance because many people were loyal to Castro. Today I could not say so seriously for Cuban exiles, a few weeks later.

Today I would not make such a prediction because the situation has changed drastically. Castro still has a rigid core of fanatic supporters, particularly among the teenagers who are being steadily indoctrinated. He also has an efficient secret police, who even took to following me in Havana. He can boast of at least 300,000 armed men and women. But their loyalty is not clean cut; they themselves are ill-fed.

HUNGER CHANGES VIEWS

The hunger has changed all this, however, is the big flexible mass of people who last year wavered. Many of them did not like to join the vociferous gossip of anti-Castroism in open conversation. Hunger now has brought on bitter and open resentful commment. Even a year ago only a few months ago classified themselves as supporters of the revolution.

Members of the Eastern bloc —especially East Germans— astonished me by their frankness in saying that the Cuban revolution is a failure and should be written off.

A Yugoslav said flatly: "You can say that Cuba is near collapse."

And even more significantly a Cuban Communist, referring to the desperate food shortage, said quietly: "The United States has only to wait."

For another thing, the Soviet Union has failed to make good its promises or, put another way, refuses to subsidize Cuba blindly. The Russians want payment beyond sugar.

CONTRADICTORY FATE

When I was in Havana a year ago, Che Guevara told me how Cuba's factories, provided by the Eastern bloc, were due to be completed in a matter of months. In actuality, only three insignificant factories have been built—a Hungarian tomato canning, an East German biscuit factory and a Czech pencil factory. There is no sign of any others under construction.

Agriculture has faltered. After last year's bumper crop of 5,500,000 tons this years sugar production is unlikely to exceed 4,000,000 tons (partly the result of drought, partly the indifference of professional cane cutters and last years unscientific cutting by amateurs recruited in the cities).

Other foodstuffs are now abroad for quick cash (Canada last week received a planeload of Cuban tomatoes) despite a general decline of all farm items.

This is the height of the harvest season, and yet city people are reduced to a diet of eggs, eggs, a kind of sweet potato that at one time only the most impoverished ate.

The theory now is that the Russians will let Cuban hunger pains grow more acute, and then they will send in supplies so they can earn Cuban gratitude. But this presupposes a precise psychological timetable, and God help the lad many small blow left beforehand.

Soviet Union Built Shelters In Years Past

By PRESTON GROVER

MOSCOW (AP) — Evidence that the Soviet Union may have built a series of air-raid shelters in its major cities in years past has been discovered by Western observers.

Some of the official specialists doubt the evidence, however, and even those who are convinced suspect that the program has been stopped.

The evidence is primarily in the form of air vents protruding in various parts of the city. For a long time they were looked upon as merely leading to the subway or to central heating establishments.

Then some Western officials stumbled on an air-raid school and demonstration centre that has been operating for several years in an outlying part of the city. It is visited mostly by students in their teens.

It exhibits designs of air vents leading from air raid shelters. These are not photographs, just drawings of how you would build an air vent—if you were building an air raid shelter.

They resemble those around Moscow.

Soviet officials of all categories including Marshal Rodion Malinovsky, defence minister, have insisted the Soviet Union has no air raid shelter system and is not planning to build one.

VENTS LOOK OLD

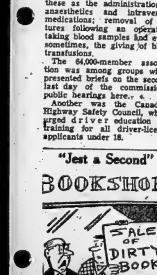
None of the vents appears new, and one of the most enthusiastic Soviets in the discovery agrees that the newest he has seen is a structural site dating back to 1950 or 1952.

The closest kind of examination conducted by Western specialists has failed to disclose any air vents around any of the newer construction sites, probably the one inhabited by a mixture of foreigners and Russians in the vicinity of the Ukraine Hotel.

Russians this correspondent knows well have insisted for months that they know of no air-raid shelters in places where they live and doubt that there are any. You must either accept their word or suppose that by long training they are able to tell you one thing and laugh behind your back afterwards.

Nurses Want Responsibilities Closely Defined

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Nurses Association wants the responsibilities of doctors and nursing professions in the hospital more closely defined.



It told the royal commission on health services Monday nurses are often called upon to perform functions they are not trained for and which are properly the responsibility of doctors.

Association President Helen M. Carpenter listed some of these as the administration of anaesthetics and intravenous medications; removal of sutures following an operation; taking blood samples and even, sometimes, the giving of blood transfusions.

The 64,000-member association was among groups which presented briefs on the second-last day of the commission's public hearings here.

Another was the Canadian Highway Safety Council, which urged driver education and training for all driver-license applicants under 18.

"Jest a Second"

"They are shop - soiled books, Higgins!"

Rodney Wood, 4, of Bowermans, 10 miles west of Picton, was instantly killed when this car, driven by his mother, Mrs. Glendon Wood, went out of control on the Scoharie Road. The car leaped a waterfilled ditch and turned over three times, County Constable Earl Marvin, the investigating officer, stated. Mrs. Wood was not seriously injured. Her husband and three younger children were at home at the time. (Hodgson).

Cyril T. Young, Veteran Mines Developer, Dies

TORONTO (CP) — Cyril T. Young, 84, veteran prospector and mine developer whose influence helped bring natural gas and several Northern Ontario communities, died here Monday.

Only last week he was re-elected vice-president of the Prospectors and Developers Association, a post he held for nearly 10 years.

A native of Renfrew, Ont., Mr. Young went to the wilds of Northern Ontario during the silver rush at Cobalt, Ont., in 1906 at Phoenix, B.C. roared unabated defiance, as the union began its 57th convention and the first held in this country.

First, a succession of resolutions was scheduled today, after a report by Canadian President Ken Smith. The five - day convention has drawn 200 representatives of the union's strength, set at 100,000 in the metal-mining industries of the continent.

Mr. Clark—in an opening address and in the officers' report he read later—castigated the arch-rival United Steelworkers of America which leads Jurisdictional raids on Mine-Mill in both countries.

He said he is confident the American section will see through in a series of attempts to form former or present union leaders guilty of Communist influence. This latest test arises from a report of the U.S. subversive activities control board last December.

LABELLED COMMUNIST

The report recommended that Mine-Mill be labelled Communist-infiltrated and a hearing is pending. Mine - Mill would be given two months to remove members if such an allegation is substantiated.

Mine-Mill is barred from affiliation with central labor groups — the Canadian Labor Congress or the American AFL-CIO—and is vulnerable to raids from affiliated unions.

Mr. Clark and Mike Solski, president of Mine-Mill's eastern division, bore down Monday on the situation at Sudbury where Steel has launched a determined take-over bid. The vote results among the 17,000-member local 598, the Canadian wing's largest, are still tied up by Mine-Mill charges of steel irregularities.

Local 598 officers have withheld dues to the national union for a year and have no representation at the international convention.

Mr. Solski said the Sudbury certification vote brought by the United Steelworkers had been conducted in an atmosphere of fear, confusion and "corrupt practices never before heard of in the trade union practices of this country."

POLLUTION GROWS

LONDON (Reuters)—A three-week conference on oil pollution in the sea was told Monday oil pollution has not increased substantially around the United States since 1955 but is much more serious around Canada. In decreasing order of seriousness the polluted areas are on the Canadian east coast, the Newfoundland and Atlantic coasts, the St. Lawrence River and approaches, the Seaway and the Great Lakes system and the Pacific coast.

Mine-Mill President Defies Union Foes As Convention Opens in Stormy Discussion

TORONTO (CP)—A militant retort to its foes came Monday from the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers, under fire from rivals, some of its Canadian members and—in the United States—from a federal senate's investigation of "Communist infiltration."

International President John Clark, who joined the union in 1908 at Phoenix, B.C. roared unabated defiance, as the union began its 57th convention and the first held in this country.

Security Prison For Doukhobors Now Located

OTTAWA (CP)—Justice Minister Fulton announced Monday that the special maximum-security penitentiary for Sons of Freedom Doukhobors now being sentenced to penitentiary terms will be established at Agassiz, in British Columbia's Fraser Valley.

Accommodation for 40 men and 15 women will be provided in prefabricated fireproof steel buildings constructed on concrete slabs and expansion will be possible if necessary, he said.

The site, well away from main roads and populated areas, is about five miles upstream and on the opposite side of the Fraser River from a previously-announced site.

John Grant, deputy warden of the British Columbia penitentiary, said that Wednesday a site at Chilliwack, B.C., was abandoned because of protests from residents of the area.

De Gaulle's Move Against Moscow Shows He'll Brook No Nonsense in Peace Move

By DAVE OANCIA
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The diplomatic strains which have developed between Paris and Moscow are another indication that President de Gaulle will brook no nonsense—not even from the Russians—as he strives to achieve peace in Algeria.

The aloof, iron-willed French leader was reported to be furious over the Soviet Unions recognition of the Algerian provisional government based in Tunis.

France curtly announced that Ambassador Maurice Dejean had been recalled to Paris for "consultations. Almost at the same time the French foreign office said Russian Ambassador Sergei Vinogradov was "invited to resume direct contact with his government in Moscow.

With two terse announcements in Paris two of the world's most important diplomatic missions were recalled and ambassadorial to charge daffaires level.

REASONS IMPORTANT

This could have thrown a monkey wrench into the summit machinery, as some British observers have suggested.

But, say the pro - Gaullist sources, it is extremely important to try to understand the French reasons for the action.

Premier Khrushchev extended recognition of the Algerian regime some within days of the Evian agreement between France and the Arab Nationalists to a ceasefire in Algeria.

Technically this was an agree-

Debate on Merger in B.C. Turns Into Shouting Match But No One Really Hurt

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Committee debate of a bill merging the B.C. Power Company and the B.C. Power Commission turned into a shouting match in the British Columbia legislature Monday.

The outburst began with an interjection by Wesley Walker (SC—Victoria) as Alan Macfarlane (L—Oak Bay) was attacking a government move to give bidding court action on matters concerning the validity of the government's expropriation of B.C. Electric last summer.

At 3:40 p.m. Mr. Walker accused Mr. Macfarlane of having "gotten up the wrong side of the bed" and shouted:

"This is a rotten, scurrilous thing to do."

Mr. Macfarlane and Premier W. A. C. Bennett leaped up to demand withdrawal of the Liberal's remark and chairman Alex Matthew (SC—Vancouver Centre) ruled the remark should be withdrawn.

Mr. Macfarlane said he would withdraw only if Mr. Walker withdrew the interjection. "He accused me of being on the payroll of the B.C. Power Corporation," he said, "and that's an insult to my reputation."

TOOK COURT ACTION

B.C. Power Corp. has obtained a Supreme Court injunction placing assets of B.C. Electric against the takeover bid pending the hearing of an action lodged by the corporation, former owners of B.C. Electric against the takeover, and compensation set by the government.

Premier Bennett demanded that the chairman "name" the Liberal MLA, requiring his removal from the chamber.

Mr. Matthew appeared to be losing control of the shouting match and Speaker Hugh Shantz stepped in to extinguish the blaze of oratory. In the end, Mr. Walker withdrew their offending words.

By the end of the seven-hour sitting the government had pushed committee approval of the bill and had pushed through third and final reading of a companion bill amending terms of B.C. Electric against the Development, in other provincial bodies.

Edmonton— Mike, Maccagno (L—Lac La Biche) introduced a private member's bill in the Health Minister Dr. J. Donovan Ross Monday night, his salary be cut to $1 a year. The motion was voted down amid laughter from the Social Credit government supporters, who hold all but four of the legislature's 63 seats.

Toronto — Health Minister Dymond announced Monday plans for a bursary fund to encourage budding doctors and dentists to practise in rural and outlying areas of Ontario.

Fredericton — Premier Robert Stanfield said the Nova Scotia government's reluctance to go to United States money markets has paid off, in that the province's credit rating has increased much by the drop in the value of the Canadian dol-

6 Doukhobors Sentenced to Prison Terms

NELSON, B.C. (CP) — Six members of the radical Sons of Freedom Doukhobor sect were sentenced Monday to a year in terms in connection with the attempted burning of two Doukhobor villages and two communal halls.

Another 71 Freedomites—almost the sect's entire leadership—were remanded for eight days on charges of conspiring to intimidate the Parliament of Canada and British Columbia.

Two persons named in the indictment—a 16-year-old girl and leader Stefan Sorokin and his aide, Bill Moolejsky, are living in Uruguay.

Freedomite elder Pete Ostrakoff, sentenced to seven years in prison for conspiracy to commit arson and acquitted of attempted arson, told the court Sorokin is behind the terrorism.

Ostrakoff was the first witness with arson attempts on his villages and two communally halls at Colonia and Pass Creek last July 29.

Before the arrest of 39 Freedomite leaders by RCMP last weekend, Ostrakoff said he and five others at the trial with him were glad "you have got all the members of the committee."

The 60 members of the sect's "working council" outlined if others arrested earlier in Monday's court entrance on intimidation charges.

GETS 18 YEARS

William Sorokin was sentenced to 10 years on charges of conspiracy to commit arson, and attempted arson in the Doukhobonia and Pass Creek incidents.

Alex G. Babakieff was acquitted of conspiracy but convicted of attempted arson. He was sentenced to a year definite and a year indefinite.

Sid Salikin was sentenced to six years and three years concurrent on attempted arson and conspiracy counts.

Bill Sukhotinoff was acquitted of conspiracy charge. He was convicted on a charge of attempted arson.

Income Tax Explained

Written and designed for the taxpayer who is not in a position to employ the services of a professional accountant or visit an income Tax Office.

By C. A. MILLER
Former Supervising Assessor
Income Tax Dept.

The supplementary budget of December 20, 1960 brought in a proposed amendment to the Income Tax Act that would give quite a measure of tax relief to those taxpayers who have children attending colleges or universities. This measure became law on February 2, 1961 and is applicable to the whole of that year. This means that it will apply to the 1961 returns that are to be filed after January 1, 1962.

When the taxpayer has a child in full time attendance at a University, College, or other educational institution for a period exceeding three months, the tuition fees paid will be deductible in determining the childs' income for 1961.

Legislation that has been in effect for the past several years states that if the child's income for the year was in excess of $800, the child could not be claimed as a dependant. The new legislation effective Jan. 1, 1962 will allow the parent to claim the child, for the 500 exemption provided the child's income after the tuition fees have been deducted does not exceed $950.

EXAMPLE
Child's Income 1961	$1300.00
Tuition fees 1961	$700.00
Net Income	$800.00

The child's net income being under $1000.makes him non taxable and the father may still claim the $500 exemption for the child. Certain other allowable fees paid should be supported by receipts. Any child attending any of the institutions as outlined above may be claimed by the parent regardless of their age. The 21 year age limit does not apply to full time students. Remember tuition fees are deductible only when the student was in full time attendance at his place of education for a period in excess of 3 months.

QUESTIONS

Question No. 1: My daughter who attends university is not employed during the summer holidays and has no income in her own right. Can I, claim her tuition fees on my return.

Answer No. You are allowed only the $500 exemption for her.

Question No. 2: My son who is attending university, was employed throughout the summer holidays. I now find, after deducting the tuition fees, his net income is $971. Can I claim anything for him

Answer: Yes. You may claim $500, exemption for him if you add the amount of his income which exceeds $950. ($21) is your own tax payable.

REDUCE DRAFT MONDAY

PARIS (AP) — The French government announced Monday that the length of service for French draftees will be cut back to 36 months by the end of this year, and to 18 months of the first half of 1963. Conscripts now are held in service about 27 months. The end of fighting against the Algerian rebels was given as the reason.

Highway Program Is Heavy In District This Summer

The summer of 1962 will be a busy year in highway construction in the Belleville and Bay of Quinte District, according to the Ontario Department of Highways capital works program for the fiscal year 1962-63.

On Highway 401 alone from just northwest of Belleville and Trenton there are no less than ten different projects scheduled as the department pushes its effort to complete the four-lane controlled access highway across the province.

By late this fall the Department hopes to put into operation the "missing link" on 401 from just west of Marysville to Odessa. Numerous interchanges are also planned along this section of the four lane highway are also scheduled for completion this year.

Northwest of Belleville work on a superior design to resume on the Wallbridge road interchange at Centenary after a construction start was made last fall by the H. J. McFarland Construction Company.

Also at Sidney Street north of Belleville preparations are underway for a construction start on the Sidney Street overpass. Carry-over work from last year also includes interchanges and approaches on 401 at Marysville and through to Odessa.

Proposed new work in the immediate Belleville area includes reconstruction of No. 14 highway north of 401 and a by-pass at Foxboro, included as part of the same project is resurfacing of 2.5 miles through the village of Foxboro.

Paving of the south lane of 401 from Marysville to Napanee and on to Odessa, is included in the year's road program.

Grading and paving of 8.7 miles east of Kaladar on No. 7 highway is also scheduled for this year.

Possibly the biggest single job for the year's proposed new work program is the construction of the previously announced high level bridge over the Bay of Quinte at Cronk's Ferry just west of Deseronto.

A development road project of interest to Hastings county residents is the re-construction of 3.6 miles of the Madoc-Foxboro road south of Ivanhoe.

Last year a section of the Foxboro road to Ivanhoe was rebuilt and 2.7 miles of this road is scheduled to be paved this year.

In Prince Edward county a new bridge is planned on Highway 33 over Consecon Creek at Consecon to tie in with a 6.1 mile stretch of No. 33 to be rebuilt. Under the program the village of Consecon will be by-passed.

Paving of No. 14 from Crofton to Bloomfield (rebuilt last year) is also scheduled.

Sport Slices...

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The National Hockey League's 1961-62 all-star team will shortly be named by the sportswriters and broadcasters from the six centres. It will be interesting to note the scribes' findings.

By a nonsensical system, the writers and casters will merely add points via votes to those laid down by them in the mid-season poll.

But here's a new "Who's Who" for the National League. The NHL's first hockey players all-star hockey team—as distinct from the sportswriters' all-stars—is named in the current Maclean's by Trent Frayne who polled the regular players on all six squads.

There's no guarantee the players' selections will differ from the official NHL choices in April, but they do differ sharply from the hockey writers' mid-season forecasts.

The players named a second squad too, but these lagged away back in the voting. This squad includes: Glenn Hall, goal; defence, Pierre Pilote, J. G. Talbot and Doug Mohns (tied); centre, Stan Mikita; left wing, Frank Mahovlich; right wing, Andy Bathgate, and coach Imlach.

Now let's see the difference in opinion of the scribes and the players.

At right wing the writers picked Bathgate first, Howe second; but the men who played with and against them put Howe first with the writers second. Second Red Kelly was best, Richard next best. Kelly didn't even place on the players' side. Finally at left wing the writers like Mahovlich and Dean Prentice in that order, but the players liked Bobby Hull (who admittedly started the season slowly), better than either of them and placed Mahovlich a poor second.

In the coaching department Toe Blake was a runaway choice over Punch Imlach, polling 30 votes to 12. As far as coaching goes two teams did not give their own coaches any votes at all. From respect to their future employment, their names are not mentioned.

For straight perty loyalty the medal goes to the Montreal Canadiens. Habs voted a virtually straight ticket. Sixteen players voted, eight of them voting solidly for Canadiens. Two refused to vote. Beliveau grunted, got his feet and whitked away. Dickie Moore said, "Hell, I don't care how they set some other guy is. I'm not voting for him if he doesn't play for us."

Gordie Howe and Bobby Hull led the "polls," each getting 58 votes. Bathgate got 52 and Mahovlich 19 against Hull. Harvey polled 56 over Pilote who had 25. Plante got 56 and Hall 26. Henri Richard was given the nod over Mikita 44-16.

The defending champions, the Black Hawks, appeared to be the team with the most objective point of view. Seventeen Hawks voted, naming eleven members of rival teams and eight Black Hawks. They were united behind only one player, their own Bobby Hull (as were most other clubs). Hull outpolled Toronto's Mahovlich sixteen to one. For goal the Hawks gave ten votes to their own Glenn Hall, and seven to Plante. The Canadiens by contrast, supported Plante fifteen to one for Hall.

One Toronto player, probably with tongue-in-cheek, named Bower, Stanley, Arbour, Harris, Nevin and Dick Duff with Bert Olmstead as coach. Except for Bower who got six votes these were the only votes the others received.

Boston's Don McKenney, who started this players' selection business, said the writers chose the men they think best—but they don't see enough games. Only Toronto has newspapermen who see most regularly, Montreal occasionally, and the other four practically never.

"So out of seventy games," McKenney said, "the people who vote see the home team 35 times and the rest only seven times. The players see twice as many games in both cases which isn't perfect, but comes a lot closer to a true line."

Says More Will Score 50

'Rocket' Tributes Hull

MONTREAL (CP) — Maurice (Rocket) Richard, retired Montreal Canadiens' great, said Monday he is convinced Chicago's Bobby Hull won't be the last player to score at least 50 goals in a National Hockey League season.

"One of these years, somebody may get as many as 55," Richard said. "But, I doubt if it'll be possible to do better than that."

Richard was the first man to score 50 goals in a season—doing so in 1944-45 during a 50-game schedule. Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion, also of the Canadiens, equalled the feat in 1960-61 and Hull got his 50th goal in Chicago's final game of the 1961-62 schedule Sunday night. Geoffrion and Hull both played in 70-game slates.

"Hull is the type of an athlete who could break many records," Richard added. "He possesses everything — physique, skating ability, shot and hockey instinct."

Geoffrion said he was "very happy" for Hull.

"You have to have a good streak and a lot of luck to get that many goals. I don't think it will happen again, not for a long time anyway."

GREENKEEPERS MEET

GUELPH (CP)—The 15th annual Royal Canadian Golf Association Sports Turf-Grass Conference and Exposition opened at the Ontario Agricultural College Monday with a record 360 delegates in attendance. The five-day convention of greenkeepers from across the country is jointly sponsored by the turf section of the RCGA and the college.

Hawks, Habs Join Cup Battle Tonight

Both Coaches Confident

By LAURENT CHIASSON

MONTREAL (CP) — Coach Rudy Pilous has a problem he hopes can be ironed out before his Chicago Black Hawks meet Montreal Canadiens tonight in the opening game of a best-of-seven Stanley Cup semi-final series.

"I have to impress, on the players the need to revert to good, solid, position hockey," Pilous said Monday.

"During the last several weeks we've been switching lines and playing one - man hockey-trying to get Bobby Hull some goals. But we're facing a different situation now."

Problem or no problem, Pilous appears confident as the Hawks prepare to tangle with the Canadiens in the cup semi-final for the fourth consecutive year.

"We're the champions," said the fast-talking Rudy. "Let the Canadiens worry about us."

Coach Toe Blake, of Canadiens, meanwhile, said this year's edition of the Habitants is in far better shape than the one which was outbumped and outskated in losing to the Hawks last spring.

"Truthfully, las, spring we went against the Hawks with five players in pretty bad condition," said Blake. "But this time we're in better shape and there'll be no alibis for injuries, at least not yet."

DETHRONED HABS

After eliminating the Canadiens last spring, the Hawks went on to whip Detroit Red Wings in the final for their first Stanley Cup in 23 years. Chicago's victory snapped a five-year Montreal reign.

Neither club practised Monday. The Canadiens only arrived at 4 p.m. from Detroit, where they completed National Hockey League regular-season play Sunday night, and the Hawks took the day off.

Pilous thinks the Hawks have improved over last spring.

"We're a little better. We're a year older and we have more confidence."

The Chicago coach doesn't think Hull's play in the series will be hampered by the extra ice time he got in the closing weeks of the NHL schedule to tie the league's 50-goal record.

"The pressure is off now," said Pilous. "Bobby will be okay."

HULL CONFIDENT

Hull also appears confident he can get his share of goals in the playoff.

"I don't see why I can't continue to score," he said. I'm not tired and won't be used as much during the playoff."

The Hawks will open the series without left-winger Bob Murphy, who has a groin injury.

Another Hawk forward, Ken Wharram, is newly recovered from a groin ailment and may see limited action.

Canadiens have lost ace centre Henri Richard and winger Marcel Bonin for the season but have bolstered by Gerbo (Red) Berenson, 22 - year - old University of Michigan star, whom they used on a trial basis for the last four games of the season and signed to a professional contract Monday.

Berenson, born in Regina, was a star for Belleville in the 1959 world hockey tournament at Prague, in which the Canadian team won the championship. He has led the Western Canada Hockey Association in scoring for the last two years and had a goal and two assists in the two NHL games in which he played a full shift.

Kingston Trio Tops League

OTTAWA (CP) — Kingston Frontenacs' big three — Orval Tessier, Tom McCarthy and Bob Attersley — virtually have clinched the top spots in the Eastern Professional Hockey League scoring race with only one week remaining in the 70-game schedule.

Tessier scored three goals and assisted on a fourth last week to run up his total to 107 points, including 50 goals. McCarthy notched his 31st goal to stay second with 92 points.

Attersley leads the league with 58 assists and holds down third spot, according to league statistics released Monday.

The top 15 scorers maintained their positions last week, while three teams were locked in a tight battle for a first-place finish.

Among goaltenders, Canadiens' Cesare Maniago leads-end his lead over Jack McCartan of Kitchener with a 2.45 goals-per-game average. McCartan leads in shutouts with five.

Sudbury Wolves set a league record with 1,060 minutes in penalties. Dino Robazza of Sault Ste. Marie was still the league bad man with 192 minutes.

The regular schedule ends Sunday and semi-finals begin April 4.

WILL DEFEND TITLE

HAMILTON (CP) — Shooters for Ontario, Quebec and New York state are expected to compete in the annual Ontario open skeet championships here April 14-15.

Al Beck, president of the tournament committee, said Monday some 150 shooters will compete for the high all-round open championship, including last year's winner, Squadron Leader Barney Hartman of Ottawa.

John Emmett of St. Catharines, last year's champion in the 12-gauge division, will defend his title.

Might Be in Coma for Year

Beaten Boxer Still Unconscious

NEW YORK (AP) — Benny (Kid) Paret continued in a coma today as Governor Nelson Rockefeller studied a report by the New York state athletic commission on a grudge fight that cost Paret his world welterweight boxing title—and maybe his life.

A medical bulletin from Roosevelt Hospital said the 25-year-old Cuban was in critical condition and the outlook was "extremely grave."

Emile Griffith, the new welterweight king who battered Paret senseless in their scheduled 15-rounder Saturday night, said Monday night:

"It's all a nightmare . . . I pray for Benny's recovery very fast. It's all in God's hands."

The athletic commission, which supervises boxing, went into secret session Monday under orders from the governor, who said he was "deeply concerned and disturbed."

The commission viewed films of the fight and heard testimony from nine witnesses.

The principal witness was referee Ruby Goldstein, criticized by the Paret camp for not stopping the fight sooner in the 12th round when Griffith kept bashing Paret's head as it was caught between the ropes.

Dr. John Crisp, a surgeon at the hospital, said Paret is being maintained under hypothermia (treatment to lower his body requirements.)"

SEES LITTLE CHANGE

"There has been little discernible change since his admission Saturday night," the doctor said.

He said the changes are 10,000 to 1 against Paret's ever regaining full control of his body after the brain damage he suffered.

If Paret lives, he might remain in a coma for a year or more.

Brain surgery was performed on him Sunday.

Paret's pregnant wife, Lucy, has been keeping vigil at the hospital since she flew here from her home in Miami, Fla., Sunday.

There had been bad blood between Paret and Griffith who fought three times.

Griffith admittedly was angry with remarks made by Paret. Griffith said Paret cursed and insulted him before and during the fight.

"I'm sorry now that I ever became a fighter," Griffith said. "I guess I'll go on fighting sometime, somewhere, but I don't want to think about it now."

Lead Series 3-2

Macs Shade Kingston 5-4

By GARRY ALEXANDER
Staff Writer

After blowing 3-0 and 4-1 leads the Belleville Macs came back to edge the Kingston Frontenacs 5-4 on Moe Hunter's goal here last night in a playoff thriller before a season-high crowd of 962 fans.

Belleville leads the best-of-seven OHA Eastern Junior "B" group final three games to two and can wrap up the "Red" Sullivan Trophy series in Kingston Wednesday night. Should a seventh game be necessary, it will be played here Friday.

Last night's game was probably the best of the series as far as crowd-pleasing action and evenness of play was concerned.

The McFarlands went all out in the first period and came up with three pretty goals to take what looked like a commanding lead. The visitors battled back to cut the lead to 4-2 after two periods.

Kingston's Ron Brown broke out of a scoring slump with two goals early in the third to tie the score. Brown's first came on a high blueline slapshot that caught Parker unawares after 56 seconds of play and the game-tying marker was another high, hard one from 35 feet out at the 7.25 mark.

Belleville's winning goal came on a four-man ganging attack. Larry Mavety carried the length of the ice and both Weston and Smith fired at Kingston's Demmler before Hunter grabbed the loose puck near the corner of the net and shoved it home.

The Macs, who had been hard pressed in the first half of the period, took new life with Hunter's goal and had more than their share of the play over the remainder. Foolish penalties to Lavallee and Ball and a misconduct to Robertson in the last four minutes of play all but killed the Frontenacs' chances of tying it.

Bill McGuire opened the scoring for Belleville when he walked in alone to pull Demmler at 8.28 of the first. It was the shifty forward's first goal of the playoffs.

Weston made it 2-0, tucking in Smith's relay after Hunter had wrapped out from behind the Kingston net at 12.20.

Gord Rowson, who made key stops all night despite a couple of long - shot goals, was out looking for the puck when Bob Rawson's hard shot at 15.12 of the first period. The remainder of the period was tacked onto the second and Bucky Parker picked up his 20 feet in front to make it 3-0 at 17.46.

Rawson bagged Kingston's first at 6.07 of the second but Dave Smith got that one back for Wilf Reid or the visitors in the six-min at 8.41.

Eddy Carey's wing shot found the spot for Kingston's second goal at 12.46.

Demmler and Parker were called on for 21 shots apiece while Rowson picked up five minor penalties and a misconduct. The Macs drew four minors.

Hunter and Smith, with a goal and two assists each, McGuire, Weston and Ethier, with one and one apiece, Pug Kelaw with two helpers and Mavety with one, looked after the Belleville points.

Kingston — Demmler, Long, R. Reid, Ball, Shaver, Robertson, Lavallee, Gamble, Curran, McMillan, Brown, Conery, Rawson, Harkness.

Belleville — Parker, Boyle, Mavety, Zakos, G. Reid, Weston, Hunter, Smith, Ethier, McGuire, Keller, Duvall Rowland.

Referees — Don McCurdy and Tim Williams, Belleville.

SUMMARY

First Period

Belleville McGuire (Keller, Ethier) 8.28
Belleville Weston (Hunter, Smith) 12.20

Rangers Ready for Leafian Tilts

By BILL MacDOUGALL

OSHAWA (CP)—New York Rangers, their coach determined and their general manager confident, set up headquarters here Monday night for the first two games of their National Cup semi-final against Toronto Maple Leafs.

"We know it'll be tough," said coach Doug Harvey as he shepherded his charges into sleeping quarters at a hotel. "But we're going to give it our best."

The club picked this industrial area to rest between games in order to avoid the avalanche of fans and ticket-seekers who general manager Muzz Patrick said have sometimes plagued the club in Toronto, where the best-of-seven series starts tonight.

The strategy is apparently working. During the evening the odd good luck wish and the unsuccessful attempts of a half-dozen kids in hockey garb to get by a bellhop for autographs constituted the bulk of their welcome.

Reminded that the Rangers lost the seven games they played on Toronto ice this season, Patrick was not pessimistic.

ARE AT PEAK

"We had a bad slump during the season," he said, "and now the figure we're hitting our peak."

The Rangers finished in the National Hockey League's fourth and last playoff spot. Toronto was second.

The Rangers are in top physical shape in contrast to the Leafs, whose biggest loss is Carl Brewer, a top-notch defenceman who got out of hospital Monday after an operation to relieve a severe charley-horse. Wayne Hillman, up from Rochester Americans of the American League, and Al Arbour, with Toronto all season but seldom used, will share replacement duties.

Left winger Bert Olmstead is the second cripple, and prospects of his return are as dim as Brewer's.

CLANCY OPTIMISTIC

"Sure we're gonna miss him, there's no question about that" he said. "But surely one man is not going to make that much difference."

Olmstead's absence would mean less off "ice generalship." And the series?

"It's going to be close, very close," said Clancy. "I think we're going to have to play seven games.

"I hope we win it and we should win it. I think we're got a better hockey team."

Harvey refused to predict the length of the series, saying "I think it'll be a long one, but I'm not going to make any guesses."

Bobby Hull's Goals Record

Matches Durnan Feat

Plante Wins 6th Vezina

MONTREAL (CP) — The National Hockey League statistics confirmed today what most hockey fans have strongly suspected since Sunday night—Jacques Plante, goalie of Montreal's scoredoo team, is Montreal's Jacques Plante, who thereby equals another record.

Plante's championship was his second in a five - year career, and both times it was a dog-eat-dog fight. The statistics show Hull and Andy Bathgate of New York Rangers tied at 84 points, but the scoring trophy goes to the player with the most goals. Bathgate had 28.

"Both men, however, will get $1,000 from the NHL.

WINS SIXTH TROPHY

Plante, playing the full 70 games of the schedule for the first time in his career, allowed 166 goals for an average of 2.37. He gets $1,000 and the Vezina Trophy, for the sixth time.

Actually, the goalie with the best individual record is Toronto's Don Simmons, who in nine games allowed 21 goals for a 2.33 average. The Toronto team average of 2.37, earned by Simmons, Regular Johnny Bower and Jerry Cheevers, was next best to Plante's.

Plante's six-trophy record has only been matched by one goalie, Montreal's Bill Durnan.

Hull's 50 goals matched a record set by the retired Maurice "Rocket" Richard and matched by still-active Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion, both of Montreal.

LEADS IN PENALTIES

Lou Fontinato of Montreal won the league penalty crown with a total of 167 minutes, Chicago Black Hawks the most penalized team with a total of 894 minutes. Toronto was second with 797.

Montreal Canadiens, finishing first and scoring 258 goals, broke by one goal the record team total they set themselves in 1958-59.

AUTHORIZE SURVEY

HAMILTON (CP)—Civic officials will study what renovations will be required to prepare a home for Canada's football Hall of fame. Board of control Monday authorized property superintendent Robert Mattason and Architect Alex German to conduct the survey and prepare a cost estimate. The hall of fame will be in a home adjacent to the municipal pool at Scott Park on King Street East.

Guelph Galt Get Players

GUELPH (CP) — Players on last year's roster of the now-defunct Hamilton Cardinals of the Inter-County Senior Baseball Association were divided during the weekend between Guelph Merchants and Galt Terriers.

A league ruling gave the two clubs exclusive negotiating rights to the Hamilton players.

The draft was conducted on an alternating basis.

Galt won the toss and selected shortstop Murray Oliver, who finished third in league batting last season with .313. Oliver plays for Boston Bruins in the National Hockey League.

Jack Price, fifth in batting with .317 last year and second in runs batted in, was Guelph's first choice.

Guelph's other choices were Danny Drake, who hit .287 last season, Tom Dowling, Eric Lucas, Ted Carney, Ron Vecheau, Richard Jack, Ron Campaigne, Al Runtes and Peter Toward.

Galt chose left-handed pitcher Ross Paton, Fred Thompson, Bob Salzbalzer, Larry Cunningham, Nels Gilmore, Bob Delaney, Vic Kaiser, Fred Chayka and Jim McMillan.

BRIDGETOWN, Barbados (Reuters)—Accurate spin bowling by India kept the usually free-scoring West Indies batsmen down to 164 runs in 5½ hours Monday on the third day of the third Test here. The West Indies had reached 427 for eight at the close of play in reply to India's first innings of 258.

Frontenacs Tie Wolves

SUDBURY (CP) — Goals by Dick Cherry and Orval Tessier in the third period pulled Kingston Frontenacs to a 3-3 tie with Sudbury Wolves Monday night. The tie gave the Frontenacs sole possession of second place in the Eastern Professional Hockey League, two points behind Hull - Ottawa Canadiens. The Wolves are sixth in the four-team and last playoff spot.

Tessier's goal, his 31st of the season, was scored with only 22 seconds left in the game. The teams split a pair in the first period and Sudbury tallied twice without a reply in the second.

Bob Atterley was Kingston other scorer. Sam Bettio scored twice, and Bob Dillabough once for the Wolves.

Olympics Win

HULL, Que. (CP)—Montreal Olympics scored two goals in the last four minutes of the opening game of the Eastern Canada Allan Cup semi-final to beat Buckingham Aces 2-0 Monday night.

The next game of the best-of-five series is in Montreal Wednesday night.

Sweeney Opens Lead In AHL

NEW YORK (AP)—Defending champion Bill Sweeney of Springfield Indians has opened a five-point lead in the American Hockey League scoring race going into the last week of the season.

Sweeney, who picked up four points last week and has two games to go, has 96 points on 37 goals and 59 assists, league statistics showed today.

Team - mate Brian Kilrea, blanked last week, is second with 20 goals and a league-leading 71 assists for 91 points.

Marcel Paille of Springfield is the leading goaltender with a 2.54 goals-against average for 49 games. Denis DeJordy of Buffalo Bisons leads in shutouts with eight.

Dogs Whip Chatham for Second Win

CHATHAM (CP) — Windsor Bulldogs took a 2-0 lead in the best-of-seven final of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior Series, dumping Chatham Maroons 3-1 Monday night and increased it to 4-1 in the second period.

Windsor's goals were scored by Jerry Servias, Bob White, Gord Haley, Bobby Brown and Lou Bendo. For Chatham, Cooper Leyte tried a pair, with George Aitken adding the other.

The two clubs meet again in Windsor Wednesday and return to Chatham for the fourth game Wednesday.

Ross Childs turned in a strong performance in Windsor's goal, making 38 saves, many of which appeared sure-fire goals. Chatham's Al Bennett blocked 24 shots.

The 1,330 fans saw referee Frank Sloig assess Maroons six of the 11 minor penalties.

Academy Award Nominees Different in Past 15 Years

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Memo from the boss: How about comparing this year's Academy award nominees with those of, say, 15 years ago?

Memo to the boss: Okay.

It was a good year for movies, 1946. Look at the pictures nominated for best of the year:

The Best Years of Our Lives, a brilliant study of the postwar United States.

Henry V, the best Shakespeare film ever made.

It's a Wonderful Life, a warm comedy with a moral.

The Razor's Edge, well-produced Maugham and metaphysics.

The Yearling, a bautiful pastorale.

Four of these films brought best-actor nominations for Fredric March, Laurence Olivier, James Stewart and Gregory Peck. They were joined by Larry Parks of The Jolson Story.

Most of the ladies were nominated for love stories: Olivia DeHavilland in To Each His Own, Celia Johnson for Brief Encounter, Jennifer Jones for Duel in the Sun, Jane Wyman for The Yearling, Plus Rosalind Russell for her brave portrait of Sister Kenny.

MOST ARE VETERANS

The supporting actors came from veteran ranks: Charles Coburn The Green Years; William Demarest, Jolson; Claude Rains Notorious; Clifton Webb Razor's Edge; Harold Russell Best Years.

The supporting actresses: Ethel Barrymore Spiral Staircase; Anne Baxter Razor's Edge; Flora Robson Saratoga Trunk; Lillian Gish Duel in the Sun; Gale Sondergaard Anna and the King of Siam.

The winners that year were Best Years, March, DeHavilland, Russell and Baxter.

The point is this year? You've seen the full list. I might describe a few of them.

West Side Story is a sympathetic view of lawless street gangs in New York. The Hustler concerns low life in the pool halls.

Audrey Hepburn in Breakfast at Tiffany's plays a girl who gets rips of life a night from her many men friends; she falls in love with the boy upstairs—he's being kept by a wealthy female.

Piper Laurie in The Hustler is a crippled alcoholic who takes in Paul Newman, an unreformed pool shooter Geraldine Loren in Two Women is an Italian refugee who is notably free with her charms.

SEES FOLLY IN WAYS

Geraldine Page in the Summer and Smoke spinster who sees folly in her chaste ways and picks up the first salesman who comes along. Natalie Wood is sent to the nut house in Splendor in the Grass, apparently from the strain of having refused sex with her sweetheart, Warren Beatty. Stuart Whitman plays a sensational child-molester in The Mark.

Fay Bainter is the Children's Hour dowager who leads the whispering campaign that two schoolmistress are lesbians. Lotte Lenya in Roman Spring of Mrs. Stone procures Italian boys for the genteel American women.

And so it goes. Write your own moral.

Hollywood isn't.

Prominent Executive Named O'Keefe V-P

TORONTO — Prominent executive W. O. (Denny) Whitaker, well known executive in broadcasting, athletic and sportsman, has been appointed vice-president of the O'Keefe Brewing Company Limited, it was announced by Ian R. Dowie, president of the Canadian Breweries Limited, Mr. Whitaker will have responsibility in all phases of company activities effective April 2.

Prominent both as an athlete and as an executive in several areas of sport, Mr. Whitaker was quarterback of the Hamilton Tigers from 1937-1939, and on his return from overseas served the club as a member of the executive and for two years as vice-president until 1951. While overseas he organized and was captain of the Canadian Army football team which defeated the U.S. Army team in the Tea Bowl at London's White City Stadium in 1944.

Mr. Whitaker is an ardent horseman and organized the Hamilton Hunt in 1938. He is a member of the Horse Show Administration Committee of the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair and also serves as chairman of the prize list committee, entry committee and International Teams for the Royal Winter Fair.

He makes his home on the farm near Caledonia, about 13 miles from Hamilton, where he maintains a stable of hunters and show ring jumpers, and follows his hobbies of fox hunting and raising thoroughbred horses.

Mr. Whitaker has been active in a number of charitable organizations and is currently chairman of the Hamilton Easter Seal Campaign for the Ontario Society for Crippled Children. He was also chairman in 1955.

As a tough new golf course, it is tournament played by high winds. Carpo posted a 72-hole total of 283, five under par. He shot a one-under-par 71 in the final round while Sanderson was slipping to 73.

Jack Nicklaus wound up in third place at -283. Ben Hogan tied for fourth place at 286 with Ted Kroll.

Clouted in 18-8 Loss

Birds Bomb Mets, Hook

NEW YORK (AP) — Only two weeks remained before New York Mets begin firing in earnest and manager Casey Stengel wanted to take a good look at pitcher Jay Hook.

It turned out to be a shattering experience, for the grizzled Casey and the 25-year-old righthander.

Hook, a Baltimore Orioles castoff, was hit with abandon as the American League club bombed the Mets, new entry in the National League, 18-8.

Hook went six innings, yielding 17 hits and 11 runs. The Orioles got nine hits and eight runs in the sixth inning. They collected six more runs and four hits against rookie Evans Killeen.

Included in the outburst against Hook were two homers by Dave Nicholson and one each by Brooks Robinson, John Powell and Russ Snyder.

A $125,000 premium player drafted by the Mets from Cincinnati, Hook was angry about the pounding but said, he held no grudge against Stengel or the Mets' plans.

Casey said: "I left him in there because I want to make him a starting pitcher—and he worked the equivalent of nine innings. He's got the stuff, but he's hurt him. And it might make a starting pitcher of him."

CARDS WIN AGAIN

St. Louis Cardinals recorded their second victory in as many of the exhibition season by edging the Detroit Tigers 7-6. They got the Detroit Tigers 6-5 in 10 innings. Houston Colts trounced the Angels, 12-6, and Los Angeles Dodgers beat Milwaukee Braves 10-5. Minor league Pittsburgh Chicago White Sox 10-9 and Chicago Cubs beat Cleveland Indians 4-3.

A seven-run explosion in the fourth inning, sparked by Roger Maris's two-run homer and climaxed by Minnie Minoso's bases-loaded single, carried the Cards to top the Reds Cincinnati 8-4. Curt Simmons before the Cards found the range against pitcher Joe Nuxhall.

Pedro Gonzales, optioned to Richmond Virginia of the International League by the Yankees just before game time, said: "I farewell with a 10-0 inning triple that drove in the winning run against Orioles Jim Pinchard, who singled before Gonzales' hit, also homered for the Yanks, as did Mickey Mantle and Rocky Colavito. All two homers for the Tigers.

AMALFITANO HOMERS

A grand-slam homer by Joey Amalfitano, plus five hits, pitching of Bob Bruce and Jim Umbricht, paced the Colts over the Angels.

The Dodgers raked Lew Burdette for five runs and five hits in the first three innings. Don Drysdale, who shacked homers in his last three times at bat, got the plate and added a single on his fourth try.

Pittsburgh getting homers from Bill Mazyroski and Roberto Clemente, got to hurler Early Wynn for six runs in three innings and Juan Pizarro for four more in the next two. Righthander Vern Law out most of last season with a sore arm, went five innings for the Pirates in his first outing start. He yielded six runs and 10 hits but said he was satisfied with his arm.

Where to Put Hockey Fans Picton Problem

PICTON — The problem of finding accommodation for all fans who wish to attend is the happy position in which Picton arena management finds itself, Thursday night. Picton Mercurys will be host to Napanee Red Wings in their sixth game in the best of seven series, in the Junior "C" playdowns. The Red Wings won the first three games but Picton came back with two straight and is being hailed to can tie the series here Thursday and go on to win the seventh and deciding game at Napanee Saturday night.

The local arena, built to seat 850, saw over 1,400 present at the last game and with more expected Thursday, extra seats are being built. A block of bleachers is being held for Napanee fans at one dollar each, for ring side, and 75 cents for others. Standing room will be fifty cents. The dollar price was increased and standing price lowered 25 cents so that the arena and team receive about the same as they did with a straight 75 cents admission with no reserve seats. The officials hope reserve seats will help in handing the crowd expected.

Bill Casper Wins Doral Open

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Bill Casper Jr., won the $50,000 Doral Country Club Open Monday after rookie Paul Bonderson stumbled in the home stretch when he had the $8,000 first prize all but one of professional golf's greatest upsets almost in his grasp.

The issue was decided on the final green, when the 25-year-old Bonderson missed a 10-foot putt that would have given him a tie and put him in a sudden-death playoff with Casper. The ball rimmed the cup.

A tough new golf course, it is tournament played by high winds. Carpo posted a 72-hole total of 283, five under par. He shot a one-under-par 71 in the final round while Sanderson was slipping to 73.

Jack Nicklaus wound up in third place at -283. Ben Hogan tied for fourth place at 286 with Ted Kroll.

Marlies Trim Irish 5-2 For 3-1 Lead

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Marlboros fired four goals in six minutes of the third period Monday night to defeat St. Michael's College Majors 5-2 and take a 3-1 lead in their Ontario Hockey Association Metro Junior A finals.

Next game of the best-of-seven series is scheduled for Saturday.

Nick Harbaruk, Gary Jarrett, Duncan MacDonald and Brian Conacher scored between 6:36 and 12:25 of the final period after closing the second with a 1-1 tie on goals by Ron Ellis of the Dukes and Bill MacMillan.

MacMillan added his second after the four-goal splurge had put the game out of the Majors'

'Thinking and Praying'

Griffiths Walks Streets

By ED CORRIGAN

NEW YORK (AP) — Three days after he regained the world welterweight boxing championship, Emile Griffith walks the streets of New York a sleepless, haggard and grim faced.

"No, I haven't had much sleep," he said Tuesday night. "I've been doing a lot of thinking and praying."

Griffith, a native of the Virgin Islands, outboxed Benny (Kid) Paret in the 12th round of their title bout here Saturday night.

Paret, 25, still hasn't regained consciousness. He is near death in a hospital after suffering two blood clots near the brain.

"I haven't seen Benny," Griffith said, "I was at the hospital a couple of times. Once they wouldn't let me upstairs. When I went back, some of Benny's folks were in the hall and I decided that I'd better not go in."

HAD HARD FEELINGS

Griffith, 24, is tormented by the fact there were hard feelings between him and Paret before the fight.

"Now they're trying to get me to say I wanted to kill him. All I wanted was to be champion and, boy, I didn't like him, either.

"People come up to me and say how come a sweet little boy like you who designs hats can be so mean in the ring. A man's brain. They all say that. When I get in the ring I don't know what am.

Griffith said Paret called him names in the weigh-in ceremony Saturday and he got angry.

"The names were bad. Then. But now they don't mean a thing. He was a fine fellow before our first fight when Griffith won the championship for the first time.

"But in the second he cursed me. I thought perhaps he was trying to provoke me and get me upset But he did it again when we started. It was the first time a fighter ever had cursed me.

Perry Como has decided to put in a full week's year of 33 weekly shows next season on NBC, after all . . . Lee Meriwether, the first Today Girl when NBC put Dave Garroway on mornings, will play an air force doctor on CBS' new soap opera, The Clear Horizon, set at Cape Canaveral . . . Edie Adams is back in New York to star in a comedy special for ABC —he, first return to work since Ernie Kovacs' death.

BOMB CAUSES PANIC

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (AP)—A bomb with a sputtering fuse exploded in the finance ministry Monday, spreading panic in the government offices. Firemen extinguished the fuse and dismantled the bomb. A ministry employee who found the bomb in a rest room was held by police for questioning.

MORE

NEW YORK (AP) — Millions of sports-watchers on Saturday night saw boxer Benny (Kid) Paret, after receiving many punishing blows, slip unconscious onto the floor of the ring. Then, the television viewing showed doctors working over the fallen and critically-injured ex-champion and his removal on a stretcher.

The scene is a familiar one to anyone who has watched the many television and movie dramas about prize-fights. But Saturday night it was different: Those were real blows Paret was taking, and his plight on the floor was that of a man who had suffered a serious injury.

To judge from comments by viewers it was a chilling thing to see.

Perhaps the most unfortunate part was the decision of ABC to cover immediately the tape showing the final moments of the fight, complete with scenes of emergency treatment of the unconscious man.

COMPLAIN OF VIOLENCE

It is somehow ironic that this occurred at a time when television's critics are complaining of excessive violence and brutality in its program content. The defensive response and brutality is the Hollywood type—phoney, compounded of fierce swing that miss their mark by inches and heroic tussles by giant men using breakaway furniture.

Astrological Forecast

For March 28
By SYDNEY OMARR

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): The challenge of competition should prove exciting. Permit inventive powers to shine through. Take new steps in new directions. Exercise independence of thought, action.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20): Appreciation for efforts of others key to your success. Others look to you for encouragement, particularly members of your family. Help fulfill their needs.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21): Budget matters should be checked . . . and it would be good idea to analyze "emotional" budget, also. Are you wasting energy trying to obtain something you really do not need?

Cancer (June 22 to July 21): Wonderful day to conserve energy. Not so good for striving to get your way. Best to lean back and survey situation, both personally and professionally. Play waiting game and you win.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21): A day in which pettiness is to be avoided at all costs. If choice is between buying and penny pinching . . . be willing to spend. What counts is that you are true to yourself.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Now you can try new ideas. You can speak up . . . and put thoughts on paper. Great for advertising . . . for letting others know what you have to offer. Today could hold surprise.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Your own judgment apt to be best today. Well-meaning friends could misguide you. See not only immediate outcome . . . but also future possibilities. Security is a key word.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Emphasis on meeting new people, experimenting, self-expression. Try to view the day as one of opportunity. Best to be active rather than sit back and brood.

Sagittaries (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Study details where financial transactions are concerned. Don't ignore fine print or take word of those who assure you everything is in order. Ask questions . . . get answers.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Lunar cycle nearing peak. You can rely upon own judgment now. Relax! Tendon has been mounting . . . but now crisis should be over. If opportunity for improvement presents itself . . . grab it!

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Be considerate of those in less fortunate position. This includes visits, a note of thanks or encouragement. A self-centered attitude could cause regret. Be generous.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Tendency is to rush. Better take time to check speed. Review goals, desires. Be sure you are not going after something which does not exist.

If today is your birthday—year is one in which you prepare, work, iron out details. By October, you begin to "see the light." Remember that your efforts will pay off. You have been through testing period. It is likely that you are going to "pass" with flying colors.

General Tendencies: What previously seemed "far away" word of those who assure you everything is in order. Ask questions . . . get answers.

CAMPBELLFORD

Pro Wrestling Defended by Lord Layton

CAMPBELLFORD — "Professional wrestling is an invaluable therapy to thousands of people," stated Lord Athol Layton in describing the sport for which he is famous. The value of the emotional therapy stimulated in a friendly contest is a welcome relief from the every day tensions of men and women alike. It is a genuine emotional tonic.

Wrestling is the world's oldest sport and one of the most popular spectator sports today, Lord Layton told the Rotary Club of many amusing anecdotes as to his early experiences of breaking into the ranks of the professional wrestlers. His early life was spent in Australia where he held the amateur heavyweight boxing title. In watching professional wrestling contestants he was amazed at the reaction of the crowds. Feeling that a wrestling career would give him a life of travel and adventure, and being physically equipped, after many disappointments he managed to break into the game at Singapore as an American wrestler.

The whole type of the East almost discouraged him, but with perseverance and despite injuries, he eventually made the contact in Toronto which brought him to Canada. In the East there is more showmanship per sport, it is all business. In Canada and the United States there is much showmanship. As a bit of extra information Lord Layton said, "One does not make money by being loved" indicating that though in many cases the bouts are the conflict of the evil and the good, the villain is just as much in demand as the hero. He paid tribute to Whipper Billy Watson and several other well-known wrestlers.

ASKED TO DESIST

He said that he and his partner Lord Blears once wrestled in Los Angeles, and in TV appearances had played out the role of villains by deprecating the United States, very mildly. They were summoned by the British Consul in San Francisco and asked to desist. He said they had caused more controversy than Molotov.

Hostile fans are a much greater problem to the wrestler than opposition in the ring. Once out of the ring the wrestler cannot strike a spectator, and his leaving is often more danger-filled than his match.

Professional wrestling is here to stay, he said, because people like it. Amateur wrestlers might get one hold and keep it for half an hour. The public demands action and under present conditions gets lots of it in professional wrestling.

He said he would condemn wrestling for children's viewing when other sports based on winning at any cost are also condemned. He mentioned high sticking in hockey as an example.

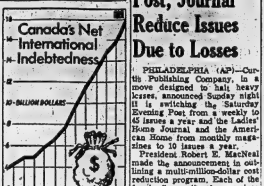
Lord Layton deplored the trend of parents to expect the school to teach sportsmanship. It should begin at home.

He also considers it a bad thing for an adolescent youth to be put up against a clock, as in the case of runner, Stuart Kidd. He felt this would kill his career early. One so young should be allowed to play or run for the pleasure of it.

The speaker was introduced by R. Peshale and thanked by Past President F. Linton.

Deserted Dogs Become Killers

LONDON (Reuters) — The household dogs left behind on volcano - ravaged Tristan da Cunha quickly turned into sea-age killers, a Royal Society expedition to the remote island reported Monday.



The 15 dogs abandoned last October by the 262 departing islanders apparently killed about 700 sheep, the scientists said.

Hunting in packs of five, the dogs drove sheep over cliffs and gulches into the sea. They also killed newly-born calves and attacked smaller calves of the herd.

"Although regretable, it was considered necessary to destroy the dogs, and all have been shot," the scientists said in a report to London.

The scientists, who now are on their way in the naval ship Protector to Simonstown, South Africa, found cattle, poultry and donkeys thriving without human assistance.

The expedition reported that volcanic activity on the tiny south Atlantic island appeared almost over, with little evidence of possible future eruptions.

CONTINUING RISE — Canada's net international indebtedness climbed sharply to about $18,000,000,000 in 1961, up from $16,900,000,000 a year earlier. Graph shows how the net debt — amount by which Canada's foreign liabilities exceed Canadian assets abroad — has increased steadily since 1949. (CP Newsmap).

Post, Journal Reduce Issues Due to Losses

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Curtis Publishing Company, in a move designed to halt heavy losses, announced Sunday night it is ceasing the Saturday Evening Post, from a weekly to 13 issues a year and the Ladies' Home Journal and the American Home from monthly magazines to 12 issues a year.

President Robert E. MacNeal made the announcement in outlining a multi-million-dollar cost reduction program. Each of the firm's national magazines (Holiday and Jack and Jill are the other two) henceforth must pay its own way to justify continuance," he said. Management has been under heavy fire recently from minority stockholders.

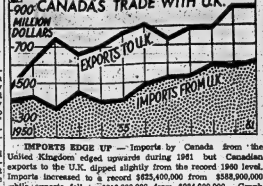
MacNeal also disclosed that Robert E. Fuoss, the man who recently redesigned the Post, has resigned after less than three months as editor.

The Post now will be issued five times during a 10-week period in August and July, and there will be one issue for the last two weeks in December and one issue for the first two weeks in January. For the Journal and American Home, there will be a winter issue, combining January and February, and a summer issue, uniting July and August.

SUCCEEDS FUOSS

Robert Lee Sherrod, 53, moves up from managing editor to succeed Fuoss and Clay Blair Jr., 36, becomes managing editor.

There will be no changes in subscription prices for the Post, Journal or American Home. Advertising base rates for the Journal and American Home will be cut.



MacNeal, in outlining his reason for the policy changes, noted that television has attracted advertising dollars which might otherwise have gone to magazines—as well as potential magazine readers.

Curtis earnings recently have been dismal. The company had operating losses of about $11,-200,000 for the first three quarters of last year. Final 1961 figures haven't yet been disclosed.

MacNeal said Fuoss quit voluntarily "because of a completely friendly but irreconcilable difference of opinion with management on matters of policy."

PROTEST QUARANTINE

SIMMERATH, West Germany (Reuters)—Nine smallpox contacts and eight hospital staff—including a doctor—have gone on hunger strike here to protest an extension of their quarantine period.

IMPORTS EDGE UP — Imports by Canada from the United Kingdom edged upwards during 1961 but Canadian exports to the U.K. dipped slightly from the record 1960 level. Imports increased to a record $825,400,000 from $688,900,000 while exports fell to $818,900,000 from $824,800,000. Graph shows movement in exports and imports since 1950. (CP Newsmap).

Things Columnist Might Never Know If He Didn't Open Mail

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

All women yearn to be beautiful, but beauty is no guarantee of either happiness or a long life . . . Marie Antoinette married at 14, became Queen of France at 18 and lost her head to the guillotine at 37.

Life keeps getting easier all the time . . . a process has been developed whereby you now can send facsimile telegrams in your own handwriting . . . hunters can buy decoys so realistic they flap their wings.

What is your handicap? Three of the most eloquent men who ever lived — Demosthenes, Edmund Burke and Abraham Lincoln — all had poor speaking voices.

One way to solve the parking problem: A scientist says that if the population increases at the present rate in 750 years each square foot of earth will hold a human being—thus leaving no room for automobiles.

Here's something else to gnaw your nails about: It is estimated that if the Antarctic ice cap melts, it would raise the level of the oceans 200 feet — and make most of the world's coastal cities habitable only by skin divers.

Old superstitions: It is supposed to be bad luck to sleep on one side of the bed and get out on the other . . . which explains the saying "he got out on the wrong side of the bed this morning."

The theory of atomic structure isn't new . . . In 500 BC Democritus, ancient Greece's laughing philosopher, taught that the world is composed of "indivisible tiny particles."

Worth remembering: Some gals are like a cold—easy to catch but hard to shake" — Arnold Glasow.

Nature notes: Because they have no eyelids, fl ong was thought fish never slept . . . Naturalists now believe that all fish sleep—if only for a few moments at a time . . . The jumping mouse, averaging less than an ounce, can leap 10 to 12 feet . . . Elephants can't protrot—their legs are so close together they have to shuffle.

It was Ethel Barrymore who observed: "You grow up the day you have your first real laugh—at yourself."

Thomasburg

THOMASBURG — The condition of William Meidow, who is a patient in the Belleville General Hospital for some time is much improved and he is expected to be able to return home this weekend.

Several from here attended the sale on the premises of the late Borden Countryman, near Tweed, which was held last Saturday.

Miss Irene Calvert was hostess on Saturday afternoon to several of her young friends on the occasion of her 10th birthday, which was duly and well celebrated on March 17.

At the card party sponsored by the Crescent Rebekah Lodge on Monday evening, in the IOOF hall, Mrs. William Green and Mrs. Doris Laurenson won the prizes for "500" while Mr. Fred Preston and Mrs. Ethel Dafoe of Tweed were the winners at euchre. Mrs. Emma Kennedy, of Tweed, won the door prize.

Editor of Directory on Titled Folk Quits After 40 Years

By EDDY GLMORE

LONDON (AP)—For 40 years, Lord Francis James Hankinson has spent his life swinging from tree to tree in the lush jungle of British aristocracy.

Now he is retiring as editor of Debrett's, a crimson and gold directory of titled folk in the United Kingdom. It is a book that weighs 7¼ pounds and costs $35.

Over the years, Hankinson has spent a great deal of time politely answering bizarre and unsolicited letters from people all over the world.

A woman in New Zealand wrote:

"My doctor has told me that I have blue blood in my veins and I think I must therefore come from the nobility. I am writing to ask if you can find any record."

Numerous women write seeking a husband with a title . . . A Canadian brigadier wanted a list of suitable brides . . . Husbands and wives try to settle arguments as to who is the more aristocratic.

Hankinson has tried to answer every inquiry.

Many others write, or come to see him, hoping to keep things out of Debrett's.

A titled woman wrote from the Scottish Highlands that she would rather be omitted than have the same page with a titled family from the Scottish Lowlands.

No long ago a matron objected to mention of her son's marriage.

Typical of Hankinson, in his understanding of human weaknesses, was his reply.

"I told her," Hankinson explained, "that the absence of her daughter-in-law's name might have an adverse effect on the career of her son."

"Her son was a clergyman and I suggested that some member of his congregation, consulting Debrett's, might assume that he was not married to the lady he calls his wife."

HAS SNOB THEORY

In his years of recording titles Hankinson has formed a definite theory about snobbery:

"It still flourishes among social climbers — the sort of people who ask me to leave out the name of their road and put in the name of their house instead . . .

"But we are moving rapidly toward a classless society," Hankinson added.

Hankinson, 68, possesses no title himself. He has been editor of the Debrett's office. His deputy editor, Patrick Montague-Smith, will succeed him April 30.

CLAIM DART RECORD

MIDDLESBOROUGH (AP) — Eight determined dart players labored through a marathon match and claimed a world record Sunday. They scored 1,000,001 points in 17 hours and 26 minutes, an hour and 49 minutes faster than the mark set three weeks ago by an army team. Darts is a traditional part of pub life in Britain. But the marathon was staged in the foyer of a local cinema watched by about 150 persons.

Mother And Six Children Die In Collingwood Fire

Husband in Hospital Suffering Burns, Shock

COLLINGWOOD, Ont. (CP)—A mother and her six young children died today when fire destroyed their small frame cottage in an isolated shoreline area of Georgian Bay.

The victims were identified as Mrs. Michelle Taylor, 30, Glane, 9, Michelle, 6, Varley, 5, Eric, 3, Edith, 2, and Leonard, 1.

The husband, Ernie Taylor, 40, was in hospital suffering neck and hand burns and severe shock.

The Taylors lived year-round in the nearby cottage, which doubled as a studio for Taylor, who is a well-known artist in the area.

Collingwood firemen were called by Mrs. John Handle, the Taylors' neighbor who said she was awakened about 1 a.m. by shouts in the direction of the cottage.

FIND IN FLAMES

Firemen, from Collingwood, which is 90 miles northwest of Toronto, arrived to find the cot, ... ages a mass of flames. Taylor was sitting at the edge of a ditch in a state of shock.

Taylor once began with Toronto Balmy Beach of the Ontario Rugby Football senior association.

An inquest is expected into the fire, cause of which is undetermined.

Mr. Taylor was born in Chilliwack, B.C., studied art at the University of Toronto after discharge from the RCAF.

After a year living in the New York City art colony he moved back to Toronto, then to Collingwood.

His best-known work is a historical mural 40 feet long in the cafeteria of the Collingwood district Collegiate Institute.

MENTALLY ILL WILL NOT BE SENT TO JAIL

Health Minister Gives Statement

TORONTO (CP)—Health Minister Dymond Tuesday night said he doesn't expect any more cases of mentally ill persons being committed to jail in future.

"The matter is completely cleared up now," he told opposition questioners as the legislature studied the department estimates. "Let's see what happens from now on."

Dr. Dymond said that, except for isolated cases, the entire problem of non-committals is centred in metropolitan Toronto. Jame, Trostler (L—Toronto-Parkdale) estimated that some 200 people a year are sent to Don Jail despite mental illness.

The question provided a lengthy debate during the last day of the department's $142,240,000 estimates by the 1962-63 fiscal year were approved.

BLAMES LAW

The outspoken health minister blamed the present situation on the law and its interpretation.

"I find myself agreeing with one of the apostles who said: 'The law is an ass'—and never is one so sure as I said it," Dr. Dymond said.

The law required that mentally disturbed people brought before a magistrate be committed to a "safe and comfortable" place, and it had never been pointed out that such a place could be a mental hospital.

The minister said he plans to amend the Mental hospitals Act to make it clear "even to the magisterial mind" that the description fits a mental hospital.

CONSIDERING COSTS

Dr. Dymond said the Ontario Hospital Services Commission is giving active consideration to meeting the full costs for Ontario residents in hospitalization outside the province.

In answer to questions from H. A. Worden—Wellington South), he said the practice now is to meet such costs on a basis comparable to the rates in Ontario.

Premier Robarts promised in the report to the legislature on the progress of talks with Ottawa about exempting hospital purchases from federal sales tax.

Ross Thomson (L—Huron) quoted from the annual report of provincial Auditor H. A. Ross that the federal sales tax applies to purchases of government commissions and that while it does not apply to divisions of the government such as departments.

Mr. Cohnan had said it "appears indefensible" that Ontario must pay the tax on hospital commission purchases because the Hospital Services Commission is an independent body, while Manitoba's hospital plan is exempt because it operates as part of the health department there.

In other business, the government proposed to share the cost of building social and recreational centres for the aged in Ontario.

60,000 FRENCH TROOPS MASSED IN TENSE ALGIERS

Secret Army Stunned By Toll on Monday

ALGIERS (AP)—The French massed 60,000 troops in Algiers today to bring the city's 300,000 defiant European settlers under control.

Reinforcements rolled in from the countryside to guard against any new outbreak by the Secret Army of Europeans fighting to sabotage the cease-fire agreement between France and the Algerian nationalist rebels.

Armored cars and half-tracks patrolled the streets of the Algerian capital.

The settlers' cause appeared hard hit by the heavy army fire in the streets of European demonstrators Monday, in which 45 Europeans were killed and 120 wounded in the heart of the city.

"We are so stunned we cannot react," said a police official of the Secret Army agent.

Secret Army terrorism continued unabated, nevertheless. Tuesday's toll for all Algeria stood at 18 dead and 40 wounded, all Moslems except two of the attackers.

A SECRET ARMY CHIEF

In Oran, French troops killed a young European on a motor scooter when they said he had just slain a Moslem. Authorities in Algiers announced the arrest of former Lieutenant - Commander Pierre Guillaume, a secret chief of the Secret Army, and the only navy man convicted of participation in the generals' revolt in Algiers last April. He was flown to Paris to join his former secret army chief, ex-general Edmond Jouhaud, who was seized Sunday night in Oran.

The French Army command began the investigation of Monday's shooting showed that before troops opened fire on the crowd of demonstrators, troops at four points in the heart of the city were fired on by snipers.

As the reinforcements rolled into Algiers from the countryside, French authorities disclosed the arrest of three Europeans and nine Moslems, led by Abderrahmane Farès, a Moslem socialist, who will administer Algeria until the self-determination vote in three to six months hence.

One of the chief tasks for the provisional government will be to prepare and supervise the referendum to be held by the largely Moslem "local force" of Algerian self-rule.

The list included several men long associated with the "Algerian Algeria" ideal of Farès, once president of the provisional French assembly, who in jail as an FLN fund collector until the peace agreement between the French and the nationalist rebels took effect March 19.

Syrian Army Seizes Power, Ousting President, Premier

DAMASCUS (Reuters) — The Syrian armed forces announced today they have seized power, dissolved Parliament and accepted the resignations of the president, premier and cabinet.

In a series of communiques broadcast over Damascus radio the armed forces general command issued a warning against demonstrations and disorders.

The command also announced that Syrian borders and airports had been closed until further notice.

It said martial law was proclaimed but the army would return to its barracks as soon as "the objectives of the revolution have been achieved."

Damascus radio broadcast an announcement by the army high command saying it was taking over because the Syrian government had betrayed the aims of the September military coup, six months ago today, which broke Syria away from the United Arab Republic with United Arab Republic.

The high command said a provisional government will be formed from "loyal elements" to carry out the revolution's policy of positive neutrality, observance of international law and the principles of the United Nations.

The "new movement" would work to achieve Pan-Arab unity and liberate Arab territories "particularly beloved Egypt and sister Iraq."

The high command said the government had protected plotters and saboteurs and deprived laborers of their gains under the September revolution.

The army had tried to correct this situation but the government had not heeded its warnings and had even tried to infiltrate the ranks of the army in its own interests.

The army, therefore, to protect the aims of the revolution and to prevent exploitation, had been forced to displace the ploting elements and "refer them to trial."

In Cairo, the official U.A.R. news Agency Mena announcement that the coup was the "inevitable" result of the "separatist, reactionary rule" of the government.

The agency said the coup was motivated by government terrorism, despotism, economic crisis and a attempt to liquidate the Syrian people "in a police prison."

Damascus Radio, broadcasting a series of communiques, announced the resignation of President Nazem Kodsi "because of health reasons," the disbanding of parliament and the resignation of Premier Maaruf Dawalibi and his cabinet.

Chief Told Govt. Officials Linked With Gambling Club

TORONTO (CP)—Police chief Garnet McGill of Toronto township told a royal commission on crime that he informed 1,000 that some provincial government officials were connected with a gambling club in Belleville.

Chief McGill said this information was given to Premier Robert W. Speck of Toronto township.

He said he was not certain whether the reeve had told him that there were "two provincial government officials and an official of the attorney general's department" or whether there were "a couple of members of the attorney general's department and a member of the province."

No names were mentioned at the hearing and Mr. Justice W. D. Roach, the commissioner, ordered that certain portions of a statement made by the chief last year be withheld from the public hearing at least for the time being. Mr. Justice Roach said he added that the reputations could be "damaged".

The suggestion of provincial officials' connection with the Colonial Club in Belleville, Belleville camp up when Chief McGill was questioned about a statement he made to the Ontario police commission in connection with gaming and police activities in the club, that he was informed by Reeve Speck that this information had come from Premier Frost, Crown Clerk of neighboring Chingcousy township, adjacent to Toronto Township.

"I believe it was a rumor the reeve had," Mr. Justice Roach told Chief McGill said.

R. B. Stratton, counsel for the Liberal party, asked the chief whether Reeve Clark was a member of the club.

"I had heard rumors that he was connected," Chief McGill said.

Reeve Speck testified before the royal commission Tuesday that he did not know of any complaints about the operation of the Colonial Club before police he had heard, "all kinds of rumors" about it.

The reeve, chief of testimony today Chief McGill said there were also leak statements discussions he had with members

Liberal Leader Advocates Abolition of Local Option

TORONTO (CP)—Abolition of the local option vote on the sale of alcohol was advocated Tuesday night by Liberal Leader John Wintermeyer.

He described the move as a beginning toward removing the form of our liquor laws." He also praised the licensing of qualified restaurant and resort operators.

His remarks came in a general policy speech on liquor laws as the legislature gave second reading — approval in principle—to a bill amending the Liquor Control Act and Liquor Licence Act.

The amendments would make it virtually impossible to maintain a "dry" area by local option, surrounded by areas which permit the sale of alcoholic beverages, Mr. Wintermeyer said.

A province-wide law would be more sensible than the present law, he commented and pitted with exceptions."

He described the liquor laws as the "most confusing, discriminated and disobbyed statutes on the books." They should be simplified.

ARGUE BECOMES FARM CRITIC FOR LIBERALS

Enters Debate On Wheat Board

OTTAWA (CP)—Former CCF national leader Hazen Argue, now a Liberal back-bencher, began staking his claim to the job of Liberal farm critic in the Commons Tuesday night.

To the obvious delight of his new Liberal deskmates, the farmer MP for Assiniboia jumped heartily into a debate on the Canadian wheat board, flaying the government and touching on a Conservative AL fairs Minister Churchill.

The episode enlivened a day devoted largely to debate on a government measure extending certain wheat board powers for another five years. The bill was finally approved and sent to the Senate.

It all began on a clause in the government measure permitting the board to make plans for group life insurance and group medical-surgical insurance for its employees.

ASKS RE COST

Mr. Argue mildly inquired as to how the employees would be affected and what the plans would cost.

Mr. Churchill said answers to such detailed questions could be easily given if the president of the wheat board appear before the Commons committee on agriculture.

Up jumped the old Hazen Argue, the one-time self-styled Liberal but the roaring CCFer, who led the CCF-New Democratic Party group in Com. mons before resigning last March to join the Liberals.

"I want to protest the general attitude of the government in this regard," he shouted.

"What the minister is saying to us is—pass the clause, rubber stamp and then call in the wheat board officials and they will tell you all about it. Gentlemen, this is not the way I will give it to you."

WILL NOT

"I will not sit down," said Mr. Argue. "This is the Parliament of Canada and I will not have to take that from the minister."

If he heard Mr. Churchill's offer to provide the information, Mr. Argue said he let that be had.

He said Mr. Churchill's response was the "height of arrogance from an arrogant government."

His Liberal friend, loved it.

When he finally sat down, Mr. Churchill said:

"You have just heard the honorable member for Assiniboia who is a master of the art of noise."

Mr. Churchill said Mr. Argue "is acting now within the ranks of a great historic party as he behaved when he was outside and raving in the corner."

Mr. Churchill added that there were 724 employees on the Canadian wheat board last July, but the cost was not available because several insurance plans were being studied.

Frondizi Back At His Office Before Deadline

No Indication What His Next Step Will Be

BUENOS AIRES (Reuters)—Embattled Argentine President Frondizi arrived at his government house office today about four hours before the deadline set by military leaders for his resignation or forcible ouster.

The army-backed deadline carried control of this capital in the first stages of a long-threatened coup before the president appeared at his office shortly before noon.

There was no immediate indication of what his next step would be.

Shortly before Frondizi arrived at his office his press secretary, presidential aides and staff members at his residence that the president had vanished and that he had not slept there Tuesday night.

A long, threatened coup got under way when troops occupied City Hall, symbolic of control of the capital, and other strategic positions inside city limits.

The action grew out of victories in March 18 provincial elections by backers of ousted dictator Juan Peron, ousted in 1955.

Military sources said Frondizi would be forcibly deposed unless he resigned before 4 p.m. (2 p.m.) deadline given him by armed services chiefs in a "final demand."

But the staff of Frondizi's residence said the president was whereabouts were unknown. Staff members said reporters that Frondizi had not slept there Tuesday night.

Troops in full Buenos Aires and steel - helmeted marines guarded key positions and bases throughout the country.

DRESS FOR BATTLE

The commander of naval operations, Rear-Admiral Agustin Pena, and his staff arrived in battle dress at the headquarters here before dawn.

Naval chiefs said they had turned down a plan put forward by Defence Minister Rodolfo Martinez Zuviria to break the deadlock between the president and the armed forces.

Today's military moves brought to a head the simmering dispute between Frondizi and armed service chiefs, over March 18 elections.

The armed forces, wanted a national coalition in which they could be represented, resign.

WOULDN'T RESIGN

Early today Frondizi rejected a demand that he resign and made to him by the heads of the armed services.

The demand was the climax of hours of discussions at gov. ernment palace by the commandery and of several government departments, including the defence ministry.

The announcement that the armed forces wanted Frondizi to resign was made at a press conference by defence minister Martinez.

He said the secretaries for war and air and the commander of naval operations asked him to do so because of their views of their forces were the same as those expressed in a Tuesday by ex - president Pedro Aramburu—that he should resign.

Dutch Report Exchange of Fire With Indonesians on Small Island

THE HAGUE (Reuters) Dutch marines and police have reported an exchange of fire with a well-armed unit of some 30 Indonesians on an island off the western tip of Waigeo Island off the Dutch-ruled Island territory, the official West New Guinea information office here said.

A report from the Dutch military chief in West New Guinea said the Indonesians retreated after the exchange, leaving ammunition and other equipment.

Indonesian authorities have recently acknowledged that "patriots" were forming guerrilla bands to "liberate" West New Guinea.

Dutch reinforcements are on the way to the disputed territory because of what the government calls the "continual threats and aggressive acts" of Indonesia.

Dutch warships set up blockades around the rivers and the small bays on the south coast of New Guinea Tuesday in a bid to trap three of four Indonesian torpedo boats.

A Dutch spokesman said the torpedo boats were intercepted off the coast by warships during the nights of March 25 and 26 but fled to shallow water to avoid pursuit by larger ships.

The Indonesians this week announced that for the moment they would not be resuming talks with the Dutch in Washington on the future of West New Guinea and said the next move was up to the Dutch.

Cuban Plane Crashes at Sea 22 Are Killed

KEY WEST, Fla (AP)—Twenty-two persons died when a Cuban commercial plane crashed at sea Tuesday night near the south coast of Oriente province coast, Havana Radio reported today.

The Cuban broadcast, monitored here, said the Cubana Airlines' Flight 856 was carrying 18 passengers, three crew members and a revolutionary guard. Cuban commercial flights are guarded to prevent theft of planes.

The plane left Santiago de Cuba airport at 8 p.m. en route to Havana and the last minute after fell into the sea off Morro Castle fortress at the Santiago Bay entrance, the broadcast said.

Cuban navy boats found no trace of the plane of survivors Havana Radio said.

CHIEF TOLD

bers of the OPP anti-gambling squad in December, 1958, confirming a proposed raid on the Cookeville club.

He said he had discussed with anti-gambling squad members the idea of putting sledge-hammers and crowbars through club windows so that the operation could be broken up. A few days after he said, a John Lafradde, whom he identified as a Toronto man known to be connected with the club, visited him at home and offered him the purchase of liquor.

"I was rather surprised that he could repeat to me what was to be the sledge-hammers and crowbars," Chief McGill said.

"Lafradde knew what the offers of sledge-hammers and crowbars." Mr. MacKinnon asked.

Chief McGill said that was so.

"It is obvious there must have been a leak somewhere?" Mr. MacKinnon said.

"That's right," the witness said.

Chief McGill said Tuesday that a sledge-hammer party offered him three cases of whiskey twice in 1956.

He said the visitor was a Jack Lafredi, whom he identified as a Toronto man. Angelo Lafredi, charged as an operator of Cookeville Centre Road Velperclub.

He said Lafredi had heard of his plans to put the club out of commission with crowbars and sledgehammers and offered him the whiskey. The chief told him to get out.

Grenville Davis, former OPP Crown attorney for Hastings, testified he been received a telephone call from the attorney-general's department on behalf of OPP proceeding against 35 gambling clubs from the Cookeville club in 1954.

CONTRADICTS STATEMENT

This contradicted evidence of OPP Staff Sgt. Frank Anderson and Police Chief W. J. Shrubb of Peterborough, a former OPP gambling squad corporal. Both said earlier that Mr. Davis told them that he had told them he had got a phone call at Hastings telling him to drop proceedings.

Chief Shrubb told of being called up by gambler Vincent Feeley, who said he would be raid the Ramsay Club in Niagara Falls, described as rival to a Feeley-operated establishment.

He said Feeley suggested the raided establishment be same Criminal Code section they used in the 1954 Cookeville raid and there would be no interference from the attorney-general's department. Chief Shrubb told him he could guarantee this.

Feeley is regarded as a kingpin in gambling along by with Joseph McDermott. The latter is described as financier running a gaming house and were fined $6,000 each.

FEELEY TESTIFIES

Mr. Davis, in denying he got a phone call to call off the investigation connected with the Cookeville club, said there had just been enough evidence to lay charges.

During the testimony—as all the way through Tuesday's proceedings — Attorney - General Roberts and Deputy Attorney-General Mr. Connor were in the room making notes.

Commission counsel Roland Wilson read a memo from former OPP commissioner F. V. McNeil to Sgt. Clifford Van Zuben of the gambling squad, bearing a 1954 date. The memo told the sergeant the squad was to stop nightly watches on the Cookeville club.

The memo, however, added the squad should "take whatever steps are considered justified" if there were any "developments" on the club.

BLAMES LOOKOUTS

Chief Shrubb testified he could never get evidence against the Cookeville house because of lookouts on the grounds and the locked steel doors and barred windows.

He said the gambling equipment could be, put away in a matter of minutes.

Inspector Albert Bird of the OPP, said he had been told by the late Inspector H. V. Tomlinson, former head of the gambling squad, that Tomlinson was "quite upset" about the way things panned out at Brampton.

The inspector said Tomlinson was "upset" because things had been concluded in "such an abrupt manner" and "he could get no explanation that satisfied him."

"He was visibly disturbed," the inspector said, "He told me he had been told it (the ending of the case) was the result of a telephone call to the Crown attorney."

Russia Willing To Keep A-Arms From Allies

GENEVA (Reuters) — Russia today declared it will refrain from giving its allies atomic weapons or information if the United States, France and Britain will do the same.

The proposal was advanced by a Soviet spokesman at a press conference here during the 17-nation disarmament conference.

The spokesman said:

"The Soviet Union itself is ready to undertake certain obligations not to disseminate atomic weapons or technical information for their production on condition Britain, France and the United States do the same."

Planes Ready To Fly Duke From Argentine

BUENOS AIRES (Reuters) — Two planes stood by at a nearby airport today to take the Duke of Edinburgh wanted to leave Argentina quickly.

The duke was resting on a ranch near Buenos Aires and was informed by the British embassy of today's Argentine army moves to take control of the country.

It was not known immediately whether the duke's schedule would be changed as a result of the political situation. He was scheduled to stay at two ranches near here until Monday.

City Budget Will Be Ready For Council Study Shortly

The 1962 city budget will be ready shortly for presentation to council.

City Manager J. R. Reynolds said today that he expected the budget would be completed some time this week. Prior to presentation to council for final approval and striking of the tax rate, it is expected the year's estimates will be given a final consideration by the board of control and committee.

It is not there has been little indication from city hall as to how this year's tax rate might compare with the 1961 mill rate.

It is known, however, that the high school board has come considerably (almost 4 mills) while the public school rate is down slightly. Both the police and fire departments requested pay increases and the latter was being received last year.

Mr. K Believes Possible Now To End Tests

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Premier Khrushchev believes there is "every possibility" now of solving the problem of nuclear tests to help achieve general and complete disarmament, the official Soviet news agency Tass said today.

The agency quoted the text of a letter from Khrushchev which was sent earlier this month to the president of Tokyo University.

"In my opinion," Khrushchev said, "there is every possibility to solve now the problem of nuclear tests, go that, with a test ban agreement to help us, can reach our main target: General and complete disarmament."

Khrushchev added:

"The governments of the United States, Britain and France are deliberately delaying the solving of the problems related to the banning of nuclear tests and so; the same time they are continuing to carry out further big tests, compelling the world to compete in the further perfecting of nuclear weapons . . ."

Lack of Safety Devices Blamed For Accident

HAMILTON (CP) — Lack of safety devices was blamed by a Hamilton inquest jury Tuesday for the death of a Niagara Falls man in the plant of Foundries and Steel plant.

The man, Fred Jenkinson, 53, suffered serious burns March 9 when he fell from the top of an oxygen steel-making furnace into a slag pot which had been used moments before to pour molten steel. He died the following day.

Mr. Jenkinson, a welder, employed by Horton Steel Construction Ltd., of Port Erie, was helping to repair cracks found in the furnace.

The all-male jury returned the verdict: "Death was caused by 90 per cent burns to the body resulting from a lack of proper safety supports by Horton Steel Construction Ltd. and Foundries and Steel."

IN MEMORIAM

STEVENSON — In loving memory of my dear husband, our dear grandmother, Ethel Beatrice, who passed away, March 28th, 1961.

Time is a home not made by hands,
Beyond its golden door
Are joys for which no heart has room,
Nor lost, but gone before.
A vacant chair is still made by hand,
The blank will prepare,
A place for us, at whom He said,
I will be loved once more.
Lovingly remembered by husband and family.

GRIFFIN — In loving memory of a dear wife, Lillian M. Griffin, who passed away, March 27, 1956.

Dear sweet their memory dear,
Oh happy hours we once enjoyed,
But God has called us home,
The world can never fill
Our vacant place remembered by her husband.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market stretched its losing string into a third straight session during brisk morning trading today.

However, speculative mining issues, spurred by a price jump in Northgate, ignored the tendency to weakness elsewhere on the market.

Northgate, trading more than 50,000 shares in the first hour, climbed 40 cents to $7.20, but slipped back to $7.10. Orchan Mines gained 25 cents to a new high of $2.70.

Among industrials, fractional losses prevailed, with Shawinigan off ⅛ at a 1962 low of 22¼. Interprovincial Pipe Line gained ⅜, and Alcuma Steel, CPR and Trans-Canada Pipe Line ¼ each. Distillers Seagrams all off ⅜, Consumers' Gas ⅛.

On the exchange index, industrials dipped .60 to 521.46 and base metals .22 at 204.31. Golds rose .03 to 86.11 and western oils .12 to 118.57. The 11 a.m. volume was 1,270,000 compared with 870,000 at the same time Tuesday.

Base metals were weakened by a drop of ¾ to international Nickel. Noranda and Consolidated Mining and Smelting both dropped ¼.

Losers outnumbered gainers Tuesday.

Slater Steel, after showing strength early in the day, went along with the downward trend, declining ¼ to 13¾ in fairly active turnover. Elsewhere on the industrial board, Steel Company of Canada and Bank of Montreal each dropped ¾.

Among the few gainers were Consumers' Gas, up ¼. Argus Corporation, ⅜, and Alsgoma Steel, ahead ¾.

On index, industrials dropped 1.86 to 522.06, golds .71 to 86.06, their lowest since September, 1961—base metals 21 to 205.03 and western oils 1.03 to 118.44. Volume was 3,940,000 shares—heaviest since Jan. 26—compared with Monday's 2,882,000.

In base metals, International Nickel fell ¾ and Noranda ¾. Ventures rose ⅛. Northgate rose 25 cents to 56.80 in speculatives.

Among western oils, Hudson's Bay dropped ¾.

Man Was Not Wearing Kilt, Nor Trousers

GLASGOW (AP) — Bare male knees are common in this land of the kilt. So a city bus conductor paid no attention to the shoe of a passenger seated on the lower deck.

Until he took a second look. The passenger, 37-year-old John Carlin, wasn't wearing a kilt. He wasn't wearing trousers, either.

His trousers were folded neatly on the seat beside him.

The conductor went up and whispered to the driver, who stopped the bus at the nearest police station, where the unwarried gentleman was charged with disorderly conduct.

Pleading guilty in court Tuesday, Carlin said he had been having some whisky and when he got on the bus his belt snapped.

"In my condition I was unable to hold my pants up," he explained. "So I thought the best thing to do was take them all the way off and fold them to protect the crease."

The court fined him £5.

RCAF Fish, Game Club Elects Officers

TRENTON—Recently, Flight Lieutenant M. R. Hunter of RCAF Station, Trenton, was elected president of the RCAF (Trenton) Fish and Game Association. Vice-president will be Flt. Sgt. T. L. Pringle and other executive officers are: Sgt. J. E. Trumbley, secretary; Flt. Lt. W. Whitman, treasurer; Flt. Lt. W. F. Hay, Sgt. J. Cunningham and C. Livingstone, membership; Bill Parker, publicity.

Elected to head the fishing committee were: Sgts. O. Ferguson and M. Heenan; chairmen of the Northern Ontario committee are Sergts. E. M. Alberto and L. G. Bowman; heading up the skeet range committee are Cpls. J. C. Halton and G. A. Seymour and the chairman of the Uplands bird committee is Cpl. R. Ashbury.

The elections were carried out at the association's annual meeting attended by 30 keen enthusiasts, and conducted by Flt. Sgt. J. Alexander.

The guest speaker at the meeting was Jack Odette, vice-president of the Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters.

The association executive has decided to expand club activity during the coming year and among the events planned are crow shoots, smelt fishing outings; fish derbies, conducted tours to fish hatcheries, pheasant farms and other places of interest to sportsmen, instruction in the proper use of firearms and fishing equipment (members and their children), skeet shoots, rabbit and pheasant hunts, restocking of the trout fish pond and expansion of facilities at the rifle range.

The Spring Open Skeet Competition will be held on April 14, and there will be prizes for the events. Commencing Mar. 1, practice shoots will be held on Saturdays, starting at 10.00 a.m.

The next general meeting of the association will be held on April 18, in the 6-RD Shelter.

Memberships for the coming year are now on sale and may be obtained from the membership committee. Membership is restricted to RCAF and DND civilian personnel and their families.

1961 membership stood at 325.

Economy-Class Fares Raised By Air Line

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's two airline giants appear to be heading into a new public brawl over domestic air fares.

Barring a last-minute countermand, Trans-Canada Air Lines will boost its economy-class fares next Sunday on all flights within Canada.

But its privately-owned rival, Canadian Pacific Airlines, has refused so far to go along with the fare jump.

This means that as of April 1, passengers will pay $120 for fifty economy class via TCA from Montreal to Vancouver, while on CPA, the economy-class fare still will be $110.

TCA's first-class fare of $162 will remain unchanged. CPA charges $165 first-class on its Montreal-Vancouver flight.

Aviation circles believe the fight over economy-class fares may be a factor in forcing a showdown in Ottawa on CPA's long-standing bid for more domestic flights. Right now, CPA is restricted to one daily return flight between Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver.

TCA recently reported the biggest deficit of its 24-year history, blaming the $5,450,000 dip into the red in 1961 on a revolutionary shift in passenger travel to economy class. CPA is also expected to report a loss when it reveals its 1961 financial picture sometime in May.

WALK OFF JOBS

TOKYO (AP)—Nearly 4,000 dock workers walked off their jobs today on strikes scheduled to last anywhere from 30 minutes to 24 hours. It was the start of the annual spring offensive by Japan's labor unions. The unions demand pay raises ranging up to 5,000 yen ($13.89) a month and a minimum wage system.

Admits Attempt To Open Window Of Town Store

TRENTON—In magistrate's court at Trenton yesterday, Ronald Berard, charged with attempted breaking and entry at the House and Home hardware store, was found guilty by Magistrate T. V. Wills and placed on a two years' suspended sentence. Berard pleaded not guilty, through his counsel, Roderick Campbell.

The Crown produced a statement, signed by Berard, in which he had, in effect, admitted that he had opened a rear window of the store and attempted to force wooden bars on the inside of the window.

A Crown witness stated that when Berard was apprehended he was found to be wearing a very small, very tight pair of ladies' gloves.

Berard testified that he had spent money left over from paying his income tax and that before the attempted break-in he had...

Crown attorney John A. Pringle said that he reckoned that Berard must have spent around $9 on beer and at 15 cents a glass, that would mean that Berard must have had to drunk 60 glasses of beer, on the day in question.

"Are you asking this court to believe that you drank 60 glasses of beer in one day?" asked Mr. Pringle. "This signed statement indicates that you were not intoxicated."

A motion by Mr. Campbell that charges of intoxication as evidence was disallowed by the magistrate.

"Drunk" or "use intoxication as an excuse for doing all sorts of crazy things," the magistrate told Berard.

Magistrate Wills said that there was no doubt in the prosecutory sentence, Berard will be placed on $13 and will be required to sign a bond to keep the peace.

ON REMAND

Earl Graham of Division St. in Trenton, charged with being in possession of stolen property, property of Gordon Plumbing, Heating and Electrical Company, was remanded until Tuesday, April 3.

Bail was set at $1,000 each for properties.

Several pieces of office equipment stolen from the company's premises have been recovered.

William J. Lemmon from the London area, charged with vagrancy, was fined $50 and costs, returning "to the tobacco belt" when apprehended.

"Will you be going if we let you go?" enquired the magistrate.

"Yes."

Lemmon, who has spent a month in the county jail, awaiting trial, was given an additional fine.

George Cook of Trenton, pleaded guilty to driving while impaired. He asked if he had "little longer" jail one week to pay a $200 fine. Also $4.50 costs because he had "a couple of payments to meet. One on a television set."

"You'd better hold back on the television payments and get this paid in a week," the magistrate advised him.

Gilbert Lake of Cobourg, pleaded guilty to driving while disqualified, but said that his brother had phoned him that he was stranded in Trenton and asked him to drive down from Cobourg to pick him up.

"You had your brother could not do the seven days for you," sympathized the magistrate. "There sometimes are family illness. You can tell your brother that."

Tree Planting Program Set Up By Parks Board

TRENTON — Spring in the air!

While the members of the Trenton Parks Board aren't exactly poring over seed catalogues, they are making plans for the beautification of the town's parks and boulevards.

At last night's board meeting, the planting committee was given the go sign to embark upon a tree planting program, aimed at providing Trenton citizens with shade.

The Crown Hill area, bared alongside Dundas and Gould Sts., Weeks Ave. and Fourth Ave.

The board plans to buy 100 "Crimson King", maple trees at $5 a tree for this purpose.

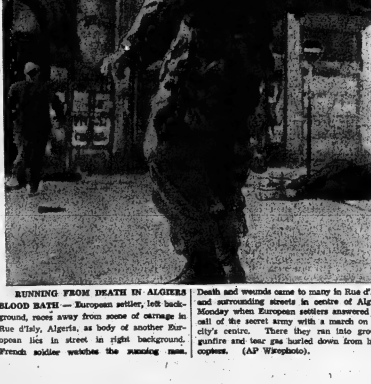
The planting committee was also empowered to spend "up to $1,200" for trees, flowers, shrubs and so on.

Playground equipment will be purchased and placed in Albion and McNichol parks. It was decided to invest in swings and teeter-totters. Jungle Jims do not seem to have a popular appeal with the board, it's learned.

The board will invest something over $1,000 in a new tractor mower for the use of parks' gardener Bart Boers, this year. The tractor will be equipped with a hydraulic lift and the grass will be scanned by the mower moves across the cutting area.

The board members cannot qualify as "market gardeners" the full price will have to be paid for the mower.

By June 1, Hanna Park will have been landscaped. Arrangements will be made by Clyde Mason and Bill Ireland, and the building will be "overseen" and in keeping with the park, by Charlie Baker, who's presently employed as a janitor, if Mr. Baker joined the First Battalion, Suffolk Regiment in 1899 and was transferred to Ireland to South Africa in 1900. He was in action until February, 1902, serving in Cape Colony, the Orange Free State and the Transvaal.



He was sent to India, where he served until 1908. Upon the completion of his service he emigrated to Canada, settling in Trenton.

With the outbreak of World War 1, he joined the 39th battalion and later transferred to the 26th battalion. In September, 1916, he was severely wounded in the Battle of the Somme and was repatriated back to Kingston and was finally discharged in Feb. 1918.

The anniversary ceremonies will consist of the Dedication of the Tooth Powder Book of Remembrance and a service at the South African War Memorial on Elgin Street in Ottawa. The Canadian government will play host at a dinner for surviving veterans.

RUNNING FROM DEATH IN ALGIERS

BLOOD BATH — European settler, left background, races away from scene of carnage in Rue d'Isly, Algeria, as body of another European lies in street in right background. French soldier watches the running man. Death and wounds came to many in Rue d'Isly and surrounding streets in centre of Algiers Monday when European settlers answered the call of the secret army with a march on the city's centre. There they ran into ground gunfire and tear gas hurled down from helicopters. (AP Wirephoto).

He was instrumental in the first Lifeguard Corps of the Royal Life Saving Society in Canada. "Mannie" is qualified as a Red Cross instructor and examiner; Royal Life Saving Society instructor and examiner to all levels of swimming and artificial respiration, and as a RCAF Water Safety Supervisor.

83-Year-Old Veteran Will Visit Ottawa

TRENTON—Trenton's "Mr. Legion", 83-year-old Charlie Baker, will attend ceremonies marking the 60th anniversary of the Vimy Ridge battle and the Vereeniging, (which ended the South African War,) at Ottawa, on March 21.

Mr. Baker joined the First Battalion, Suffolk Regiment in 1899 and was transferred to Ireland to South Africa in 1900. He was in action until February, 1902, serving in Cape Colony, the Orange Free State and the Transvaal.

He was sent to India, where he served until 1908. Upon the completion of his service he emigrated to Canada, settling in Trenton.

Workmen Find Burglar Tools

TRENTON—Last week, road maintenance workmen found a cache of burglar tools, safe cracking tools and a jar, which contained what provincial police thought to be approximately 3 ounces of nitro-glycerin, on a sideroad in Percy Township. This was turned over to provincial police at Campbellford and later to OPP at Belleville. The jar has now been sent to the OPP laboratory in Toronto for testing.

The theory is that a safe cracking gang planned to carry out a job in the area but were "scared" off for some reason.

Simple Test Ban Urged

London Observer

Is there really nothing which can be done to halt, or even to check, the arms race?

Is there no hope of stopping the spread of nuclear weapons to other nations? The answer must surely be that the prospect is not quite as black as that.

The Russian refusal to consider any form of inspection without total disarmament may be due to temporary factors, such as internal troubles or the vulnerability of their present rocket sites, which will disappear in time.

It may still be possible to work out some compromise that will reconcile the Russian demand for disarmament before inspection with the American demand for inspection before disarmament.

Even if Russia and America cannot agree to inspection of their own territories, they might agree to inspect the territories of third parties — such as, for instance, a Scandinavian zone in central Europe.

But even if all these ideas must be put off to an indefinite future, there is one thing that could be done now which might help to lessen the appearance in checking the spread of nuclear weapons.

Belligerent countries an elaborate inspection system to enforce it and on both there is already a large measure of agreement.

The first is a simple ban on all nuclear tests that can be detected by means of existing instruments, which Russia and America without international inspection.

This would certainly include all tests in the atmosphere — the dangerous ones — though there is still a difference of opinion about tests underground, under water and in outer space.

Neither Russia nor the United States can justify opposition to such a ban, for both have proposed it at different times in slightly different forms.

The advantages of such a ban would certainly be considerable.

It could easily be broken by either side. It could not be enforced.

But it would check, though it would not halt, the development of nuclear weapons, and at least it would stop the pollution of the atmosphere by radioactive particles. That would be something.

It is probable that the Russians would insist that the French must sign the agreement and the American would insist that the Chinese should do so.

But why not? This is a challenge that should be made and would be hard to refuse.

* * *

One of the advantages of the ban would be to make it that much harder for other countries to develop nuclear weapons of their own.

The other practical proposal is to get rid of the idea of forming a non-nuclear club.

President Kennedy and Mr. Khrushchev have both proposed to the United Nations that the five permanent powers should reach an agreement not to give nuclear weapons to other countries.

A Swedish resolution proposed that non-nuclear nations should enter into an agreement not to make nuclear weapons nor to accept them from other powers.

If both these proposals were adopted there is a chance that the spread of nuclear weapons might be checked.

They would certainly help Russia and America to realize the importunate demands of their allies.

It is true that it now seems too late to include France in the non-nuclear club, but it is not too late to include Germany — which most concerns Russia — and China — which most concerns the West.

There is room for a possible bargain here which might be extended later to cover the other countries as well as the warheads themselves.

It is surely a counsel of despair to say that nuclear powers are already four nuclear powers, there must be six or 12 or 15.

Penological System Needs Revision

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

As another example of our absurd, pathetic and futile penological practices, consider the case of Harry Robert Grove, who has just been added to the F.B.I.'s list of "10 most wanted" fugitives, from justice.

The reason for his prosecution called him a "hardened criminal" and "extremely dangerous." He was described as having a taste for night clubs, fast cars, fine restaurants and burlesque girls.

But the significant part of the news item came in the last paragraph of the story, which said:

"Grove's career as a law breaker dates back to 1946, when he was 12 years old. Before he was 16, he had been arrested five times."

Here is a boy who first got in trouble with the law when he was only 12. Within the next four years, he was in trouble again five times. Now, almost 20 years later, he has made the 10 most wanted list and is a "hardened criminal" and "extremely dangerous."

What could be done with him, or to him, between the ages of 12 and 16? He was not treated by the police, judges, reform officers, psychiatrists, social workers and correctional officials collectively and the hundreds of other public employees assigned to cope with juvenile crime.

Is our mighty and enlightened society helpless in preventing a 12-year-old boy from turning into a hopeless and desperado? Is it for this that we are taxed to tune of millions on prisons, courtrooms, police and the whole cumbersome, intricate, parasitic system of crime administration?

Harry Robert Grove, Jr., is more of a reproach to us than he is to his parents, his early environment or his own character and temperament. For boy who begins committing crimes at 12 is deeply disturbed; he should be treated for this disturbance, intensively and scientifically — not by a reform school, or placed on probation, or fined, or jailed, and then set free to continue his career.

If he was what we used to call a "psychopath," then he should have been put in a mental institution. If he was not, then a more effective therapy was available to him during his course of life. Whatever the treatment, there is no doubt that thousands of Harry Groves follow the same path, year after year, fails to find or decrease their numbers nor alter their modus operandi. Our penological today is an utter failure.

Most authorities admit this. Most penologists privately admit it. Social, workers and psychiatrists speak of holding their frail fingers in the dikes of crime and delinquency. What we need is nothing less than a radical revision of "our whole way of life" from "law habilitation," before we are submerged under the ominous rising tide of crime.

Sports and Diversions

Sydney J. Harris, who writes a delightful column on this page, commented the other day on the rise in the popularity of skiing and compared it with the upsurge in golf twenty years ago. Mr. Harris remarked that neither sport appeals to him particularly, "but that is a matter of temperament rather than taste." We are not sure just what he meant by that, but we are sure that skiing and golf appeal to two of the most common, and most diverse, tastes for recreation.

Basically the thrill of skiing as a sport, rather than as a mere pastime, stems from its speed. We read an article the other day about a ski instructor who stresses that one should never ski out of control. That is one of those half-truths which is so much more misleading than a mere untruth. The thrill of skiing lies in travelling at the very limit of control, so that disaster is at one's elbow. The same is true, of course, of any other sport where winning depends on relative speed, even a marathon, though here another strange pleasure, the desire to ascertain how much punishment the body will take, must provide the larger share of the thrill.

Golf is obviously almost at the other end of the thrill spectrum. Here pleasure is derived from performing intricate movements, involving the co-ordination of many muscles with the greatest possible accuracy. The object is to achieve perfection. Bowling is the nearest thing of sport, perhaps in a purer form, because here physical strength does not enter the picture at all, as it does to a minor degree in golf. It may be argued that basically there is no difference between bowling and golfing, that speed is merely incidental in skiing and that, too, depends on the accurate co-ordination of bodily movements. This, though, is an over-simplification.

Many games involve these three factors, speed, endurance and the ability to accurately make some special series of movements — hockey, lacrosse, soccer and rugby are four obvious examples.

Mr. Harris is probably correct when he ascribes the growth in popularity of skiing, golf and bowling largely to their social and romantic connotations. But when these factors enter into play, a game ceases to be a sport and becomes a mere pastime. To a real tennis player, there is nothing so dull as mixed doubles. Correction — to a male tennis player. To a female athlete, we suppose, it could be a near approach to heaven, since the average man plays a stronger game than the average woman and the real sports lover always wants to play somebody better than himself. Only then is victory really meaningful.

Games of partnership, or teamplay, is a special joy, whether it be in a three-legged race, in bridge, in tennis or in hockey or football. A rare thrill, reserved only for the truly fortunate, is for a partnership, or team, of persons admittedly inferior to their opponents as individual players to combine in such a manner as to bring about one's opponent playing defect. Such a joy, for instance, must have been tasted by the Swedes when they whipped Canada the other day.

Besides speed, endurance and physical skills, recreational enjoyment can be obtained from mental skills, in poker, bridge, checkers, chess and such games. There is much in common between the chess or checker player and the golfer or bowler. Each is striving for perfection. In games of mental skills, however, a peculiar opportunity to achieve this thrill is provided. A player can study his opponent take a move back. This appears magnanimous. In reality it is the epitome of selfishness. One is denying one's opponent all hope of reward from the game — how can he take pride in any game in which he had been permitted to remedy a mistake? One is reserving for oneself the opportunity to achieve perfection.

"Social" bridge or chess or checkers is in the same class as social golf or skiing or bowling. It may be fun but it cannot be thrilling.

And all these things, of course, are of no real significance or importance, except so far as they give us an insight into what a queer being is this thing called man.

The greatest discovery in method which science has made (is) that the apparently trivial, the merely curious, may be clues to an understanding of the deepest principles of nature. — Sir George Thomson, Nobel laureate in physics.

Fuddy-Duddy BBC Pioneers

St. Louis Post Dispatch

The British Broadcasting Corp. is blazing a new trail for public service in television by means of a program reporting the ratings of consumer goods by consumer testing organizations.

The first program of the continuing series was entitled radios and modern devices for the home. Ten sets were dealt with.

Brand names, model numbers and prices were given, as of five-fighters found unstable or dangerous, were preferred and rejected models of transistor radios.

This is a kind of program which results from a sense of public service and courage to break new ground against the pressures of special interests.

Oddly enough, its size is a BBC which is sometimes referred to as a stereotype of fuddy-duddiness, and both the American networks, which think the think of themselves as vital works of communication.

We should like to see a network in this country, with consumer goods reporting to television and to radio as well.

There would be an audience for it among so many people who have pocketbooks that are not bottomless, and there could hardly be any question that it would be a public service.

To Your Good Health

The Thomas Collar Acts Essentially as a Splint

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: What is the principle of a Thomas collar for treating a ruptured disc of the neck? How does this relieve pain in both arms? How long must it be worn? — L.L.

We have to start with an understanding that "pain" — or any other sensation — is not felt until the impulses reach the brain.

If we burn a finger, we know it only when ends of the nerves, damaged by the burn, have sent lehir outraged signal to the brain.

The pain tracts are in the spinal cord, the nerves to the extremities emerging from the cord.

The point at which they emerge is important, for they must pass between the bones of the spine. Let's say that one of the discs, between these bones, is damaged with the result that a nerve is being pinched or irritated.

The pinched nerve sends its painful message to the brain — but to us it may seem to be in pain in the arm."

The Thomas collar, acts, essentially as a splint. It limits motion of the spine in the region of the injury. It relieves or prevents muscle spasm, and it holds the head in the proper place of the neck, apart just enough to prevent irritation or "pinching" of the nerve at the damaged point.

That's how the collar can relieve pain in both arms.

The length of time the collar must be worn is quite variable, depending on its success in easing pain without it, the relief afford, by wearing it, and a number of times other technical factors.

Dear Dr. Molner: My wife has abnormal focus of activity in one of her brain waves, as her brain. Is there medicine that can help her? How would you advise an operation? — T.B.

I presume that this condition was discovered by means of an electro-encephalogram, or "brain wave" test. And that certainly was performed for good reason. We don't tell people any of the symptoms that impelled the test, so I'm in the dark.

However, this sort of finding does not necessarily mean that surgery is needed or is advisable. There are many anti-convulsant medications which can be taken indefinitely) will control in a satisfactory way. I have any more specific an opinion than that. But since the has had the test, she obviously will receive advice on treatment in the primary sore, sometimes but not always located where the infection starts. In women this may not be noticed since the sore is painless. Second, some weeks later there are fever, and rash. These begin to disappear as a rule and the third stage may come soon, or may not be for several years. That is the stage in which the disease is known as "the great imitator," and it can cause or intensify all sorts of nervous conditions, including paralysis and mental derangement.

If there's any question as to whether or not she has contracted syphilis, a blood test and in some instances a spinal fluid test will give the answer. Treatment is usually successful if given early, but the late stages cure is more difficult and in any event it cannot overcome the serious damage that may have been done.

Syphilis is the title of my leaflet designed to help all who suffer the aches and pains of arthritis. For your copy write Dr. Molner in care of The Ontario Intelligencer Syndicate, P.O. Box 158, Dundee, Ill., enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 10¢ in coin to cover handling and postage.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

One of the great advantages we have given Communism during the past forty years is that we have allowed the discussion of it to take on the aspect of a scholarly character, almost like theological discussion. This has naturally obscured the bare simple facts.

And the simplest fact of all, as Aesop and Socrates would say of a skeleton, is that Communism promises to deliver, as no former political system has ever succeeded in doing, the workers, the masses, the rule of all the proletariat, bound, hog-tied and absolutely helpless, for the employment of the unscrupulous, stupidest capitalists of mid-Victorian times, into the most industrial baron of the Gay Nineties, in his wildest dreams, never imagined existed. Another fact as the conditions Communism is a matter of indifference whatever to the masters of Unless, so called, marshalled by their leaders like a wave gangs. The masses whooped and hollered by propaganda into a curious passion more persuasive than patriotism, and based on the fact that they will be the masters are their brothers.

Only little wonder the Russian industrial complex can come up with marvels and wonders, such as space ships and rockets. Of course master class in the other countries has been as free in the past century with us what they liked, as are the lower animals sorts of day, there is no telling what this little wonder world we would be today.

Skill, Not Color

Hamilton Spectator

The most valuable of all ways of explaining differences of character and behavior is that which is based on skill and not color. Amendments to the Immigration Act have swept away the lingering color bar and emphasize skill, education, character and health as qualifications for entering Canada.

For the first time, Canadians have enough of our own. It is wisdom, not cruelty which closes the door to them.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

NOTHING TO BRAG ABOUT

How much do we poor mortals know? Very little as a matter of actual fact. The planet on which we live is somewhat insignificant even compared even with the other planets of our solar system. The sun, which is the center of all we know about life, has been termed by a prominent astronomer as "just a run-of-the-mill, pale, yellow star."

Taken the world over, the people who can read and write are in the minority. So few people ever receive higher education that we can put them in one side in a little area comprising a very small percentage of the prominent population of the world.

We happen to be living in an age which has experienced tremendous increase in knowledge, yet with this great increase we know very little compared with what there is to know. Medical science has made tremendous strides, yet countless plagues are helpless today before certain diseases. What is more, medical science must admit that it knows practically nothing about some of the common cause of the human ailments. The astronomers have scanned the heavens, yet when they have seen all they can the distance of the furthest star, they know there are many more countless universes beyond our own.

Let us never get into the habit of throwing our weight around and talking about the marvelous achievements of these present days. They are marvelous compared with the past. They are insignificant compared with what we believe to be the world of truth — human and divine.

Let us be modest and stay modest.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

A LITTLE NONSENSE

The two indisputable facts of this life are that we were born and that we shall die.

We don't bother much about the fact that we were born, accepting that the further we get from the birth date, the less we are given to talking about it. But the nearer we get to the other end of life, even the dullest want to talk about it. Never did I see a man who thinks he should not bother at all.

But there remains one fairly settled fact in that most of us take ourselves too serious. And, of course, this spreads to life itself, so that we often wind ourselves up and get stiff and sour and quite unbearable.

Here's where the little nonsense comes in. Everyone of us should get foolish every once in a while — and play ball with the small "kids," take to a game of marbles.

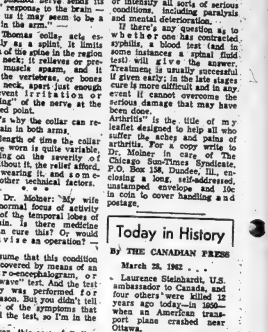
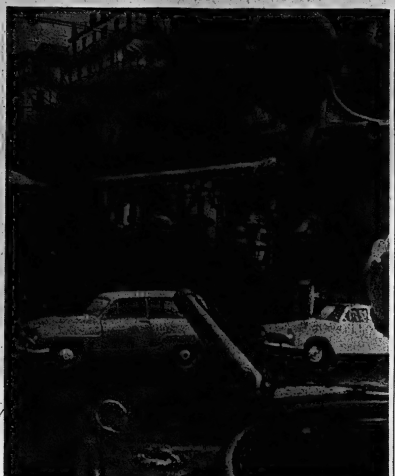
There are a thousand ways to being foolish and nonsensical. Choose your favorite! But climb off your dignity horse and romp among the boys and girls in wholesome fashion. Read a good detective story. Do something that will leave everything you do, but to be too serious all the time is as bad as the athlete's getting his muscles all bound up through too much strain.



He was a very wise man, whoever he was, who said:



"A little nonsense now and then

Is relished by the wisest men."

American Suggests U.S. Air Force Prompted Bomarc Acceptance by Federal Govt.

OTTAWA (CP)—An article in the current issue of the American quarterly Foreign Affairs suggests U.S. Air Force influence prompted the Canadian government to adopt the Bomarc anti-aircraft missile and scrap the Arrow jet interceptor.

The article, by Melvin Conant, former faculty member of the U.S. National War College, says the USAF urged the Canadian government to accept the Bomarc "and to consider phasing out its interceptor force."

"Despite grave uncertainties at that time (1958-59) about the reliability of Bomarc, the Canadian government agreed to accept it and to cancel its contract for the Avro Arrow fighter.

"Scarcely had it done so—despite public misgivings — than the U.S. Air Force changed enough of its estimate of the nature of the manned bomber threat to cause it to urge Ottawa to acquire U.S. interceptors, along with the two squadrons of (Bomarc) missiles: . . .

"The essential point is that the Canadian public suffered a further loss of confidence in the judgment of both their own government and that of the U.S."

Foreign affairs is published by the Council on Foreign Relations, a private U.S. organization. It soon will publish a book on Canada-U.S. defence relationships by Mr. Conant.

Mr. Conant says the defence debate in Canada has "almost lost sight of the military requirements which prompted the U.S. to ask that nuclear weapons be incorporated into Canada's armed forces on duty in North America."

No official or public explanation of the military requirements had been given in Canada until last September when USAF Gen. Laurence Kuter, commander of North American Air Defence Command, did so in a speech in Toronto.

Mr. Conant says that if Canadians were given a "thorough and authoritative" explanation of why Canada's military role is vital to collective defence of the free world they would accept the present defence burden or a heavier load if it were commensurate with their national wealth and Canada's standing in the Atlantic alliance."

Mr. Conant is heavily critical of both the government and the Liberals.

"No Canadian government since the war has given the impression of being so thoroughly knowledgeable about defence issues as to be able to reach firm decisions about military requirements and to inform the Canadian public adequately about them.

"Public confusion in Canada over the course of defence policy became especially conspicuous with the creation of NORAD.

"The necessity of NORAD on military grounds was lost sight of in a fog of debate, which ended without any general public understanding of what was at stake.

"The Liberal opposition took full partisan advantage of the situation. There were many indications that confidence in the government's competence in matters of defence had been shaken."

Mr. Conant says the Canadian public has been "further confused" by External Affairs Minister Green zealously denouncing nuclear weapons for Canada and Defence Minister Harkness zealously declaring the need for them.

Cheese Makers Hear Talks On Phases of Industry At Spring Conference Here

Plans are underway throughout the province for celebrating the 100th anniversary of cheese making in Canada in 1964, members of the Central Ontario Cheese Makers' Association were told yesterday at their annual spring conference held at the Hotel Quinte.

Over 100 district cheese makers and provincial and federal dairy officials attended the meeting which saw the largest turnout of makers in the history of the annual spring conference.

The early days of cheese making in Ontario were reviewed by O. E. Irvine, head of the Kemptville Agricultural School, who said the first factory in the province was built in 1860 in Oxford county and went into operation the following year. The factory was patterned after a New York State plant, whose maker started operations in 1851.

In the next 36 to 40 years the cheese industry caught on in a big way and 1902 saw Canada's greatest volume of cheese exports with more than double the present production being shipped out of the country.

Milk was first pasteurized in Ontario in 1905 and the first dairy school started at Kingston in 1891.

HALL OF FAME

Jack M. Bain, Director of Milk Products Division, for the Ontario Department of Agriculture, said that a Dairy Hall of Fame would be established with names being invited of men who had contributed greatly to the cheese making and dairy industry.

The Hall of Fame would be permanently set up at the Canadian National Exhibition Grounds to be seen at the time of the C.N.E. and the Royal Winter Fair.

Other speakers heard during the makers' conference included John Key, supervisor of grading services for Ontario; R. H. Gillan, supervisor, Grading, Dairy Products Division, for the Federal Department; R. J. Keith Spencerville, vice president of the Ontario Cheese Producers' Marketing Board; Dr. Douglas Emmons, Dairy Research, Canadian Experimental Farm, Ottawa; Earl Biggs, Dairy Science Division, Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph; L. E. Wright, Kraft Foods, Montreal; J. F. Robinson, Chief Inspector for Eastern and Central Ontario; and J. G. MacMillan, grader in charge at Belleville.

Cheesemakers were told that details of this year's government price support program for cheese products had not been completely worked out.

ASK PRICE SUPPORT

And following a question and answer period conducted by Thomas Heslop of Wilton, makers took advantage of the unsettled situation to send off a resolution to Ottawa asking that last year's price support for cheese be continued for this year.

Makers also passed a resolution asking the same proposition be paid on 40 lb. block cheese as is paid on large cheddar cheese.

Also during the question period it was stated that while factories were primarily responsible for can washing, automatic can washers were not letter perfect and farmers were advised to wash their own cans at least once or twice a week.

Mr. Gillen told makers that the 21 day deferred grading would be continued for all cheese made from new or heated treated milk.

Mr. MacMillan compared grading results of cheese under last year's system of deferred grading and asked that makers use more caps in brooding block cheese. He said stapling in many instances was being rubbed off and suggested that a different type fat might be used to overcome the problem.

The cheese makers' spring conference was presided over by Delbert Howe, of Holloway, president of the Central Ontario Cheesemakers' Association.

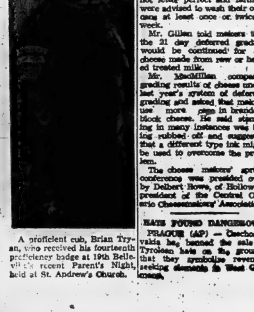
Prime Minister Says Report 'Speculative'

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker described Tuesday renewed his proposal for a nuclear-free zone in Europe as "purely speculative" in the Commons. He had nothing to add to what he had said previously.

Mr. Diefenbaker's last Commons comment on the subject of nuclear weapons was March 5. He was asked then by Mr. Pearson "whether the government intended to enter into discussions with the U.S. on the matter of joint control of nuclear weapons."



The question related to a March 1 statement by U.S. State Secretary Dean Rusk that the U.S. was willing to work out arrangements with Canada for joint control consistent with national sovereignty.

Mr. Diefenbaker said there had been discussions "from time to time" but that there was "no present intention" to enter new discussions.

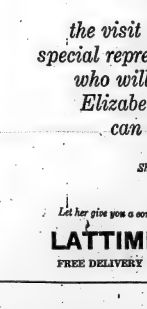
GENEVA (Reuters) — Polish Foreign Minister Adam Rapacki today renewed his proposal for a nuclear-free zone in Europe as the opening of the 17-nation disarmament conference to discuss the proposal in committee and received support for the plan from Italian Foreign Minister Antonio Segni.



Segni also backed a United States proposal for Russia and the U.S. to destroy 35 tons of uranium-235, so far reserved for military purposes, to the International Atomic Energy Agency for peaceful purposes.

He said the conference should concentrate on the need to put an end to the production of weapons of mass destruction. Action should also be taken on measures aimed at preventing war by mistake, he said.

Segni also he taken on measures aimed at preventing war by mistake, he said.

Segni said the conference should draw up as soon as possible any agreement not to place weapons of mass destruction into orbit with artificial satellites.

Such an agreementshould be mandatory for all parties and be adequately controlled, he said.

Contact Club Hears Talk on "Communion"

The regular meeting of the Contact Club of Christ Church was held on Monday evening with a very good turnout.

A short business meeting was held and correspondence read. It was decided to purchase some new toys for use in the nursery.

Donations are still being received for the "make believe tea" which is proving to be a great success.

Next Monday evening there will be an auction sale and the girls are invited to bring a friend.

After the business portion of the meeting, Gene Fisher, study group convener, introduced the Rev. Michael Caswell as guest speaker. Mr. Caswell, curate of Christ Church, spoke on "What Holy Communion Means to Me."

He invited the group to participate in a discussion on the subject, which was interesting.

Gail Stewart thanked the speaker for a most informative talk.

Hostesses for the evening were Betty Teed, Pat Matthews and Laura Bird.

This Spring Anything Goes In Hats

By PEGGY MASSIN

Inspiration from the wonders of five continents produces everything from the Cleopatra theme to astronaut helmets straight from the launching pad at Cape Canaveral.

The Paris hat box has long been an inveterate traveller. This spring anything goes, from Yves St. Laurent's wild west sombrero to bi draped maharaja turbans from India.

Women now can choose to look like sirens from an ancient queen of the Nile in a black raffia wig hat to a modern - day Mexican peasant with a colorful scarf snood.

She has literally launched 80 different lines, instead of using one or two stereotyped ideas usually the case with important French millinery collections.

EGYPTIAN LOOK

An alliance among milliner Claude St. Cyr, Alexandre, their hairdresser, and Harriet Bobbard Ayer, the beauty expert, has produced the "Egyptian look" in a concerted style with wig hats, Nefertiti coiffures and exaggerated eye makeup elongated above and below each eye into wicked triangular points.

For daytime, this talented triumvirate has evolved a "Cleopatra in Egypt" theme. Alexandre has bobbed the hair in a regular sphynx style with straight heavy bangs, accompanied by St. Cyr's hats stressing volume - puffed out over the temples.

Evening classics change the location to "Cleopatra in Rome" with smooth - drawn, high-polled hair ornamented by bandeaux with beaded side pieces, chignons, shell-trimmed combs, or "kiafts," made of flowered and sequined veiling.

Gilbert Orcel favors comeback turbans made of braided straw, shantungs, or sheer satin gauze. In another mood, Orcel launches astronaut helmets, vying with Roman drafter Roberto Capucci, who has given himself wholeheartedly to outer space and abstraction.

Quinte H-S Assoc. Lists New Officers

The regular monthly meeting of the Quinte Secondary Home and School Association was held recently in the school auditorium with the president, Mr. D. Kerr, in charge.

Minutes and treasurer's report were read, after which the president made several brief announcements.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS

Mr. Reid, principal of the school, and chairman of the nominating committee, gave his report and presented a new slate of officers as follows:

Past president, Mr. E. R. Vail Camp; president, Mr. H. D. Kerr; vice-president, Mr. Angus Cranston; recording secretary, Mrs. M. Folwell; corresponding secretary, Mrs. H. Rivest; treasurer, Mr. Owen Grey and members at large, Mrs. G. Locke, Mrs. T. Hallinen, Mr. R. Jewell, Mrs. Sullivan and Mrs. J. Gray.

These new officers will be installed at the annual meeting in April.

In the absence of Mrs. R. Leslie, Mr. Kerr announced that plans were well under way for the bake sale to be held in April at the Kilwood Centre. This is the one fund raising project of the year and it is hoped that all members will give it their wholehearted support.

Mr. Reid introduced the speaker for the evening, Miss Kathleen Abbott, in charge of the health room for the Secondary school, who gave a most interesting talk on this subject and explained the aims and purposes of these services and how they aided both students and parents.

A brief question and answer period followed, after which Mr. Val Camp thanked Miss Abbott for her informative talk.

A guidance film was shown entitled "You Can Go a Long Way," which pointed out the opportunities for students leaving school too soon.

After a short discussion refreshments were served in the cafeteria, supervised by Mrs. G. Locke and her committee.

Club Activities

COLLEGE HILL W. I. CLUB

The March meeting of the College Hill Wedding Ring Club was held in the lower auditorium of the church with Junior Rose presiding.

The business portion of the meeting was conducted with many interesting discussions. Mr. and Mrs. Ken Belcourt's group was in charge.

Mrs. Mable Moorcroft led the vesper service with the theme, "Choosing Friends." Two short but very interesting stories, were read.

Mr. Bill Lott led the recreation with progressive crokinole which was the highlight of the evening.

The winners of the high lady and high man were Mrs. F. McDonald and Mr. Boyd Moorcroft. The winners of the low lady and man were Mrs. E. Armstrong and Mr. Art Dickson.

Lunch of assorted sandwiches and tarts, with tea and coffee, was served.

MRS. JOY BOWERMAN

D. J. WHALEN Real Estate Broker, is pleased to announce the appointment of Mrs. Joy Bowerman to the sales staff of his organization.

Mrs. Bowerman is active in the business and social life of the community. She resides at 39 Bertram Blvd. with her husband Steve and son Gary. She is a member of Tabernacle United Church. Prior to this appointment she has been on the staff of Ronald Keel Jeweller. "Joy" has been president for two years of the Ladies' Section of the Bay of Quinte Golf Club and is a member of the Order of the Eastern Star No. 55. She also takes a keen interest in politics and is a member of the Women's Division of the Conservative Club. "Joy" has always shown an interest in real estate and now in this new position would appreciate hearing from her friends in this regard.

Mrs. Bernie Geoffrion Never Mentions Hockey Writing to Mrs. G. Howe

By JACQUES TREPANIER

MONTREAL (CP)—When the wife of an all-time hockey great writes to the wife of another all-time hockey great, what does she write about?

If you think they write about hockey, you're way off the goal.

At least when Mrs. Bernie Geoffrion and Mrs. Gordie Howe get together.

Mrs. Geoffrion, wife of Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion, all-star right winger with Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League, said in an interview that in correspondence between herself and Mrs. Howe, wife of the famous Detroit right winger, hockey is rarely mentioned.

The two are long-time friends who meet whenever the Red Wings play in Montreal.

"We write to each other two or three times a month but we seldom talk about hockey," said Mrs. Geoffrion, daughter of the late Howie Morenz, a hockey great long before Boom Boom was born.

CHILDREN ON SKATES

With the strong penchant towards hockey in the family, there are possibilities that the Geoffrion three children—Linda, 9, Robert, 7, and Danny, 6—may make their way with a head start in the skating world. Linda is already taking lessons in figure skating and Robert has begun to slap the puck around.

Mrs. Geoffrion herself gained a certain amount of fame as a Canadian junior figure skating champion.

Although her parents were both English - speaking, Mrs. Geoffrion finds she has a bit of trouble finding English words, especially on shopping trips.

However, to keep bilingualism in the family, the Geoffrions are sending Linda to English-language school.

Mrs. Geoffrion said she brings Linda and Robert to a game only once a year. "And I bring them to the Forum only on Saturday because they have to be in school on weekdays," she added.

Mrs. Geoffrion will be remaining at home when the Canadiens take to the road in the current Stanley Cup playoffs against Chicago. But once the playoffs are over, the Geoffrions plan to take advantage of the children's Easter school holidays to take a trip to Florida.

Fair Board Sponsors Fine Card Party

TWEED — The Tweed Fair Board held a successful card party in the township hall on Wednesday evening with 11 tables of euchre in play. The ladies' high was won by Mrs. Ed Way and the prize was donated by Mr. W. M. Bush. The men's high was won by Mrs. Howard Countryman playing a man's card and the prize was donated by Jardine's Hardware.

The men's low was won by Mr. W. Blakely and donated by the Tweed Feed Mill and the ladies' low was won by Mrs. R. Parks and donated by Rupert's Dress Store. The special plate prize was won by Mrs. Harold Varty and donated by Red and White Store. The door prize was won by Mrs. Howey Spencer and donated by Crest Hardware.

Refreshments were served at the conclusion of card playing.

'Rural Church' Topic at UCW Meet

The hostesses were Mrs. R. Thompson and Mrs. M. Mason with approximately 80 present.

At two o'clock the president, Mrs. R. Wellman opened the meeting and thanked everyone making the dinner a success after which she led in prayer.

The worship theme on "Missions" was taken by Mrs. D. Fleming. The Scripture was read by Mrs. G. McPaul and Mrs. D. Fleming spoke on "The Church is Called to Worship". Missionary prayer for missionaries was given by Mrs. P. Smith. Mrs. D. Fleming closed the worship service with prayer.

The Mission study "The Rural Church" was prepared by Mrs. G. Williams and given by Mrs. M. Mason. The following question was prepared for the topic and answered by a number of ladies.

"What is the changing way of life in rural areas?" by Mrs. G. Wellman "Changing ways of rural church life", Mrs. C. Bucklitt. "What are the wanted changes in rural life" Mrs. H. Pillen; "What are the problems of the rural church?" Mrs. D. Fleming and "What are some of the fundamentals for good rural churches" by Mrs. R. McKeown.

Mrs. H. Pillen read the mission stations in Canada, prepared by Mrs. J. Thompson.

A number of thank-you cards were read by the secretary. The visiting committee Mrs. C. Burditt and Mrs. R. Jewell reported on visitations.

A ballot was taken for functional activities.

STUFFY SIT-DOWNERS CAN RUIN A PARTY

Parties often die a slow death due to poor circulation.

Guests, themselves, frequently administer the coup de grace, instead of moving around and keeping the social wheels grinding, there are often a few who stay rooted in one spot and only talk to people they know.

It's always easy to see a party heading for a decline when a group of men gather at one end of the room and talk shop and a group of women gather at the other end and talk babies. Those who have neither jobs nor small dependents unhappily take up the space between.

A hostess has to use the utmost tact and discretion to break up little cliques and reshape the groupings. Introducing a newcomer into a conversation often helps it take a vital turn and inspires others to look around for fresh conversational partners. But while the host and hostess have the major job of keeping a party moving, guests, too, have an obligation to circulate and help keep a party from drying up in fact.

A person who is socially poised makes an effort to get around and try to have a few words, at least, with everyone before the party ends.

Men are particularly obligated to help build up circulation. If a woman guest is sitting alone and looks as though she'd like to hide behind the wallpaper, an observant male properly should join her and see that she meets a few people in the immediate neighborhood. He also offers to refill plates or glasses of women guests who are too timid to fend for themselves or have been temporarily left on their own devices by beaux or husbands who are in the midst of doing some circulating on their own.

For their part, women guests can help keep the social ball rolling by keeping on their toes, both figuritively and literally. Instead of sinking into a chair and letting the party come to her, the gracious guest rises to the occasion by introducing her, herself, if necessary, and adding her bit to the conversation whirling around her.

A party should never be considered the exclusive property of the people who are giving it. Most of the credit for making it a success is due to guests who are pleasant, solicitous, courteous and, above all, good mixers.

Question: When someone is obviously not dressed correctly for a social function, is it proper to point it out? A friend came with me to a tea, wearing a suit, flats and no hat. Later, she told me I should have warned her how to dress. I assumed she knew, but since she was dressed that way when I picked her up, I decided to keep mum. What is correct in a case like this? — Mrs. C.A.C., Mt. Vernon, N.Y.

Answer: Ordinarily, it's not polite to comment on how someone else is dressed. But in this instance it would have been more considerate, to mention that heels and hats were called for. She could have changed these quickly and been saved embarrassment.

Silk and wool blends are tops this season, the combination of softness and a crisp feel ideal for good design.

This wool and silk costume is of the fabric and is very lightweight with a distinct rib.

The jacket hangs straight, with the very faintest indication of shape at the side seams. It features a curved yoke, casual collar and sleeves cut in one with the yoke.

Colors are gray-green, navy or black.

The walking pump combines black patent with either matching or taupe-colored snakeskin, and is also nice in a navy and red combination.

A perfectly set tea table with gleaming silver, your best tablecloth, spring flowers and dainty sandwiches and cookies will insure the success of a fund-raising tea.

Specific Help For A Fund-Raising Tea Party

by Mary Moore

This is "Tea" for Canada Week," and so I offer suggestions for a fund-raising tea party, the type so popular with organizations both large and small who always need to raise money for their projects.

The usual pattern (and most charming) is to hold the party in someone's house, one which lends itself easily to such an occasion, or the affair may be held in a church or community hall.

Half type of party is not at all difficult to give when all members of the fund-raising organization are willing to help.

The convener delegates the work and the contributions.

Mrs. A. could be responsible for the gathering of cups and saucers, spoons, tea-serving accessories etc. (don't forget a hot-water jug); Mrs. B. the flower arrangement and maybe the candles; Mrs. C., D., and E., could each bring a given number of plain and fancy sandwiches (they could discuss among themselves the types and fillings to use).

Mrs. F. could bring a batch or two of the Braunschweiger Triangles for which I give the recipe. These savory specialities are easy to make and provide the welcome little hot bites often served in a napkin-lined silver entree dish.

Mrs. G., H. and I. could bring little cakes and cookies. One of them might make the ultra-delicious Prune-Praline Bars, recipe for which will be given tomorrow and another Thumprint Cookies, also to be given tomorrow. Mrs. J. might supply the all-important tea, sugar, milk and sliced lemon.

A big, gleaming silver-tray should be set up at one end of the table — one at each end is better if the party is to be a large one, and it is important that the tea sandwiches have easy access to the table.

Essential to the smoothness of the party are a few highly efficient people who will replenish plates of food, keep kettles boiling for the making of fresh tea, remembering that most people like a second cup.

Several ladies should take turns pouring tea. Others often at the daughter level — pass food and cups of tea. A keen eye sees that pourers have a good supply of clean cups and saucers and that used dishes are promptly removed. Have plenty of food. It is embarrassing to run short and there's usually a ready sale among the working group for any left-overs.

BRAUNSCHWEIGER TRIANGLES (4 dozen tiny triangles):

2 cups sifted pastry flour or 2½ cups sifted all-purpose flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 teaspoons dry mustard, ¼ cup chilled shortening, ¼ cup lightly-packed, finely-grated old Cheddar cheese, ¼ cup (about) ice-cold water, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 6 drops Tabasco sauce, 8 ounces braunschweiger (at room temperature), paprika.

Sift together into a mixing bowl, the pastry or all-purpose flour, salt and dry mustard. Add shortening and cut it in finely; mix in shredded cheese. Combine ice-cold water, Worcestershire and Tabasco sauces. Using a fork, lightly mix liquids into dry ingredients, adding a little more water, if necessary, to make a mixture of pie-paste consistency. Form the paste into a ball, wrap in foil or wax paper and chill 2 hours. Divide cheese pastry into 2 equal portions. Roll out one portion into a neat 12" square. Spread with braunschweiger. Roll out remaining pastry into a 12" square and carefully place over braunschweiger. Pat the 2 layers together lightly. Sprinkle with paprika. Using a ruler and a floured pastry wheel or sharp knife, cut the "sandwich into 8 strips; cut each strip into 6 squares. Cut each square in half, diagonally. Place, slightly apart, on ungreased cookie sheets. Bake at 450 deg. Fahr. until pastry is cooked and golden — 12 to 15 minutes — do not overbake. Serve hot, cold or re-heated.

The Experts Say:

Ham Marked Fully Cooked Should be Cooked Further

By RUNA HAMBLY

OTTAWA (CP) — Even though a ham may be marked fully cooked, ready to serve or ready to eat, it should be cooked further to five degrees for flavor and texture.

"About 10 to 15 minutes a pound in a 325-degree oven will do it," says Lenore Newman, home economist in the consumer section of the agriculture department.

The ready-cooked ham is processed to make it palatable, tender and safe to eat but it is considerably improved by the extra cooking, she says.

Uncooked hams—should be baked at the same temperature to the well-done stage, which is 170 degrees on a meat thermometer. The time per pound will vary with the weight and type of ham.

For example, a 13-to-15-pound whole ham should be cooked for 20 to 25 minutes a pound. Other cooking times:

Boneless ham, nine to 12 pounds, 25 to 30 minutes a pound; boneless half ham, four to six pounds, 35 to 40 minutes a pound; half ham (shank or butt), five to eight pounds, 30 to 35 minutes a pound; picnic shoulder, five to seven pounds, 35 to 40 minutes a pound; boneless picnic shoulder, three to five pounds, 40 to 45 minutes a pound; cottage roll (pickled or smoked), four to six pounds, 35 to 40 minutes a pound.

A whole ham, averaging 12 to 13 pounds with the bone and nine to 12 pounds without the bone, is ideal for a buffet party or a large family. It can yield 30 or more servings. It should be ordered ahead of time and is often sold in a casing as a skinless defatted ham with some of the bone removed.

The half ham—either butt or shank—is a good size for an average family. The butt has a somewhat larger proportion of lean meat than the shank and is the more economical cut if both are priced the same. Both take well to scoring and glazing. Boneless hams are often cut into portions of two or three pounds and suit a small family. They may be baked and glazed or cut into half-inch to one-inch steaks for broiling.

The picnic shoulder and cottage roll are usually more economical than some other cuts but, Miss Newman says, "are no less delicious when given long, slow cooking and an attractive glaze."

When determining the cost, it is best to compare the amount per serving rather than by pound. Allow one-third to one-half pound for each serving from hams with bones, Boneless hams will go further so allow about one-quarter to one-third pound for an average serving.

The glaze is added after the meat is cooked, the rind or casing removed and the fat cut diagonally to form diamonds. For a brown sugar glaze for a half ham combine 1 cup brown sugar; 2 tsps. dry mustard; 3 tbsps. flour and moisten with 3 tbsps. vinegar. Spread over meat and bake in a 425-degree oven for 15 minutes, basting

A rotary refrigerator or washing machine can usually be located by a distinct sound; by inserting a foam rubber pad between the machine and the floor.

Let us buy you a package of Jets soap pads

You get 30c on the Large Economy size. 20c on the Regular Size.

Send us the flap from a Jets box, and we will send you the money you paid for the Jets—plus the price of your stamp.

We will send you 30¢ for the flap from a large box of Jets, or 20¢ for the flap from a regular size box of Jets.

Just fill out the coupon on the right and send it with the flap from a Jets box. We will refund your money.

Fair enough?

Then make a note to try Jets soap pads this week. On us.

Why are we giving them away?

Maybe you don't believe everything you read in advertisements. You want first-hand proof before you'll buy. We're a bit like that ourselves. That's why we're giving you the opportunity to try Jets without risking a penny.

We're not risking much either. We're sure that once you've tried Jets you'll go right on using them.

Jets work much better than other soap pads, because they've got blue detergent as well as soap. It cuts grease faster and does a more thorough cleaning job.

They're nicer to use too, because they resist rust longer.

Try New Blue Jets.

But hurry up. Our free offer expires May 1st, 1962.

Best Friend Doesn't Want Her

DORIS CLARE

DEAR DORIS:—I am a young girl who has two friends. A few days ago they were working on a project. They gave me the feeling I wasn't wanted. The same day they were working on another project and this time they told me I couldn't join them.

One is my best friend and I know she likes me. The other one yesterday said she really liked me too, after I discussed it with her. She really meant it, I know! They both put the blame on each other and they say they wanted me but the other didn't.

I want to believe my best friend, but should I?—PARTLY BEWILDERED.

DEAR PARTLY:—Three's a crowd. Don't be jealous. Some day you'll have a project with some other girl you won't want to share either.

They both like you but you don't have to live in their pocket.

DEAR DORIS:—I am really puzzled as to what to do with my life, now that my two children are working and off hand so, as to speak. I am now making a home for my son of 20. I worked in hospital when I first came to Canada but found the running around too much. I am doing household work which is also hard but hope to get used to it.

The pay is hardly enough. I can't put any by for old age or for anything else for that matter. However, children don't keep parents these days (and I like to work). My son is not very co-operative. Can't get him to wash a dish; I do everything. He pays rent which comes to about $20 a week. I buy the food, which comes to about $15. He runs a car and grip home to lunch.

I have a sister back home in England who would like me home. I would get a small pension there to help me live and was wondering if I should save to get back. I would have to take a live-in job for a time. I would also miss my children, although they don't seem to bother much about you when they are on their own. Guess I spoiled them.

I am thinking if my son marries, it will be out with me—who wants a mother-in-law? Sometimes he says it was a mistake my moving here to be with him, and then he tells me to get more money. Maybe I should live more for today, but tomorrow comes, doesn't it?—UNSETTLED.

DEAR UNSETTLED:—There's no future in your present set-up, that's for sure!

When your son marries, he will have his own responsibilities. But a heart-to-heart talk is indicated. He should be made to face facts.

It may surprise him for you to assert yourself and suggest depriving him of his soft berth. If he does show little concern for your future, you might well consider moving back with your sister.

TO MISS M. N.:—He tells you he loves you. Takes you out many times. Then suddenly says he has loved another all along. Of course it's a heartbreak. But if he has so little loyalty, be glad you are not married to him.

Break away. There is someone for you who will know his own mind, so circulate until he finds you. When you would like a private reply, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

TO CAROL:—Please send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope for private reply.

* * *

CONFIDENTIAL TO REDHEAD:—He loses his temper with you now, is cross and stingy. How will it be after the first glow of romance wears off? If you follow my advice, you'll run, not walk, in the opposite direction.

* * *

(Doris cannot begin to answer all her correspondents in the column. Always enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your question.)

How to Defy Curlers And That Cold Cream

You don't have to go to bed looking like a mechanical wonder to be your own pretty self the next day. Curlers, cold cream and chin straps aren't necessary every night if you know yourself well enough to work without the commercial tools or — as men refer to them — women's weapons.

I have learned this from experienced makeup people and professional hairdressers who have given me the hints I'm revealing along.

Let's take skin and complexion first. If your skin tends to be on the dry side, there's need to lather it up with thick layers of cream every night and retire looking like the icing from the cake. First wash your face with hot water to open the pores, pat dry, and immediately apply a thin layer of cream. While you're bathing, let the skin absorb the cream and wipe excess off with a tissue.

That application will suffice for the night but to compensate for the light amount of cream at night, be sure that your daily cosmetic has a lanolin or oily — base which will continue to lubricate your skin beneath the make-up.

FROWNS OR LAUGHS

On the other hand, if you happen to have an excessively oily skin, a once-over with soap is generally sufficient. For those worrisome spots such as laugh lines, frown wrinkles or under-the-eye puffs, apply any of the commercially marketed astringents on the week spots. At best, the only evidence left is a light, powder-like smudge which can be erased with a tissue.

Hair, as we all know, presents a more complicated problem. The new hair styles require the use of rollers and, while the coiffure looks lovely the next day, you're bound to look like the first lady of the moon the night before. Bobby pins and bobby pins, though more comfortable than rollers, give the appearance of being "wired for sound".

TWO ALTERNATIVES

What to do. I have learned of two alternatives. One is what hairdressers call " a layer cut". The hair is trimmed in layers (roughly a degree of length) so that body is actually put into the hair through the method of cutting. One set holds for a full week, without setting, or until the next shampoo. That once-a-week setting can be done during an afternoon while he is at work, or on a lunch hour if you are a breadwinner, too.

The second method is a do-it-yourself style which is perfect for the girls who wear a long or bob, such as the page - boy. Wet your hair and comb it back away from your face.

A NATURAL WAY

Examine in which direction the "natural part" separates and in which direction the hair seems to slant. This is the normal growth pattern of your hair and, for easy up-keep, it should be trained that way. For example, some gals will have "cowlicks" popping up; others will have a natural middle part. By training your hair in the way in which it normally grows, you'll have less problems in caring for it and it will look better groomed.

After finding your natural growth pattern, apply wave set, and pop a clip or two in the places which obviously fall into a wave. Or, for an effect of softness, set a few pin-curls around the face. Let hair dry and remove clips. At night, a thin, "invisible" type of hair net will preserve the set without the need for curlers. The net will preserve the set with-

The tragedy is not that women put on false faces and then look into thinking they were born lovely, sweet-smelling, beautifully coiffed and bright as a shiny penny.

It's that they don't go on doing it!

Too many girls drop the false face after the rings are on their fingers.

Of course, after you're married it's more difficult to keep that aura of glamour. But it can be done, with a little work, and scheming.

It almost seems needless to say that a girl never should let her spouse catch her with a face full of cream, or her head up in wire lumps . . . or worst of all, in a girdle and garters.

But lots of foolish women do.

HOW TO FAKE

How can you keep faking him out when he's so close at hand all the time? It's almost impossible to keep hubby from knowing you're not rollers on your hair. So why not try forgetting them?

You could invest in an electric curling-iron-comb. Lots of models, who have no free time do.

Irons come with three sizes of rollers. In less than 30 minutes, you can do a good job of electricity creating your favorite hair-style.

And honestly, it isn't absolutely mandatory that you cover your face with an inch of cream before hopping into bed. Just to keep the skin well-nourished and youthful in texture.

Maybe it's a little better than other ways — but try this: Cream your face and throat before getting into your tub. The steam from your bath will help open your pores. Ten minutes of absorption by normal skin is all that is needed.

Tissue away excess cream before retiring — and you'll smell just lovely from the bath oil you poured into your tub.

NIGHT WARDROBE

I insist that you wear a lovely nightgown. Even if it's flannel. Some women are just shamefully sentimental about flannel nighties and pyjamas (I am), but there don't have to be old potato sacks.

Lingerie designers have created bed-time costumes in just about any fabric and style — so suit any mood you may be playing (And let's face it; each wife in her time plays many parts — if she's smart).

Robes are in the same category. Make them feminine and attractive. If you have only one, don't wear it all the time. Slip into a dress, stockings and heels rather than show him the many faces of the same old housecoat.

EARLY PAINT JOB

And above all— don't forget the vow of youthful days first thing in the morning. It may be a little tough, living it up at dawn with mayzaint and glitter — but there's nothing like a little lipstick and brushed hair to make you look almost like the you he married.

They say that a man in love with a woman sees her all his life as the same wonderful thing he married, because of some freakish happening to his normally good eyesight.

Well and good — but don't count on it too much. Just to be on the safe side, try to keep looking as much as possible like the girl who made him say "Wow!" in the first place.

Beautiful Black Magic

By ALICE ALDEN

The magic that is inherent in beautiful black silk and lace is more potent than ever.

Fine flattery is the happy attribute of this very new and useful dress from Patullo-Jo Copeland's spring 1962 collection.

The beautifully-cut dress of black crepe is caped with French re-embroidered lace and it adds up to a costume that is perfect for late afternoon-into-evening activities.

Rylstone

RYLSTONE — Little Douglas Spencely, four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Spencer, was a patient in Campbellford Memorial Hospital from Thursday to Saturday.

Mrs. Ellis Jones called on Mr. and Mrs. Sanford Meiklejohn in Springbrook, on Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Wesley Finch is a patient in Belleville General Hospital.

Mrs. Bill Donaldson, Peterborough, and Mrs. Albert Holland, Havelock, spent a few days last week with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Stewart. Mrs. Stewart is convalescing at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Holland in Havelock where she was taken by ambulance on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Heath and Carol were Saturday evening guests of his brother, Clifford, his wife and family, at Stirling.

Mrs. Joe Scott and Miss Joanne McFarland, Marmora, Miss Linda Wood and Mr. Dave Forde, of St. Catharines, were Saturday supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Meiklejohn and family, and Mrs. Chester Meiklejohn.

Lorne Anderson and Glenn Stewart, both of Peterborough, spent the weekend at their respective homes here.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Petherick called on his father, David T. Petherick of Stanwood, who is at present a patient in the Campbellford Memorial Hospital, on Sunday afternoon. They were supper guests of their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Irwin, in Brighton.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Riley of Cobourg visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Will Rutherford, on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Finch called on his mother, Mrs. Mabel Biggs, in Campbellford, on Sunday afternoon. Mrs. Biggs will enter Campbellford Memorial Hospital for treatments this week.

Mrs. Estella Gibson and daughter Blanche, of Campbellford, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Walter, Reid and George.

Mr. and Mrs. Murney Fleming of Oshawa, and Ross Thomson, Baldwin's Bridge, Ottawa, were the weekend guests of the Thomson and Anderson families.

Mr. and Mrs. Farrok Keene of Consecon visited their former neighbours, Mr. and Mrs. Elias Jones, on Sunday.

Missing Daley Returns Home

OTTAWA (CP) — Police said today that Tom Daley, a former Canadian football league player and official, has returned to his home after being listed as missing for more than five weeks.

The 44-year - old Daley, who played for Ottawa and Hamilton teams before becoming a senior official in the Eastern Football Conference, disappeared Feb. 22.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Lenore, 8, — He calls me a Pollyanna just because I refuse to mope.

Alvin 8. — She's always up in the clouds, it gets sickening.

Lenore 8. — My husband thinks it's his mission in life to squelch me. I'm a cheerful person. I always see the good side of everything. But Alvin keeps trying to sober me down. And I dread getting gloomy like him and his family.

Tell him the sun's out and it looks like a nice day. He'll find a cloud and argue it looks like rain. Tell him we don't need milk, the container is half full. He'll call it half empty and disagree. I was thrilled watching President Kennedy's inauguration. Al threw cold water on me saying the whole thing was like a funeral, pallbearers, and all.

Maybe he can't help it. His home used to remind me of a mortgage. Mine was full of laughter and singing. I wish he'd stop trying to turn me into a bluenose. Two in one house would be murder.

Alvin 8. — We've been married two years now, and Lenore still romps around like Queen of the May. I confess her cheerfulness attracted me...to her and I certainly don't want to dampen her good spirits. But when she refuses to call a spade a spade, it gets a bit silly for a grown woman.

I don't see anything to rejoice about when somebody says Hello. If they know you, they're supposed to. But Lenore would beat a drum for joy if she had a drum over being so popular. She'd find out how many of those "hello artists" would come near her if she really needed the help. All I'm trying to do is bring her down to earth to see things realistically.

How long does she think she can wear those rose-colored glasses? I want her to stop kidding herself.

The Council: While both Alvin and Lenore may have 20-20 vision and can see the same thing equally well, they look at it quite differently. Alvin isn't accusing Lenore of seeing things that aren't there. He's merely saying because she sees more each time than he does.

Her defense, and it's helped many an optimist, is that he can't prove her wrong any more than she can prove herself right. We believe she'll sell a spade a spade but, in her upbeat thinking, she'll prosperity associate it with a flower garden, whereas Alvin's free association may be with a cemetery. It sounds like Peter Bell in Wordsworth's poem for whom:

"A primrose by a river's brim
A yellow primrose was to him,
And it was nothing more."

Lenore and other blithe spirits would see in the simple "rain" day after day, be's bound to be right eventually. But his door words won't keep Lenore from stepping out in her bright spring bonnet most of those very days.

Alvin's campaign seems to be based on getting Lenore to admit there is a minor key to life. Lenore rejects chapeaux that friends prove false. We'll venture to say she knows this, but prefers to dwell on it. Chances are she over-ignores the gloomier and sordid side of events, in counteraction to Alvin's (and his family's) inclination to wallow in pessimism and disillusionment. So, fighting his doleful tendencies, and fighting them perhaps too doggedly.

Lenore is not dilluvional. She must assure and prove to Alvin that she is aware of actuality. But then he should welcome, rather than crush, her efforts to soften, adorn, flavor and lyricize the bare facts. Stale bread can stick in the throat until sweet wine washes it down. Alvin supplies the first, Lenore the second.

RYLSTONE

Late Cheese Maker Honored By Company

RYLSTONE—Some time ago since the passing of Fred W. Barnum, officials of Rylstone Cheese and Butter Company decided it would be fitting to honor his memory by placing a photo of him in the factory, in which he had shown such a keen interest for so many years.

Percy Reid and Murray Heath were elected as a committee to procure a photograph, which they have done, during the past year, with the aid of Mrs. Barnum. An enlargement of the photo taken at the time of the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Barnum shortly before they left the farm, to reside in Campbellford was obtained and at the annual meeting of the company on March 8th, the picture was hung in the Curing Room of the factory where all meetings are held, where it will be preserved, for all to see.

Mr. Barnum was associated with the cheese factory for well over 40 years and always had its interest at heart. He was president from 1917 to 1925 and secretary from 1935 to 1960, when his sudden passing brought an end to his career with the cheese business. For several years he held both posts of secretary and treasurer.

Mr. Barnum often assumed the role of peace maker and arbitrater and his influence will be felt at Rylstone for years to come.

All officers of Rylstone Cheese and Butter Company were re-elected for 1962; president, Charles E. Stewart; secretary-treasurer, Lindsay Anderson; directors, Jack Watson, Roy Shortt, Percy Reid, and William L. Morton.

There was a special speaker for the meeting.

Crofton

CROFTON — A number from this street attended the funeral of Mrs. George Oram on Tuesday afternoon at the Ainsworth funeral parlors at Wellington.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Fairman of Huff's Island spent Wednesday evening with Mrs. E. Crook.

NOMINATE CANDIDATE

TORONTO (CP)—Charles H. Millard, 65, former Canadian director of the United Steelworkers of America (CLC) and later organizer for the International Confederation of Free Trade Unions, was nominated Tuesday night as New Democratic Party candidate in the federal riding of York-Humber. The seat currently is held by Miss Margaret Aitken of the Progressive Conservatives.

St. Ola

ST. OLA — Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Longmuir and family of Napanee visited Mr. and Mrs. Ed Langmuir over the weekend. Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Sargent of Bancroft also were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Longmuir.

Mr. and Mrs. John Parks and family, of Glen Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Basil Parks of Ormsby and Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Phillips of Stirling were all week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Phillips.

Mrs. Dudley Sharpe and daughter Doreen, also son James Sharpe his wife and baby and Mr. Webb Wesman of Bancroft, were all weekend visitors of Mr. and Mrs. John Palmateer, Mr. and Mrs. James Sharpe also visited Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Carrol in St. Ola, on Sunday.

Miss Brenda Ham of Oshawa visited her home over the weekend. She also entertained six of her girl friends on Sunday, and returned to Oshawa in the evening.

On Sunday evening in the St. Ola United Church Mr. McAlister spoke on "A Spiritual Quest". The Scripture reading was from Paul's letter to the Ephesians 6:10-18. His text was from Mark 2-5, "When Jesus saw their faith, He said unto the sick of the palsy", son, thy sins be forgiven thee.

Madoc Junction

MADOC JUNCTION — Friends were pleased to learn that little Ronald Charles, baby son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Clark, was able to return home from Belleville General Hospital last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Murney Kirby were dinner guests last Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Cleary.

Mr. Milton Reid and Grant; Miss Marilyn Reid and Miss June White were recent Sunday guests at the home of Mrs. Lawrence of Tweed.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Fitzsimmons spent Sunday afternoon in Belleville calling on several relatives and friends in Belleville Hospital and also visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Haldenby.

Miss Sheila Clarke spent Sunday with her school friend, Miss Lois Denford.

A number from this community attended the Stirling L.O.B.A. birthday party held on Tuesday night in the L.O.L. rooms in Stirling. Many members and their families enjoyed a delicious pot-luck dinner served at 6:30 o'clock.

The prettily iced and decorated birthday cake carried in by the W.M. Sis. Ilene Seeley was cut by the two charter members present, Sis. Blanche Reid, and Sis Pearl McGee.

Following the dinner a number enjoyed playing euchre.

Several members of the Eggleton U.C.W. met at the home of Mrs. William McMullen last Wednesday, and quilted a quilt.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bridger spent a recent weekend visiting with relatives in Oshawa.

FINE FAN

COLLINGWOOD, Ont. (CP)—Charles Hogg, 20, of Collingwood, was fined $100 and costs Tuesday for assaulting a police officer. Const. Howard Gill said Hogg attacked him when he tried to eject him from the Collingwood Arena by causing a disturbance at a hockey game Feb. 16.

Pre-Navigation Chores along St. Lawrence

Seaway Sentinels' Spring Spruce-Up

Buoyage vessel Gremville has yearly task of laying and lifting 240 navigational buoys, 160 of them lighted buoys (above) which weigh nearly four tons, are 16 feet high.

Freshly painted and ship-shape, batteries charged and gas cylinders ready to flash warnings through another April-to-November shipping season, the sentinels of the St. Lawrence Seaway are taking their positions for 1962. Studded along 150 zigzagging miles of seaway from Beauharnois, 20 miles upstream from Montreal, to Kingston at the eastern end of Lake Ontario, are 240 Canadian-operated navigational buoys. These steel signposts guide mariners from the seven seas along the narrow channels hidden beneath the water's surface. They warn against wrong turns and wanderings off that would leave fish-looking ships helplessly beached on the river's shoals and banks. Every year when the last ships pass by (nearly 7,000 transits in 1961) the buoys are lifted from the water, their positions marked by wooden spar buoys which duck under winter ice floes with little damage, and taken ashore for overhaul. Light-flashing devices are cleaned, repaired, put in shape for the next year — ready to guide another 23 million ship-borne tons of cargo along the nation's inland trade artery.

Final adjustment to buoy's lantern. Even-numbered red buoys flash red, odd-numbered black buoys flash green.

Gremville under Capt. R. O. Morphet of Prescott lays last of load of four buoys during annual three weeks of intensive buoy laying. Buoy anchors are four-ton concrete blocks.

Canada Ignoring Chance To Make Influence Felt in Latin America Says Teacher

By KEITH KINCAID

HALIFAX (CP)—Canada has an unmatched opportunity to make her influence felt in Latin America but so far the opportunity has been mostly ignored, says the president of Canada's oldest university.

Dr. H. L. Puxley of the University of King's College thinks something can be done at the academic level to increase contacts between the opposite ends of the Western Hemisphere. As it start a Latin American Institute will open at King's next fall.

Dr. Puxley says a void has been created by a decline in United States prestige in Latin America and it's "almost urgent" to the West that Canada fill it. The alternative is a further spread of Communist influence.

"The U.S. because of its size is regarded as a dominating colossus and, is suspect in everything it does. But Latin Americans think of Canada as an elder brother. They will accept advice from us which they would rebel at coming from the Americans."

RED PRESTIGE HIGH

The Latin American Institute will start modestly but Dr. Puxley sees the day when it will provide Canada's diplomatic and trading corps with a pool of university graduates who know something about Latin America.

Canada currently has nine ambassadors in South and Central America, spread so thin that some cover as many as five countries.

It is "scandalous" how little Canadians know about other lands, he says, and this is particularly true of Latin America. He adds that one of the reasons Soviet and Communist Chinese prestige rides so high in South America is that they take time to become familiar with Latin American languages, literature and history.

As a start the Latin American Institute will simply mean that a small group of Latin American students, possibly five or six, will live in residence at King's, pay their own way and study as any other foreign student. Arrangements are also being made to bring a South American professor to King's to head courses for Canadians in Latin American subjects.

Much of the institute's work, however, will be done through King's extension and adult education courses. Dr. Puxley, who discussed his plans with Latin American diplomats in Ottawa, says they have promised films, other material and lecturers for extension courses.

PLAN FELLOWSHIPS

In future years Dr. Puxley hopes to create fellowships for Latin American students and professors and for Canadians wanting to learn more about the area.

King's is a small 187-student university located in the shadow of Dalhousie University. Although it shares arts and science facilities with Dalhousie it manages to retain a large measure of independence. Many of its features—academic gowns worn in class, Latin grace at meals, emphasis on campus residence—are reminiscent of Old Country schools.

Much of its activity centres around its Anglican Church divinity school but in other respects it is interdenominational.

King's was established in New York as a forerunner of what now is Columbia University. During the revolutionary period it fled northward with the British Empire Loyalists It was re-established at Windsor, N.S., in 1789 as the first university in Canada.

English-born Dr. Puxley, 54, is an Anglican clergyman, former army colonel, missionary and author equally at home at a diplomatic banquet or at an afternoon tea for a women's church group. He has studied on three continents.

He first gave serious thought to Canada-Latin American relations in 1958 when U.S. Vice-President Nixon was greeted by rioting during a tour of Latin America. At the same time Dean H. E. Read of the Dalhousie Law School was one of three international jurists invited to witness democratic elections in Costa Rica.

"Comparing the two in Incidents convinced me Canada could take up the slack of fading American influence. I was even more convinced after I visited Latin America in 1959."

Dr. Puxley says at one time he felt Canada should join the Organization of American States, mainly because the Latin Americans wanted it. But because of events at the latest OAS conference where U.S. pressure persuaded other members to oust Cuba, "I am beginning to wonder."

The issue would have embarrassed Canada, he said. Canadian prestige might have suffered if the Latin Americans associated us with U.S. pressure tactics.

Until a $1,690,000 fund-raising program was launched last year, the Latin American institute was not possible. Under construction now are a 100-student residence, a dining hall, gymnasium, social centre and swimming pool which when completed will release pressure on existing buildings.

Liberal Proposal to Exempt All Sales Under $25 From Sales Tax Causes Debate

TORONTO (CP)—The war of the economists opened in a crowded legislative committee room Tuesday.

On one side were the Liberals and their proposal to exempt almost all sales under $25 from Ontario's three-per-cent retail sales tax.

On the other were the Conservatives, contending that the Liberal plan would reduce revenues from the tax to about one-third of the $152,000,000 annual income the government expects from the tax.

In the middle, fighting a lone battle, was Ken Bryden (NDP—Toronto Woodbine). He demanded that the whole issue be tossed aside so a "loop-over-due" look could be taken at the province's public accounts, a demand that provoked a 20-minute verbal fight before the committee could get down to its announced business.

The battlefield was the standing committee on public accounts, called into special session to study a bill introduced by Liberal Leader John Wintermeyer which would amend the Sales Tax Act to give effect to the Liberal proposals.

An hour and a half later, their heads stuffed with figures and estimates and economists' projections, the committee members adjourned the discussion until Thursday.

Presenting the government's case was Phillip T. Clark, the province's comptroller of revenue. The Liberal stand was presented by Geoffrey Conway, a youthful chartered accountant now studying for his doctorate at Harvard, who Mr. Wintermeyer said represented a committee of economists who drafted the Liberal plan.

Mr. Clark submitted an elaborate breakdown of sales in Ontario, listing almost every item that crosses a retail counter and some that don't.

From the list, he deduced that total sales in 1960 were $9,063,700,000, of which some $5,403,200,000 were taxable, and would produce revenue of $162,100,000 for the province.

The Liberal plan, he said, would mean taxable sales of $2,319,300,000 and revenue of only $52,300,000.

Attacking the government figures, the Liberals contended basically that revenue of some $106,000,000 would result along from items which would be taxed the same under both Liberal and government plans.

Sales of other items would produce an additional $9,000,000, the Liberals contended, bringing total tax revenue to some $115,600,000—more than twice the government's estimates of such revenue under the Liberal plan.

Two Call Girls Acquitted of Morals Charges

TORONTO (CP)—Two call-girls who drove to their rendezvous in a lavender-colored Cadillac were acquitted of morals charges Tuesday after the jury was told that prostitution is not an offence in Canada.

Grace Behan, 24, was acquitted and the charge against Ann Taylor, 26, was withdrawn after defence counsel Garry Braund cited the rights of prostitutes from a nine-year-old decision by Magistrate S. T. Bigelow.

He quoted: "The intention of the act is to prevent the male public from being solicited on the streets or other public places, but not to prevent prostitution."

Car Can Make a U-Turn At Forty Miles An Hour

CALGARY (CP)—Looking for a car that will U-turn at 40 miles an hour? Frank Thomas of Calgary will make one for about $5,000.

Mr. Thomas has designed and built a sleek, rocket-shaped vehicle of which he says:

"I could roll the tires off it before it would flip over."

Retractable headlights and a plexiglass canopy, both operated by electric motors, are other features.

The power plant is a six-cylinder rear - mounted engine with automatic transmission, dual carburetors and a super-charger for zippier performance.

Mr. Thomas says he has always wanted to build a car but "never got around to it until now." He has been working on his spare time for three months and expects to complete testing in April.

He says he has remodelled several aircraft and incorporated airplane mechanisms into the car. Refinements such as red and white upholstery, a white paint job and a padded dashboard are to be added.

The car is 200 pounds lighter than a Detroit product of similar size and runs 21 miles on a gallon of gas.

WILL FEATURE GOBEL

OTTAWA (CP) — Comedian George Gobel will be the headline entertainer at the Central Canada Exhibition which opens here Aug. 17, it was announced Tuesday night.

HOME BUILT AUTO—Frank Thomas of Calgary designed and built this moderistic car which he says can make a U-turn at 40 miles an hour. The car has such features as an electrically operated canopy, automatic transmission, retractable headlights and dual carburetors. (CP Photo).

White House Says U.S. Policy to Strike First With Nuclear Arms If Necessary

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy made it clear Tuesday that the United States would strike first with nuclear weapons if they were needed to prevent a massive, conventional Soviet attack from overrunning Europe.

A statement issued by White House Press Secretary Pierre Salinger said "all available means" would be used to turn back such an assault.

The White House comments were prepared in reaction to an article by Stewart Alsop in the Saturday Evening Post. It quotes the president as saying that in some instances the U.S. must be prepared to take the initiative in using nuclear weapons and cited "a clear attack on Western Europe" as an example.

Alsop's article was based on a White House interview with the president five or six weeks ago.

NO POLICY CHANGE

Salinger read this statement to reporters:

"The quotation given in the Alsop article must be read in total context. The president's statement represents no change in American policy.

"It has always been clear that in such a context as a massive conventional attack on Western Europe by the Soviet Union, which would put Europe in danger of being overrun, the West would have to prevent such an event by all available means. This policy has been United States policy since the late 1940s, and it represents no change.

"The real change, as Mr. Alsop points out elsewhere in the article, is in the strengthening of our defensive alternatives."

Alsop's article said "the president's clear determination to risk nuclear war rather than tamely surrender Berlin has saved Berlin so far."

CITES CHANGES

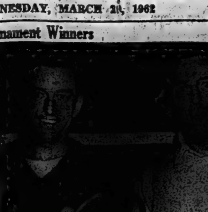
It also quoted the president as saying:

"I don't think most Americans realize the way the situation has changed. As late as 1954 the balance in air power, in the nuclear weapons, was all on our side. The change began about 1958 or 1959 with the missiles. Now the principle of deterrence that both sides have these annihilating weapons, and that changes the problem.

"Of course in some circumstances we must be prepared to use the nuclear weapon at the start, come what may—a clear attack on Western Europe, for example.

MUST CONTROL USE

"But what is important is that if you use these weapons you have to control their use. What you need is control, flexibility, a choice . . ."



The article said: "Kennedy inherited two basic doctrines on nuclear warfare. One — now that any way bigger than a brush-fire war would be a nuclear war from the outset. The other was that the United States would never strike first with the nuclear weapons. Under Kennedy grand strategy, both doctrines have been quietly discarded.

"Perhaps nim now is to convince Khrushchev on one point, and leave him uncertain on another. This country must maintain a sufficient margin of superiority in nuclear strikings powers so that Khrushchev will be certain that, if he strikes first, he will receive a devastating counterblow. But Khrushchev must not be certain that, where his vital interests are threatened, the United States will never strike first . . ."

Steelworkers Are Accused Of Election Bribery, Red-Baiting by Mine-Mill Local

TORONTO (CP)—More accusations of election bribery, Red-baiting and general anti-labor behavior were heaped Tuesday on the rival Steelworkers union by the International Mine-Mill convention.

Free liquor, free beer and even a free turkey dinner have been used by Steel in northern Manitoba's nickel at Thompson to influence young workers, it was contended before the 200 delegates at the convention of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (Ind.).

Harvey Murphy, western region president who announced some years ago he had quit the Communist party, said the union must ignore "Red-baiting" tactics by the United Steelworkers of America (CLC) and get down bill. His own western district office was flooded and was growing because it "didn't let Red-baiting get us."

Steel seeks to divide and conquer by such disruptive tactics and knows under bill 40 no one good, Mr. Murphy said. In his speech from the floor, he said he felt there was "some feeling" he shouldn't sit at the head table—and he hasn't.

BLAMES STEEL

"I am very sensitive on that point," he said. Remarks by Steelworkers as "lousy stool pigeons" responsible for the fact he has been barred from entering the United States to attend U.S. conventions hurt him.

This is the first time the international convention has been held in Canada. International President John Clark assured Mr. Murphy his absence from the head table for official photos was inadvertent. No one was suspected more in labor.

The convention, completing the second day of its five-day week, passed a resolution deploring raids, disruptions and expulsions in the North American labor movement and calling for efforts toward unity by the Canadian Labor Congress and AFL-CIO.

Mine-Mill is barred from affiliation with either and in the U.S. is facing a hearing on a recommendation by a federal board examiner that it be labelled Communist-infiltrated.

As an outcast from the central labor groups, it is subject to raids by other unions and in Canada is embattled at Thompson and at Sudbury, where leaders between them lost re-sults od a certification vote between Steelworkers and Mine-Mill. The 17,000 employees of International Nickel Company in the Mine-Mill's largest Canadian local and much of its strength in this country.

Ken Woods, mine-mill organizer from Thompson, told the convention charge that the phoned threats, guns and even dynamite have figured in a Steel-Mine-Mill scrap there.

A Manitoba labor board recommendation re a certification vote, applied for by Steel although Mine-Mill has negotiated an agreement, is contested by Mine-Mill.

Teacher's Union Disapproves of Recent Strike

MONTREAL (CP) — A teacher's union said today it disapproves of a strike by some teachers at Saint Nom de Jesus Boys School, a strike started by a pupil's criticism of religious instruction at the school's walls.

L'Alliance des Professeurs Catholiques de Montreal said it does not approve of the attitude of some methods of its four members who have refused to report to classes since last Wednesday.

A special committee set up by the union deplored the "impatience, even the insubordination" of the teachers, who refused to make use of existing grievance procedures.

The strike was started by Jules Chatelain, 22, who openly defended the opinion that one of his 30 pupils after the boy was reprimanded by the school's principal. The boy had said he thought the pictures were "in bad taste" and Chatelain agreed.

The Roman Catholic school commission said it considers the case very serious.

The teachers said they do not intend to go back to work until the principal, Roland Desrosiers, is replaced or until they are given greater freedom to teach.

ARE AT WAR

They said they are at war with the whole education system in French Canada. Aside from Mr. Chatelain, other strikers are Jean Tremblay, Roland Berger and Dolores Cote.

Mr. Chatelain said children feel like prisoners in French-language schools. There were many dropouts because courses and the way they taught no longer held the pupil's interest.

"The only way to become a principal under the g o v e r n ment is to have 25 years or so of experience," he said. "The results that our principals obtain in terms of what was good in 1925 or 1930 and most of them don't like all new methods of teaching are dangerous."

Garrison Badminton Club Hosts Successful Tourney

Outside clubs won the main events in the Central Ontario Badminton Association's Class "B" Doubles Tournament played here.

Oshawa, Trenton and Trenton RCAF teams won the major awards with Belleville Garrison, Peterborough and Kingston taking the consolation events.

Napanee and Picton clubs also were represented in the keen competitive play.

In the main event of the men's doubles, D. Pond and Stan Patterson of Trenton took the measure of Al Sinclair and Bob Wartman of the Napanee Badminton Club.

Ladies' doubles honors went to Oshawa pair, C. Mustard and D. Miller, who turned back the bid of Madge Cowley and Nora Callaghan of Belleville Garrison.

Dave Pond and Mrs. Scotty McCartney of the Trenton RCAF club proved too good for Herb Patterson and Betsy Walmsley of Belleville in the mixed doubles.

Belleville's Barb Simpson and Barb Refausse won the ladies' doubles consolation with Kingston's A. Houghton and B. Machin winning the men's doubles. Wayne Ritchie and Vicky O'Donoghue of Peterborough took the consolation award in the mixed doubles.

The tournament was one of the best held in the armouries courts of the host Belleville Garrison Club.

Sanctioned by the C.O.B.A., it attracted top players from most of the district clubs with play being close and games hard fought in all three doubles events.

Trophies and awards were presented to the various winners. A dance committee paid fine tribute to the manner in which the tournament was conducted; its facilities and arrangements. It went down in the Garrison Club's archives as "another good one."

Nor was the social side neglected. The Garrison clubhers proved excellent hosts at a post-tournament reception and dance held in the officers' mess of the Armories. A delicious buffet lunch was served.

Hydro Workers Vote 73 PC For Strike

TORONTO (CP)—The Hydro Employees Ass n Tuesday voted 73 per cent in favor of last-resort strike action against the Ontario Hydro - Electric Power Commission.

The union Tuesday counted 7,746 votes submitted by 9,000 members. Of these, 5,675 (73 per cent) were in favor of a strike should the continuing negotiations fail. There were 2,075 votes against.

A union spokesman said after the count that negotiations will be resumed with the commission later this week. No progress is made Labor Minister Warrender will be asked to intervene. Only then will a strike date be set.

Hydro's assistant general manager in charge of personnel, C. B. C. Carruthers, said the union appears to have less support for its strike than it did in a similar dispute in 1960.

But, he said, the commission is still willing to talk "to explore any possible avenue of settlement."

The commission has said if the strike occurs it will use supervisory and provincial staff to maintain service.

8 Canadians Draw Tickets On Favorite

DUBLIN (CP) — Eight Canadians Tuesday drew Irish Hospital Sweepstakes tickets on Nicolaus Silver, the 13-to-2 favorite for the Grand National Steeplechase to be run at Aintree, England, Saturday.

Isabel Wardwell of Walkerton, Ont., and the Yves Poirier Co. of Verchéres, Que., were the first Canadians to draw tickets on Nicolaus Silver. The other ticket holders, who were listed by nom de plumes, are from South Burnaby, B.C.; Larouche, Que.; Minburn, Alta.; Beaconsfield Elgin, Ont., and Verdun, Que.

Four persons in Ontario and one in Barrhead, Alta., drew Irish and Frenchman's tickets on the second favorite at 7 to 1. Two of the Ontario ticket holders are from Brantford and the others from Windsor and Toronto.

Tickets were drawn on 72 horses and Canadians in all provinces were listed among the ticket holders.

Nicolaus Silver won the race last season.

Five-Year-Old Dies in Fire

ELK LAKE, Ont. (CP) — A five-year-old girl died in a fire Tuesday in this community 35 miles southwest of Kirkland Lake.

APPROVES VACCINE

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Surgeon-General Luther Terry announced Tuesday another step forward toward final conquest of paralytic polio with the licencing of Type III oral polio vaccine for general use.

Steelworkers Sees No Reason for Dismissal

OTTAWA (CP)—State Secretary Dorion said Tuesday he sees no reason to dismiss his assistant secretary because his name has been linked in press reports with a list of persons in alleged election irregularities in the province's Quebec riding of Bellechasse.

J. P. Deschatelets — Mon-sieur Deschatelets — Rosemont) asked about the position of Mr. Dorion's assistant, Jean-Marc Bouchard, and Gabriel Roberge JL—Megan-tic—Compton—Frontenac) wondered should not be suspended.

Mr. Dorion said he had given to the RCMP a list of names of persons who might be questioned in the current investigation into allegations against Bellechasse returning officer Gerard Labrecque concerning printing contracts for the election.

As for suspending his assistant, Mr. Dorion said he would wait for an RCMP report of the investigation.

Reverting to 'Escape Clause' Action Causes Bewilderment

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

President Kennedy's decision to revert to "escape clause" action to restrict imports of carpets and glass has aroused a good deal of bewilderment and anger, particularly in Western Europe where Kennedy has been speaking to establish a reputation as a firm believer in freer trade.

The fact this is the first time Kennedy has resorted to such action appears to be of little concern to Belgium, for example, whose exporters would be hit by the new higher American tariffs. Belgium has threatened reprisals

Belgium's foreign trade minister Brasseur says he is determined to go far on this issue, even "at the risk of placing some people in an embarrassing situation."

As a member of the European Common Market, Belgium has considerable influence on decisions on her European neighbors trade policies and could ask for a unified agricultural policy against imports, including those from Canada and the United States.

ASKS SUPPORT

Belgium has called on her Common Market partners for their support in the present case higher American r a t e s and France has expressed sympathy.

The U.S. government's proposed tariffs increases must be put under congressional scrutiny.

Many congressmen have expressed concern that Kennedy may not be as eager to protect foreign against low-priced imports as previous leaders.

Kennedy has denied this, maintaining he will retain the form of "escape clause" action which would allow him to ward off the import tap if the situation becomes too rough for domestic producers. But the wording of his legislation would provide Congress more leeway and some legislators are still not convinced they can have absolute trust in the president.

Then along came the U.S. Tariff Commission with a unanimous recommendation for increasing rates on glass and carpets to shield aside and closed decreased because domestic producers are being hit by foreign competition.

If Kennedy had refused to act, legislators might have said they'd set an example of the president will act in the future. But Kennedy accepted the commission's recommendations on glass and carpets and turned down the commission's similar recommendations on mosaic tile and baseball mitts.

The administration hopes this is enough to convince Congress that Kennedy can be tough when he wants to be. But he has problems. Mr. Dorion said he hands convincing Western Europe be is all for free trade.

Defence Counsel Request Refused By Magistrate

TORONTO (CP)—The preliminary hearing of two charges of capital murder facing Arthur Lucas, 34, of Detroit began Tuesday after a request by defence counsel for a further adjournment was refused.

Lucas is charged with murdering Theriand Crater, 43, and Carolyn Newman, 17, last May. He is a Toronto rooming house where the two were living in-mates.

Defence counsel Ross Mackay requested an adjournment on the ground that public opinion was an unhealthy one in which to proceed with the case because it had international ramifications, had attracted considerable publicity and because a royal commission on narcotics now is sitting in the province.

Magistrate Thomas Elmore Lockyer refused both requests.

Crown counsel Henry Bill said another occupant of the rooming house heard shots the morning of Nov. 7, and that a third found Crater's body in the hall. Mr. Bull said Crater's throat had been severed twice. The woman was found in the bedroom with her throat cut.

He said it is the Crown's case that Lucas left Toronto less than four hours before the bodies were found. Lucas was late; arrested in Detroit and extradited to Canada.

Has Sentence Reduced to Three Years

TORONTO (CP) — James Hilary Young of Toronto Tuesday had a life sentence for manslaughter reduced to three years by the Ontario Appeal Court.

Young, 31, was charged with the murder of his 29½-year-old stepson. He pleaded guilty to manslaughter and was given a life sentence by Mr. Justice R. L. Ferguson in April last year.

Mr. Justice F. G. Mackay said in a written judgment Tuesday that the child's parents have died because of neglect or injuries suffered in a previous chastisement.

The judge noted that Young, unemployed for six months, with unemployment insurance expired, his wife exhausted and harrassed by creditors, was forced to stay at home to look after the child while his wife worked. His temper had become uncertain.

Chief Justice Dana Porter, and Mr. Justice D. P. J. Kelly concurred in the judgment.

Surgeon Says Fibrositis Can Be Cured With Good Care

By AL COLLETT

ABOARD EMPRESS OF ENGLAND (CP) — Fibrositis and backache can be cured by good results if the sufferer sees a doctor early and the condition is recognized and treated aggressively, a leading Toronto surgeon said Tuesday.

"The terms fibrositis and backache are commonly used to describe a large group of obscure aches and pains in various parts of the body.

In a statement paper presented to the College of General Practice of Canada meeting at sea, Dr. Frederick A. Kergin, professors and head of the department of surgery of the University of Toronto, described several common forms of fibrositis and bursitis where disability is of short duration if proper attention is given in time.

They also is a lesson-in-chief of the Toronto General Hospital.

Injections surgery and mas sage, sometimes in combination—are recommended as part of the treatment.

TIME ESSENTIAL

"The longer the pain persists, the more resistant it becomes to treatment and the greater the disability may result," Kergin said.

Kergin singled out a condition he calls costochondral strain that can be severe and disabling. It is strain at the junction of the ribs with the sternum (breast bone) which is surprisingly common.

Often it is confused with other various serious conditions such as heart, lung and gall bladder diseases, some kinds of neuralgia, and in the case of women, breast cancer.

Costochondral strain has led to unnecessary invalidism. Sufferers from the condition are driven over in bec. without aggravating the pain. A few prefer to sleep sitting.

HEAD FOR BERMUDA

Some 350 members of the college and their guests will continue scientific assembly while on a cruise to Bermuda and The Bahamas aboard the 21,000-ton Canadian Pacific luxury liner.

The doctors and many of their wives left New York late Monday on the business-and-pleasure trip, the first ever held by a Canadian medical group at sea.

One of the first speakers, Dr. Pierre Jobin, professor of anatomy at Laval University Quebec, said the general practitioner faces many trends in medicine including a basic one with more people want medical care.

Pope Sees Scottish Churchman

VATICAN CITY (Reuters) — Pope John today saw a leading Scottish churchman, the fourth Protestant leader he has received in the last 15 months.

Paying the courtesy call at the Vatican was Dr. J. H. S. Craig, moderator of the general assembly of the Church of Scotland.

Their meeting lasted 46 minutes and was "cordial," a Vatican press office spokesman said.

The moderator, visiting Rome on his way back from the Holy Land, presented the pope with a silver bookmark and a stone from Lake Tiberias.

The Pope gave Dr. Craig a book on the Roman synod held in January, 1960, and a book on the work of the Holy See in 1961.

Main purpose of Dr. Craig's visit to Rome was to take part in celebrations of the centenary of St. Andrews kirk here.

World Fair Will Show Famous Statue

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope John today consented to a request by Francis Cardinal Spellman to send Michelangelo's famed sculpture of the Pieta to the New York world's fair in 1964.

The pontiff's consent to allow the famous statue of the Madonna and the dead Christ to leave St. Peter's Basilica was obtained during an audience with His New York's Roman Catholic archbishop.

The statue, which is located above an altar has never before been out of Italy.

It was sculptured in 1499 by the renaissance master when he was 24 and is considered one of his greatest works. It was the only work he signed. It will be displayed in a Vatican pavilion at the world's fair.

The 400th anniversary of Michelangelo's death will be celebrated during the fair.

Church Denies Wife's Charges

MINEOLA, N.Y. (AP) —The Roman Catholic Archdiocese of New York has denied a wife's charges that the church broke up her marriage to a priest, her lawyer said Tuesday.

The wife, Mrs. Alice Ryan, 41-year-old mother of four from Glen Head, N.Y., has filed a $2,300,000 damage suit against the church in state Supreme Court here.

She claimed in her suit that her husband, Walter A. Ryan, a former priest now living in San Francisco, was taken from their home April 4, 1953, by use of force and intoxicants and was held in monasteries against his will.

Ryan, 57, denied the church had anything to do with his leaving. "I had left home under a mutual agreement with my wife and said nothing of the influence of liquor or at the insistence of anyone," he told reporters recently.

Ryan called his wife's charges ridiculous and an "unfair reflection upon the Catholic Church."

Mrs. Ryan's lawyer, Philip Feiring, said Tuesday he received an answer to the lawsuit from two of the defendants, the Archdiocese of New York and Francis Cardinal Spellman, Archbishop of New York.

Feiring said the answer, which came from a New York law firm representing the dioceses, was "lackamust to a general denial" of Mrs. Ryan's charges.

WILL THREATEN COAST

WASHINGTON (AP) — Admiral George Anderson says missile-firing Soviet submarines soon will have weapons capable of greatly exceeding their present 350-mile range and are a threat to U.S. coastal areas. Anderson chief of U.S. naval operations, expressed this view in recent secret testimony made public by the House appropriations committee Tuesday.

Most British Industrialists Spoiling for Free-Trade Fight

By DOUG MARSHALL

COVENTRY, England (CP)—While politicians and economists hesitate, most British industrialists are spoiling for a free-trade fight in Europe.

"We've got to go into the Common Market," the director of a light tool firm recently told a group of Commonwealth journalists.

"It's a question of economic survival. We've studied the markets, we know what sort of competition we'll be up against and we think we'll win."

That sort of reaction was typical in this Midlands city, hub of the country's machine and automobile industries.

Nobody thinks British manufacturers will find the Common Market easy going at first—or ever at all. There are hopes, however, that a leap into the ice-cold water of open competition will jolt Britain into a new industrial revolution.

Already there are signs of a new brashness and confidence, a pride in quality and an awareness of real market needs that were difficult to find even five years ago.

Things will be toughest for the British car firms. Their share of world markets has been sliced to 16 per cent from slightly more than 35 per cent in 1950.

To compete on equal terms with Germany, where labor costs are higher but automation is more advanced, British car producers will need to solve their chronic labor relations problems, modernize assembly lines and design for continental as well as insular conditions.

FEAR 'BEETLE' CARS

What the country's five big car firms fear most is a swarm of popular continental "beetle" cars pouring into Britain and eating into the domestic market.

British firms are preparing to retaliate. One executive said his firm, which has just completed a fully-automated, television-controlled assembly plant here, is building a similar plant in Belgium.

The firm has also recently amalgamated with "Britain's leading producer of heavy vehicles and thus gained access to an extensive and established dealer network in Europe.

British firms were justifiably criticized after the war for thinking too much about production and not enough about quality and reliability," the executive said.

"We see where we went wrong and we now are repairing our pre-war reputation for high standards. When the time comes we think we'll be able to give the Europeans a good run for their money."

There are spots, however, where the blight of apathy still persists in British industry. The director of a large needle factory confessed:

"There's not much future in ordinary sewing needles, except in the underdeveloped countries."

He was asked why his firm doesn't convert to sewing-machine or phonograph needles.

"They are completely different things," he replied "As different as pencils and pens," sage.

It would mean totally reorganizing our traditional methods which go back several hundred years."

STIRLING

150 Attend Vegt. Growers Assoc. Banquet

STIRLING — Last Thursday evening the Hastings branch of the Ontario Vegetable Growers Association held its annual banquet in Stirling I.O.O.F. Hall with 130 in attendance.

The Rev. P. J. Hoenmeyer offered Grace and director Charles Fargey proposed the toast to the Queen. Members of Laurel Rebekah Lodge No. 311 served a delicious turkey dinner to the guests. Horace Knight voiced thanks to the ladies and Noble Hilda Rose replied.

Roy Sills was chairman and those at the head table were introduced by Mr. Clayton Ritz.

The program consisted of music by Bill Bell on the trumpet and Mrs. Charles Fargey at the piano, also vocal duets by the Short sisters with their mother, Mrs. Ray Short, as accompanist.

A brief address was given by Ed Rothwerd of Port Hope who is the provincial chairman of the Association.

The guest speaker was Paul Pianovski who was introduced by Roy Sills and thanked by Glen Myers. The speaker, having spent some time behind the iron curtain gave a graphic picture of his life in Europe. He is in command of seven different languages and the audience enjoyed his most worthwhile message.

Various board members brought greetings to the gathering, after which the meeting closed.

Elephants Loudest Snorers, Have Biggest Nightmares

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Elephants are the loudest snorers in the animal world—and have the biggest nightmares.

What man in history was the most fastidious sleeper? Well, King Louis XIV of France had an 18th bed which to lay his weary head.

Charles Dickens always had the head of his bed pointed due north. He felt he couldn't sleep any other way.

Actress Sarah Bernhardt had a bed 15 feet wide.

Per Knos interested in the lore and folklore of mankind's longest quest for comfortable sleep (and who isn't?), here are some more tidbits to nod over:

Roy Sills was chairman and those at the head table were introduced by Mr. Clayton Ritz.

The program consisted of music by Bill Bell on the trumpet and Mrs. Charles Fargey at the piano, also vocal duets by the Short sisters with their mother, Mrs. Ray Short, as accompanist.

Insomnia than single people. The widowed and divorced have the most insomnia. College graduates sleep better than those with only a grammar school education.

The two worst enemies of sleep: A troubled conscience and pickled cucumbers.

The first bedsprings, made of lashed thongs, were invented by the ancient Greeks, who also originated the folding bed.

The word bed derives from an Indo - European term meaning "a dugout place for sack reading."

In biblical times, the common people slept on coarse cushions used as seats during the day, but Solomon had a bed made from aromatic cedar of Lebanon.

Cleopatra's bed was of ivory and gold. A gold god of Love, a yard tall, stood on the footboard aiming a golden arrow at Egypt's queen.

Until the 18th century even the nobility of Europe had no beds. Traveling courts lugged sacks of straw with them so they'd be sure of something to sleep on.

Queen Elizabeth I of England slept almost in a sitting posture amid deep feather pillows atop a vast rosewood bed so high it required steps. Both Elizabeth and Catherine the Great of Russia liked to have their hair brushed until they dozed off.

BEDS WERE WILLED

Beds were so highly valued that William Shakespeare in his will specifically left his "second best bed" to his wife. (The best bed presumably went to his favorite daughter.)

Quail sleep in a circle with their heads pointed outward to the rim of the feathered wheel they make.

It was Meander, the Greek dramatist, who observed long ago, "All diseases are curable by sleep."

Any questions? Nighty-night!

"You're getting soft, Tweedy. I can remember when you could chin that bar three or four times."

Mr. and Mrs. Harold McMechan spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Murray, Marrilton.

TO MEASURE COSMIC RAYS — This is the 11½-pound unit developed by the National Research Council to measure and study the mysterious particles of energy, including cosmic rays, that bombard the earth's upper ionosphere. The equipment operated by solar batteries, will be mounted on the outside of the Canadian satellite Topside Sounder to be launched in the United States in September. The unit is 2 inches across as compared here with an ordinary pencil. (CP Photo).

Special Canadian Developed Equipment to Be Mounted On U.S. Satellite in Sept.

By JOHN E. BIRD

OTTAWA (CP) — Mysterious forms of energy which bombard the earth's outer atmosphere will be studied for the first time with special Canadian - developed equipment mounted on a satellite.

The equipment, designed by the cosmic ray section of the National Research Council's space physics division, will form part of the Canadian satellite, Topside Sounder, scheduled to be launched into orbit by the U.S. rocket in September.

Developed by the Defence Research Board, the 200 - pound satellite will transmit to earth information about the structure of the uppermost levels of the ionosphere, an electrically charged belt 60 to 300 miles above the earth. It will also record radio signals emanating from outer space.

PACKAGE IS SMALL

The equipment developed by NRC will be attached to the outside of the nearly round satellite and will be operated by solar batteries. It will be encased in a pie-shaped metal casing and will weigh only 11½ pounds.

The satellite, to be launched from the Vandenberg air force base in California, will orbit the earth at an altitude of 700 miles and at a speed of some 18,000 miles an hour.

From this altitude it will look down on the ionosphere. For the first time, recording equipment will be able to study the higher levels of the ionosphere. Ground - based equipment can study the ionosphere only to an altitude of some 200 miles.

The NRC equipment will consist of six detectors designed to measure particles in the upper ionosphere, including cosmic rays and other charged particles. This information will be of value in the study of the aurora, or northern lights, which cause radio communication blackouts.

Dr. I. P. McDiarmid, a senior research officer with the cosmic ray section, said in an interview that the ionosphere's reserves can be affected by a strange form of energy known as auroral particles.

AFFECT COMMUNICATIONS

"These particles seem to be electrons — bits of negative electricity—of very low energy. We don't know where they come from or how they are accelerated. They appear, however, to originate within the solar system."

Dr. McDiarmid said the equipment is expected to yield new information on cosmic rays from outer space and how their intensity is affected by flares from the sun. It also will be used to study other particles which bombard the ionosphere from outer space, including protons — units of positive electricity.

"We want to learn more about the things that affect the ionosphere so improvements can be achieved in long - distance telecommunications."

Information from the Topside Sounder and the particle detectors will be telemetered to a number of receiving stations, including three in Canada. It will be recorded on magnetic tape and studied later with computers.

Stirling

STIRLING — Mr. and Mrs. Lee Rawlings entertained the staff of the Bank of Montreal on Tuesday evening and later they participated in bowling at the local Bowl-O-Drome.

Mrs. Loree Wilson is a patient in the Belleville General Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Tanner were tendered a shower at the Legion Hall in honor of their recent marriage. The program included a mock wedding. Bert Bastedo spoke briefly and presented Ray and Grace with an electric clock.

Mr. A. R. Mallory is an instructor at short courses held at Edmonton, Alberta and Vancouver B.C. on the subject of "Arc".

The Rev. F. F. Downing rector of St. John's Anglican Church, Stirling, has been appointed Rural Dean of Hastings County.

Mr. Joe Irish is a patient in the Belleville General Hospital.

Mrs. A. Daull, Toronto, spent the last week with her mother Mrs. Jennie Donohoe.

Mrs. J. S. Whitehead was a recent guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Rutherford of Campbellford.

Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Tompkins entertained on Friday, Mr. and Mrs. L. K. Tompkins of Ottawa.

L. M. Palmer, North Bay, Governor of District No. 701 spoke on the "Jewels of Rotary" at the meeting Tuesday evening and he stressed the value of friendship and growth At the close of the meeting Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hallon entertained Rotary directors and the speaker at their home.

Politicians Carefully Avoid Loosening of Liquor Laws In Prince Edward Island

By ERA DEYSDALE

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP) — Now that neighboring Nova Scotia and New Brunswick have loosened their liquor laws to permit cocktail bars, what will Prince Edward Island Opposition Liberals do?

Public opinion is divided. And politicians, facing a provincial election a the next two years speak cautiously on the matter.

Premier Walter Shaw says his Progressive Conservative government is not planning any change. Liberal Opposition leader Alex Matheson says it's a policy matter the Liberals will be discussing before long.

A lot of islanders argue there is enough liquor available now in far cry from prohibition days that lasted here from 1906 to 1948, longer than anywhere else in Canada.

Government liquor stores sell spirits by the bottle; this capital of about 18,000 has a dozen or so licensed private clubs, and limited-time liquor-serving permits may be acquired for special occasions.

DRY FOR FARMERS

About 55 per cent of this island of 195,000 is under cultivation and farming is the chief industry. But there's no place for farmers to buy a drink by the glass.

Tourists are in the same boat and the tourist industry is becoming increasingly important to P.E.I.'s economy.

Charlottetown Police Chief C. W. MacArthur, 65-year-old former Mountie who chased rum-runners during prohibition says that under present legislation there is inequality.

Bootlegging and moonshining, carried over from prohibition days when legal liquor could be purchased only with a doctor's prescription, are still giving police problems.

Chief MacArthur says moonshine, home-made beer, also bottle fruit extracts and other illegal beverages are often found in Charlottetown now but bootlegging of store-bought liquor continues.

The Mounties find stills operating in rural areas. There were 20 convictions last year compared with 16 in 1950 and 34 a decade ago.

Police say recent judicial decisions are making it difficult to get a bootlegging conviction. The Liquor Act was amended to permit an individual unlimited purchase in a government store. Previously four quarts of liquor or four cases of 24 pints each of beer or a corresponding amount of wine were the monthly limits.

They say a court decision last summer made it almost impossible to use the amount of liquor found in a residence as evidence that bootlegging is being carried on.

A spokesman for the P.E.I. Tourist Association says the government has been approached several times about making alcoholic beverages available to hotels and other lodgings. He said he was told that a decision would depend on results of studies of new legislation in Nova Scotia, New Brunswick.

Attorney-General Melvin McQuaid said he is "not completely convinced the people would not want more relaxed liquor laws" but that P.E.I "has always been slow to adopt changes."

One Never Knows True Friends In Office Until You Are Sick

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — One of the great rituals of office life is visiting "the one who is ill."

In a large business firm there is always someone coming down with ulcers, a strange virus, or just plain gravel in his gizzard.

They say you never know who your true friends are in the office until you fall sick. It is also a good time to find out who your sincere enemies are.

Here are a few types of visitors from your office you are probably familiar with:

Hungry Hubert — He arrives just as they bring in your evening meal; "I wouldn't overload my stomach at a time like this," he says. Hubert lets you have the soup and crackers. Then he eats your bread and butter, roast beef and potatoes and dessert.

Ambitious Albert—He has always wanted your job. "Have they given you the last rites yet?" he asks hopefully. When you shake your head no, he goes to the nearest bar to drown his sorrow.

Opportunistic Oscar — "Just about a little gin rummy?" he demands, pulling out a deck of cards and shuffling them on your stomach. He feels sure that in your weakened condition he can win back the $3.17 he lost to you in the locker room two weeks before.

GET FINE NEIGHBOR

Gasbag-Tongue Charlie — The office hypochondriac inquires about your symptoms in detail, asks to see your incision, if any. The next morning, early, he is day.

"Just a Second"

wheeled into the next room as an emergency case. Overnight he has come down with your ailment.

Doleful Delbert—On the side he helps his brother-in-law sell life insurance: "Remember old Jim in the shipping department who passed away last year? He had only $3,000 in insurance. Now I hear his wife and daughters are taking in washing."

Hearty Harry — "Boy, you never looked better in your life!" Yelps the office's prodigious) pepper-upper, slapping you so hard on the back he rips open three sutures. Then he sits down and reads you gags from old jokebooks until you go into a coma, exhausted.

His Omnipotence—The boss comes in swinging a golf club. "Take all the time you need—and don't worry," he burbles. "I've got one of the younger executive trainees filling in for you and he's doing a real bang-up job."

That does it. Pale and wan, you show up at work the next

Mennonite Antiques Will Be Shown in Exhibition

MARKHAM, Ont. (CP) — In 1795 Christian Nessor came to this district northeast of Toronto from Pennsylvania searching for land on which to settle.

He found what he wanted and traded his horse and saddle for rights to the farmland, along the bridle over his arm and walked home to his family, a track of several hundred miles.

When he returned with his wife, four sons and two daughters, in a Conestoga wagon he brought along his household effects, including a tall pine clock.

Many other things were brought along in the wagon and by other Mennonite settlers of that era from Pennsylvania.

They still turn up in the Markham area and Margaret Philip has gathered them into a collection of antiques. She put them together for an exhibit of an early settler's cabin at the Home show in Toronto March 30 to April 7.

A feature of the exhibit is a fireplace hung with pioneer utensils of the 1816-30 era. It's equipped with intricately linked chains for raising and lowering kettles over the embers. There is a tin dinner horn that has been traced back to John Flagle, a Dutch settler who came here in 1797.

The cabin is authentic even to the logs, drilled with a circular conceived drill press that was found in rubble of a farmhouse in the district.

Mrs. Philip employs four men to refinish and repair the early furniture for her display here. One is Joseph Barlatti, 35-year-old woodworker from Italy, who has equipped his own home with six chairs patterned after the toll ladderback design of the pioneers.

Six Escapees At Reformatory Sent to Prison

BURWASH, Ont. (CP) — Six prisoners from the Burwash Industrial Farm were sent to Kingston penitentiary Tuesday for escaping custody.

The six, with extra time added to their sentences, were:

Donat Lapenee, 30, Cornwall, one year consecutive; Raymond Joseph Jacobsen, 21, Toronto, six months consecutive; Kenneth Albert Newell, 21, Milton, ont., six months; Robert Lalonde, 23, Plantagenet, Ont., six months; Albert Joseph Lepage, 21, Penetanguishene, Ont., nine months and Frank Hazelhurst, 27, Sandwich West, Ont., six months.

Lapenee was given an additional year because of a previous escape March 13. He had been ordered returned to Burwash to serve the balance of his reformatory term with three months added for the escape March 13.

RECREATE PIONEER DAYS — Margaret Philip adjusts pot in fireplace that will be the heart of an exhibit featuring 19th-century furnishings gathered from the Markham area north of Toronto. Original logs from the pioneer period of 1816-30 will be used for the cabin, to be displayed at a Toronto home show." (CP Photo).

Single Standard Meat Inspection Is Advocated

TORONTO (CP)—Health Minister Dymond warned Tuesday that provincial inspection of meat—rather than federal inspection—would not mean any lower basic standards even if it is suspected.

Dr. Dymond spoke out after pleas from Liberal members of the legislature—repeated during the last few weeks—that some form of inspection service be provided that small meat packers in Ontario could afford.

Ross Whicher (L—Bruce) contended that one small packer in Bruce County, with about 20 employees, would have to spend $150,000 to bring his packing-house up to federal inspection requirements, "yet his meat is every bit as good as that turned out by the large packinghouses."

Small meat packers would be forced out of business completely if federal standards were required, Mr. Whicher said, yet public outcry for higher standards was mounting as a result of recent incidents involving tainted meat.

Liberal members contended that the quality of meat can still be maintained at a high level without some of the federal requirements, relating to special equipment chambers, and fulltime inspectors in the slaughtering process.

WON'T LOWER

Dr. Dymond agreed the standards on such matters may be hard on the small packers, but "no matter who inspects the meat, no one need anticipate any lowering of standards in matters of cleanliness, sanitation and health of the animals used."

He said he doesn't feel it is essential to have only federal inspection of meat, but it is preferable to have a single standard across Canada for meat quality.

His attempts to interest the laws and the other provinces in a Dominion - provincial conference on meat inspection had been unsuccessful. Health Minister Monteith had advised him that only Manitoba expressed any interest.

The minister said he plans to put the matter forward at a forthcoming meeting of Canada's deputy health ministers.

115 Attend Father-Son Banquet

WELLINGTON

WELLINGTON — Wellington Scouts' and Cubs' "Father and Son" banquet was held last Friday evening in the United Church Sunday school hall. About 115 sat down to the delicious banquet served by the Women's Institute members.

At the head table were the Scout leaders, sons and guests: Henry Dick, group committee chairman; William Gaudre, District Scoutmaster; William Strachan of Picton, Assistant District Commissioner; Denis Calnan; Harvard Calnan, and Picton Group; Milton Snider and son; the Rev. Truax; the Rev. Bombay; the Rev. Rogers and two sons; Mrs. Clarence Hicks, pianist for the evening; Mrs. Doug Ayre; Everett Robinson, Scoutmaster, and son; Otis Showerman, Assistant Scoutmaster and son; David Dick, Assistant Scoutmaster; Ken Lane, Cubmaster, and son, and Gerald Vandusen, Assistant Cubmaster and son.

Grace was given by the Rev. J. Rogers.

After dinner a toast to the fathers was given by Roger Preston, responded to by Mr. Barton Crook. The guests at the head table were then introduced. Mr Leonard Munro moved a vote of thanks to the ladies for the excellent meal they had prepared, to which E. S. Tripp, president of the W.I., responded.

A singsong, led by Mrs. D. Alyea, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Hicks, was enjoyed by all.

Mr. Strachan, the assistant District Commissioner, gave a short but interesting talk, followed by a few remarks by Hugh East, District Council president.

Mr. Hill Carrier introduced Dennis Calnan, Picton, who showed some interesting colored slides, taken by Dennis when he attended the American Scout Jamboree in Kansas. These slides proved very interesting to all, showing many scenes of the Jamboree.

Mr. Gendra thanked Dennis for showing the slides.

Mr. Bombay gave the benediction, closing another fine father and son banquet.

The members were given phamphlets and recipes and taught the different kind of apples.

They named the club "The Fruit Fanciers", there were 12 girls present.

Mr. Jim Putnam spent Monday evening in Peterborough.

French Research Program Aimed at Making Country A Major Power in Space

By GILBERT SEDDON

PARIS (Reuter)—A French rat is waiting to be launched into space soon in a wide-ranging research program for this year aimed at making France a major space power.

A cat and several dozen sounding rockets are to follow and an astronomer will go up in a balloon to study the planet Venus.

A major goal is to have a French satellite in orbit around the earth and moon within two years.

This year's French program is designed to develop more powerful propulsion systems and to make wide and more comprehensive studies in space, says Prof. Pierre Auger, chairman of the French National Centre for Space Studies.

The program includes experiments in space biology and research on the earth's crust. Scientists are working on observing the sun and interplanetary space forms, particularly Venus, and the ionosphere and the very high atmosphere.

CAT WILL FOLLOW

First to go up this year will be the rat.

It will be launched at the French rocket range at Hammaguir in the heart of the Sahara Desert to a height of some 125 miles for biological tests. The cat will follow.

A West named Hector was successfully launched from this range and recovered last year.

French astronomer Dr. Audoin Dollfus will attempt to go up more than 88,000 feet between May 1 and June 15 to study Venus in a sealed magnesium alloy gondola hauled by 24 balloons.

A reflecting telescope above the gondola will reflect light through a system of prisms into measuring instruments inside the six-foot-wide-inch sphere insulated with a foam plastic covering.

BYPASS VAPOR

The aim is to bypass the obscuring effects of the water vapor in the earth's atmosphere and try to discover how much water there is in the Venusian atmosphere.

France is getting in on trans-Atlantic research into communications by ultra - short - wave radio, using the moon or artificial satellites as passive reflectors or active retransmitters of telephone, television and other signals.

In September, a newly-built radar receiving station at the space tracking centre at Lannion in Brittany will take part in a series of telecommunications tests with satellites launched by the United States.

Telecommunications experiments will also be carried out from other tracking and telemetry stations in France, Equatorial Africa, the Kerguelen Island and French Adelieland in the Antarctic.

POWERFUL ROCKETS

Scientists and technicians now are concentrating on developing more powerful rocket engines—the Diamond I and Diamond III missiles.

Diamond I, a modified version of the Veronique, will be a three-stage missile capable of carrying a 176-pound payload to an altitude of more than 250 miles.

France is co-operating with British and West Germany in a European satellite launching project, the European launcher development organization.

Plans are to use a British rocket as the first stage, the French Diamond III as the second and a West German missile as the final stage to orbit a satellite from the Woomera range in Australia in 1965.

ASKS TO BE REPRESENTED

OTTAWA (CP) — Liberal opposition members Tuesday demanded that Eastern Canada be represented on the Canadian wheat board.

UNEF Weekly, Sand Dune, Deals With Many Subjects

OTTAWA (CP)—A Canadian soldier serving with the United Nations Emergency Force in the Gaza Strip writes in Sand Dune, the UNEF weekly, that his colleagues shouldn't envy soldiers at home.

He tells how the soldier in Canada gets home to his family each evening, has a quiet drink, plays with the children and watches television.

He shouldn't be envied, however, because in blissful ignorance "he doesn't yet know that he's your replacement here."

This morale-builder for Canadian soldiers and airmen in the Gaza Strip separating Egypt and Israel is fairly typical, though perhaps more tongue-in-cheek than most, of the writing in Sand Dune.

The eight - page weekly is printed in English though the present editor is an Indian and his two-man staff comprises a Yugoslav and Swede. The paper was founded in 1957 by Kingi Gordon, a Canadian and the first UNEF information officer.

SAYS UNEF NEEDED

The March 2 lead article tells of a talk given by Lt.-Gen. F. S. Gyani, UNEF commander, at the UNEF hospital at Rafah.

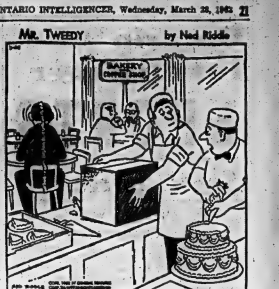
Gen. Gyani, who succeeded Lt.-Gen. E. L. M. (Tommy) Burns of Canada, said it is essential that the UNEF continue its work in the Gaza Strip and the Sinai Desert.

"The differences between the countries concerned have a long history of bitter fighting and general upheaval and there are as yet no signs of any accord, consequently, it is very important that every means that will prevent the situation from deteriorating must continue to be employed."

The issue records visits to UNEF by the Danish ambassador to Egypt and a Brazilian general.

It has an article on a Danish platoon officer known to Gen. de Gaulle...another on the washer ("guns are the cutlery days, the dark clouds and cold blasts"), one on the Indian elections as a conversation topic among Indians with the UNEF, another on the UN Congo force and on how military police caught a thief in their own building, and one on the UNEF talent show at Al Nassar Theatre.

RAISED MONEY



It reports that the Yugoslavs beat the 2nd Sikh Battalion for the UNEF soccer championship.

An item tells of an $866.21 cheque presented to the UN hospital at Khan Yunis. The money was raised among UNEF members who were friends of Alice Lalande of Joliette, Que., secretary to former UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold. Both died in a plane crash in Africa last year.

The money will be used to build a new wing at the hospital and a memorial plaque will be installed to honor Miss Lalande who served with the UNEF from 1958 to 1960.

GIVES ASSURANCES

OTTAWA (CP) — Cuba has given assurance that it will keep in mind Canada's special interest in a Cuban labor leader when he is tried, Prime Ministry Diefenbaker said Thursday in the Commons. He told Paul Martin (L—Essex East) that Reinold Gonzalez, president of the Yokng Comrefocin Workers from 1954 to 1957, has not yet been charged. He is also an agent of the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency.

Hawks Bow to Habs In 2-1 Opener

Goalies Are Standouts

By LAURENT CHASSON

MONTREAL (CP)—Montreal Canadiens grabbed the opener of their best-of-seven Stanley Cup semi-final against Chicago Black Hawks Tuesday night but you'd never have known it from listening to the coaches afterwards.

Montreal coach Toe Blake was critical in victory after the 2-1 decision. Chicago's Rudy Pilous was almost cheerful in defeat.

Barely mollified by the third-period goals of Dickie Moore and Jean Beliveau, Blake merely said:

"We can play better. We were fooling around with the puck when we should have been passing and shooting."

Blake probably sounded the keynote of the game when he said "we expected the Hawks to hit more."

The Hawks did some hitting, but not nearly as much as a year ago when they outbanged Canadiens in a semi-final round which they won in six games. They went on to take their first Stanley Cup in 22 years, ending a five-year Montreal reign as cup champions.

HAWKS UNDISMAYED

The Hawks were not overly disgruntled by the outcome.

Pilous was quick to recall the Hawks lost the first game last spring, then came back to win four of the next five to wrap up the series.

The second game of this year's round will be played here Thursday night. Then the series shifts to Chicago for the third and fourth games, April 1 and 3.

Strong goaltending by Montreal's Jacques Plante and Chicago's Glenn Hall was the feature of the first two periods as both teams checked closely before a crowd of 14,216.

Canadiens finally broke the ice midway through the third period when Moore beat Hall cleanly with a 30-foot blast from the left circle.

Beliveau made it 2-0 about four minutes later, on a goal-mouth deflection of defencemen Tom Johnson's long backhand drive from the right point.

The Hawks battled to get back in the game. Stan Mikita got them a goal at 16:08 and shortly after, Hall was removed for a fifth attacker.

But Canadiens controlled most of the play in the dying minutes.

HULL IN DANGER

One of Chicago's most effective player was Bobby Hull, who drilled several shots—two during a first period power play that gave Plante trouble.

Plante wound up with 38 saves, including three spectacular ones near the midway mark of the second period.

The Hawks got the break in the first period, but couldn't make them count. On four separate occasions they held a one-man advantage as a result of Canadiens' penalties but their best efforts were thwarted by Plante.

There were several minor skirmishes and referee Eddie Powers handed out 16 penalties —two of 10 minutes each late in the game.

Billy Reay of Canadiens, and Bill (Red) Hay of the Hawks drew the misconducts after remarks in the course of rough infractions, brought minors, four each, to Montreal defencemen Lou Fontinato.

Defencemen Jean-Guy Talbot and Doug Harvey also played key roles in the game.

Harvey rebounded to Talbot who slipped the puck over to Moore for the play a knee-high blast to Hall's right.

Johnson dug up the puck from his own goal mouth and fired a wicked backhander that Plante just managed to deflect past Hall for the second goal.

Hay was in the penalty box when Mikita scored Chicago's consolation at 16:08 on the ice on a flip from just outside the crease. Defenceman Pierre Pilote started the scoring play passing to Hall who relayed to Mikita near the goal-mouth.

In the Dressing Rooms

By GERRY LOUGHEED

TORONTO (CP) — The New York Rangers' playing-coach, Doug Bentley, and manager Muzz Patrick had widely differing views of the Rangers' 4-2 win over Toronto Maple Leafs Tuesday night in the first game of their Stanley Cup semi-final series.

Harvey, probably big - time hockey's finest defenceman, discussed the game in the New York dressing room in low, measured tones.

"It was one of those games that could have gone either way," Harvey said. "We missed a few chances that might have meant a different outcome.

"However, the Leafs got a couple clumsy breaks, and the puck bounced their way."

Harvey refused to single out any of his men who played poorly but conceded that he thought his whole team could have played better, and so could the Leafs in what was pretty dull playoff hockey.

"In the next game (in Toronto Thursday) night we might try to check a bit harder."

Patrick had hard words for his team. Without singling out any players, Patrick said the Rangers "gave the Leafs three damn goals and we can't ever win if we play that way."

The goals Patrick referred to were Toronto's first two tallies that gave them a 2-0 lead and Tim Horton's goal that made the score 3-1 when a management edge with Dick Duff off for tripping.

Leaf centre Dave Keon opened the scoring at 6:53 of the first period when Rangers' Johnny Wilson was attempting to clear the puck from near his own goal. "I was trying to fire it out over the blue line and didn't see Duff coming behind me," said Wilson.

Duff swept the puck off Wilson's stick and passed to Keon who beat Gump Worsley in the New York net from close in.

In the Leaf dressing room, coach Punch Imlach praised Rangers and said his own club will have to do better if it wants to stay in the semi-final.

"We're not going to have our own way in this series, that's for sure," said Imlach.

As for the Leafs, they "didn't play bad hockey at all as they could." But, he added, "I'm a tough taskmaster and they can always play better."

Leaf captain George Armstrong, who scored the final goal into an empty net, sheepishly admitted that when he swept up the right side he wasn't aware New York goaltender Gump Worsley was out.

"But with that shot, I probably would have scored even if he had been there."

MONTREAL (CP)—Montreal Canadiens, coach Toe Blake said after the game he was far from satisfied with his team's 2-1 victory over Chicago Black Hawks in the Stanley Cup semi-finals. Canadiens took a 1-0 lead in the best-of-seven series.

"When you win a game by that score, you don't have much to be satisfied about," he said.

"We can play better. We were fooling around with the puck when we should have been passing and shooting."

DEFLECTS SHOT

Veteran centre Jean Beliveau, who scored Montreal's winning goal, said he had deflected Tom John's shot with his stick to beat Chicago's Glenn Hall.

He said he had difficulty shooting after a first-period collision with the Hawks' Dollard St. Laurent in which he received a slight shoulder separation.

Jacques Plante, who had a potential shutout spoiled by Hawks' Stan Mikita's goal with the final period, said it had been a tough game with Chicago checking every move he made was the right one.

Neither of those screened shots you get three or four of every game," he said, "make you lucky as much as good to stop them."

NOT DISGRUNTLED

The Hawks, were not overly disgruntled at the result.

"We outplayed them in the first two periods," stay forward Eddie Litzenberger said in the Hawks' dressing room.

"Plante came up with a great save, but couldn't get the puck by him, although we had plenty of good chances."

Coach Rudy Pilous said his team lost the first game last year but came back to win the series by sheer destire.

He said the team would be up for Thursday's game, which might prove the decisive contest of the series.

QUITS AGAIN

VANCOUVER (CP)—Ed Sullivan, managing of British Columbia Lions' defence for three years, has quit—again. He has retired three times in the past and changed his mind. The defensive signal - caller joined coach Pete Skrien of the Western Football Conference club Monday to announce that he will not permit him to play this year.

Commission Exonerates Referee

Paret's Condition Said Improved

NEW YORK (AP)—Dethroned welterweight champion Benny (Kid) Paret today was reported slightly improved but still in critical condition from brain injuries he suffered last night in a fight.

The investigation shaped up at Albany only a few hours after release of a report by the state athletic commission that upheld the referee's judgment and the medical precautions in the near-fatal bout here Saturday in which Paret lost his title.

Paret, 25-year-old Cuban, was battered senseless by Emile Griffith of New York in the 12th round of their scheduled 15-rounder.

COMA LESSENS

The latest medical bulletin on Paret from Roosevelt Hospital said:

"His coma has lessened. He has made some purposeful movements with his hands. His condition still remains critical."

A resolution to create a joint legislative committee to investigate boxing in the state was introduced by leaders of the legislature.

The committee would determine what, if any, remedial measures were being taken to protect boxers from brain injuries and prevent domination of boxing by racketeers, gamblers, convicted felons or other undesirable elements.

Sponsors of the probe did not make any accusation against the Paret-Griffith fight or any boxing match with it.

TOO MANY KILLED

Senator Walter J. Mahoney (R-Albany) and Speaker Joseph F. Carlino, both Republicans, said in a joint statement:

"The Paret case . . . is but the latest in a series of tragedies in which too many young men have been killed or severely injured while participating in a match theoretically controlled by an official agency of New York state. These incidents invariably lead to demands that boxing be outlawed."

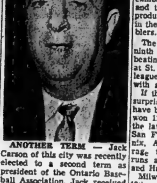
The assembly passed and sent to the senate a bill to set up a fare fund for needy boxers and wrestlers. The money would be raised by an assessment on all boxing and wrestling exhibitions in the state.

PRAISES REFEREE

The three-man state athletic commission and Governor Nelson Rockefeller in a report:

"It is our opinion that all possible medical precautions had been taken prior to the contest and that referee (Ruby) Goldstein acted in good judgment in stopping the fight when he did."

The commission said Paret was in "excellent physical condition" for the fight. It said the reputation, integrity and ability of Goldstein are "above reproach."



In Washington, Senator Estes Kefauver (Dem., Tenn.) said the critical Paret injury may force Congress legal restrictions on professional boxing or its elimination.

"Apparently they let this fight go too long," Kefauver said in an interview. "I have felt for some time that prize fighting ought to be strictly regulated or outlawed."

He said legislation should make certain that managers, officials and participants in professional boxing are competent and that the racketeers and fixers are banned.

NAME NEW COACH

BRAMPTON, Ont. (CP)—Brampton Ramblers, the 1961 Ontario Senior Lacrosse champions and Mann Cup finalists, have appointed Harv Madgett as coach. Madgett, 35, who played senior lacrosse with Brampton when he was 16, will replace Bruce Mallard, who has retired due to business commitments.

NEW YORK (AP)—Will white be St. Louis Cardinals' big year in major league baseball?

They haven't down a National League pennant in 16 years and they are far from being favorites now. But, they have been impressive in pre-season exhibition games in Florida—and the National League has produced three surprise winners in the last three baseball years.

The Cardinals recorded their ninth straight victory Tuesday beating Pittsburgh Pirates 8-7 in St. Petersburg. They top the league's exhibition standings with 12-4 second record.

If the Cardinal have been a surprise, Houston's new Colts have been a disappointment. They won 11 of their last 13 games, including Feb. 24's triumph over San Francisco Giants at Phoenix, Ariz., with a 16-hit barrage that included two home runs apiece by Roman Mejias and Bill Bruton.

Milwaukee Braves took their 11th setback in 16 engagements, losing 3-1 to Chicago White Sox at Bradenton, Fla.

Cincinnati Reds came out on a three-game losing string by beating Minnesota Twins 6-3 at Tampa, Fla. New York Yankees edged New York Mets 3-2 at Fort Lauderdale, Fla., Chicago Cubs belted Cleveland Indians 4-1 at Tucson, Ariz., Baltimore Orioles defeated Kansas City Athletics 5-2 at West Palm Beach, Fla., Los Angeles Dodgers downed Philadelphia Phillies 6-4 at Clearwater, Fla., Detroit Tigers pounded Washington Senators 10-4 at Pompano Beach, Fla., and Los Angeles Angels beat Boston Red Sox 4-1 at Scottsdale, Ariz.

The Yankee slugged the Mets when Elston Howard's powerful double play grounder in the eighth inning slipped over Felix Mantilla's head for a single, moving Jerry Lumpe to third and Bill Skowron delivered the winning run with a sacrifice fly.

Westerner Badminton Threat

MONTREAL (CP) — A young lefthander from the West Coast shapes up as a formidable challenge to Toronto's Marj Shedd, four-time winner of the women's singles crown in the Canadian badminton championships.

She is 21-year-old Sharon Whittaker, a finalist last year at education student at the University of British Columbia who plans to teach next fall in Toronto.

Miss Whittaker produced the only upset in preliminary play when the four-day tournament opened Tuesday by downing Devonshire Dunphy Thursday, Canada's No. 3 ranked woman. The scores were 11-4, 11-3.

The men's singles get down to the quarter-finals and among those advancing that far was Ray (Red) Cornish of Stratford.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The ordeal of Roger Maris during his tension-pressure-packed drive last fall to break the 60-homer record of Babe Ruth has gone down in baseball history as the greatest "monkey-on-the-back" ride any athlete ever suffered.

The tophand of the Yankees' great "Double-M" duo, the ex-Sports ray, was not equipped to stand off the buffets of the life of a potential hero, the harassment of the public and the consistent, sometimes agonizing, attention of the press.

But he made it and had the brief respite of a few short winter months. But with the resumption of spring training the public are again focussed intent with blistering cruel skillfulness on the man who broke the Ruthian record.

Word from the training camps had it that Maris "cracked up" early. He was bounded again by writers covering the hiruss league camps. He sidestepped the press by his alleged refusal to grant interviews—and answer hackneyed questions. He felt the wrath of the famous Roberts Hornsby.

Maris is a far cry from the great Babe who wrenched and drenched himself before and during the glorious heydays of an $80,000 season. The Babe cared little for anything. Reputation, money, were part of the game of life. But he loved baseball.

Maris had his problems last season. . . But he will have greater ones this year for the demands of here's He will stalk him as he attempts to silence those critics who claim him a one-year wonder.

Now has been revealed Maris together with Mickey Mantle will be swinging at the greatest money jackpot any baseball player ever stood before. The stakes will be far greater this year than any player ever dreamed of.

The big question is can Maris hit 61 homers again this season? The answer to that question probably hinges one of baseball's greatest personal fortunes.

Maris is quoted as saying: "Anybody who expects me to hit 61 homers again must have rocks in his head." If Maris does he will have "rocks" in his pockets—like diamonds yet.

Herbert Kamm of United Feature Syndicate, points out in a three-part series this week that Maris and pal Mickey can become independently wealthy in one season—providing they have big years at the plate.

If Maris can continue hitting them out of the park he could earn as much as a half-million dollars in the next twelve months. And that goes for the kick, too.

The big take stems from a deal the Double M's made after Maris fired that 61st homer last September. Each could take home several hundred thousand dollars in merchandising royalties.

Both are down to get 1½ per cent from a clothing firm marketing the Maris-Mantle trademark product. The firm estimates its take at $35,000,000 this year—if the ball players come through. The Double-M's return would be some $312,000 apiece.

And this, while the deal is for one year only—could go on for some time, as long as the twin blunderbusses are shooting baseballs out of sparks with a good degree of consistency.

And extra take-home loot for Maris is that $70,000 paycheck from the Yankee coffers; proceeds from roles in two movies, royalties from his life story and other sources.

Maris will have another "monkey ridtip on his back" this season—but this one will be lined with gold.

Anyone for baseball?

Maroons Stop Bulldogs

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—A determined gang of Chatham Maroons bounced back into contention for the Ontario Hockey Association Senior championship Tuesday night scoring four goals in the final period for a 4-2 victory over Windsor Bulldogs.

It was Chatham's first victory against two defeats in the best-of-seven final which continues in Chatham tonight.

Bulldogs' Walt Pawlyshyn scored in the third minute of play and that lead stood until the third period as the teams dragged their way through a dull pace.

Then Chatham playing-coach Ted Power engineered a line change, replacing George Aitken with Joe Malo on their top forward unit and the Bulldogs had no answers for the sudden surge of Chatham strength.

Malo tied the score at 6:02 and Bob Brown shot Windsor into the lead again a minute later. Another minute after that Ernie Dick fired a routine shot 165½, Detroit, 10.

from a deep angle and it went into the net off goalie Ross Child's foot.

Malo was the playmaker who relayed to Copper Coyle and the big redhead scored no mistake with a 15-foot backhander. Three minutes later Aitken grabbed rookie Bob Pole's pass and got the clinching goal.

Chatham outshot five of the nine minor penalties, all of them called in the first two periods.

Childs made 34 saves to 25 by Al Bennett.

Soo Birds Tie Kingston

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

For Kingston Frontenacs, it's a long and weary road to first place in the Eastern Professional Hockey League.

The Frontenacs blew their golden opportunity to share the leadership with Hull-Ottawa Canadiens when they settled for a 5-5 tie Tuesday night with the tail-end Sault Ste. Marie Thunderbirds. It was Kingston's second saw-off in as many nights.

The Fronts now have played 68 games, same as the Habs and Kitchener-Waterloo Beavers who are two points behind Kingston.

Thus the first three playoff positions won't be settled until the 70-game schedule winds up next weekend.

TENDER GETS PAIR

A sparse crowd of perhaps 500 was on hand at the Sault where Kingston' Orv Tessier once lected his 32nd and 33rd goals of the season. Cherry Gray also had a pair and Bob Attersley a single for the Frontenacs.

Thunderbird scorers were Doug Robinson with a pair, Bob Courcy, Dale MacDonald and Jim Farrell.

The Sault squad was without Merv Kuryluk, called up by Chicago Black Hawks as insurance in their Stanley Cup playoffs. Milan Marcetta is expected to join him today.

Greaves, Leahy Fight Draw

LONDON (AP) — Canadian middleweight champion Willie Greaves fought to a draw with Ireland's Mickey Leahy over 10 rounds Tuesday night after the Irishman survived two knockdowns.

Greaves, a former British Empire champion, made all the early running in a tough contest that had 12,000 fans on their feet in Wembley Stadium.

Greaves, of Edmonton, weighed 160¾ pounds; Leahy 159.

Leafs Nick Blues in Dull Tussle

By BILL MacDOUGALL

TORONTO (CP)—New York Rangers are still seeking a formula that will produce a victory on Toronto Maple Leaf ice. Their time is running out.

They've tried eight times this season in vain. Their most recent attempt was Tuesday night in the opening game of the best-of-seven Stanley Cup semi-final and they lost—as usual—4-2.

If any of the 13,982 fans were expecting a good show for their money, their hopes soon were dashed. There were a few fast rushes in the opening minutes, then both clubs settled down to close - checking—and unentertaining — hockey with many a satisfying mistake and plenty of poor positional and ragged playing.

Dave Keon, Red Kelly, Tim Horton and George Armstrong scored for the Toronto goals. Kelly's goal was courtesy of Ranger playing - coach Doug Harvey's leg, which accurately deflected the veteran Leaf centre's pass past goalie Lorne Worsley.

Leafs were shorthanded on Horton's goal, and Armstrong's went into an empty net.

Don Schlenker scored New York's first goal on a fluke and Andy Hebenton the other.

BOTH SIDES UNHAPPY

Officials of both clubs were dismayed.

"We're not going to have our own way in this series, that's for sure," said Toronto coach Punch Imlach. The Leafs didn't play nearly as well as they could."

New York general manager Muzz Patrick was harsh—the Rangers "gave the Leafs three damn goals and we can't ever win if we play that way."

He was referring to the goals by Kelly, Keon, who beat Worsley after Dick Duff stole the puck from New York left winger Johnny Wilson, and Horton, who scored after Toronto centre Bob Pulford caught the defence napping.

In the seven regular season games in Toronto, Rangers went home beaten every time.

The second game of the semi-final is Thursday night and if Rangers get licked their chances of recuperating will be getting questionable.

Wilson was trying to clear the puck when Duff grabbed it just inside the New York blue line and slid it to Keon on the left side. The 22-year-old centre raced in and blasted a low shot past Worsley from 15 feet at 6:33 of the first period to make it 1-0.

PASS DEFLECTED IN

Kelly made it 2-0 after only 24 seconds of the second period while New York defenceman Larry Cahan was off for boarding. The veteran centre intended to pass from behind the New York net to right winger Ron Stewart but Harvey's leg was in just the right spot to deflect the puck into the net.

Rangers got their first goal at 11:56 of the third period, thanks to Schinkel's shoulder. New York centre Dave Balon's shot was stopped by Toronto goalender Johnny Bower, but the puck bounced off his pads to Schinkel's shoulder and back into the net.

With Duff off for tripping, Pulford got the puck at the Toronto blue line and worked his way up the right side wall into New York territory where only Andy Bathgate was protecting Worsley. The Leaf centre passed to Horton, who was 12 feet in front of the New York goal. The puck went in at 16:42.

New York again fought back in the last minute of the second period, Bathgate stickhandled up the ice and laid a perfect pass on ingarfield's stick at the

WAS HALL-OF-FAMER

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Jack Britton, 74, a member of boxing's Hall of Fame, died Tuesday. He won the world welterweight title twice and lost it twice between 1915 and 1919 in bouts with Ted (Kid) Lewis.

HOGAN MUST QUALIFY

NEW YORK (AP)—For the first time in 21 years, Ben Hogan will be forced to qualify this year for the U.S. open golf championship. The event is scheduled for June 44-16 at the Oakmont, Pa., Country Club.

Instead of going immediately into the 150-man field, as his glistening record has entitled him to do since 1941, the four-time winner must join the more-than-2,000, non-exempt entrants in battling for a place in local and sectional trials.

The U.S. Golf Association announced the schedule Tuesday for the preliminary tests, which will include 81 36-hole tryouts at local centrts May 18-22, followed by 13 sectiona eliminations June 4-5.

LAC MEGANTIC, Que. (CP) Consulting engineer Marc Benoit said Tuesday night the danger of the Gayhurst dam flooding the Chaudiere Valley has ended and "all danger positively is past."

Win Four in Row

Red Wings Oust Flyers

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) Scoring all their goals in a rough-and-tumble first period, Hamilton Red Wings swept their Ontario Hockey Association Junior A final with Niagara Falls Flyers in four straight games by scoring a 4-3 win before 3,241 fans Tuesday night.

In a game marked by 32 minutes in penalties the Wings and Flyers put a pair of goals from Lowell MacDonald and singles from defenceman Larry Zilnicki and Joe Buddess.

The Flyers battled back in the second, when Jean Paul Parise scored both their goals, but in the final frame, the two clubs were just too tired to produce much in the way of hockey.

All told, 19 minors, six majors and two misconduct penalties were handed out.

The Red Wings outshot the Flyers 22-20.

WOULD AID RED CHINA

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — A group of prominent citizens of wheat - producing Kansas endorsed Tuesday an open letter to President Kennedy asking for distribution of surplus food to the people of Communist China. The letter said: "We Kansans, living in the bread basket of America, feel acutely the disparity between our abundance in food and the scarcity in other lands. Particularly do we sense the human tragedy of famine and starvation on the mainland of China."

EXPERT TEACHING — Jackie Chisholm, 10-year-old goalie in a bantam league in Kenora, Ont., gets instruction from an acknowledged expert, Charlie Rayner, who played 11 seasons as a netminder in the National Hockey League with New York Americans and Rangers. Rayner, now 41, coaches junior and intermediate teams in Kenora, a town that sent him off to the big time in 1940. (CP Photo).

Sports Snapshots

By KEN CLARK

KENORA, Ont. (CP) — Eight years removed from the blueline, hockey is still the lifeblood of Charlie Rayner, retired goaltender, active coach.

"Hockey! It's in my b-lood," said the burly 41-year-old native of Saskatoon. "And it's still a terrific life."

Rayner has just completed his fourth season as a minor league coach in this northwestern Ontario town of 11,000. It's a place of memories for him.

He played goal three years for the junior Kenora Thistles, ending in 1940, and then went to the National Hockey League, first with the old New York Americans and later with New York Rangers.

Now he handles the Kenora Intermediate Thistles and their junior edition is the same old natural-ice arena from which he jumped to the NHL.

WON HART TROPHY

Except for flecks of grey in his bushy, black hair, Rayner has changed little since his years in goal. At 230 pounds, he weighs 15 more than in 1954 when a bad knee helped him decide to quit the NHL after 11 seasons.

Rayner won the Hart Trophy as the league's most valuable player in 1950 and still counts that as his big moment in hockey.

He finds coaching tougher than playing.

"The responsibility for the team's performance is on the coach. Even the goaltender doesn't have this weighing on him. . . .

"When you're coaching you've got to deal with personalities. And there are some guys you just can't do anything with. You've got to rule with an iron fist."

A frequent problem was to get young players to do as they're told.

"There are many kids about 18 who think they know how to play in the NHL."

If anybody knows, Rayner does. He played 376 regular-season games in the NHL Degrees reached the age of 15.

Mary Beth Hughes Leads A Strange Double Life

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — At 9 o'clock every night Mary Beth Hughes makes her entrance wearing a bathing suit in a sexy farce called Pajama Tops at La Grand Theatre.

At 2:15 every morning, she enters a Vermont Avenue doctor's office in nurse's white, beginning her 3rd day as a surgical assistant.

The strange double life of Mary Beth Hughes contains no hard luck story, as with Veronica Lake, discovered last week working, as a cocktail waitress in New York. With Miss Hughes, it was a question of knowing what she wanted and going after it.

"The picture business has changed," said the actress, a 20-year veteran in films. "On the last three television films I worked on, the producers were former peep men.

REQUIRED RETAKES

"The directors were not just amateurs; they were incompetent amateurs. When I pointed out to one director he was making technical errors that would require retakes, he told me to mind my own business. Sure enough, they had to call me back for two days of retakes.

"I felt the need of a change not merely because I didn't like how the business had changed. It was also economically unsound for me. Two years ago, I worked eight days in films during one year. I've got a 15-year-old son and a house to support; my expenses run $350 a month. I couldn't keep dipping into my resources."

For some time she had been telling her mother she wanted to be a nurse. "Mother is a registered nurse herself, and she scoffed—I can't even stand my steaks rare," said Miss Hughes.

She happened to meet a plastic surgeon at a cocktail party. He recommended an operation to remove smallpox and acne scars and lift drooping eyelids. She had it—"I don't mind admitting I had a face lift: it's good for business."

She urged the surgeon to give her a job. He resisted, then tested her sincerity by asking her to accompany him on a couple of operations — a skin graft on the lags of a burned girl and removal of a cancer from the head of a 70-year-old.

Miss Hughes watched both with no adverse effects, and the surgeon hired her last October. She underwent hospital training and soon was assisting the surgeon in operations.

She is now working for another surgeon, who has placed her in complete charge of his office — bookkeeping, receiving patients, assisting with operations and everything.

"I agreed to do Pajama Tops only after asking the doctor's permission," she said "I had done the show before and loved it, but I wouldn't consider it if it interfered with my job."

Miss Hermione Gingold Has System to Watch Weight

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—In show business, where a slim figure is often as important as talent, weight-watching is a way of life.

Thus Miss Hermione Gingold, who has a trim, slim and svelte figure, presented a most unusual spectacle as she sat comfortably and happily at luncheon, slathering butter on a rich piece of bread, and digging into an entree compounded of chicken livers, savory and highly calorie sauce and butter, dripping potato and vegetables.

"I never gain weight," said Miss Gingold calmly. "I have a system."

The Gingold system of avoiding avoirdupois is, like its inventor, highly unusual. But, while it works for her, it might not be so effective for others.

"Dame Edith Evans has always been one of the most beautiful women ever to walk on a stage," Miss Gingold explained. "And it always amazed me to see her because when she was off-stage she never seemed quite so—well, beautiful. But one day many years ago, I walked into her dressing room when we were appearing in the same play in London. And she was, sitting in front of her mirror, talking to herself. She was saying over and over, 'I am beautiful, I am beautiful.'

IT WORKS

"And 10 minutes later when she walked out on stage, she was really beautiful.

"I thought that it might work for me—and in other ways. So now I think thin. I can eat masses of chocolate bars, and bread and butter, but all the time I say, 'This is not going to make me fat.' And it doesn't."

Miss Gingold will co-star with Cyril Richard in a program—part serious but largely satiric and comical—called The Beauty of Woman, on NBC Sunday night.

TWO CHILDREN DIE

MONTREAL (CP) — A mother's bravery was not enough Tuesday to save two small children from death in a fire that destroyed the home of Mrs. James Wiltshire in nearby Lorraine. Mrs. Wiltshire ushered five of her other children out of the house when she was off-stage she never seemed small, stroke and suddenly saw flames. But she was too late to return for the other two although she tried and was burned about the arms and legs. Police said the fire apparently was caused by a child playing with matches.

Astrological Forecast

Thursday, March 29
By SYDNEY OMARR

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) — Take care that you're not at cross purposes with yourself. Double check sources. If careful, you could gain much in way of prestige, socially and professionally. Full steam ahead.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20) — Could be an adventure of the mind today . . . through good book, motion picture, play or information received from articles in print newspaper. Allow yourself to grow mentally.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — The question of money apt to be raised. Know for sure what you can afford to give and for what you must receive. Those in authority will prove sympathetic to your cause if you speak up.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21) — Could be some opposition to your plans, desires, but this doesn't mean you'll contact friend who seeks the best for you. At worse, you are advised to check details. Be sure you're right.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Key word is service. You learn by teaching . . . you benefit by serving. Stress terms: may sound "empty". But today they may be considered living realities. Helping hands pay off.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 21) — Favorable lunar aspect in section of chart relating to living and giving of life brings a day to remember. It might be break you've waited for. Use creative ideas.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — Feeling of restriction evident . . . but you must fight off intimidation to throw caution to winds. Your actions will set course for future. Responsibilities cannot be disregarded.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Play your hand sensibly. No theorizing. No threats or challenges. Keep eyes, ears open for hints, messages. A short journey could prove beneficial. A conversation could provide missing key.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — A day to seek, bargain. Don't snap at first offer. Shop around. Budget is important. Know what you really want and need . . . otherwise, you could burden yourself with useless objects.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Go with clarity. Trust your vision. Your inner cycle is peak. Various situations can arise, but if you are sincere and honest you come out on top. Use truth.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Illusion emphasized. You are apt to be concerned with shadow rather than reality. In creative pursuits, this could prove beneficial. But in everyday affairs, be more practical.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) — Seek best in friends, associates. Have confidence in others and they are apt to do their best for you. Possible that new responsibility comes your way. Accept.

If today is your birthday you are dynamic, individual in thoughts and actions . . . and you have ability to perceive or "size up" situations and persons. Great year for change, romance, travel.

General Tendencies: Grave decisions could be made before the season. Don't be too sure you know complete story. Much may be hidden from view of general populace.

WAR RELIC

LONDON (CP)—The propeller of a First World War biplane is being sent to the Canadian War Museum in Ottawa to complete an exhibit there. The plane was sent to Canada after the war but its pilot, Lt. Frederick Sowrey, kept the wooden propeller as a souvenir. A few years ago he donated it to the air ministry, which now is sending it to Ottawa.

MINISTER THREATENED

MILAN (AP)—Milan's Il Ordine says's Italian Interior Minister Fiorentino Sullo has been "condemned to death" by the Red Brigade Secret Army Organization. The newspaper said the secret army also had threatened the life of Italy's Congressional police, Angelo Vicari. Government officials said they know nothing of the reported threats.

Mechanical Engineer Rigs Up a Satellite Plotter

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP) — Want to watch a man-made earth satellite will pass over your part of the country.

Page Mr. William Gamble, a chemist and mechanical engineer now working with the government agency group of the Defence Research Board.

In a few hundred dollars for the working parts and a metal globe you can buy at a store, Mr. Gamble has rigged up a satellite plotter.

It wasn't for his own amusement. The Defence Research Board will use it for quick reference to the future paths of any satellite.

"We found it quite laborious to work out on paper the future orbits of satellites," Mr. Gamble, a native of Orillia, Ont., N.B., said in an interview.

HELPS RADAR, TOO

"For instance, our radar laboratory at Prince Albert, Sask., might want to know quickly when a certain satellite was going to pass over central Saskatchewan so that it could track it."

The satellite plotter was the result. It had to mark time for several months, though, while the machine shop at the Defence Research Telecommunications Establishment at nearby Shirley Bay built the Canadian satellite which is to be launched this year by the U.S. space agency.

Then the physicists on which orbit of the earth any satellite will pass over a given point—and the time. It is then calibrated but so far is accurate within 10 miles on any given orbit.

There are only three or four books on the topic in the globe. One leads into the machine the altitude of the satellite and thus the time for one revolution.

NOTATIONS

Over the $16 globe is an arm on which is set the elevation of the launch—that is, whether the satellite is in north-south or east-west orbit or somewhere in between.

A small ball representing the satellite is attached to the end of a rotating arm.

All set? Mr. Gamble switches on. The globe rotates. The arm with the small ball rotates.

All you have to do is to watch for the ball to arrive at the point on the earth from which you want to observe the satellite. Then you read the orbit number and the time. The first tells you which orbit of the satellite you will be able to observe, the other the time of arrival.

PRESIDENT OUSTED, ARGENTINES RIOT

Frost Denies Knowing About Halt Of Inquiry

Never Heard of Club Until Five Years Later

TORONTO (CP) — Retired premier Leslie Frost of Ontario said today he knew nothing of and had nothing to do with an alleged phone call to the attorney-general's department to halt proceedings against people found in a gambling club in 1954.

Testifying before the province's royal commission on crime, Mr. Frost said he had never heard of the establishment—the Centre Road Veterans Club in nearby Cooksville—until some five years later.

He said the name of the club operated by gamblers Joseph McDermott and Vincent Feeley "didn't ring a bell with me" until about 1959.

CALLED TO STAND

The former premier — who retired in December — was called to the stand to be questioned about evidence given Wednesday by Chief Inspector Harold Graham of the Ontario Provincial Police that it had been related to him that questioning of Cooksville club functionaries had been stopped in November, 1954, on instructions of Dana Porter, then attorney-general and now Chief Justice of Ontario.

The inspector told of having been given this information but Police Chief Gérnet McGill of Cooksville, where the club operated, and one individual he understood the information had received from elsewhere through William Davis, now Progressive Conservative members of the legislature for Peel.

According to notes the inspector had on a conversation with McGill in Kitchener, it appeared Mr. Davis was given information about the situation and that Mr. Porter "might himself testify later in the hearing."

Police Chief McGill said he was relaying to the inspector rumors he had heard.

There was some expectation that Chief Justice Dana Porter might himself testify later in the hearing.

KENNEDY NAMED

Today, the name of the late T. Eric Kierans was one-time member for Peel and briefly interim Ontario minister was mentioned in connection with the McDermott, Feeley-Cooksville operation.

For the last couple of days, the commission has heard suggestions from police officers that a "former member of the legislature for Peel was responsible for keeping the Cooksville club open.

Mr. Kierans was not mentioned up until this morning, when Edward C. Wetherall, commission counsel, referred to a Graham diary notation referring to him.

Inspector Graham carried to stand away from the name of Eric Kennedy, but today it slipped out. Mr. Kennedy is Mr. Davis. He was asked by commissioner Wetherall whether he had told McGill that the questions of the Cooksville foundries had been "put on the backburner of "Mr. Kennedy."

Mr. Davis replied was that at

FEELING GROWS ELECTION MAY BE IN JUNE

Expect Budget Early in April

OTTAWA (CP)—There is a growing feeling in Ottawa that the federal general election expected this year may be called for June 11 or 18.

Usually well-informed circles who previously banked on an autumn vote, now consider it's an almost even choice between June and October. They hold the view that the final decision has not yet been made.

Governing factors are expected to be issues which will develop over the next few days, the mood of the country and the mood of the House of Commons.

Bound up with the almost ceaseless speculation in political circles on the election date is the date on which Finance Minister Fleming will bring down his budget for the 1962-63 fiscal year which begins April 1.

Persons who look for a June election suggest the budget may be presented as early as April 7 or 8 but no later than April 10. They look for dissolution of Parliament April 13 for a June 11 election, April 18 for a June 18 election.

OFFER NO HINTS

Prime Minister Diefenbaker has presented an inscrutable front in the Commons to opposition probing for a clue as to the election date. So has Mr. Fleming to queries as to when the budget will be brought down.

An air of election expectancy hangs over the daily sittings of the Commons. Tension is continuous. Tempers are short. Private members' bills and provincial statements from opposing members with derisive taunts and applaud their own speakers with unusual vigor. Speeches are tuned to an election pitch.

Across the country, election preparations have been intensified in the last few weeks. There are party nominating conventions almost every night to pick candidates. Key members of the Commons are busy preparing for on pre-campaign speaking tours.

It is known that the Conservative councils many of the party's MPs have been pressing for a vote before the end of April.

Chief Electoral Officer Nelson Castonguay needs a minimum 34 days' notice to organize an election. Nomination of candidates 49 days before polling day and it takes a few days to get it organized.

Official nominations close two weeks before the election is held in 262 of the 265 constituencies, two of which return two members apiece. Closing day is another 21 large, scattered constituencies is four weeks before election day.

TANKERS SAIL

SARNIA (CP) — Four Imperial Oil tankers sailed out of winter dock here Wednesday and moved two miles down the St. Clair River to the refinery loading dock. The Imperial London, scheduled to sail to Windsor Thursday, is expected to open the 1962 navigation season at Sarnia when it returns Friday or Saturday.

OUTLETS MAY BE OPENED AFTER POLLS CLOSE

Board Chairman Drops the Hint

TORONTO (CP)—Some of the speeches may have been dry but the subject wasn't during legislative committee meetings Wednesday.

The committee on government commissions spent most of its time discussing liquor, beer and public houses.

Judge W. T. Robb, chairman of the liquor licence board, dropped a hint that outlets may be allowed to open after polls close on election days.

The indication came when Edna Mornington, Conservative member for Welland, recalled that in June, 1960, the polling day during the provincial general election was "a terribly hot day."

If should have been possible, he said, "to open the hotels and give the boys a glass of beer, after the polls closed.

KEEP KARS OPEN

Said Judge Robb: "I would suggest that you keep your eyes and your ears open in the next month or two in connection with the statement you just made."

He did not expand on his remark.

Allan Grossman, minister, without portfolio and chief liquor commissioner, said following the meeting Judge Robb was "obviously anticipating" things.

He said the cabinet has made no final decisions yet on changes in liquor policy and regulations referred to it by a special cabinet committee.

Another point during the meeting Judge Robb said some observations may be told to clean up or close up.

He said a "not insignificant number" of the public houses in Ontario would not receive licences if they applied today be-

400 Gallons of Gasoline in Sewer Cause 5-Hour Scare in Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — Weary firemen trudged home early today after a five-hour explosion and fire scare in sewers of downtown Montreal.

The scare began at about 6:30 p.m. Wednesday when residents of the area telephoned police to complain of the strong smell of gas.

In what was described as one of the largest such operations in the city, firemen sealed off the entire district between Notre Dame Street and Dorchester Boulevard from inspector to Mountain Streets, allowing only emergency vehicles to pass through.

Armed with gas meters, the fire department emergency crew then scoured manholes and sewers in an attempt to un, cover the source of the leak.

Several families were forced to evacuate their homes and thousands of residents and workers moved voluntarily for fear of explosion.

At one point, the firemen pumped 2 streams of water through the sewers in an effort to lower the possibilities of fire.

After hours of searching for what had been feared to be a natural gas leak the odour were traced to a St. Antoine Street service station, where a break in the 2,000-gallon tank had poured the gasoline into the underground channels.

After the leak was located, the gasoline company ordered the tank, which had only 400 gallons, completely emptied and technicians were underground to repair the break.

Four lively, healthy kids were born to Dinah, a nanny goat, on the Swiss farmer Jean Pichon last week. "Quadruplet births, in which all four are healthy, is rare in the goat world," Veterinarian Dr. C. E. Goodwin of Picton, stated.

The quads are now being bottle fed as the mother is equipped with only two feeding stations and the two buck kids, Billy and Bucky, were draining the supply while the two does, Tiny and Susie, went hungry.

The Guerneys have four children and each has claimed one of the baby goats. Richard, 9, owns and cares for the mother. He is assisted by Steven, 6. Their two sisters, Brenda, 4, and Betty, 2, pose with the five-day-old kids. (Hodgson).

Green's Space Peace Plea Unites U.S., Russia in 'Nyet'

GENEVA (Reuters) — Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko said today he has had "useful" talks in Geneva with State Secretary Rusk and looks forward to further contacts between the United States and Russia.

Gromyko, fast of the Big Three foreign ministers to leave the Geneva disarmament conference here, made the comment at the airport before flying back to Moscow via Prague.

The conference proper Wednesday the U.S. and Russia differed widely on priorities for discussing disarmament, However, they were united in disentopping a Canadian plea by immediate consideration of a peace guarantee for outer space.

External Affairs Minister Green waged the conference to give his proposal immediate attention and thus save the world from the "most fearsome development of all"—the orbiting of nuclear weapons in outer space.

Rusk and British Foreign Secretary Lord Home returned home Tuesday after being here for almost three weeks for the disarmament parley and talks outside the conference.

Gromyko said he had a series of "useful" meetings with Rusk on Germany and Berlin. He said that during the meetings with Rusk "a certain progress has been made in clarifying areas of possible agreement and disagreement."

The two week-old conference met again in plenary session today to consider a report from its three power nuclear test ban subcommittee, which is reported deadlocked.

The subcommittee of the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union Wednesday night held a long sad sterile meeting at which no progress was made. The verbatim report of this discussion was put before the parent body today.

French Army Ends Blockade Of White Workers' Suburb

ALGIERS (AP)—The French Army lifted its blockade of the European workers' suburb of Bab el Oued today. Groups of Moslems gathered on street corners to swap superlatives as troops in half-tracks, armored cars and jeeps slowly patrolled the narrow streets.

There was no visible hostility between the troops and the inhabitants who attacked army patrols in the sector last Friday, killing 15 French soldiers and wounding more than 60.

After the outbreak the army sealed off the sector, and restricted the 50,000 inhabitants to their homes in a house - to - house search by parties of a dozen 3,000 persons, mostly children and women between 16 and 40, and seized more than 1,000 army, of all kinds and large quantities of munitions and explosives.

The streets of Bab el Oued were littered with garbage because, Moslem garbage men had refused to enter the Europe quarter. Scores of automobiles were riddled by bullets and one had been flattened by a tank.

Many shops reopened. Shopkeepers surveyed broken plate glass, windows and other wreckage left by the battle.

French flags draped in black hung from many balconies. The black was a sign of mourning.

ANOTHER MAJOR WHEAT SALE TO RED CHINA MADE

Strictly Farm Day In the Commons

OTTAWA (CP) — It was strictly a farm day in the Commons Wednesday, highlighted by the announcement of another major wheat sale to Red China.

Agriculture Minister Alvin Hamilton reported that an additional 30,000,000 bushels of wheat worth $75,000,000 has been sold to the Communist Chinese.

The new grain sale gave body to an opposition contention that the surplus problem of the east-ern dairy farmer has replaced that of the Prairie grain grower as the thorn in the side of the Canadian farm scene.

Mr. Hamilton, making his first Commons appearance since he was sidelined by illness two months ago, said the latest Chinese purchase is the sixth and largest made under the long-term agreement signed a year ago.

It brings total sales to date under the cash - plus - credit agreement to 108,000,000 bushels of wheat and 28,000,000 bushels of barley. China also bought 50,000,000 bushels of wheat and 12,000,000 bushels of barley on an all-cash basis last spring.

ANOTHER PENDING

Outside the House, it was learned that a seventh major grain deal with China is near completion.

Mr. Hamilton said most of the wheat involved in the sixth deal will be shipped from east coast ports between June and December. But 5,000,000 bushels will move from Atlantic and St. Lawrence ports in the next two months.

It is thought that the eastern

Closed TV Shows Broadway Play To Theatre Audience in Rochester

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—A closed-circuit television presentation of a Broadway play had its world premier here Wednesday night and apparently was a success aesthetically and technically.

Paddy Chayefsky's latest Broadway play Gideon was televised to a specially - built audience at the Rochester Auditorium Theatre at the same time the New York company offered its regular evening performance at the Plymouth Theatre on 45th Street.

The inaugural of Theatrevision drew an enthusiastic response from the viewers.

If judged successful, the system will be extended to 24 other cities in the fall and to 100 cities in the U.S. and Canada by next year.

In New York, the house was scaled from $3. to $7.50. In Rochester, the 15- by - 20 - foot television screen was offered for prices ranging from $1.80 to $3.

Sponsors of the new idea are Nathan Zucker and Walter Lowenfels of Theatre Network Television, Inc. The equipment and technical development by Marconi Wireless Telegraph, Limited, of Britain. Transmission is by telephone company lines.

"It's absolutely incredible," said Henry Wrong, assistant business administrator of the Metropolitan Opera Association. "I liked it very much. It is fascinating."

In New York's Plymouth Theatre, three television cameras were set up at last two rows and hidden from view by a curtain.

Most of the people in the audience appeared unaware that the cameras were there, and there was no special lighting.

Chayefsky watched the show backstage on a television monitor. He said he was "tremendously enthusiastic" over the new process.

Armed Forces Hold Frondizi Captive On Isle

Name New President But He May Refuse Job

OF From Reuters-AP

BUENOS AIRES—Argentina's military leaders today deposed President Arturo Frondizi and sent him to an island, triggering clashes between police and demonstrators here.

Police riot squads threw tear gas at people who demonstrated in the Plaza de Mayo, the square in the heart of Buenos Aires, shouting "we want the president, we want the president."

Frondizi was arrested by a naval officer, at his luxurious private home on the Buenos Aires suburb and driven in a motorcade of five cars to the capital's airport.

Twenty-four minutes after, the 35-year - old president was escorted he was rushed aboard an Argentine Air Force plane for the island of Martin Garcia, a military reservation 30 miles northeast of Buenos Aires in the La Plate River estuary. It was on this island that the military held Juan Peron after deposing him in 1955.

The interim armed forces oligarchy announced that Senate President Jose Maria Guido, next in line of presidential succession under the constitution, will succeed Frondizi.

GIVES NO WORD

There was no immediate announcement from Guido, however, that he will take the post. And Rector Gomez Machado, the Senate President's intransigent Radical Party in the Chamber of Deputies, said he would not. Guido is a member of the intransigent Radicals.

Guido had stood by Frondizi earlier in the crisis and said he would not a party in it. But, military sources said Guido had accepted the presidency after Frondizi told him it was the best way for the country.

It was not immediately clear whether Guido, if he took over, would have full presidential powers or be a figurehead as military junta determined to govern Argentina. The general belief was then the military would be least insist on counter-signing all decrees.

The ousting of Frondizi, whose term in office has been beset by constant conflict with the military, was the culminating point in a crisis stemming from startling and sweeping Peronista victories in congressional and provincial elections March 18.

Frondizi had allowed the Peronistas to campaign as a party after the fall of Juan Peron's overthrow. Communists and Castro supporters got behind the Peronistas and the military forces remained split between the intransigent Radicals and the rival People's Radicals.

CHARGE BUNGLED

The Chiefs of Argentina's three armed services charged Frondizi brought about his latest crisis by bungling leadership and declared in a commu-

Syria Is Calm After Bloodless Military Coup

DAMASCUS (AP)—Syria remained calm today after the bloodless coup that toppled the right-wing civilian government. The country was under a short-ened the curfew they ordered by one hour.

The frontiers were still sealed, isolating this Mediterranean republic in the center of the Middle East. Otherwise daily life went on normally with stores ordered cleared only from 10 p.m. to 5 a.m.

Damascus Radio continued to tell the 5,000,000 Syrians—long accustomed to upheaval — to prepare for a swing back to the left from the "anti-nationalistic" policies of deposed President Nazem el Kodsi regime.

The cornerstone of Wednesday's revolt was proclaimed as building "positive Arab socialism" at home, promoting Arab unity and "positive neutrality and non-alignment" in foreign affairs.

The army and the coup was a continuation—not a reversal—of the 14 months of rule that broke the alliance with President United Arab Republic.

Field Secretary For Retarded Children Heard

Over 50 persons attended a special general meeting of the Trenton and District Association for Retarded Children held last week at their school on John Street, Belleville, with Mr. Alvin Faulkinor presiding.

After being introduced by Tom Sloan, Regional Chairman, O.A.R.C., Mr Peter Gomery, Field Secretary of the Ontario Association for Retarded Children, gave an informative and inspiring talk. His theme was "Total Programmes".

He opened his remarks by saying that every 35 minutes a retarded child is born, and that there are now over 100 known causes of mental retardation, with only a 1 percent radius directly to heredity. It is estimated that 80,000 retarded children in Ontario are still hidden from public attention and unknown to any of the Tri Retarded Children Associations serving Ontario. It is of great importance that these special children be placed in school as early as possible, because a child of very low intelligence can be trained to take care of his own needs.

Mr. Gomery emphasized the importance of planning early for a sheltered workshop and training them available for those graduating from the schools. These projects are more expensive to start and operate than the average project and would be ineligible for grants of any kind are given by the government. At the present time, 15 sheltered workshops have been organized by the Ontario Association.

In closing, Mr. Gomery congratulated the Belleville association for being one of the leading progressive groups in the Ontario Association, and wished them continued success in their work with the mentally handicapped. Thanks to Mr. Hastings and Prince Edward district.

Many questions were put forward by the members of the association, after which Dr. Charles Donaldo thanked the speaker.

The next association members visited the Peterborough association's sheltered workshop on March 3. Here eight girl trainees were working on projects such as woven articles, costume jewellery, and a special project for the United Commercial Travellers, folding and inserting printed bulletins in envelopes. This work is done by contract. The trainees are not paid a wage at present, but as the shop becomes established, they will receive a small remuneration.

STAFF PROGRAM

The Friendship Club enjoyed another monthly get-to-gether at the school. A swimming program is starting as soon as helpers volunteer to assist at the pool and are able to give transportation for some of the retarded adults. If anyone wishes to help please contact Doris Coulter, WO 8-6224.

Home Care meetings have been held at the school for members of pre-school retarded children. The association hopes now to establish and put out by the OARC, CARC and the government. These are free to all those interested in the subject of retardation and the care of the retarded child at home. The Home Care committee has also a number of books on the related subjects, and discusses such at their monthly meetings. There will be a Home Care Workshop at Guelph on May 5th and 6th.

Joyce Stovell, chairman of the nominating committee, presented the following slate of officers for the coming year: Hon. president, Arthur Ward; past president, Tom Stovell; president, Alvin Parkhurst; first vice-president, Dr. Charles Donalds; second vice-president, Rev. Kenneth Cairns; treasurer, Mrs. Arthur Ward; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Charles Bruce; recording secretary, Mrs. Ross Johnson.

The following chairmen of the various committees were also elected: Mrs. Ross Johnson; education, Mrs. Donald Maddocks; publicity, Mrs. Rose Coulombe; recreation, Mrs. A. Parkhurst; institutions, Joseph Whalen; publicity, Tom Sloan; efficiency, Charles Donoghe; membership, Mrs. Robert Harper; transportation, C. Murray; program, Mrs. Ralph Hay; property, Jack Lay; social, Mrs. Jean Murray.

Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting.

Education Bd. Sets Budget Of $514,618

TRENTON — The Trenton Board of Education met last night to set the budget for the year. This will be presented to the town council today.

The board will ask the town for $514,618.78, this year; $194,309.84 for high school purposes and $320,418.34 for public schools.

The overall figure is down by $25,381.22 from last year's budget request for $551,544.16.

Factors which made a lower budget estimate possible were that the Department of Education is paying extra, per pupil amount appropriated for the four-roomed addition to Queen Elizabeth school was not entirely paid out because of delay in the construction work and maintenance and operation of the board has decided to defer capital improvements to the public school grounds until the town's sewer installation program is completed.

To sum up, the board faces an increase in costs, in both public and high school but because of the huge surplus from last year, $43,900 for "public" schools and $35,000 for the high school) the request to the town is $25,381 lower.

Actual increase in public school operations this year will be $7,000; and in the high school, $65,000, because of normal increases, additional staff and a drop in the estimated revenue.

Vice-Principal For High School Is Acquired

TRENTON — Rev. Ronald Reid, chairman of management with the Trenton Board of Education, announced last night that J. W. Reid (no relation, says Mr. Reid), of Canso Petawawa would assume duties of vice-principal at Trenton high school in September.

Mr. Reid, who is vice-principal of the secondary school at Camp Petawawa at the moment, is of Scottish descent. He is married and he and Mrs. Reid have four children. Previously, Mr. Reid taught in a secondary school at Tillsonburg for 11 years.

The Reids are members of the Church of England.

Mr. Reid commented that the new vice-principal seemed to have a thorough knowledge of the job ahead of him and that he had made a very good impression on board members, also and John Garrett, who will assume the principalship of the school in the fall. Mr. Garrett was appointed principal upon the recent resignation of W. J. Houston, who has served as principal for the past two years.

Mr. Reid also announced the appointment of Mrs. Marilyn Delaquis, Reg. N., as half-day nurse for the high school.

39 Confirmed By Bishop Evans

TRENTON — Relatives and friends packed the 6 Pentecost Chapel on Sunday for an Ascension Confirmation ceremony. Thirty-nine candidates were confirmed and one candidate was received into the Church. The Right Reverend Kenneth Evans, M.A., Ph.D., D.D., Bishop of Ontario, conducted the ceremony of the laying on of hands, assisted by Flight Lieutenant (Rev.) Walter G. Chapman. Mrs. Allison Chapman presided at the organ and directed the Chapel choir which sang the anthem, "Come Holy Ghost, Our Souls Inspire," during the service. Following the confirmation service Bishop Evans addressed the congregation.

Following the Chapel service, refreshments were served to the candidates and their guests in the Social Centre. Mrs. Ed. Hillson was the convener and she was assisted by the ladies of the 8 RD Chapel Guild.

Attends Western

TRENTON — Recently, the Business and Professional Women's Club of Trenton voted to donate $100 towards the educational expenses of a 19-year-old girl from Sierra Leone.

The student is attending the University of Western Ontario in London and her first year university fees, board, etc., ($1900), were guaranteed by the London B. & P. W. Club.

The student will return to her own country sponsored by the London B. & P. W. Club.

The student will return to her own country after a three-year course and will become either a librarian or a kindergarten teacher.

Brighton Nurse Tells of Taking Trip to Africa

TRENTON — Miss Vera Clark, Reg. N., of Brighton, was the speaker at last night's meeting of the Trenton Area Home and School Club.

Miss Clark told the assembled parents that she had been one of 36 Canadian women connected with the UNESCO group to visit Africa last fall. The object of the visit was to present UNESCO and to inaugurate the erection of a girls' residential school at Tafo, Ghana.

The Canadian women visited Egypt, Kenya, the Union of South Africa, the Congo and Nigeria.

Miss Clark told the group that each member of the group had paid her own expenses and remarked that the only difficulty connected with the trip was that they would be forced to live on little more than $5 per day for three years to finance the trip.

Commenting on the present educational picture in Africa, Miss Clark said that in most African countries it was compulsory for a child to attend school up to the fourth grade. After that, the shortage of teachers and schools meant that only 25 percent could go on to grade five and that only 13.5 per cent ever reached the secondary school level. Children are often forced to walk four to five miles to get to school at all and teachers quite often have only Grade 10 education or less, due to short courses in teachers' college).

Education authorities are trying to do something about adult education. Such things as agriculture and home economics on a basic scale are taught to adults.

Oral Vaccine Soon Available In District

TRENTON—Dr. E. W. Dow, MOH for Trenton, said today that as soon as oral vaccine for polio was made available he hoped to start a series of immunization tent months on a community-wide basis.

Dr. Dow said that the plan would be to immunize all the entire community against the disease. Taking special places for families to attend clinics in Trenton will be announced as soon as the oral vaccine program can be set up.

Miss Marion Clark, Reg. N., staff nurse with the Northumberland and Durham Health Unit, said last night that an oral polio vaccine program would be started in the country in May.

Miss Clark stressed the "family" aspect of the immunization program and said that everyone in the household from the parents to the infants could all receive vaccine in the same day. Children will be given one-half or of the vaccine on a teaspoon of sugar.

The taking of the vaccine by mouth will be used in conjunction with hypodermic injections, Miss Clark said. She said that it had been proven that the vaccine was more effective if the oral dosage was used along with the injections. Miss Clark said that Miss Clark said that around 80,000 persons in the counties might be reached by the oral method, and that she hoped polio would be eventually stamped out in this section of the country.

cause the premises do not meet current standards of cleanliness, brightness and layout.

He has been thinking about giving the owners "two or three years to bring their places up to standard" or lose their licence. At this time there is no power in the Liquor Act which would permit cancellation of licences for that reason.

Mr. Grossman told the committee the Liquor Control Board of Ontario is working with the liquor industry on a code of ethics to govern company representatives.

He said the proposals, under consideration for several months, would call for individual cards for each agent or representative of a brewery, distillery or winery "signifying that they are registered with the board and they will know that their conduct and business ethics in the performance of their work are to conform with a code that we will have approved.

"If an agent violates this code he could lose his registration card, which would mean that he could no longer be employed in the industry."

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Weakness took over on the stock market today after Wednesday's forward spurt.

Imperial Bank of Commerce slipped ¼, Bank of Nova Scotia ⅛, Montreal ¼ and Royal ⅛. Base metals were also weaker, with Canadian Breweries off ⅛, Distillers Seagrams and Walker-Gooderham ⅛.

Other losers included Consolidated Paper, Bell Telephone, International Nickel, Hiram Walker, Canada Permanent Mortgage, all down ¼ to ½ range.

Among issues showing gains, Trans-Canada Pipe Line rose ⅛, Dominion Wholesale A and Dominion Foundries and Steel ⅛, Atlas Steel climbed ¼ while trading ex-dividend 25 cents.

On the exchange index, industrials fell 0.52 to 622.71 and golds .13 to 85.61—lowest since July, 1961. Base metals rose .30 to 205.89 and western oils .35 to 120.07. The 11 a.m. volume was 1,323,000 shares compared with 1,370,000 at the same time Wednesday.

Base Metals saw International Nickel gain ⅛, Ventures ⅛ and Consolidated Mining and Smelting ⅛. Speculatives lost some of yesterday's lustre, with Lake Dufault slipping five cents to 86.95 and Northgate dropping the same amount to 87.85.

Golds were mixed Wednesday in speculative mining issues pushed total volume to its greatest in more than two months. A handful of speculatives churned through more than 1,000,000 shares each, with the biggest volume coming in Stanley Mines—433,500. The stock added two cents at nine cents.

Oil issues also had the best gain among the speculatives; Pacific Petroleum rose 50 cents to 16.10. Northcal climbed 60 cents to 37.40. It earlier struck 37.45; its high, 37.50.

In industrials, Algoma Steel was off ⅛. Its high had been 42¾, and Guaranty Trust climbed 1¼ to 37¾ while trading ex-dividend 25 cents. Dominion Bank dropped ⅜ to a 1962 low of 59.

On index, industrials climbed 1.90 to 623.96, base metals .26 to 205.25 and western oils 1.00 to 119.52. Golds dipped .34 to 85.61—lowest since mid-July, 1961. Volume was 5,841,000 shares, greatest since October, 1961. Volumes was 5,-541,000 shares, greatest since Tuesday's 3,940,000.

Among base metals, International Nickel fell ¼, Falconbridge ⅛ and Ventures ⅛. Hudson Bay Mining climbed ¼ to 36.95 and Northgate dropping ⅛ to a 1962 high of 88¼.

Harold R. Arnott Dies Suddenly Of Heart Attack

Harold Richard Arnott, 188 Burnham Street, and foreman of the service department of the Public Utilities Commission of this city, died suddenly of a heart attack, while at work shortly before noon today.

Mr. Arnott had been a valued employee of the Commission and suffered by his wife, the former Sabra Phillips; one son, Barry Arnott, of this city, and one daughter, Mrs. Don (Helen) McCurdy, also of this city.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

F. Allin Named President Marksman Club

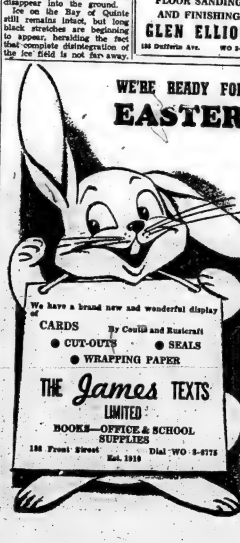
At the annual meeting and election of officers of the Quinte Marksmen Club held in the armories last evening, the following officers were elected for the coming year: Franklin Allin, president; Don Parks, vice-president; Jack Hinchey, secretary; Doc Wilson, treasurer; chief instructor, Harold Howling and range director, Cliff Smith.

The treasurer's report for the year ending 1961 showed assets of $1,070.42. A club house will be built in the near future. It was also decided to incorporate small bore rifle competition particularly in the junior member class.

Ladies are also eligible for rifle and revolver competition; anyone interested in this type of shooting would get in touch with range director Cliff Smith or apply at the range in the armouries any Wednesday evening.

Most of Run-Off Water Has Gone Into Ground

"The moisture will do the land a world of good."



That is the way which one local farmer commented on the rather unusual type of spring breakup which has been experienced in the Bay of Quinte district this year.

Absence of snow, together with warm days and cool nights has seen a heavy blanket of winter snow literally disappear into the ground with very little run-off.

Melting snow raised district creeks but very little and not enough run-off from the northern part of the watershed is now reaching the bay. The Moira River is still far from the raging torrent normally expected.

Lack of frost was given as the reason for the absence of normal run-off this year, the water thus having a chance to disappear into the ground.

Ice on the Bay of Quinte still remains intact, but long black stretches are beginning to appear, heralding the fact that complete disintegration of the ice field is not far away.

ANOTHER MAJOR

shipments are being diverted to European Communist countries. China has previously sent part of her Canadian grain to East Germany and Albania.

Mr. Hamilton said the sale is covered by the $100,000,000 government guarantee given to the Canadian wheat board last year to cover possible defaults in the Chinese payments. China has paid $100,000,000 so far, leaving a balance of $190,000,000 worth of grain received, so far meeting all instalments on time.

The agreement, by eventual total purchases of 186,700,000 bushels of wheat and 44,700,000 bushels of barley, calls for prices cent in cash on delivery and 272 days' credit, with interest. The interest rate has not been disclosed.

WELCOME DEAL

Opposition Leader Pearson welcomed the deal. Arnold Peters, CCF — Timiskaming) called it "a very good grain sale at this time."

Mr. Peters and several Liberal MPs expressed the view that the eastern dairy surplus has become Canada's No. 1 agricultural problem.

Mr. Peters said last summer's drought and heavy wheat exports have reduced the great grain surplus on the Prairies. But Canada still was producing fully dairy products beyond the market could consume.

"We produce so much of them that the government now is in the same position as the which they were a year ago the matter of wheat," he said. "They are worrying what they are going to do about the surpluses of these commodities."

Last month the government announced it will sell butter to wholesalers at 32 cents a pound until existing to guarantee dairy farmers the 64-cent support level. This subsidy, effective May 1, is designed to lower consumer prices 11 cents a pound and reduce the government-held surplus, now about 145,000,000 pounds.

Mr. Peters, who represents a Northern Ontario mining constituency, said he is curious to know whether the consumer will get the full benefit of the subsidy.

He said margarine, a vegetable oil substitute which is about 80 cents a pound cheaper, is the basic reason for the declining butter industry.

He said time for the government and the national dairy council to get together to decide what they are going to do about margarine.

W. H. McMillan (L—Welland) accepted the view that since the butter surplus originates in a surplus production of fine cream, attempts should be made to find other uses for milk. He cited the case of one farmer who made a profitable solution in making whipping cream, which brought a better price than butter.

Harold C. Seldon Closing Out Drug Store, Will Be Associated With New Firm

Belleville druggist since 1934, when he came here from Toronto, Mr. Harold C. Seldon is closing out his Front Street store and will retire as a local businessman.

It will be only a partial retirement, however, as following a brief stint of "taking it easy" he is associated with Westgate Pharmacy Ltd., soon to open a new drug store on No. 2 highway at the outskirts of the city. He will close his Front Street on Saturday night.

A native of Whitby, Mr. Seldon became a local drug store owner when he took over the business of Don Bleecker. He graduated from the Ontario College of Pharmacy in 1927 and worked at Whitby, Peterborough and Toronto, before coming to this city.

"I have enjoyed my 28 years as a druggist in Belleville, but I find I want to ease off a bit", he said.

During his years as a Belleville drug store owner Mr. Seldon has taken a great interest in the affairs of retail pharmacy on a provincial scale and is past president of the Ontario Retail Pharmacists' Association.

SERVICE ASSOCIATION

He also has been active in the Belleville Pharmacists and the Quinte Pharmacists Association and served a secretary for the latter organization for many years.

In 1946 he was named representative for No. 2 district of the Ontario Retail Druggists' Association Council and has been active in the recruitment policy of the Ontario College of Pharmacy.

He feels too few young people are interested in a druggists' career, and as result pharmacists are in great demand.

In 1956 when he became president of the Ontario Pharmacists' Mr. Seldon was honored by the National Microchemical, National Drug and Chemical Company publishing, in its "In The Spotlight" column.

In addition to his activities on behalf of pharmacy Mr. Seldon has taken a constructive part in community and professional affairs of his adopted city.

TOOK ACTIVE INTEREST

He is a past director and past president of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce and has served as chairman of both the Belleville Board of Education and the Bay of Quinte Regional High School Board.

As chairman of the board's studies and accommodation committee he was responsible for the construction of Belleville's high schools and two high schools at Bellecroft.

And during his summer leisure hours Mr. Seldon can usually be found on the Bay of Quinte where he takes keen pleasure in sailing his 26-foot yacht Halcyon. He is a charter member of the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club.

Church Street's Chubby Robin 10 Days Early

'tis "Chubby" the robin is a true harbinger of spring, the vernal season is just around that corner.

"Chubby" has made his home and raised his family in Church Street for the past seven years.

He usually arrives between April 6 and April 8.

But the bird redbreast "beat the gun" this year.

"Chubby" arrived on the scene yesterday, March 28th, nearly ten days ahead of his usual appearance.

He may be scouting the housing possibilities for his mate has yet to put in an appearance.

He had a lawn luncheon, shirped his appreciation, and flew away.

He will be back with the new missus shortly.

Theatre Guild Of Belleville Given Praise

KINGSTON (CP) — "Interesting" was the verdict of adjudicator Peter Symons following night on the Belleville Theatre Guild's entry in the Eastern Ontario Drama League Festival.

Conceding that being the first production in a festival is "unfair", Mr. Symons still found much to interest in his group's staging of English author Enid Bagnold's The Chalk Garden.

Sets, costumes, props, interpretation of characters and situations and the enactment were the targets of his criticisms. He stressed the responsibility of play director Kingsley Thomas for the failings.

The basic problem, he said, seemed to be the lack of values—the group had not reached down far enough to discover guiding characteristics of the play characters, nor to fathom what the author was saying.

Recipient of the least amount of criticism was Flo Yeoven playing the part of the governess. Nicky Thomas as Mrs. St. Maughan was cast as "otherwise" as the adjudicator thought was called for, although she carried the part "well."

The four - day festival continues tonight with performances by Davies' Love and Libel by Kingston's Domino Theatre Incorporated.

SELDON IS RETIRING

(FROM ACTIVE BUSINESS)

After twenty-eight pleasant years of drug business at 328 Front Street, I have decided to retire.

I humbly and sincerely thank all who have visited my store for over a quarter century and who have entrusted to me the filling of many thousands of prescriptions.

These prescriptions may be refilled at McKeown's Drug Store on and after April 2, 1962. Photographic work may also be picked up there.

Thanks for everything.

Signed,

Harold C. Seldon

The Old Smoothie Slips

Senator David Croil is an old smoothie.

But even old smoothies can slip if they lay on the oil too thickly.

Senator Croil dislikes our standardised tourist advertising. Mounties, changing the guard on Parliament Hill and bathing beauties are wearing thin, he maintains.

Then the old smoothie took over.

"It seems to me," he said, "that in bikinis all women are beautiful."

That would seem to be the sort of statement which will offend no women and only those few men who have had the misfortune to experience a contrary revelation.

Unhappily, Senator Croil forgot that trouble-some minority, male and female, which likes arguments to be logical.

If, in bikinis, all women are beautiful, what is wrong with women in bikinis as a feature of tourist, or any other kind, of advertising? Can there be such a thing as too much beauty? Is not a thing of beauty a joy forever? What can a tourist operator advertise if universality is to be considered a bar? Just as in bikinis all women are beautiful, and therefore, according to Senator Croil's strange logic, should be disregarded as a tourist attraction, so, too, all tourist resorts are modern, all beaches are smooth, all lakes are full of fish, all skies are sunny, all villages are picturesque, all country-sides are green and lush, all roads are smooth and all natives are hospitable in this great Canada of ours. Ask any tourist information bureau. So what is there left for them to advertise, poor things?

An Unwelcome Harringer

The other day the crown attorney's offices in Ottawa were seeked and set on fire. Many valuable records were lost. This act arose out of the arrest of two men, so Ottawa police state, earlier in the week.

Now one might wonder what sort of a crime these two persons were alleged to have committed that would warrant this attack upon the crown attorney's offices as well as an incessant barrage of death-threats and anonymous telephone calls demanding the release of these two men (both are currently out on bail.)

Was it the arrest of some leading gangster or racketeer which provoked this outbreak of lawlessness which smacks of the Capone era in Chicago? Was it an attempt to protect some "crime czar" or crooked politician? If such were the case this action would be understandable although not a whit less unexcusable.

Such, however, is not the case. The two men whose case appears to have triggered off this disgraceful episode are unknown and charged with distributing pamphlets without a licence.

If such a minor misdemeanor as this can bring about the sort of chaos and increased violence as has been witnessed in this case things do not look very good for the future. Perhaps it is time for more attention to be paid to the activities of lesser hoodlums as well as the apparent imported crop of big-timers. Weed patches must be eliminated if a garden is not to be choked off.

Self Protection?

Cookeville magistrate R. I. Blain recently suggested that a retail firm hire its own security police to protect its stores from shoplifters. He observed, following the conviction of one young shoplifter, that the firm has about one shoplifting case a week on his docket.

The magistrate apparently felt that this rate was too high and was creating a lot of work for the district police force. To quote him, "We are doing a lot of work for them and I think it is time they took a hand and did something."

This is an amazing statement to come from a magistrate. Perhaps, he would also suggest that in view of the increasing number of bank robberies that these institutions provide their own gangbusters and relieve the police of the onerous chore of chasing bank bandits?

We sincerely hope that this magistrate's opinion, as officially expressed, is not prevalent amongst the judiciary and that it does not have a misguiding effect upon the law enforcement agencies.

We pay taxes for police protection from thieves, robbers and the like and there should be no call or need for the citizen to provide his own protection beyond the usual safeguards which most businesses take as a matter of course.

Liberals Tried to Cook Up Deal With PC's to Beat Argue

BY RICHARD JACKSON
(from The Ontario Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau)

OTTAWA — Federal politics, especially around election time, can be real cloak and dagger stuff.

Conservative Party backbenchers have claimed — and with some confirmation from, of all people, NDP Leader T. C. "Tommy" Douglas — that only two weeks before former CCF House Leader Argue defected, the Liberals were trying to cook up a deal with them to beat him in Assiniboia.

This deal was in the form of a double cross.

This, they say, was it:

If the Conservatives stayed out of Assiniboia, and let the Liberals, in a straight two-party fight with the CCF-NDP, feel certain they could knock off Mr. Argue.

In return for this little political favor, the Liberals would remain out of Regina, so that is another straight two-party fight. Conservative MP Kenneth Moore would have an excellent chance of sinking NDP Party boss Douglas who was contesting the constituency in the Saskatchewan capital.

Saskatchewan Liberal Leader Ross Thatcher, who himself defected seven years ago from the Liberal ranks in the provincial field, denies the charges.

But it was no sale . . . not particularly because the Conservatives have any high moral ground to engage in such cloak and dagger politics, but simply because the kind of hard-headed political wheeler-dealer that inhabit Ottawa's backstairs seldom give a firm yes or no to any deal. Deals, be they eagerly prefer to let it simmer and see just what comes up in the pot.

And look what did emerge from the Liberal party's Assiniboia . . . Argue as a Hazen-come-lately Liberal . . . what more could party vanity and entertaining complications there would have been if the two parties had made their under-the-platform saw-off.

Of course, after the whispers of this grass-roots gossip become public, the Liberals, as there were immediate and pious denials on all sides.

Mr. Douglas arrived on Parliament Hill for the first time since the Argue defection, and at a press conference seemed genuinely surprised that Ottawa hadn't heard of the Prairie gossip of the attempted sawoff before, and should question it now.

"Trouble is with those kind of deals," commented one Tory backbencher, "is that they too often come unstuck."

Number for Parliament, it seems, is another of the many ways to skin the electorate.

PARLIAMENTARY PATTER

Lieutenant General Charles Foulkes, Chairman of the Chiefs of Staff Committee, and soon to be running for Parliament in the next election as a candidate out on the West Coast, fought one of his most distinguished battles 15 years in the Capital, with Ottawa City Hall. The city had placed a street light in front of his home in such a way, he complained to the Mayor, that it shone in his bedroom window and kept him awake nights.

There was a long, heated war of words between the boss of City Hall and the Top Kick of the High Command of National Defence Headquarters, and outgunned, the General retaliated by moving the light down the street and out of General Foulkes' eyes.

There was a general non-partisan, all-party collective sigh of relief when neither, of the Big Brass of the Conservative nor of the Liberal took Ottawa's Mayor Charlotte Whitton up on her political gauntlet — Municipal-soul. "Queen" Charlotte reigns over the Capital, in such an imperious manner that Parliament Hill was nearly frightened out of its political wits when she made eyes at leaders of both parties, but all concerned breathed easier when Prime Minister Diefenbaker remained discreetly silent on rumors that her Highness was hankering for the Senate, and Opposition Leader Pearson laughed off her story that he had offered her appointment in some future Liberal Cabinet if she would support his candidates and perhaps even become one herself.

Strictly Personal

An Artist Lives Only To Create

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Purely Personal Prejudices:

Those who are unmoved to pain are disinclined to believe that others really feel it; thus, the habitually cheerful man is patient with the chronically ill, the well-to-do unconscious that so many are hungry, and the fortunate are secretly convicted that the afflicted are only malingering through some fault of their own.

The chief folly of youth consists of wanting to cut things that can be united; the chief folly of age consists of warning us that they cannot be united very long after all.

What distinguishes artists and craftsmen from most other people is that they would carry on doing the same things even if they were not paid for them — the actor cannot refrain from acting, the painter cannot stop painting — and this is why the rest of the world cannot understand them.

When a woman remarks, "I don't know many men by names," she offers enough conclusive testimony so that names are unnecessary.

Some people's politeness is so extraordinary that one of people's rudeness; it is more refreshing to feel ignored than to feel real attention is being insulting.

Speaking of such hypocrisy, I have long appreciated the devout Simone Weil's observation that "Of two people who say experience of God, he who denies Him is nearer, nowever to Him than the other."

The most pernicious fallacy of the intellectual is that he thinks it is a "feeling" — it may begin as a feeling, but it ends, necessarily as an activity, requiring imagination, intelligence and perseverance to sustain it.

In order for self-sacrifice to be a virtue, there must be no thought of self in it; otherwise, it turns into self-pity and self-pity and servile affection, which is no more than a form of tyranny than is self-love.

There are only two words for everything — one for me, and one for others; the others is already becoming a person mean, stopping a univocal language in which one word means the same to me and to you.

Caricature is always flattery of a sort: for it is only the formless and the mediocre which defy — and thus escape — caricaturizing.

Learning is like water — it can remain a great source of power as long as it remains fluid, but when it is permitted to freeze over it is a useless impediment to any creative activity.

Letter To the Editor

Suggests Pavilion For Convalescents

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer:

Dear Sir,

I would like to make a suggestion with regard to our Hospital which is so vital to our people.

With such a shortage of beds and also tuberculosis help, would it not be a good idea to have a "convalescent pavilion" built in the grounds of the main building for surgical patients. In so doing we have a registered nurse in charge and nurses' aid assisting, it would solve many problems for our doctors and staff. It would also be much more pleasant for patients recovering.

When we read of patients leaving home too soon and waiting for the bus in the cold, many people feel a little concerned. However, when a patient has been very ill and is just about better, has a serious case put in his or her room, it is found to be upsetting.

By having surgical cases in the main building doctors could perhaps have a section for their patients instead of running all over the hospital. It would save much confusion, give them more time for other important things and save our time also.

Thanking you,

An Interested Citizen.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

CASTLE BUILDERS

There is nothing that suggests soundness in a man or woman more than an active imagination. Yet this imagination should not be absent. It shouldn't be made to rot useless.

There are those — and most of us have to confess to being part of them — "those" who look out into the world and dream of wonderful things, but beyond their ability or luck ever to obtain. And so much time is taken up with those dreams and life scampers along so fast, that we have nothing all wound up in our dreams with life long toward the sunset before we realize it.

It is only after so many futile dreams and castle building that we come to ourselves and perhaps say with Poet:

"Happy the man, whose wish and care
A few paternal acres bound,
Content to breathe his native air
In his own ground."

We live in and love the things we own. To tell another of our possession is merely a cloud in the sky. No one can understand the love we pack into the things we own, this piece of land I had purchased a thousand cares, if the wind roared in its fury, destroyed my crops, a tree, and then provided me with logs for fuel. Or, I destroyed one of My trees, a fear in prospect, and both a regret and loss in retrospect.

There are both joy and futility in ownership. But the joy outweighs all else. It is all very well to be a castle builder. To have a little spot, however, that you may call your own for a brief space of time, is to whisper a happy thought through the gates of heaven to some appreciative inhabitant thereof.

Dear Dr. Molner: Concerning the other two babies, see your doctor.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have had rheumatism and one angina attack, the last one (the second) six years ago and no symptoms since I have followed my doctor's instructions on diet, smoking, drinking. I do not mind walking. I am 5 feet 4 and do not vary more than two or three pounds over 150.

Would light setting up exercises have any bad effect on my condition? — G.A.D.

Walking is one of the best forms of exercise.

It's hard to define "light" exercise. It can be defined only by knowing your condition, can tell you far better than anyone else how much you can do and still benefit from it.

One basic rule, however, is that exercise is too strenuous if (1) it leads to your breathing; (2) provokes excessive heart rate; or (3) causes any degree of chest discomfort.

(P.S.: At your height, 155 pounds might make you a bit chunky. Losing a few of those ought to help.)

HABIT

We speak of habit formation as if this were something bad or unworthy.

The truth of the matter is that habit formation is the basis of all our living. If every time we performed an act we had to start from scratch, we would never develop any skills whatsoever. The whole of our lives we would be like infants doing everything grudgingly and strangely. As a matter of fact, we would be even lower than infants in our schedule for the infant is growing. But were it not for the established processes of habit formation we would not grow at all.

By a merciful provision of nature — or God as most of us would say — most of us form stores up a memory some, where in our brain. The next time we confront the necessity of performing that act we are helped just a bit by the fact that we have performed it once before. So we go through life with habit formation and skills. We listen to a great pianist, and we begin to understand his brilliant achievement in endless hours and almost a lifetime of years of practice.

We can create good habits precisely as we create bad habits. The process is identical in both cases. Our lives radiate vitality and purpose when we establish the habit of automatically choosing the right and rejecting the inadequate, the sarque explaining the president's action:

"Enclosed within the terms of the own dilemma this government faced on one side the resurgence of the extremist forces (Premier Hitler) behind him, democracy. On the other side there was the imminent possibility of grave social disturbances. He lacked strength, moral and physical, authority to solve the situation.

"Neither the national unity nor the maintenance of public order were within the sphere of his real responsibilities. Thus the armed forces received once more their responsibility of restablishing those values."

The three military commanders, in a message to all units of the armed forces announcing Franco had been deposed, asserted bravely: "This decision is irrevocable."

Franco, whose term had two more years to run, went down fighting as he vowed he would.

The austere president, who had maneuvered his way through 34 crises before, sought desperately to reach a compromise with the military but angrily rejected their repeated demands that he quit.

As Franco's forces closed in the armed forces' last demand, fed-eral police used tear gas to disperse crowds in the centre of the capital as they chanted: "Hold out Negrin!" the popular nickname for the sparsely built president.

The announcement that Franco had been deposed came about 24 hours after the military commanders sent out orders to the armed forces to take over key government installations throughout the country.

The coup so far was bloodless. The public generally stood aloof as the politicians and the military manoeuvered.

But waiting on the sidelines were the Republicans, who polled nearly 8,600,000 votes — 35 per cent of the ballots — in the March 16 election. They staged a 24-hour strike after Franco's annulled their victories in five provinces but postponed further protests to await the outcome of the government crisis.

Freight Agent Gives Talk to CNR Pensioners

The regular monthly meeting of the Belleville and District branch of the Canadian National Pensioners Association was held Wednesday evening at the Canadian Legion rooms. This meeting was preceded by the usual fine supper, prepared and capably served by the ladies of the Canara Club catering service.

The usual business was carried on after which the speaker of the evening was introduced by Mr. Arthur McConnell, Belleville freight agent, who gave an interesting talk on matters relating to the efforts of the railway to improve the service and increase sales of freight and passenger business.

Mr. McConnell described the continuing sales campaigns as successful in attracting an increasing amount of business to the railway. His suggestion that all employees and retired veterans make individual efforts to assist the sales staff of the railway in their efforts to promote new business was favorably received by his audience and he was assured of their co-operation.

THANKED BY PRESIDENT

At the conclusion of his address, Mr. McConnell was thanked by the president of the Belleville Pensioners' Association, Mr. Joseph Hunter, for his interesting talk and for taking time out from his pressing schedule to address the meeting.

Mr. Archie Grant of the Toronto Pensioners' Association in a short address, advised of a general get-together of the CNR Pensioners' Associations planned for June 5th at Barrie. He hoped for a good attendance and assured all of a hearty welcome and an enjoyable outing.

An interesting comments of early railroading in the form of a timetable, dated 1858 and issued by the Grand Trunk Railway and advertising their passenger service between Montreal and Toronto, was examined with interest by the veterans.

This timetable is in the possession of Mr. Sam Cherry, retired locomotive engineer. It shows the best passenger train as consuming 16 hours for the journey from Montreal to Toronto.

A vote of thanks was heard several weeks ago, at which time all pleaded not guilty to the charges.

FROST DENIES

no time had it been indicated to him that the former member for Lennox and Addington had anything to do with the deal, or that he had ever made any statement to the effect about the questioning of Scandrett.

The commission has heard varying versions of how the OPP proceedings were called off, mainly ranging between Inspector Hall's phone call from the attorney-general's department that it was "all right" as there was not enough evidence on the found-ing to pin anything on them.

Reeve Cyril Clark of Chisholm, Ont., testified yesterday that Fegley told him he got a gold mine through a mines minister.

However, under questioning, Mr. Clark denied he informed police the gambling tales and there had been a payoff to the unnamed mines minister.

The reeve, who admitted being a frequenter of the Cookstown club, denied trying to get information for the owners about pending police raids. He said his only interest in the establishment was to drop in occasionally and roll the bones.

"I'll make no bones about it," he said, "I like shooting craps."

He said on an evening he might make as much as $1,000 or $2,000, but he could not name a figure for any night. Mr. Justice W. D. Roach, the royal commissioner, ordered that his bank account be examined.

"I don't drink or play cards or run around with women, so about craps for recreation," said the reeve.

F. J. MacKinnon, counsel for the Liberal party, suggested Mr. Clark had been looking for information about Toronto Township officials so he could pass it on to Fegley, one of the Club operators.

"No," replied Mr. Clark.

Fegley and Joseph McDermott are under sentence here on charges of conspiring to get information from a police officer and running a common gaming house.

Mr. Justice Roach got severe with the reeve when he said he had not mentioned to Staff Sgt. John Anderson of the OPP gambling squad a suggestion that members of the legislature had "an interest" in the Cookstown club.

Mr. Clark then recalled how he told Sgt. Anderson that "if he cleaned up the mess in his own backyard he would assist the police."

"What was the mess in the backyard?" asked Mr. MacKinnon.

"For 30 years I've been going to clubs and they always seem to be notified."

"Now you're telling us something," the commissioner said. "Notified of what?"

"Raids."

ASKS WHY

The reeve went on to ask why the club at Cookville should have had a legitimate government charter when the government must have known something was going on there.

"Why did they have a charter; when the police used to sit at the gate and watch . . ." he asked the reeve.

"That's a good question," said Mr. MacKinnon.

She-Wolf Shot, Her 6 Cubs Go to Zoo, Dept. and as Pet

There are never fewer wolves at large in the Zion Hill area, thanks to the sharp eyes and trusty rifle of Fred Sills of R. R. 1, Halloway.

A week after shooting a wolf's den in which there were six small pups, Mr. Sills tracked the she-wolf and spotting the animal on the Cecil Ketcheson farm, shot it only a short distance from the house. The timber wolf measured over five feet in length and weighed 50 pounds.

FRED SILLS, Halloway, holds 50-pound wolf which he shot in the Zion Hill area.

Previously Mr. Sills and Sherman Oliver found the six pups in a wolf-den in a nearby woods and they point an eye open knowing the mother wolf would return. The male wolf is believed still to be lurking in the area.

Two of the wolf cubs were sold as attractions at a Frankford refreshment stand; three of them were turned over to the Department of Lands and Forests and Mr. Oliver kept the one remaining.

"I'd have liked to kept one as a pet", stated Mr. Sills.

But his wife had other ideas.

Salmon River Conservation Meet Is Called

Representatives from eight municipalities along the Salmon River meet today at Tweed-worth to consider setting up a Salmon Valley Conservation Authority.

If approved at the meeting, the Authority would be established by the provincial cabinet. It would be the 32nd such Authority in Ontario.

The Salmon River watershed covers approximately 257 square miles in Huntingdon, Kennebec, Oslee, Richmond, Sheffield, Tyendinaga and Ketsder-Acquitsan — 27 Brigham Townships.

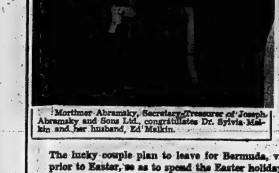
Men Acquitted Of Keeping Gaming House

A charge of keeping a common gaming house was dismissed this morning against two locals men, in county magistrate's court by Magistrate T. V. Wills.

Charged with keeping a common gaming house were Ernest M. Lucas and Lawrence E. Cummings.

In reading his judgment on the case this morning, the Magistrate said he could find no substantial evidence to warrant a conviction.



In dismissing the charge against the two men, Magistrate Wills said the charge of being found in the house, the other men, would also be dismissed. Robert Temple appeared for all the men.

Delightful Millinery Displayed At Bridge St. Dessert Party

With spring officially here and beautiful weather prevailing, the U.C.W. organization of Bridge Street United Church held a delightful dessert party and hat show in the Sunday School auditorium yesterday afternoon and evening.

A great deal of preparation and work was involved for this special event which was the first project of the new organization. U.C.W. and the organization committee was composed of: Mrs. Glenn Shaver; Mrs. R. Gerard; Mrs. W. Hallowes; Mrs. A. N. Reid and Mrs. D. Leslie.

SPRING THEME

Everywhere the eye turned the theme of spring with all its spring flowers was in evidence. At the entrance to the auditorium where Mrs. H. M. Davis, wife of the pastor and Mrs. Arthur Clare warmly welcomed the thronging guests, was a green carpet of terraced grass adorned with various potted plants including tulips, daffodils and narcissi. There was also a display of homemade Easter eggs for sale and an arrangement of pastel colored spring flowers.

Throughout the hall there was a profusion of spring flowers in suspended red flower pots and butterfly motifs on each of the pillars. Those in charge of this appropriate decorative scheme were: Mrs. D. McClintock, Mrs. R. Jeffrey, Mrs. J. Nelles, Mrs. J. Coyne, Mrs. J. Bychard and Mrs. T. Brown.

DELICIOUS DESSERTS

The large dessert table which was laden with a delicious array of goodies including chiffon angel and square cakes, cream topped fruit jellies, cream puffs, assorted tarts and various pies, was centred with an artistic arrangement of red tulips, golden daffodils, shasta daisies, interspersed with pussy willows and greenery. The individual guest tables were equally attractive with snow-white luncheon cloths, silver services and fireplaces of pussy willows and daffodils. The hostesses were: Mrs. G. Anderson and Mrs. S. Gilmour in the afternoon and Miss Grace Kenney and Mrs. R. Laughlen in the evening.

Dessert was served cafeteria style and those in charge of replenishing desserts were: Mrs. H. Parkey, Mrs. R. Garnett and Mrs. D. Sinclair and those who served tea and coffee were: for the afternoon, Mrs. D. Wilkens, Mrs. P. Allcorn, Mrs. J. Andrews, Mrs. W. Broad, Mrs. C. Dodd, Mrs. W. Fox, Mrs. G. Lockin, Mrs. H. Selden, Mrs. C. Massey, Mrs. D. Maddocks, Mrs. R. Miles, Mrs. C. Meredith, Mrs. A. Quickert, Mrs. W. Osmond, Mrs. N. C. Chalmers, Mrs. E. Sutton, Mrs. D. Hickson, Mrs. A. Reynolds and Mrs. C. Bennett. Those serving in the evening were: Mrs. B. Leslie, Mrs. J. Birchard, Miss E. Black, Mrs. H. A. MacKillican, Mrs. B. Philp, Mrs H. Burns, Mrs. R. D. O'Hara, Mrs. R. Bateman, Mrs. R. Rogerson, Mrs. D. Rose, Mrs. G. Gewartz, Mrs. H. Cronk, Mrs R. Jeffrey, Mrs. J. O'Flynn, Mrs. R. Riedel, Mrs. C. Jagger, Mrs. R. Riedel, Mrs. C. James, Mrs. Clapp, Mrs. W. Hallowes, Mrs. N. Reid, and Mrs. D. Leslie.

In charge of the kitchen duties were: Mrs. E. McGuscay and Mrs. Atkinson and Mrs. A. McGee and Mrs. R. Chaplain in the evening.

HAT SHOW

The highlight of this event, however, and that of fashion show, and Mrs. T. Cokden commentator for both showings gave a most descriptive commentary of each of the various new spring creations. The backdrop on stage behind Mrs. Cokden depicted "Spring in the Air".

Milliners this year are still favoring plenty of flowers, ranging from petite white carnations to large gorgeous red poppies. Fabrics are light and airy and range from plaited and printed chiffon to reembroidered organza. The collection this year is marked by a gender, shoulder wave feminine silhouette than has been seen in recent years. Most of the chapeaux can be worn with the brims up or down. There is also a return to veils and accordence this year with sometwo-tone hats being shown. Predominant colors this year are sunny yellow, vanilla, coffee beige, white and rosy pink; also basic colors of navy, brown and black.

NUMEROUS HEADDRESSES

A few of the numerous headdresses displayed through the courtesy of Woodley's and arranged for showing by Miss Hazel Smith were: A global pillbox over nylon body with tiers of silk organza in short shade with a single rose trimming; another wide-brimmed hat of carmel-colored silk with large off-white polka dots; a pretty all-white hat of coarse shiny rough straw with fine straw lace plaited brim trim; and still another in flesh pink with new flip-up brim encircled with pearls.

Perhaps one of the most eyecatching was a navy straw with small bow and bright red pleated organza petals. In keeping with the popular dance craze was a new creation called "The Twist," made of imported straw with light and charcoal straw interwoven and twisted, enhanced with tiny gray velvet bows.

ATTRACTIVE MODELS

The attractive ladies modelling the numerous creations were: Mesdames C. Bristol, E. Fairman, Misses C. Massey, L. White, I. Skidmore, D. Swift and C. Howie.

Prior to the showing of the hat fashions, Mrs. Roger Riedel favored with a lovely vocal rendition of "A Heart That's Free," by Bolero, accompanied at the piano by Miss Leone Riggs. Appropriate background music throughout the showing was supplied by Mrs. K. Bird, Mrs. J. Demers, Mrs. R. Cass and Mrs. D. Scott.

Those in charge of tickets were Mrs. G. Wishart, Mrs. W. Dallas and Mrs. J. Dickens and Mrs. J. McArthur and Mrs. R. Williamson were in charge of publicity for this delightfully successful event.

APPRECIATION EXPRESSED

At the completion of the showing of hat fashions, Mrs. Colden expressed sincere appreciation to Miss Hazel Smith of Woodley's and to all those who had helped in any way at this special event.

Two Women Named As Bank Managers

TORONTO (CP)—The Bank of Nova Scotia on Monday announced the appointment of two women as bank managers, bringing the number of women managers in the bank to four.

Miss Jean Begg of Halifax has been appointed manager of the bank's branch in the Nova Scotian Hotel in that city and Miss Margaret Mullen, manager of the University branch in Vancouver.

Last year the bank appointed its first two women managers with the appointments of Miss Gladys Marcellus in Ottawa and Mrs. Shirley Giles in Toronto.

Quintebelles Sponsor Visitors' Night

On the evening of March 20, the Quintebelles Chapter Sweet Adelines Incorporated entertained 23 guests, at their annual "Visitors Night" in the A.N.A.F. Hall, 197 Front Street.

Mrs. Peggy Burns, convener for the evening, welcomed the guests and gave each one a name tag. The chorus opened with their theme song "Sweet Adeline" and a welcome song, "You're As Welcome As The Flowers in May".

Chapter president, Mrs. Phyllis Chalmers, extended a hearty welcome to all present and gave an outline of the Sweet Adeline organization. She cordially invited the guests to join the Belleville chapter of Sweet Adelines.

Chorus director, Miss Muriel Jobson, took the chorus through several numbers and then taught the guests as well as the members a new song, "Down Our Way", pointing out the method used when the chorus learns a new number.

A delicious buffet lunch was served and a draw on a lovely floral centre piece of daffodils was won by Lois Dallin.

A hidden prize for the guests was won by Mrs. Margaret Finnegan, Hastings Drive.

The evening closed with the chorus singing, "Heaven On The World".

On Monday evening the Quintebelles Chapter entertained at the Home for the Aged.

BOUQUET CUSTOM

Bunches of herbs were hidden under the veils of ancient Romen brides. Later orange blossoms were carried by the Saracens as symbols of fertility.

WEDDINGS

LAVENDER — CARROLL

MANSMORA — A pretty spring wedding took place on Saturday, March 24th, at 7 p.m. at the home of the bridegroom's parents, when Faye Carroll, Reg. N., of Oshawa, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Maxwell V. Carroll of Kirkland Lake, was united in marriage to Dean Manley Lavender, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Lavender, Marmora. The Rev. J. M. D. McLeod of St. Andrew's United Church, Marmora, officiated.

The bride chose for her wedding a belge suit with hat and accessories to match, and corsage of pink and white carnations and white freesia.

She was attended by her sister, Mrs. Clara Morrison, of North Bay, as matron of honor, who wore a suit in turquoise, matching accessories and corsage of white carnations.

The bridesmaid was attended by his friend, Mr. James Philpott of Oshawa.

Mrs. Lavender, who received the wedding party and guests, wore a dress of floral silk, beige flower hat and matching accessories. Mrs. Carroll was wearing a turquoise sheath dress with matching hat and accessories. Both were corsages of white carnations.

The home was beautifully decorated with pink and white gladioli, lavender and white chrysanthemums. The table was

Careers for Girls

Hairdresser Has Beauty at Her Fingertips

Miss Doris Clark, Master of Social Work, has had special training in psychology and vocational guidance. In preparing this series, "Careers for Girls," Miss Clark has interviewed career women in the fields she is covering, as well as employers and guidance counsellors. Doris Clark's human relations column, "Successful Living" runs regularly in The Ontario Intelligencer.

by Doris C. Clark, M.S.W.

(Tweaker in a Series for Teen-Agers on Careers for Girls).

Ruthie was a hairdresser, and need to hearing about folk's personal affairs, but Mary was her special friend and Ruthie was worried.

"What am I to do? Mary was saying. "I've been all over. Nobody will give me a job, not even where I know very well they need somebody.

"Since I've been sick so long, I have all kinds of bills to pay."

Ruthie looked fondly at her friend; noted her pale cheeks, her listless manner. She decided the best way to help was to tell the truth. She gathered up her courage and plunged in:

"Mary, you are just as smart as lots of girls with good jobs. But you don't look the part.

"You've been sick and you look it. Your skin is sallow. Your hair is dull and lifeless. But you could be really pretty if you wanted to. Why don't you do something about it?"

Mary was startled. She had become accustomed to her pale, uninteresting reflection in the mirror; had accepted her looks as part of her illness.

"O Ruthie, do you really think I could? Would you help me?"

APPOINTMENT MADE

Ruthie would and did. An appointment was made and in Ruthie's own salon, next day, Mary's transformation was begun.

Under Ruthie's skilled fingers she relaxed, as her friend massaged forehead, cheeks, chin, neck, applying creams, steam and astringent in a complexion treatment which left Mary's skin warm and glowing. A manicure came next.

Then Mary's hair came in for attention. Ruthie started off by brushing, cutting quite short into an attractive swirl, then giving a stimulating oil treatment. After a refreshing shampoo and finger waves Mary looked like another person. Pretty little ringlets around her face and soft waves on top of her head disguised further the sallow look illness has left, and when she smiled at her new reflection in the mirror, Mary was truly "lovely to look at".

Knowing that she looked attractive gave Mary new confidence when she next applied for a job. She looked and talked like a girl who knew her own worth.

Guess what! She got the job.

Ruthie as proud of her handiwork. Being a hairdresser was wonderful, she thought. So many people needed help in learning how to look their best.

All her life Ruthie had enjoyed fussing with hair. First it was her doll's hair, then it was her young sister she worked on.

Girl friends at school had learned to come to Ruthie with permanent-waste hair. She had helped them all, and had such good ideas that people usually followed her advice.

Now, at twenty, Ruthie was the proud manager of her own beauty shop. Here are many other young women who have made interesting careers of hairdressing.

HAIR CARE

Those who have done well have had more than capable fingers.

The lady who visits a hairdresser appreciates one who takes an interest in her. She is a "push-over" for the girl who has some ideas about hair styling to suit her personality.

The hairdresser who plans to run her own shop should be expert in other beauty care as well. She must be able to minister to faulty complexions, giving facials and using lotions and creams to advantage. She should be able to give manicures and pedicures. She works to achieve a lovely picture — a well-groomed, attractive woman — and the amount of success she gets puts into her job will determine her degree of success.

SCHOOLING NEEDED

Graduation from grade eight is the requirement, but at least two years more in school is highly desirable. The student must be sixteen years of age or older.

Hairdressing schools offer a course of approximately seven months, or evening classes working toward graduation in two and a half years. A learner may, as an alternative, serve a three-year apprenticeship in a beauty shop (while drawing a small but increasing wage) and qualify as a full-fledged hairdresser.

Employment can be depended upon for the good worker.

"THAT'S FOR ME"

Is there beauty at your fingertips? And does it intrigue you to study individuals and help them look their best?

Then look into the career of hairdressing, a skill which well-dressed, well-groomed women depend on today more than ever before.

Answer: It's not necessary to send thank-you notes for the cards. And, strictly speaking, it's not necessary to send thank-you notes for gifts bought to your home, although it would be a nice gesture if you could arrange to do so. However, the verbal thank-you does suffice.

Question: I'm a non-smoker, and so I never carry matches or a lighter in my pocket. When a woman who is sitting next to me at a party or dinner takes out a cigarette, I never think to light it for her. My wife has called this to my attention, and thinks I should. She doesn't smoke either, so I've never had to face this problem even with her. — B.E.L., Philadelphia, Pa.

Queen Mary Highly Praised For Founding Indian School

By RUKMINI DEVI
Canadian Press Correspondent

BOMBAY (CP)—British rule ended 15 years ago in India but many British names still cause nostalgia among Indians.

One of these is Mary Mahratta (Queen Mary), wife of King George V and grandmother of Queen Elizabeth. Fifty years ago Queen Mary helped found a girls' school in New Delhi and the institution now has become one of the big names in the sphere of female education in the country.

Queen Mary's is currently celebrating its golden jubilee and the occasion has been marked by widespread tributes to the "constructive" aspects of Britain's 150-year dominion over India.

Prime Minister Nehru and other Indian leaders, including cabinet ministers and top educationists, have hailed Queen Mary's as "one of the major inspirations to emancipated Indian womanhood."

STUDENTS IN VEILS

When a group of Christian missionaries founded the school in 1911, it had just two rooms and could enroll only eight girls. At the end of one year, 50 more pupils had joined the institution.

Those days, the public frowned on women taking to education and most of the students were veils. Even Lord Irwin, the British viceroy, had difficulty visiting the school. The custom had been to invite only the wives of viceroys.

In the school's records, there is a memorable diary note on the Irwin visit. It says: "Viceroy Lord Irwin was the first man to be taken round the school. All purdah (veiled) girls were allowed to go upstairs to the dormitories but even then some had hysterics at the very thought of a man in the building."

When the municipality's health officer insisted on inspecting the school, the principal notified all the parents that if they wished they could keep their children at home for the day.

Today Queen Mary's is a pioneer in Indian women's education. Its students have become doctors, architects, engineers, administrators and politicians. Some have risen to the level of cabinet ministers in state governments.

Miss Devi Datta, the school's first Indian principal, says Queen Mary's will remain forever "a great symbol of the synthesis of the civilizations of the West and the East."

Sardar Balbir Singh, a New Delhi businessman whose five daughters are students of Queen Mary's, says: "Long after the British rai is forgotten Indians will continue to remember Queen Mary with sincere gratitude. She gave us a school which has grown into a fountain of national inspiration."

Offer $1,000 To Nurses for Further Study

Miss Edith Dick, Chairman of the Ontario Division Nursing Committee of the Canadian Red Cross Society announced that an award of $1,000 is being offered by Graduate Nurses registered in Ontario. The candidates selected for this award will use it to undertake further preparation in nursing at the degree level.

Interested nurses should contact the Canadian Red Cross Society, Ontario Division, attention Miss Mary Mason, Director of Voluntary Nursing Services, 489 Jarvis Street, Toronto, Ontario. To be eligible applications must be submitted by May 1st.

It is generally recognized that there is a great need within the nursing profession for nurses qualified to assume positions of responsibility and provide professional leadership. To encourage nurses with basic preparation to undertake graduate studies and qualify for senior positions, the Nursing Committee agreed that this financial assistance be made available. It is hoped that the Bursary will be awarded annually to a suitable applicant.

In 1945 a Bursary Award was established on the recommendation of the Nursing Committee to provide financial assistance to undergraduate students wishing to take a degree course in nursing at a University School of Nursing. As a result of the Bursary Awards commenced in 1945, 36 students completed their studies leading to degree B.Sc.N and have made worthwhile contributions to nursing. Since this type of assistance is now available from other sources which was not the case in 1945, the present award is for advanced preparation at the degree level. With the announcement of the new award, the Ontario Division of the Canadian Red Cross Society continues to encourage the preparation of nurses with leadership qualifications.

1. To be eligible for the award the applicant must be a graduate nurse, registered in Ontario with preferably a minimum of five years' nursing experience. She must intend to work toward a university degree and on completion of the course plan to make a contribution to nursing in Ontario.

2. The amount awarded to a successful candidate will be one thousand dollars, payable in two instalments.

3. No application will be considered unless the applicant has been accepted in a degree program by a university.

4. When selecting a candidate for the award consideration will be given to: (a) training and nursing experience of the candidate; (b) the proposed contribution to nursing in Ontario for which the candidate is preparing herself; (c) leadership qualities of the candidate.

Women's Activities

C.G.I.T.

The St. Andrew's Presbyterian C.G.I.T. group held their regular meeting last Monday evening which was opened in the usual manner.

The third chapter of Genesis was read and a short business period followed. During the evening the girls worked on their map making of British Guiana.

Several games were played in which the Scout group of the church also participated, after which the meeting closed with taps.

Club Activities

EGGLETON BESSENGERS

MADOC JCT. — The March meeting of the Eggleton Messengers was held on Friday afternoon at the school.

Glenn Stapley presided over the program which had been prepared by Kenneth Danford and Gerald Stapley, and opened the meeting with the call to worship and the hymn "Thine to be Holy," with Wayne McMullen at piano.

The Scripture lesson, taken from St. Mark's was read by Lois Danford.

A lovely little poem, "Two Gardens," was read by Carol Danford.

In next meeting to be held on Thursday afternoon, April 19, at the school.

Mrs. Melvin Clancy and Wayne McMullen to present the program. The Danford children offered to bring lunch.

Carol Stapley gathered the offering, which was dedicated with a prayer read by Lin Stapley.

The minutes were read by Dianne Frost and the roll call was answered by 23 children and two adults.

A humorous story, "The Mat, The Cat, and The Boy," was told by Carol White.

Lois Danford, Sheila Clarke, Carol Danford, Gerald Stapley, Teddy Clarke, Lloyd Clancy and Brian Kovach sang "We are the Father Above" with Mrs. Reide playing their accompaniment on the piano.

The leader, Mr. M. Clancy, read a letter she had received from Dr. Tom, thanking the children for the pretty Valentine sent to her.

Mrs. Clancy also read a story "The Mischief Maker," telling about a mischievous little boy in Iran. One day he fell from the roof of his home and broke his leg. The doctor at the mission set it. When he could walk again the parents were so thankful that they gave permission to the children in the family to attend the Missionary Bible School.

Mrs. Clancy had the pupils take part in singing two choruses, "Just Grin," using motion and "The Beauty of Jesus."

The second story, read by the leader, was about a little boy in Japan who loved the flowers and had his own little garden.

In September he started to school, but wasn't happy about going until one day his teacher let him look through a microscope. He was thrilled. This helped him to learn of the great number of "God's wonders" that can be seen everywhere about it can just uses his two bright eyes.

Then the World Friends' papers were distributed by Douglas Danford, Teddy Clarke and Lin Stapley.

Cookies and delicious homemade candy were then served by Lin Stapley, assisted by Kenneth Danford.

Successful Living

(A Canadian Social Worker Helps with Human Problems)

Second Husband Was Poor Choice

DEAR DORIS:—After my husband died, I was very lonesome, so I met this man I'm married to now. But I wish I'd never met him.

He drinks an awful lot. After the bar closes he goes to the cocktail bar. I get dinner ready and he figures I should keep it warm till he gets home at all hours, sometimes three and four in the morning. He had his back broken so there's no love between us. We have twin beds. He has his two or three times, broke my glasses, blackened my eye.

DORIS CLARK

I've been wondering just what am I living with this man for. I'm 56 and hate to go back to work again. I've told him to get out but he won't.

When he came home last night I was in bed, so had the door locked. Instead of using his key, he just pushed the door in and broke the lock.—WONDERING.

* * *

I'm wondering too. He hits you, neglects you, drinks. And he's only a partial meal ticket.

Is there anything left for you to build on? What did you see in him in the first place?

You have two alternatives: talk to a counsellor in the hope of saving your marriage; or get a separation. At least you own your home—one step on the way toward independence.

Worse situations than yours have been helped through counselling, so try that first. Your resource is the Children's Aid Society, 63 West Moira Street, Belleville, which counsels on family problems as well as when children are involved.

DEAR DORIS:—Although I am only 20 years old, I am very lonely. My people say I cannot go out to dances alone. And I was wondering how a girl can meet a nice boy that just likes good clean fun.

I love to go places where there are lots of other young people enjoying themselves. I am tired of staying in and looking at television all the time.—FED UP WITH LIFE.

DEAR FED UP:—Young people enjoy themselves all the time at your local Y.M. or Y.W.C.A. with all activities well chaperoned. Get out from in front of that TV and join in the fun. Membership is cheap.

* * *

DEAR DORIS:—I went with a boy for over a year and I like him very much. My father does not want me to go with him and some of my sisters and brothers don't like him.

But my mother said it's okay if I go with him. We are both in our 20's. How do tell me what to do.—HEARTBROKEN.

* * *

DEAR HEARTBROKEN:—Unless he is a criminal, mentally deranged or abnormal in some way, you have a right to make up your own mind.

But before you go too far, examine their objections and see whether they are sane, after all, reasonable. You'll be a long time married—so hope.

CONFIDENTIAL TO VERY UNHAPPY:—Please write again, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope, and I will be glad to be of help.

* * *

Specific Help For A Fund-Raising Tea Party

by Mary Moore

(Second instalment; first yesterday)

Yesterday promised to give you two cookie recipes for a fund-raising Tea. Both are conversation-starters and I know you will add them to your permanent cookie file and share them with others.

Dinner Menus

THURSDAY

Tomato Soup; Hot Melton Mowbray Pie; Green Beans; Sliced Tomatoes and Cucumbers; Vinaigrette; Ice Cream with Hot New Maple Syrup and Nuts; Tea.

SUNDAY

Boned Lamb Leg Stuffed with Rosemary Dressing; Mint Jelly; Glazed New Carrots; New Green Peas; Asparagus; Tomato Jelly Salad on Lettuce with Cottage Cheese Dressing; Graham Wafer Cake (see Friday); Coffee.

PECAN PRALINE BARS:

Sift together all-purpose flour, ¼ cup granulated sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt (see below), 1-2 cup butter or margarine, 1½ teaspoons grated lemon rind, 2 egg yolks and white separated, 2 tablespoons ice-cold water, ¾ cup lightly-packed brown sugar, 2 tablespoons corn starch, 1 whole egg, 1-2 cup corn syrup, 1-2 teaspoon vanilla, 3-4 cup coarsely-chopped pecans.

Sift flour into a mixing bowl the flour, the granulated sugar and 1-4 teaspoon of the salt. Cut in 1-4 cup of the butter or margarine finely; mix in grated rind. Add egg yolk and rub it in with the finger tips. Using a fork, lightly mix in ice-cold water, adding just enough to form a soft dough into an ungreased 9" square pan and pat it out with floured fingers into bottom of pan and up about 1-2" on sides. Chill. Cream the remaining 1-4 cup butter or margarine gradually blend in the 3-4 cup brown sugar, corn starch and the remaining 1-4 teaspoon salt. Beat whole egg and remaining egg white well; stir in corn syrup and vanilla. Add to creamed mixture and combine well. Turn mixture into dough-lined pan; sprinkle evenly with pecans. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. until filling is set in centre — 25 to 30 minutes. Cool on wire rack until cold. Cut into 2 strips; cut each strip into 8 bars.

THUMBPRINT COOKIES

1-3 cup butter or margarine (or 1-4 cup butter and 1-4 cup shortening) 1-4 cup white or brown sugar, 1 egg yolk beaten, 1-2 teaspoon vanilla or 1 teaspoon lemon juice, 1 cup sifted all-purpose flour, 1 slightly beaten egg white about 1 cup finely chopped nuts.

Cream together the butter and sugar very well and beat in the egg yolk and vanilla or lemon juice. Stir in the flour until dough is smooth. With lightly floured hands, shape dough into 24 uniform 1" balls. Dip in slightly beaten egg white and drain a little and drop into bowl of chopped nuts and roll over to coat balls. Lift out with pork (to prevent nuts sticking to your finger tips) and place about 1 1-2" apart on ungreased cookie sheet. Make an indentation with your thumb or floured thimble, at once. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 8 minutes then remove from oven and indent centres again. Bake another 8 or 9 minutes. (Do not overbake.) If desired fill centres now while cookies are warm with sparkling red jelly or jam or currant jelly or raspberry jam or apricot conserve or when cold store in cookie tin, with sheets of wax paper between layers and paper between them. When ready to serve fill with

Note:—When cookies are filled before storing the filling sticks to the sheets of waxed These keep well.

Canada Playing Useful Vigorous Role at Geneva

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

It can be reported without undue parochialism that Canada is playing a useful and vigorous role at the Geneva conference on disarmament.

Though there are probably times when the big powers wish External Affairs Minister Green had kept his delegation at home, the general impression is that Canada's stand has impressed many countries attending the 17-nation talks at the Palais des Nations.

It should be realized, of course, that Canada's influence perhaps tends to be exerted most frequently at somewhat less than top level.

That is to say, Green and his officials are not necessarily in the thick of things when the subject after is Berlin. This is strictly a big-power affair although Canadian delegates are kept in touch with developments, they can do little more than jog at the coat-tails of Russian Foreign Minister Gromyko and American State Secretary Rusk.

OBSESSIVE SUBJECT

For the Big Two, Berlin is an almost obsessive subject. It casts everything else, possibly excepting nuclear testing, into the shade. The Russians know that whenever they rattle the Berlin bell, the Americans will react.

On nuclear tests, Canadian suggestions may sometimes have irritated Britain and the United States. Green is persistently trying to associate some of the neutral countries with the test-ban talks, now restricted to the U.S., Britain and Russia, and there are reports that the Anglo-American team would be happier if Green had refrained from mentioning the neutrals.

Two correspondents with close contacts among delegates told a reporter they had heard "echoes" of occasional American impatience with Canadian middlings. But a veteran conference observer on the U.S. side asked for his view, commented:

"I think it is all to the good that Canada should exert its independence from time to time in a reasonable way. And I think we can say you have been reasonable."

PRAISED BY PRESS

Among members of the dwindling international press corps in Geneva, there has been consistent praise for Canada's efforts in seeking to foster the role of the eight non-aligned nations as a moral force exerting "pressure from below" on the nuclear giants.

Favorable comments were made by Yugoslav, Greek, Italian, French and British newspaper men here for the talks.

Individually, there was praise for delegation leader Green, whose sincerity and energy were widely noted. In the press room at Geneva, he became known as the one foreign minister who always had time for newspaper men.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Mr. C.G. — He is acting brutally toward his parents.

Marvin Y. — At last my eyes are open to what they did to me.

* * *

Mr. C.G. — My poor sister is heartbroken over the tongue lashings and abuse she and her husband have been receiving from their 19-year-old son, my nephew. From being a respectful, well-behaved young fellow, he now goes around ranting against his parents to anyone who'll listen.

At a family dinner party the other night, he threw things to turmoil with a diatribe against observing religious customs. Citing them all "bunk" and his parents "a pair of hypocrites," he had his mother in tears.

I've always been rather close to Marvin. That's how I got him to agree to tell the Council what's bothering him.

* * *

Marvin Y. — After almost two years of college, and my first opportunity to hear the other side — that is, other than my parents' opinions on everything — I feel I'm coming out of a daze. It's as though I've been hit on the head and brainwashed all my life. I'm just coming to!

Books I've read and people I've talked to assure me it's all right to doubt and question the Bible. But my parents have always clamped down on me for that. My mother's standard answer to my discoveries of contradiction in Holy Writ was, "It's not up to us to question." It all stinks to me. If they want to be blind sheep, okay. But they can't bulldoze me into following the herd anymore.

The Council: Marvin sounds drunk with power — the power, that is, to hurt. Having mixed with atheist, freethinker, agnostics and perhaps having come off badly in defending his life-long commitments, he is shocked at his faulty preparation for the many view-points that lie beyond his circle.

He feels alone and isolated among "liberated" youth. That hurts. And to ease the hurt he flails out at his parents for keeping him in an unreal dream world of religious observances.

To reassure the family, viz Mr. G., we must report that many college kids go through a few painful/both to them and their families/ years of iconoclasm and rebellion. Then Grey Awakening takes place. It dawns on them that the old values, the old home teachings must be baloney in the light of all the New Thought being passed around in the academic world. Wise parents listen, counsel temperateness and furnish quiet, confident that stability will result.

The aim is for open-mindedness — no closing of "the record." Marvin is in the first throes of this adolescent anarchy. While he cites his "score" for the old religious practices, he probably also would knock other family customs in the course of his present rampage.

What concerns us especially here is the violence of Marvin's fury. This may be in direct proportion to the repression, the taboo on discussion, experienced at home. Or it may be an awkward and unpolished protest at the gap between precept and example. Perhaps he is aware now of practices, condoned among family members, yet contrary to the teachings and commandments of the faith they profess. In other words, Marvin's unfeeling display undoubtedly has its roots in an unhealthy home climate.

Of Marvin we ask an immediate, cheerful on his temper and poor manners. (This may require aid from his college counselling clinic.) Although he need not be 100 per cent acquiescent, he must not go to the other extreme of damning everything indiscriminately. Surely his parents did many fine things for him, too.

Marvin must not let those "little groups of serious thinkers" derail him from the rocked of family ties. Some of the discussions, he'll find, are by serious groups of little thinkers!

Trespassing Bill Under Attack In Alta. House

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Mike Maccagno, lone Liberal member of the Alberta legislature, said Wednesday a government bill stiffening laws against illegal trespassing would give "cranks too much power."

The bill, given second reading, would allow a property owner to arrest anyone, who trespassed after he had served verbal notice or posted a sign prohibiting trespassing. Conviction could bring fines of $10 to $100.

Mr. Maccagno, member for Lac La Biche, suggested the bill in its present form "could result in the arrest of even a child who stepped on his (a crank's) land."

But Premise E. C. Manning, while indicating changes will be made in the bill before it comes up for third reading, defended the measure. He said it will act as a deterrent to a growing tendency of people to have little or no respect for the property of others.

Quebec—A government study committee recommended to the Quebec legislature that unbelievers and members of religions other than the Jewish and Christian ought to be allowed to testify in the province's civil courts. The report, tabled by Attorney - General Georges Lapalme, says those who cannot in good conscience swear on the Bible should be allowed to testify under a "solema declaration" which would have the legal force of a standard oath.

Fredericton — Premier Louis Robichaud said federal-provincial cost-sharing programs con, stitute an embarrassment to poorer provinces and an invasion of provincial autonomy. The Liberal premier suggested they be replaced by federal grants to the legislature "which should be left with the discretion as to how the money should be spent."

Charlottetown — The Prince Edward Island legislature gave second reading to a bill raising the province's rural highway speed limit from 50 miles an hour. The limit at night would be 35.

Halifax — The Nova Scotia House gave second reading to a bill allowing civil marriages in the province.

TO START DRIVE

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — A $6,200,000 building fund campaign on behalf of the expanding University of Western Ontario was announced Wednesday by Col. H. J. Weldon, chairman of the board of governors. The drive, which will begin officially March 1, 1963, and be spread over three years, will be headed by H. George De Young chairman of the National Productivity Council of Canada.

CRIME CONFERENCE — Chiefs of Police and other senior police officers in the Eastern Ontario district met yesterday in Belleville for their monthly conference. Discussing police operations are Chief R. J. Axcell, Ottawa; Chief W. F. Young, Brockville, zone chairman; District O.P.P. Inspector John Reavley of Cornwall, and Belleville Police Chief R. W. Probert.

Police Teletype System Proposed by District Chiefs

Police chiefs and ranking police investigation officers from the Eastern Ontario area on taking in from Trenton to the Quebec boundary, met in Belleville Wednesday for their monthly conference on criminal activities as they relate to their particular zone.

Summary of police officials attended the conference held at the county courthouse with Hastings county Crown Attorney John A. Pringle welcoming the visitors to the city.

The larger centres in the zone take turns in hosting the monthly get-together. Chairman is Police Chief W. F. Young of Brockville.

One of the major items on yesterday's agenda, was discussion on the possibility of the installation of a province-wide police teletype system which could also be operated on a zone basis.

Such a system would greatly reduce the number of long distance telephone calls between police departments and would provide instant communication for urgent police matters.

CIRCULARS NOT ANSWER

It would also minimize the quantity of inter-department circulars which today fall to completely fill the purpose for which the system was instituted many years ago.

No final decision on the police teletype system has been made, but it is expected the province would underwrite the initial installation costs with participating municipalities paying for monthly maintenance.

The monthly police conference on crime emanated from the Ontario Police Constables' Association convention in the fall that regular meetings on a zone basis would do much to combat crime in the province.

IS IT OUTDATED?

EDMONTON (CP)—Dr. Robert James, head of the University of Alberta's sociology department, says one of the "sacred cows" associated with the family is that the purpose of marriage is to procreate. This "may have had functional aspects in the pre-industrial society with its need for labor," he told the Edmonton family service bureau annual meeting Wednesday night, "but it no longer should have the same directive bearing on the lives of families."

Senate Gives Quick Approval To Five Bills

OTTAWA (CP)—Rumors of a general election just around the corner led the Senate to give quick approval to five bills Wednesday.

One government bill and four private measures were given third and final reading immediately after committees brought in favorable reports on them. The usual practice is to hold over third reading for a day or two after the committees report.

Opposition Leader Senator W. Ross Macdonald said he had no objections to passing the bills since all must go to the Commons for consideration.

"And in view of the (election) rumors, well-founded and otherwise, it is probably advisable we should get them there as soon as possible," he said.

Among the bills was one permitting the United Church of Canada to invest all or any portion of its moneys in common stock.

Steel Firms And Unions Reach Accord

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Top-level steel negotiators are reported to have reached broad agreement on a non-inflationary labor contract for the steel industry.

Reliable Washington sources said the chief bargainers for the union and the major steel firms reached agreement on a three-year contract Wednesday. The steelworkers' international executive board and international wage policy committee have been summoned to meet here next Saturday. Union law requires that any proposal must be ratified by the wage policy committee.

The union's 11 company negotiating committees will meet Sunday.

Coming three months ahead of the June 30 expiration date of existing contracts, the reported agreement would head off both a mid-year steel strike and a potentially dangerous rush in stockpile steel against the possibility of such a strike.

The agreement is said to pass up an immediate wage increase from the present average of $2.39 an hour paid to some 450,000 basic steelworkers. But it is reported to provide for about 10 cents an hour in "fringe benefits" — vacation, pension, and unemployment provisions.

The contract "could be reopened, it is reported, for wage negotiations at the end of its first year.

The vacation provisions, in particular, could contain some innovations. The union has been seeking prolonged, paid "sabbatical leaves" for employees with long service.

Federal Govt. to Build Four Special Institutions For 'Young Offenders'

OTTAWA (CP)—Four special institutions for "young offenders" will soon be built by the federal government, Justice Minister Fulton announced Wednesday.

He said it is hoped that these institutions—one each in the Atlantic provinces, Quebec, Ontario and the West—will be finished within four years.

Mr. Fulton said this will make it possible to isolate the young offenders—he did not cite an age limit—from other penitentiary prisoners. The emphasis would be not only on custody but also on treatment and rehabilitation.

The minister gave no further details of the plan in referring briefly to it in a speech in the Ottawa women's Canadian Club (At present, strict segregation of juvenile delinquents serving federal prison terms has been impossible due to lack of facilities. In the year ended March 31, 1961, 800 persons under 21 were sent to federal penitentiaries.)

Mr. Fulton mentioned the new building program in contest with a separate announcement of study of juvenile delinquency. The departmental committee already has begun consultations with interested groups in several cities, he said.

Some persons appearing before the committee feel that the high incidence of "drop outs" from school is a factor contributing to delinquency, Mr. Fulton said.

He said that despite the lack of statistics, it already is "obvious enough" that juvenile delinquency in Canada is increasing. It had been estimated that 15,000 juveniles were before the Canadian courts last year.

SMASHES PLOT

QUITO, Ecuador (AP)—President Carlos Arosemena announced Wednesday the smashing of a plot against his regime by a small group of army officers.

Harry Bridges Says World Labor Must Unite and Be Free of U.S. Domination

TORONTO (CP) — Canadian labor must be free of American domination and world labor must unite, a union rally was told Wednesday night by longshoreman Head Harry Bridges, long a controversial United States figure.

The European Common Market spells nothing but trouble for North American workers, the left - leaning Mr. Bridges said in a free-wheeling attack on United States foreign and domestic policy.

He spoke to an evening meeting of the 57th convention of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers. The first meeting in Canada of the all Canadian-U.S. convention, due to end Friday, comes at a time when the hard - rock miners' union is facing heavy Canadian raiding pressure from the rival United Steelworkers of America.

Wednesday night's meeting, which included an 800 Mine-Mill delegates' plus some 150 guests, was a show - piece affair featuring visitors identified as members of other unions including Hamilton's big Steel local, a Steel group.

ARE LABOR OFFICIALS

Mine-Mill, the Longshoremen, the United Electrical Workers and Steel all are expelled from the central American labor body, the AFL-CIO, in Canada. The Longshoremen are the only one of the four affiliated with the Canadian Labor Congress.

Read—and in some cases re-read—some of the issues at support from the Teamsters' Jimmy Hoffa and other union leaders.

Steel raids at Sudbury and Hamilton, Ont., Trail, B.C., and nickel field have dominated Mine-Mill business since the Mine - Mill convention began Monday.

Mr. Bridges said the U.S. pretends to know everybody's business around the globe and if those countries didn't understand what was good for them, the U.S. State Department "is a few beyonets."

Canada's labor movement was doing a better job than that in the U.S., although Hoffa's Teamsters were doing outstanding work.

Canada must be congratulated too for declining to resolve its starvation in Red China problem, Mr. Bridges' audience in Canadian sales to those countries of grain, and other products.

No cure was in sight for Canada's unemployment, he said. Steps to seek a trade agreement with the 24 - nation Common Market sought in the first place to reduce trade with the U.S. were fine.

But the second objective was cheap labor.

Mr. Bridges said American investment capital has been running away to Europe from Canada for more than 10 years, seeking cheaper labor and locations harmful to working men while American workers were unemployed. Now, he said, there loomed that products from plants established by foreign capital would flood the American market.

Canada should avoid this possibility. The U.S. plans included Canada, he added sarcastically.

"There's going to be a merger somewhere along the line with Prime Minister Fulton.

That, in the American view, would mean Canada's big industrialists to start auto factories in Detroit, film companies in Hollywood.

"Look out before you become the 49th state, because you are now," he said. "We're investing here just for your own good—don't you know that?"

Earlier, Canadian President W. S. Jackson of the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America said the Canadian Labor Congress has two unions which still seek to benefit the worker in a class anxiously dominated by big business.

Behind the trend toward the "ultra - right" were factions seeking to turn any measure of benefits to the working class and there were "screaming, bloodcurdling onslaughts" on any person who advocated such aid.

International President John Clark of Mine-Mill said at the night meeting he was heartened by the measure of support from unions and rank-and-file members of unions affiliated with the central labor groups.

In the U.S. leaders of some unions seemed to fear contamination of some kind through association with Mine-Mill.

The American wing was ejected from the old CIO on grounds of Communist influence and its leaders have been involved in a series of inquiries on those grounds.

The latest is a recommended decision by a federal board examiner that the union be declared Communist-infiltrated.

The 200 delegates passed a batch of resolutions Wednesday ranging from more mine safety and earlier retirement with benefits in the U.S. to an endorsation of an end to the world arms race.

Harvey Murphy, Trail, B.C., president of the Mine-Mill welfare region, called for Ontario crime commission to investigate the violence at Sudbury last year, as Hamilton's big Steel local, a Steel group.

Mr. Murphy said there were no arrests although the union hall was wrecked and the Hotel Nickel Belt said the "case stinks, to high heaven . . . a disgrace to Canada."

Prince Philip Ends Argentine Stay Early

BUENOS AIRES (Reuters)—Prince Philip began his Argentina four days ahead of schedule today in the wake of the bloodshed as Frondizi's counter was announced earlier today.

A British Dart Herald plane which had been standing by in Rio de Janeiro for the past week, flew to the ranch at 8 a.m. local time to pick up the prince and take him to Uruguay.

The decision to get him out of the troubled Argentine state Wednesday night as it became evident that the constitutionally elected Frondizi government which had invited him here would only last a matter of hours.

Prince Philip was expected to fly to Montevideo, the capital of Uruguay, and then travel along the Brazilian coast to the West Indies. He had already arranged to visit British Honduras before returning home April 6.

Nuclear Power Not for Canada Says Pearson

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada should "not become a nuclear power," Liberal Leader Pearson said Wednesday night.

"We should not have a policy that will make Canada a nuclear power by having our soil used for the storage of nuclear bombs or tactical control of any other country," he said on the CBC's national television series, The Nation's Business. He appeared in a filmed interview with actor Mavor Moore.

"I believe that we should have a defence policy which will not make Canada become a nuclear power in the sense of making, or using, or securing nuclear weapons for her forces and which would be under national control," Mr. Pearson said.

He said the Liberal party soon will make a "very detailed statement" on defence policy.

Federal Election Results Show Communists Must Do Fence-Mending

OTTAWA (CP)—The Russian embassy has published detailed results of the March 18 U.S.S.R. election and these show pretty clearly that the Communist party will have to do some fence-mending.

Over-all, the party candidates received 99.47 per cent of the 139,210,451 votes cast.

But an alarming situation developed in the Soviet Socialist Republic of Kazakhstan, for instance, where the Communists won only 99.06 per cent of the total vote.

Communist seats were considered pretty safe in the Republic of Georgia and this turned out to be correct. Party Stalwarts won 99.93 per cent of the total vote there.

Says the Soviet news bulletin of the results:

"The elections were marked by a high level of political activity on the part of the Soviet people. The election results have once again demonstrated the great moral and political unity of Soviet society and the triumph of socialist democracy."

POLL 'MAJORITIES'

The bulletin says with a straight face that "all the candidates nominated polled an absolute majority and were returned as deputies."

It adds almost as an afterthought that "all the elected deputies are candidates of the people's Communist and non-party bloc."

It doesn't mention, however, that Communist party candidates were the only candidates.

The reason that all candidates don't poll 100 per cent of ballots cast is that the voter is permitted to cast his ballot against the single candidate.

Total number of ballots cast against was 746,668 or 00.58 per cent.

The electorate comprised 140,022,359 persons and 99.95 per cent of them went to the polls. Apparently the health of the electorate is excellent.

Despite its laudable victory, the Communist party must be worried about the electoral disasters in Kirghizia and Tajikistan. Only 99.36 and 99.46 per cent of the vote, respectively.

FIGHT HOMELESS

AYLMER (CP) — Eight persons were left homeless Wednesday night when fire destroyed the 13 - room frame house of Attila Revelli. Loss was estimated at $10,000. The fire began in the attic. Cause is not known.

Bryan Clarke, member of the 1961 Belleville Cub pack who recently received his 14th Cub proficiency badge.

Steven Sharpe of Rossmore Manor of the 8th Belleville Cub Pack, received his 14th badge at a recent Father and Son banquet.

Doctors Say Three Out 100 Children Affected by Some Form of Mental Retardation

By AL COLLETTE

ABOARD THE EMPRESS OF ENGLAND (CP) — Mental retardation in one of the most perplexing encountered by doctors treating Canadian adults and children, a Halifax specialist said today.

Dr. William Cochrane, associate professor of pediatrics at Dalhousie University, told a meeting of family doctors that three out of 100 children are affected by some form of mental retardation.

There are about 500,000 mentally retarded persons in Canada.

Dr. Cochrane delivered a paper to the College of General Practice of Canada during a medical assembly which is being combined with an eight-day cruise from New York to Bermuda and Nassau.

Two hundred and 30 general practitioners and their wives spent Wednesday ashore in Bermuda.

LISTS CAUSES

Dr. Cochrane said prenatal causes account for about 45 per cent of the mental retardation total. Another eight per cent can be linked with events about the time of birth, and post-natal causes are implicated in the remaining 27 per cent.

Viral infections may be a cause in prenatal mental retardation. Some congenital anomalies and cases of mental retardation may be due to the expectant mother taking drugs, Dr. Cochrane said.

Dr. F. S. Brien, head of the department of medicine at University of Western Ontario, said many potent drugs for lowering blood pressure are available, but care must be taken while medication is withdrawn.

In a paper on hypnosis, Dr. J. F. Edward of Winnipeg urged family doctors to make more use of hypnosis.

In a demonstration before the doctors, he quickly hypnotized Dr. D. J. Hastings of Winnipeg.

Dr. Gerard Halpenny, president of the Canadian Medical Association, said the graduates of Canadian medical schools should be able to speak both English and French. He pointed out that Queen Mary Veterans Hospital in Montreal is one of the few hospitals in the world where undergraduates in medicine are taught in two languages.

NATIVE OF QUEBEC

Dr. Haplenny, a specialist in internal medicine, is a native of Quebec.

"It would be a great medical triumph if Canada, on her 100th birthday, possessed a single medical organization which embraces all the doctors on our two ethnic groups," he said.

"Within the framework of this organization the preservation of the languages and ideals of our separate French and English heritages would be safeguarded to grow and flourish side by side.

"It has never been our wish to absorb the French doctors in an English organization. Our goal has been a national bilingual organization which would retain the individualities of our two medical groups."

(At present Canada has two national organizations—the Canadian Medical Association and L'Association des Medicins de Langue Francaise.)

White Collar Union Gets New Contract

HAMILTON (CP)—One of the few white collar unions in Hamilton has negotiated a seven per cent salary increase for 174 Canadian Westinghouse Co. Ltd. draftsmen in a two-year contract.

The employees, who belong to local 184, American Federation of Technical Engineers, received a four per cent increase dated to Feb. 14 and will receive three per cent next Feb. 14.

The immediate increase brought the minimum rate for men on a 37½-hour week to $264 a month and for those on a 40-hour week, to $280.

The maximum monthly rates will range from $319 for a 37½-hour week to $358 for a 40-hour week.

Pouliot Marks 72nd Birthday, Defends Senate

OTTAWA (CP)—Liberal Senator Jean (— Francois Pouliot marked his 72nd birthday Wednesday with a rousing defence of the upper chamber.

The Quebec senator spoke in the Senate during a CBC French-language television network panel program, Tribune Libre.

In a program from Montreal Monday four panelists agreed that the senate is not playing the effective part in Canadian government set aside for it by the Fathers of Confederation.

"Senate messengers or page boys could have informed the listeners better," snapped Senator Pouliot, whose political career goes back to 1904 when he was first elected to the Commons.

Senator Pouliot, a Riviere-du-Loup lawyer, said that the charge that senators lacked information "was utterly false."

They have the use of the library of Parliament—"one of the finest in the country, if not the world"—and cabinet ministers appear before Senate committees to explain bills, he said.

The panelists should read the British North America Act which sets out the duties of the Senate. They should also read Senate debates.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Clarke and family, also Mr. and Mrs. W. Cross spent Sunday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Cross.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Cassho and family spent Saturday evening with Mr. and Mrs. B. Cross.

Mrs. Rita Haight spent Sunday with her sister, Mrs. J. Cross, also at the same home Mr. and Mrs. C. Boyle and family, Mrs. S. Watson and family and Mrs. T. Lewis.

SAYS BID SAME

TORONTO (CP) — Manufacturers of electric light bulbs have arranged bidding so that "they all get a turn at the trough," Toronto board of education was told Wednesday by trustee William Ross. Three companies — Canadian General Electric Company Limited, Dominion Electric Supply Company Limited and Winker Lighting Limited—each offered identical prices.

New Legion Hall Nearing Completion

DESERONTO — Work on the new Legion Hall on Main St. was recommencing last week and is progressing favorably. The contractors are proceeding with the erection of the brick and at the same time the installation of the heating and lighting is being carried on in the basement which was almost completed last fall. It is expected that with continued good weather the hall will be completed by the end of April.

On Saturday next the members of the Legion are having a construction bee to pour the cement for the floor of the basement.

The legion members are aiming to complete the building so they can move in as their activities are seriously curtailed because of a lack of facilities in their temporary quarters. The committee in charge have been pricing tables and chairs so that the necessary furniture will be ready when the building is ready for occupancy.

He Might Break Maris Mark

Keep An Eye On Cepeda!

NEW YORK (AP) — If you're looking for someone who might smash Roger Maris' mark of 61 home runs in a season, look elder Orlando Cepeda.

There are many folks who figure the 24-year-old San Francisco Giant star is just the man to do it—and this year.

Cepeda, 1961 National Baseball League homer king with 46 round-trippers, gave his backers added support Wednesday when he hit a three-run homer that snapped a 5-5 tie and carried the Giants to an 11-6 triumph over Los Angeles Angels at Palm Springs, Calif.

It was No. 4 of the exhibition season for Cepeda and his third in three consecutive games.

In other noteworthy developments, Ken Johnson of Houston Colts became the first pitcher this spring to hurl a nine-inning shutout as he blanked Boston Boston Red Sox 6-0 on five hits as Scottsdale, Ariz.

The Yankees defeated St. Louis Cardinals 4-1 at Fort Lauderdale, Fla., Philadelphia Phillies whipped Milwaukee Braves 12-11 at Clearwater, Fla., Cincinnati Reds beat Detroit Tigers 9-5 in 10 innings at Lakeland, Fla., New York Mets edged Los Angeles Dodgers 4-3 at St. Petersburg, Fla., Cleveland Indians beat Chicago Cubs 3-0 at Mesa, Ariz., and Minnesota Twins defeated Pittsburgh Pirates 7-6 at Orlando, Fla.

But Condition Still Critical

Paret 'Slightly Improved'

NEW YORK (AP) — Former welterweight boxing champion Benny (Kid) Paret entered his fifth day of unconsciousness today. His wife was optimistic but doctors said he still has only a slight chance to survive.

Paret, from Cuba, was knocked out by Emile Griffith in the 12th round of their title fight Saturday night.

A medical bulletin from Roosevelt Hospital Wednesday night said the 25-year-old fighter "is maintaining the slight improvement which he showed Wednesday. His condition remains critical."

A hospital spokesman said

MUST ACCEPT ALL
LAUSANNE, Switzerland (AP)—The International Olympic Committee announced Wednesday it will award future games only to countries which agree to admit athletes from all member nations. The decision could cost the United States the Games in the future.

IOC chancellor Otto Mayer of Switzerland told reporters the new rule was adopted at the last meeting of the executive council here March 2-3.

The action came after disputes over the admission of Communist East German athletes to the world alpine ski championships in Chamonix, France, and the world ice hockey tournament in Colorado Springs earlier this year.

Paret's coma had lessened but remained deep, "there's no way telling how long he'll be in a coma. He could come out of it in a few minutes or a year from now. And he might not come out of it at all."

While the reports were not encouraging, Paret's pregnant wife, Lucy, said "I feel a lot better than I felt about his condition before. To me he's just sleeping. I'm praying that any minute, he will wake up."

The fight continued to draw criticism. In Vatican City, the Vatican Radio called professional boxing "objectively immoral" because physical injury "is its very nature, aims and methods."

The New York state legislature ordered an investigation of boxing, its safety procedures and possible criminal elements. The investigation will determine whether the state should outlaw boxing or regulate it more strictly.

Sports Snapshots

By JACK SULLIVAN

Canadian Press Sports Editor

These Stanley Cup playoffs aren't the same at all.

Jacques Plante could throw away his mask, Johnny Bower might even break down and disclose his age, National Hockey League President Clarence Campbell could declare open season on referees and forget his law training and issue a statement of not more than 50 words.

Conn Smythe could even set up a bar in the Toronto Maple Leafs dressing room.

Chicago fans probably will throw a live hamster or two on the ice and pelt between-period television interviewers on the ice with cold beer. Foster Hewitt might even fall out of his gondola high up in Maple Leaf Gardens.

ONE THING MISSING

And coaches Doug Harvey, Punch Imlach, Toe Blake and Rudy Pilous might call a meeting and issue a communique to the effect that:

(A) The players can open the gates themselves (B) the coaches won't, under any circumstances, tell sports writers that their guys put their pants on one leg at a time, and (C) referees and linesmen are only human and that goal judges aren't blind.

All of this might be newsworthy, but can anyone honestly say they won't miss the octopus thrower?

As any respectable hockey fan knows, he has been a tradition with Detroit Red Wings for years. He's been around almost as long as Jolly Jack Adams and the Detroit front office has shown a lack of imagination by deciding to ignore his existence in the club's year book.

Hockey fans no longer refer to Detroit as the Motor City. They know it as the home base of Gordie Howe and the octopus thrower and both are missing this year because New York Rangers — the cads — beat out Red Wings for the last playoff spot.

TRUE ARTIST

The octopus thrower, whoever he may be, is a true artist. He doesn't throw the thing on the ice at Detroit Olympia during the regular season. He reserves this ritual for the playoffs and only when excitement is greatest.

When the thing hits the ice with a great splat, everything seems to settle down. Then conversations spring up as fans talk to their neighbors about the octopus thrower, Red Wing players, except the rookies, automatically skate to the bench while players of the opposing team and the sweepers poke around it, waiting for the thing either to jump or explode.

There's no other fan like him. In Montreal, they throw rubbers, programs and so on. In Toronto, let's just say they're unimaginative lot. In Chicago, they throw peanuts, rubbers, programs, coins, beer and firecrackers and, on occasion, live rabbits.

Black Hawk fans throw things just for the heck of it at any time.

The octopus thrower always seems to let it go at the right moment.

We'll miss him.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

It's Stanley Cup time and the hockey buffs crouched in front of the living room "private eyes" are enjoying the pot of hockey gold that is at the end of every schedule rainbow.

And inevitably discussions, sometime arguments, crop up while mine host is in the kitchen gathering cold cues, cuts and suds.

There are those who disdain the sometimes dusty between-periods interviews and hold conclaves of their own. Player and team records often form the theme of the TV coaches and experts so just to keep peace in the picture, tube families, here are some answers to questions that might pop up.

Montreal and Chicago will meet in the 1962 Stanley Cup playoffs for the fourth straight year. This is Canadiens' 14th consecutive appearance in the playoffs. Last time they missed was in 1948. Last year's Stanley Cup champion Chicago Black Hawks will be seeking their fourth cup. They were victors in 1934, 1938 and 1961.

Canadiens have won the coveted Cup more times than any team. They've won it 13 times. Canadiens were winners in 1916, 1924, 1930, 1931, 1944, 1946, 1953, 1956, '57, '58, '59 and 60 . . Toronto Maple Leafs will be after their eighth Stanley Cup. The Leafs won the Cup in 1932, 1942, 1945, 1947, 1948, 1949 and 1951.

Last time New York Rangers were in the playoffs was/1958—and the last time they won the Stanley Cup was 1940. Rangers have won the prized silverware three times, 1928, 1933 and 1940.

Toe Blake will be seeking his sixth Stanley Cup as a coach. He is the only mentor in history to coach five Cup teams in succession. Rudy Pilous will be after his second in as many years. Punch Imlach and Doug Harvey will be after their first Cup as a coach. This is Harvey's first playoffs as a coach while Imlach has had three previous tries.

Frank Selke will be going for his seventh Cup as a manager. Conn Smythe, Jack Adams and Tommy Gorman were the only managers to handle seven Cup winners.

Doug Harvey has taken part in more playoff games than any player active today. He had played 133 games prior to the start of the 1961 playoffs. Maurice Richard holds the record at 133 games. Players from Montreal and Detroit hold the majority of the individual playoff records.

Maurice Richard holds the following records himself: most winning playoff goals (18); most hat tricks (7); most goals scored in a single game (5); most goals in playoff competition (83), and most points in playoff play (126). He shares records such as most goals in a playoff series (13). Jean Beliveau of Canadiens also had 12. Most assists in a playoff game (5). Toe Blake, Bert Olmstead and Don McKenney also had 5 assists in a game.

Gordie Howe holds a few records himself, such as most points in a playoff series (26); most assists in playoff competition (64), and fastest goal in a playoff game (9 seconds from the start of the game). Howe and former linemates with the Red Wings, Ted Lindsay and Earl Reibel hold the record for most points by a forward line in a playoff series (61). Fleming Mackell set a record of most assists in a playoff series (14) with Boston in 1958.

Such records as most points in a game by a defencemen (5) is held by Eddie Bush. Turk Broda set the record for most shutouts by a goalkeeper while playing with Toronto. He racked up 12 shutouts in 13 playoff series. Jacques Plante of Canadiens has 10 in nine series.

Four goalies, Terry Sawchuk, Frank McCool, Dave Kerr and Clint Benedict, share the record of most shutouts in a playoff series (4). Canadiens' Dickie Moore holds the record for most points in a single playoff game (6). He had two goals and four assists against Boston on March 25, 1954.

Most one-sided game was when Montreal defeated Toronto, 11-0, on March 30, 1944. Shortest overtime lasted 23 seconds. Syd Howe scored for Detroit to give Wings a 2-1 win over New York Americans on March 19, 1940.

Longest overtime game lasted 176 minutes and 30 seconds. This game went 116 minutes and 30 seconds into overtime. Mud Bruneteau scored for Detroit at 2.25 in the morning on March 25, 1936, to give Red Wings a 1-0 victory over Montreal Maroons. Mac Kilrea gave Bruneteau the pass at 16.30 of the 5th overtime period.

Canadiens won 8 straight in 1960, over Chicago and Toronto. Detroit won 8 straight in 1952, over Toronto and Canadiens. Most goals in a final series (47) was set in 1955. Detroit scored 27 and Montreal 20 in a seven-game series.

TRIBUNE MAKES CHANGE

NEW YORK (AP) — Stanley Woodward, 65, sports editor of the New York Herald Tribune from 1936-46 and 1959 to the present, will become sports edi- for emeritus April 1, publisher John Hay Whitney announced Wednesday night. Whitney said the Hawks would have the advantage as the scene shifts to Chicago for the third and fourth games April 1 and April 3.

If further games are necessary, they'll be played at Montreal April 5, Chicago April 8 and Montreal April 10.

Pilous concedes the Canadiens have great balance on front—seven 20-goal scorers in regular-season National Hockey League play — "but it won't mean a thing if Hall remains hot."

Pilous and other Chicago officials regard tonight's game as a key one.

"There's no doubt that splitting the first two games here would leave us in much better shape," said Pilous.

Coach Toe Blake of Canadiens, meanwhile, said he regards tonight's game as a big one—"just like all other playoff games."

HAVE WORKOUT

The Canadiens with the exception of Plante and defencemen Lou Fontinato went through a light workout Wednesday. The Hawks only scheduled an optional skating session and seven players turned out.

Plante asked for the day off after a 36-stop performance in

Hawks, Habs Series One for Goalies

So Says Mr. Pilous

By LAURENT CHIASSON

MONTREAL (CP) — Coach Rudy Pilous figures the Stanley Cup semi-final series that pits his Chicago Black Hawks against Montreal Canadiens will be decided by goaltending.

The best-of-seven round would then boil down to a question of who turns out to be the "hottest goalie"—Jacques Plante of Canadiens or Glenn Hall of the Black Hawks.

"Everything is equal on the defences and along the forward lines," said Pilous Wednesday. "So it figures that whoever comes up with the big saves will hold up his team."

Both netminders turned in superb performances in Tuesday night's series opener, which Canadiens won 3-1. The set resumes here tonight.

Pilous says the Hawks will be out to prove they are the defending world champions in tonight's battle.

PLAY IN CHICAGO

Canadiens would be in the driver's seat if they win the second game. But if they lose, the Hawks would have the advantage as the scene shifts to

Unhappy Over Performance

Cautious Imlach 'Ain't Talkin'

By BILL MacDOUGALL

TORONTO (CP) — Unsalvoed coach Punch Imlach of Toronto Maple Leafs isn't counting his chickens before they've hatched these days, at least not publicly.

The loquacious Imlach, who doubles as the club's general manager, has been willing all this season to tell reporters how his Leafs were going to win this and that.

Before the Stanley Cup semi-final serie, against New York Rangers started Tuesday night, Imlach became cautious, reserving comment about his the series' opener and Blake said "the rest won't do him any harm."

Fontinato is hampered by a recurring groin injury and took a whirlpool bath treatment later in the day. He's expected to be available for duty, though he may have to be spotted.

Blake had a word of caution for his players.

"Chicago has a good hockey club," he said. "We can't afford to ease up for a minute. We will have to keep on playing very hard to beat them.

winger Frank Mahovlich.

Stasiz, a crowd-pleasing right winger, hurt his left knee twice this season and had two shoulder separations. Imlach hasn't been satisfied with his play since. Ron Stewart, generally used as a penalty killer, took his place Tuesday night.

Stewart and Stasiz were among a handful of Leafs who participated in a full length practice Wednesday. The rest of

UNHAPPY WITH OPENER

And the Leafs coach was anything but pleased with Toronto's shoddy performance Tuesday night. They were saved only by the fact that New York also had a bad night and Imlach figures his club has to—and can—play much better.

Imlach may also be remembering a prediction—a wrong one—he made last December. The Leafs, said Imlach, were going to finish the National Hockey League season in first place ahead of Montreal Canadiens. Toronto finished second, a substantial 13 points behind Montreal.

Imlach plans to use Eddie Shack tonight on a line with centre Red Kelly and left the club, except centre Dave Keon who was rested, skated for a short while.

Imlach received a bit of consoling news. One of two injured players, left winger Bert Olmstead or defenceman Carl Brewer, may be back in action a week from Saturday night when the sixth game is scheduled, if the series goes that far. The Leafs coach wouldn't say which player.

Grab 3-1 Lead

Dogs Shade Maroons

CHATHAM (CP) — Windsor Bulldogs moved into a 3-1 lead in their best-of-seven series for the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A title Wednesday night, edging Chatham Maroons 6-5.

The largest crowd of the season, 2,115, was kept in suspense until the final whistle. Chatham had 2-1 after one period, but the Bulldogs fired four unanswered goals in the second.

Veterans Gord Haidy and Lou Bendo paced the victory with two goals each. Bob Brown and Irwin Gress added the other Windsor goals.

Playing coach Ted Power, who played a large part of the game, scored twice for Chatham. Single goals went to Dave Lucisk, Joe Malo and Conolly.

The two clubs clash in the fifth game of the series tonight in Windsor. The winner of the series meets Kapuskasing, the Northern Ontario winner.

Ross Child, played a strong game in the Windsor nets, making 28 saves, including 15 in the second period. Maroons goalie Al Bennett had 22 saves, including 11 in the first period.

Whip Kingston 7-4 in Overtime

Junior Macs Win East. Ont. Title

By OAKEY ALEXANDER
Staff Writer

KINGSTON — Billy McGuire pulled the trigger twice in overtime here last night and brought the OHA Eastern Junior "B" hockey league championship back to Belleville for the first time in ten years.

McGuire's two overtime markers, and one by Moe Hunter, who had scored in the last minute of regulation time to deuce it up, carried an inspired Belleville McFarland squad to a 7-4 victory over the Kingston Frontenacs.

The Macs won the bitterly-fought series four games to two, after trailing at one point two games to one, and will now advance into the hunt for the all-Ontario championship.

A round-robin series amongst Belleville, Waterloo and the winner of the Woodbridge-Dixie series pavés the way to the semi-finals.

Belleville, playing with just two lines, two sets of defencemen and a goalie for the past four games, looked to be a best-on club late in the third period.

The Macs played a tremendous first thirty minutes of hockey, leading 3-1 at the end of the first, and were still in front 3-2 after two periods. But in the third the Macs legs turned to rubber when Kingston tied the score on a disputed goal at 1.44 and took the lead 4-3 on a penalty shot at 11.52.

From then on the Macs travelled on sheer guts alone. They looked dead tired but they came charging back and only the stellar work of Kingston goalie Kurt Demmler held the score down.

Finally, at 19.10 of the third, Moe Hunter shoved the tying goal behind Demmler after a sustained attack.

McGuire, who had scored back in the first period to give Belleville a 2-0 lead, executed a beautiful play to score the winning goal at 5.40 of the ten-minute overtime test.

He stole the puck at the Kingston blueline, stickhandled around two defencemen and backhanded the rubber home six feet in front of the net.

A Belleville penalty at 8.10 gave Kingston a chance to end it again but McGuire broke up the Frontenac powerplay attack, skated the length of the ice and around Demmler, and dumped the insurance goal into the empty net. Hunter added another at 8.10 with a hard wrist shot.

Back in the first, the Macs skated and hustled the Kingston club into the ice, forcing the Frontenac defencemen to make mistakes that led to three goals. Smith, at 42 seconds, Bill Stewart at 5.07 and Weston at 16.12 were the markers. Kingston's lone goal of the period came at 11.37 by Ron Reid.

Demmler was sensational in the first half of the second period. He robbed Dave Smith of four sure goals and several other Macs on numerous occasions as Belleville dominated play.

Finally, the pace began to tell and with two Belleville players in the penalty box at 17.40 Curran scored the first of his three goals to make it 3-2. Curran's second marker early in the third, which Parker claimed never did cross the goal line, and his third on a penalty shot after Mavety tripped him from behind on a breakaway, set the stage for Hunter's last-minute equaliser and McGuire's overtime tally.

Second and third period fights between defencemen Paul Zakos and Garfield Ball drew major penalties both times. Otherwise it was a rugged hard-hitting but clean affair. The Macs drew five minors and Kingston four.

EXPECT APRIL MEETING

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP)—President Ralph A. Olivo of the New Brunswick Fish and Game Protective Association said Wednesday the founding convention of the Canadian Wildlife Federation—an affiliation of all provincial fish and game associations — is expected to be held in Ottawa next month. Olivo is secretary of a five-man committee which announced incorporation of the federation Oct. 27 at the resources for tomorrow convention in Ottawa.

Kingston Takes Over Top Spot

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Kingston Frontenacs finally uncorked their vaunted power Wednesday night and moved to the front of the Eastern Professional Hockey League.

They'll be there to stay if they beat their chief rivals, Hull-Ottawa Canadiens, in their season windup game at Kingston Friday night. If they lose, they're deadlined for the runner-up spot.

Kingston whipped the Thunderbirds 3-2 Wednesday night to close out the season at Sault Ste. Marie. With one game remaining, they are a point ahead of the Habs. The Canadiens, however, have an additional home game Sunday afternoon against Kitchener - Waterloo Beavers, who are four points behind the Fronts and who play host to the T-Birds Friday night.

The first three positions, therefore, remain in doubt right down to the last game.

Kingston O'Neil Tessier picked up his 54th goal Wednesday night and Tom McCarthy got his 52nd. Bobby Leiter scored twice, one on a penalty shot, and Red Ouellette added a single.

Jim Farrell spoiled Ed Chadwick's shutout bid in the third period.

White Sox Do It With Mirrors

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP)—Chicago White Sox pitchers are doing it with mirrors these days.

They are throwing off a regulation pitcher's mound at a mirror, 30 feet three inches away—half the standard pitching distance.

The mirror is three feet wide, five feet high. It is propped up 18 inches from the ground and is attached to a frame with a crank for tilting it.

"The idea is for the pitchers to watch themselves while they pitch," Danny Litwhiler, baseball coach at Florida State University, said Wednesday. The mirror is his idea.

The thing dawned on me after listening to Ted Williams expound on the benefits of swinging in front of a mirror," Litwhiler said.

His biggest problem was to find glass withstand 100-mile-an-hour pitches. Litwhiler phoned the United States rubber base at Cape Canaveral, Fla., and was informed of a manufacturer who made windows for missiles that would take a meteor blast without shattering.

AGREE TO TERMS

BOSTON (AP)—Terry Downes of London and Paul Pender of Brookline, Mass., agreed Wednesday to take brain tests before their middleweight title bout April 7. Downes holds the European, Massachusetts and New York version of the middle weight title, while Gene Fullmer is the National Boxing Association champion.

Sweeney Pots Three In 5-3 Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

There's no stopping Bill Sweeney Springfield Indians, headed for his second consecutive American Hockey League scoring title and one point shy of going over the 100-mark for the second straight season.

Sweeney, locked in a season-long battle with team - mate Brian Kilrea for the scoring crown, took a commanding seven-point lead with one game to go by scoring three goals as Springfield defeated Cleveland Barons 5-3 Wednesday night in a battle between the Eastern and Western Division leaders.

Buffalo Bisons clinched second place in the west by defeating the third-place Rochester Americans 4-3. Defenceman Larry Keenan scored since the opening game of the season, fired a goal as Hershey Bears beat Pittsburgh Hornets 4-3.

HOW HE DID IT

Sweeney scored one goal in the first period and two in the second for a total of 40 goals and 60 points. The Springfield centre won the title last year with 108 points on 40 goals and 68 assists. Kilrea has 39 goals, 97 points.

Dave Amadio and Jim Anderson accounted for the other Springfield scoring. Wayne Larkin, Hank Ciesla and John Ferguson counted for the losers.

Nine Teams In Hunt for Junior Crown

Nine teams, including the Belleville McFarlands, remain in the hunt for the OHA all-Ontario Junior "B" hockey championship.

Belleville, Waterloo and the winner of the Metro group finals will play a round-robin series. Woodbridge and Dixie are tied two games apiece in their best-of-seven Metro finals.

The round-robbi will be part of the Ontario semi-finals. Each club will play home and home against the others and the two top clubs will then meet.

Meanwhile, Chatham and Welland are playing a best-of-five series which Chatham leads one game to none. The winner will meet a winner between Tillsonburg, Sarnia and St. Thomas.

Tillsonburg and Sarnia are currently tied 3-3 in their best-of-five series.

The provincial finals will pit a winner from amongst Belleville, Waterloo, Woodbridge and Dixie against a winner from amongst Chatham, Welland, St. Thomas, Sarnia and Tillsonburg.

LATER REPORT

Belleville McFarlands will open the round-robin series in Waterloo at 2.30 Sunday afternoon. The Macs will play at home near Friday, April 4th.

CHATHAM (CP)—If Canada is to produce homegrown football players, Canadians will have to begin teaching their boys the fundamentals of the game when they are eight or nine years old.

"They way also have to make it easier for boys to enter universities by lowering the scholastic standards demanded.

That's the opinion of the man who was voted the nation's outstanding football player in 1961, Bernie Faloney.

The Hamilton Tiger-Cats quarterback addressed the Chatham Rotary Club Wednesday. He said that had he been born a Canadian and lived here throughout his life, he would never have been able to go to university, or possibly even to complete high school, would never have played football, become professionally and on Grey Cup teams, he wouldn't be working, to aid crippled children as he is, "or speaking to you here today".

He wouldn't have been considered sufficiently intelligent, he admitted.

In growing up the Pittsburgh native added, he ceased to be lazy about lessons, adjusted to school and eventually graduated with honors.

He predicted a bright future for Canadian football if Canadians stick to their own style of playing and refuse to adopt the suggested changes that would make it a copy of the sport as it is played in the United States.

Cuba Invites Ontario Track Team

TORONTO (CP) — Cuba has invited a team of eight Ontario track and field stars to compete in the Caribbean island against Cuba's top athletes, it was reported Wednesday.

The report said Cuba will pay all expenses for the trip planned for late next month.

An official of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada said such a trip is feasible, but the athletes must be guaranteed safe conduct from the Cuban authorities.

Previously, 30 Ontario swimmers had been invited through Steve Methlos, Toronto swimming coach, and Alberto Boza, the Cuban consul here, to compete against Cubans in Havana April 20-22.

Automobile Driving by Cops Not Always the Best

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — In the bygone golden days of the police show (Dragnet, The Line-up, Highway Patrol) the most thrilling aspect of the series was the foot-chase—sometimes downright incompetent — automobile driving of the cops.

Good, grey Sgt. Frank Smith was forever, skidding around corners on squealing tires. Inspector Mark Saber usually pulled up right in front of a fire hydrant, even when there was other space available.

Well, television is older now, and the policemen's duties take an hour to solve crimes instead of 30 minutes, but I regret to say that operation of motor vehicles by police heroes hasn't improved a whit.

Youngsters with big eyes and ears certainly must get a strange idea about the operation of a motor vehicle from them.

Sid Caesar will star in a series of nine specials for ABC next season—in Ernie Kovacs' old time spot. And with his spoon-ful . . . Tallulah Bankhead, who almost never is seen on television, will star in the May 2 CBS Steel Hour drama called A Man for Cona.

ABC is certainly giving the loud combiners a chance to put their dials where their mouths are. There was a lot of howling about cancelling the Law and Mr. Jones. There was more howling about the death of Voice of Firestone in 1959. Both succumbed to low ratings. The Law and Mr. Jones will be back in the ABC schedule April 19. Firestone returns weekly next season.

MONTREAL (CP) — Henri (Pocket Rocket) Richard, on the sidelines with a broken arm, had planned to turn sports writer during the Stanley Cup playoffs, but his bosses nipped his writing career in the bud.

The starry centre with the NHL champion had an article published Tuesday under his byline in the Montreal daily Le Nouveau Journal. Wednesday the newspaper carried an announcement that Richard had been ordered by Frank Selke, Sr., managing director of Montreal Canadiens, to drop the column.

Selke was quoted as saying there is an unwritten NHL law preventing players from expressing their views through newspapers or other media of information.

NHL president Clarence Campbell said it is a matter of policy, agreed upon by all six teams, that no player shall be retained by anybody as a writer or broadcaster without the written consent of his team. This stipulation was expressed in each player's contract.

Richard Haydn Has Some Unkind Words for Oscar

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — That Piccadilly pixie, Richard Haydn, has some unkind words for Oscar.

This is the season for it, in 10 days Hollywood will be performing its annual orgy of award-giving, and then the town can go back to making movies. Meanwhile, it is still open season on that favorite target, Oscar.

George C. Scott fired a blunderbuss at the Golden Lads, asking that his nomination be withdrawn because the Academy race has become too commercial.

"I applaud George C. Scott," says Haydn, whose weapons are more subtle.

The English-born comedian, director and actor admitted he was once a member of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences.

"I quit the year they nominated Cornel Wilde for an award," he said. "That was the end."

Haydn believes the Academy can never reward artistic merit properly under its present setup.

"Too many Academy voters have a commercial interest in how they vote," he observed. "They say, 'Dear me, if I don't vote for Cornel Wilde, then I won't be able to send my daughter to a private school. Poor Ezzie, having to go to a public school.

"So they vote for their self-interest. It's impossible for them to think of something besides commercial terms. It's like asking a blind man to describe the spectrum."

Haydn put-tutted the campaigning that Scott rallied about.

"It got to the ridiculous point last year when I received a birthday card from Chill Wills. A huge one—from a man I didn't know.

INTENTION CLEAR

"When I was a director at Paramount, all of us got telegrams telling us it would be in our best interests to vote for the studio's contenders. It was all very carefully worded, but the intention was clear."

What can be done to make the Academy less commercial?

"I don't know," Haydn admitted, "but it seems to me the Academy made more sense back in its early days when it was a small affair, a banquet for the insiders. Perhaps it should go back to being small again.

"Also, there should be some representation by foreign film industries — England, France, Italy, etc. The movie industry is no longer limited to Hollywood."

Astrological Forecast

Friday, March 30
By SYDNEY OMARR

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) — Listen to voice, of experience. You are apt to resent being told what to do . . . but you are being told for your own good. Separate business from pleasure.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20) — Push ahead with plans, ambitions. Some may tell you those aspirations are "far-fetched." Trust your own judgment . . . live your own life . . . not a life others might prefer.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Consideration should be key . . . an understanding of feelings, desires of those to you, today. Don't rationalize. See picture clearly. Your abilities are needed. Be weighed.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21) — Excellent day for formulating new ideas . . . but not particularly favorable for putting ideas into action. Key is to plan, prepare. Weigh carefully any new offer.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — You could run up against opposition if you allow determination to change to stubbornness. Listen to reason or the choice may be taken away with loss of pride.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 21) — Temper your desires with realistic attitude in connection with money matters. Tomorrow is another day. Permit practical analytical side to take upper hand.

Libra (Sept. 22 to Oct. 22) — You could be fooling yourself today. Temptation is to skip the mundane . . . and seek pleasure. Emphasis is on details, future security. Steady course ahead.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Tendency to rush . . . only to have to wait. Your activity cycle is up . . . you tend to be restless. Visit, entertain . . . get into social swing tonight. Use sense of humor.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — You must ask yourself if what you own, what you desire . . . leads toward road of happiness. Concentrate on knowing yourself. This is more important than momentary pleasures. Read . . . strive toward self-enlightenment.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — If you are reasonable in demands . . . you get what you go after. Otherwise, you could price yourself out of the market. Many bright spots . . . in love, career, future security.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — You could discover the beauty of relaxation. Instead of sustained activity tonight, try reading, the theatre, entertaining at home. Take it easy. You'll be happier.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) — Take problems of others into consideration. By so doing, you avoid pointless disputes. Opportunity to help friends seems to fore. Key word is generosity, forgive.

If today is your birthday . . . emphasis this year on home, possible changes of plans . . . and the straightening out of major domestic problem.

General Tendencies: Supris- ing action by a world leader could gain major attention. Line of action appears to be re- gression . . . or giving up of much authority. Watch those bons in January.

FIGHT DRUGS BY AIR

Thursday, March 29 — Clip out and use this weekly "KU" DIRECTORY and TRADEMARK as your guide to business that value your patronage and recommendations enough to desire being known and trusted for savings from their individual GOODWILL "KU" PLEDGE personalized service, honest pricing, definitions and comparisons between the identification mark of quality on well made and inferior constructed merchandise. To eliminate betraying your confidence with gimmicks, misleading impressions, fine print, unnecessary maintenance and correction expenses that often cost 5 or more times as much as quality.

Before buying, building or renting, choose a CERTIFIED "KU" QUALITY CONSTRUCTED HOME. Designed by yourself without experience to save up to or more than its construction cost by eliminating unrealized and unnecessary expenses that today's new home owners complain about.

A LIFETIME CERTIFIED "KU" LUXURY HOME ELECTRICAL INSTALLATION is a luxury because it is individually calculated for homes old or new, wired complete or in sections to provide the most efficiency and satisfaction in electric heating and appliance operation with lower electric bills. DRY CLEANING SHIRT LAUNDERING BY Woodland

Soviet Ice Island, North Pole 7, Abandoned by Reds Drifts Into Canada

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTAWA (CP)—A little bit of Russia drifted out of the Arctic one day and nestled in Canadian territorial waters.

Soviet ice island North Pole 7, abandoned by Soviet scientists in March, 1959, ended up at Clyde Inlet on the east coast of Baffin Island.

The deserted scientific station was spotted by an RCAF plane last May and was visited by Trevor A. Harwood, chief of the geophysical research section of the Defence Research Board.

In one building Mr. Harwood found a letter pinned on a wall. It was signed by Dr. Nikolai A. Belov. It invited any visitors to partake of the remaining food —Crimean plums, coffee, tea, cocoa and various dried foods—and asked that the Arctic and Antarctic Scientific Research Institute in Leningrad be notified. This was done.

The ice island has since drifted southward in the Labrador current and disintegrated.

ROUTE UNKNOWN

Mr. Harwood said in an interview it isn't known how the ice island with its tents and buildings drifted from the Arctic basin into Baffin Bay.

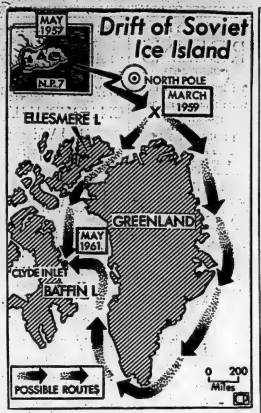
It could have threaded its way through the narrow, icy channels separating Ellesmere Island and Greenland. Or it could have sailed down the east coast of Greenland, turned the corner and sailed north and west up Davis Strait and Baffin Bay.

The latter route would have covered more than 3,000 miles.

Mr. Harwood said he found three buildings intact. One of these was used to generate the hydrogen for inflating weather balloons.

He said he believed about 14 feet melted from the surface of the floe after it was abandoned about 180 miles from the northern Greenland coast.

LOCKED IN ICE



When found, the island was locked into the ice which had formed in the mouth of the Clyde River in the winter of 1960-61.

The Russians have made public a great deal of information about their Arctic drift stations, including North Pole 7.

It was first occupied in May, 1957, and was supplied by aircraft. The original party comprised 16 men.

Collisions with other floes gradually chipped down its size and the runway finally became too short for plane landings. Helicopters then were used from another floe 37 miles away.

During the winter of 1958-59 the island cracked through the camp but it was not abandoned until March.

INTO CANADIAN WATERS — Broken arrows show possible routes of an ice island after it drifted by the North Pole and was abandoned by Soviet scientists 180 miles north of Greenland in March 1959. The island, called North Pole 7, finally ended up in Clyde Inlet on Baffin Island in May, 1961, when it was visited by a Defence Research Board scientist. Originally set up by the Soviets in May, 1957, complete with tents and huts, the island now has disintegrated. —(CP Newsmaps.)

Defence Costs Expected Up By $93 Million

OTTAWA (CP)—The 1961-62 fiscal year ends Saturday and the defence department now calculates its expenditures will be $1,031,857,000 for the year.

Officials say this amount is $93,890,724 more than in 1960-61 and $90,352,424 more than in 1959-60.

The estimated outlay is $16,220,000 more than the original estimate for 1961-62 defence spending which was made in early 1961.

There were two main reasons for the increase: $35,000,000 more for army operations and maintenance mostly because of the militia survival training courses; and $21,000,000 more for RCAF aircraft and engines chiefly the CF-104 low-level jet bomber.

The increases in these fields, however, were offset by the extent of $50,000,000 by lower than anticipated spending in other branches of the services.

The estimated defence budget for the fiscal year which begins Sunday is $1,075,782,175. This is $60,000,000 more than the original estimate for 1961-62 and $44,000,000 higher than what now is calculated as the actual expenditures for the fiscal year now ending.

Block Shipments To Cuba Worth Half A Billion

But Some U.S. Goods Still Slipping Through

WASHINGTON (CP) — The United States government says it has blocked attempts to transship some $500,000,000 worth of embargoed goods to Cuba but despite a doubling of surveillance, some American goods are slipping through.

Assistant Commerce Secretary Jack N. Behrman has informed the Senate internal security subcommittee that despite tightened policing "some goods are still getting through, not necessarily from Canada, but some of the Latin - American countries."

Behrman's testimony, with additional references to Canada's co-operation in prevention of backdoor circumvention of the embargo, was delivered before the committee last fall and released today together with a statement criticizing Western trade with Communist bloc.

Senator James Eastland (D-Mississippi), subcommittee chairman, said that despite tightened American export controls Communists still are acquiring materials from the West "in the entire range of industrial build-up."

SEES FLAWS

Senator Kenneth Keating, New York Republican, said the hearings indicate "serious flaws" in the NATO policy in trade with the Sino-Soviet bloc.

Behrman said that through increased policing, the U.S. has been able to halt shipments of $100,000,000 worth of embargoes goods in a year.

Canadian government has given us its assurance that no shipment of U.S. goods will get through Canada without approval from our licensing control," he said.

QUEEN NAMES NINE PEERS FOR LIFE TERMS

Former Woman Sprinter Honored

LONDON (Reuters) — A former woman sprinter, a former ambassador to Washington and a Nobel Prize winner in chemistry were among nine new life peers appointed by Queen Elizabeth today.

Life peers are appointed by the Queen after recommendation from the prime minister to sit in the House of Lords—Britain's upper chamber—without their peerages being passed on to descendants.

The peerages were introduced in 1958 on the conservative government's recommendation as a move to improve the debating quality and representative character of the upper house of parliament.

WAS TEACHER

The new life peers:

Miss Elaine Burton 58, former school teacher who had a brilliant athletic career as a sprint champion in the 1920s. She was a Labor party member of the House of Commons from 1950 to 1958.

Sir Oliver Franks 57, president of Worcester College, Oxford, who was British ambassador to Washington from 1948 to 1952.

Sir Alexander Roberton Todd, 54, a professor of organic chemistry at Cambridge University since 1944, who won the Nobel Prize for chemistry in 1957.

Alan John Salisbury 59, head of one of the biggest chains of grocery shops in Britain.

Sir Thomas Williamson, 64, former secretary-general of the giant General and Municipal Workers Union.

Francis Williams, 59, one of the best-known London journalists, who was controller of news and censorship at the information ministry during the Second World War.

Arthur Joseph Champion, 64, a former Labor legislator.

Sir Iain Macdonald Horobin, 62, who served two terms in the House of Commons for the ruling Conservatives.

Sir Geoffrey Clegg Hutchinson, 58, chairman of Britain's national welfare program.

Tried to Light Oil Lamps to Finish Painting

COLLINGWOOD, Ont. (CP)—Arthur Hubbard, 72, a retired farmer from his hospital bed Thursday the fire destroyed his wife and six children started when he tried to light an oil lamp to finish a painting.

The blaze destroyed the Taylors' three-bedroom bungalow which had no electricity, early Wednesday as the family slept.

Taylor, cut by splinters from outside the house suffering from shock and severe burns, was questioned by police in hospital here.

Const. Elmer Ferguson said Taylor told them he arrived home about 1 a.m. when he started to light an oil lamp it flared and set his clothes on fire. He ran outside to shed the burning clothes and when he returned the house was blazing too fiercely for him to re-enter. No inquest will be held.

OPPOSITION BRINGS HOUSE TO STANDSTILL

Procedural Debate On Estimates Cause

OTTAWA (CP)—Four opposition MPs fought a procedural battle with the government Thursday night and brought Commons progress to a standstill for two hours.

It began when Paul Martin (L—Essex East) asked that a study of external affairs department supplementary spending be postponed until the return of External Affairs Minister Green.

(Mr. Green flew back from the Geneva disarmament talks not Thursday night and was expected to report to the Commons today.)

The government rejected Mr. Martin's request and insisted that the debate proceed as scheduled. A long string of procedural arguments erupted and took up the entire night as opposition parties uniting to defy the treasury bench decided.

When the smoke cleared, the 7.30 p.m. adjournment hour had arrived. The government spokesman refused to come up today.

Then Mr. Martin said the government was refusing the Commons an opportunity of discussing estimates "at this critical time" and "on the eve of disarmament" at Parliament.

SACKS MARTIN

H. W. Herridge, CCF-New Westminster, said NATO policy backed Mr. Martin. There had been no meetings of the ministerial affairs committee this session and MPs deserved this chance to make "constructive suggestions for the improvement of our foreign policy."

Mr. Herridge tried to end further time with a speech on the Colombo Plan powers project but was ruled out of order, despite protests from Mr. Martin, Donald Cherrier and J. P. Gilbert.

The final supplementary estimates, totalling $122,778,781 for all departments, are for the fiscal year ending March 31. Since it is traditional that estimates are passed in the year in which the money is to be spent, the government will seek their approval at a special sitting Tuesday.

In the two days that the expenditures have been before the house, members have approved 37 of the 92 separate items involved.

Parliament At a Glance

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

THURSDAY, March 29, 1962

Increased allowances for children of immigrants, existing family allowances, were announced by Citizenship Minister Fairclough.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker indicated he will not attend the prime ministers' conference will precede a British Commonwealth meeting.

J. W. Pickersgill (L—Bonavista - Twillingate) said a hepatitis epidemic has been reported among an Indian community in Labrador.

The opposition threw up a filibuster that allowed consideration to still assage of external affairs department supplementary estimates.

Make Payments Same for All

OTTAWA (CP) — The government is increasing its special allowances for children of immigrants, Immigration Minister Fairclough announced in the Commons Thursday.

The rates will be brought into line with family allowances paid to all children—$6 a month up to the age of 10, and $8 a month for children 10 to 16.

The special allowance had been $5 flat rate for all children under 16.

Children of immigrants don't qualify for family allowances until they have been in Canada for a year, hence the special allowances. The new scale will go into effect April 1.

Frost Denies He Ever Said Dana Porter Blocked Probe

TORONTO (CP) — Leslie Frost, former Ontario premier, Thursday denied he ever told anyone that exattorney-General Dana Porter operated to a stand still for two hours.

It began when Paul Martin (L—Essex East) asked that a study of external affairs department supplementary spending be postponed until the return of External Affairs Minister Green.

(Mr. Green flew back from the Geneva disarmament talks not Thursday night and was expected to report to the Commons today.)

Death Comes to 'New Man' Relieved of 43-Year Worry

PEMBROKE (CP) — Clifford Dyer, who came out of prison less than two weeks ago saying, "I feel like a new man," after being acquitted on a manslaughter charge in 1919 death, died in his hotel room here Thursday night.

Police said a Mrs. Sadie Richardson, 60, found the 80-year-old painter and odd-jobs man when she went to his room. Officials said he apparently died after complaining of severe stomach pain.

O'Brien testified into a police station at Ware, 100 miles north of Sault Ste. Marie, last August and gave himself up in the early forgotten case of a Pembroke tobacconist whose mangled body was discovered on railway tracks here in 1918. A coroner's jury had ruled the death by Michael Logue accidental—his head had been run over by a train.

Two men, however, were charged with murder, but the case against both was dismissed.

Resumption of Tests by U.S. Setback for Parley -- Green

OTTAWA (CP)—External Affairs Minister Green said Thursday night that any resumption of nuclear testing by the United States would be a setback for the Geneva disarmament conference.

"There's no doubt of that in my mind," he said on his return from Geneva.

Asked whether some of the positions he had taken had offended the United States he said: "We didn't go over there to please the U.S."

Finally, he added, Canada had "better ideas" than the U.S.

Mr. Green was also asked by a reporter whether there is any indication whether Russia is serious about wanting a disarmament agreement.

He said he doesn't know what the Russians are thinking but "the leaders in this world leader wants nuclear war.

Any leader would be crazy to be one," he said.

WANTS BOARD TO PROBE CLAIMS OF PATRONAGE

Charges Ignored By Minister

TORONTO (CP) — Donald MacDonald, Ontario leader of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation Party, has demanded the government set up an impartial commission to inquire into allegations that timber concessions in the province are subject to political patronage.

Speaking in the legislature Thursday during the debate on the department of lands and forests estimates, Mr. MacDonald claimed an investigation be made into last January during the Renfrew South by-election campaign.

He said his investigations have shown that timber concessions throughout Ontario are subject to abuses.

"The situation in Renfrew County provides a case history.

. . . Any commission of inquiry emerge will have wider application throughout the province," he said.

Lands and Forests Minister Lands and Forests Minister Lands and Forests Minister I'm concerned . . . I treat everything the same way" regardless of political affiliation.

DENIES ANY PATRONAGE"

Mr. Spooner maintained there was no patronage in the political patronage.

Earlier, Mr. MacDonald's demand for a public inquiry, but on a similar request later by Leonard Gould (PC—Ottawa West) he promised: "I will inquire into the matter." Mr. Gould made and attempt to find out myself if such things exist."

Mr. MacDonald said the banks of former mines ministers Mr. Mahoney and Mr. Salsberg fall, "keeps recurring in the records." This proves favoritism, he said.

Mr. Mahoney was the member for Renfrew South, Mr. Salsberg won the byelection last Jan. 18.

Mr. MacDonald's part, Mr. Spooner said that such intercessions "are the reason why members of the CCF party are elected."

But the late minister of mines, in the goodness of his heart, was able to take time off to write a letter to the department on behalf of a constituent, that's all.

Mr. MacDonald said he got "the merry run-around" when he tried to get a list of records of the timber management branch of the lands and forests department.

REPEATS CHARGES

Mr. MacDonald also repeated these general charges:

1. Established lumber firms have been "forced out" as members or financial supporters, of the Progressive Conservative Party found it "very difficult" to get adequate timber supplies.

2. Political favoritism resulted in the granting of timber cutting rights to meet the "political levy" system relentlessly driven to the wall.

Doctors Should Urge Young Folk Not to Start Smoking Cigarettes

ABOARD EMPRESS OF ENGLAND (CP) — Cigarette smoking is an important factor in cancer, but doctor and doctors should urge young people not to form the habit, Dr. Ian Gregg of Vancouver said today.

There is no shadow of doubt that certain people are susceptible and that the smoking of cigarettes is a contributing or stimulating factor in the development of cancer," Dr. Gregg, surgeon, professor of surgery at the University of Toronto, said in a paper read to the annual assembly of the College of General Practitioners of Canada.

"Putting it the other way, I am quite satisfied that if no one smoked cigarettes, there would be much less lung cancer.

'Filibustering' May Force Vote -- Diefenbaker

Early Election May Be Necessary, PM States

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker said today "it may be necessary" to make an early announcement of an election date because of opposition "filibustering."

J. W. Pickersgill (L — Bonavista - Twillingate) asked whether Mr. Diefenbaker has considered saying in a statesmanlike way what the intentions of the government are with regard to an election.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the opposition has been filibustering and that it may be necessary to make early announcement which would satisfy" Mr. Pickersgill.

There was loud and long applause from the Liberal benches as Conservatives will start to more butter once the prices go down May 1.

His confidence—now obviously shared by the rest of the cabinet—is behind the government's recent decision to spend $34,000,000 a year to continue paying farmers for cattle prices for their butter while dropping the retail price to consumers.

Estimated result of this scheme is that butter prices will be between 36 and 38 cents across Canada, depending on location of the country. Retail price is substantial price spread between butter and margarine, now averaging about 20 cents a pound.

To illustrate his contention that Canadians will start buying more butter, Mr. Hamilton said in Edmonton chain stores which buy butter from the Northern Alberta Dairy Pool "experimental last year by 2 cents weeks by dropping their butter prices.

Butter at the start of the period sold at 70 cents a pound. Margarine was selling at 50 cents. There was a "tremendous increase" in butter sales.

BLAMES DAIRMEN

Speaking of the butter surplus, Mr. Hamilton said the dairymen are to blame.

He explained that nearly every cheese factory in the province has milk boards guarantee producers a fixed price per pound weight for fluid milk. Normally the dairies buy enough from farmers to meet the demand and then take a 10-per-cent surplus off.

But with the butter support at 64 cents, the dairies had an incentive to produce more than their herds and deliver more.

MINISTER SURE MORE BUTTER WILL BE SOLD

Prices Go Down On May 1st

OTTAWA (CP) — Agriculture Minister Hamilton said today Thursday he is confident Canadians will start buying more butter once the prices go down May 1.

May Give Food To British Isles In Caribbean

OTTAWA (CP)—A plan under which the government would buy fresh food in the Caribbean to demonstrate the worth of the Commonwealth trade bloc was explored in ministerial conference, reliable informants say.

They say the plan would be the pilot proposals some of the British delegations in the Caribbean would be chosen as showcase—with British leaders, Canada and Cuba would be the receiving end.

As examined, the scheme would involve shipments of produce foods to the islands in return for sugar, molasses and other products, rather than payments in cash. Examples of foods are carbohydrates.

The would be in line with the Food for Peace program in which projects in raising nutritional standards in the race Canada —one of the big promoters of the scheme would supply the food and the likely would be asked to co-operate in distribution.

It could not be learned how much food would likely be involved.

Malformed Child Born, Mother Took Drug

WINNIPEG (CP)—A Winnipeg woman who was given a sedative called thalidomide during the "critical" early days of pregnancy, has given birth to a malformed baby.

The drug was withdrawn from the Canadian market March 21 because of fatalities and because it might cause the birth of deformed babies.

But it was widely distributed in Winnipeg and most major drug stores will not honor any prescription for almost a year after the drug is withdrawn.

The child, born during the week, has only partially formed arms and legs.

The mother was given the suspect drug between the sixth and eighth week of pregnancy—a period when it is believed the sedative causes malformation of the unborn child.

Niagara Tot, Age 3, Falls 75 Feet; Rescued After 11 Hours on Ledge

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) — A three-year-old girl was rescued early today 11 hours after she fell 75 feet down a steep ledge above the Niagara River gorge.

Sheila Ann Taylor was lifted to safety by a rope around the waist of Const. Elmer Ferguson.

April Hubbard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hubbard, was cold, frightened and hungry but suffered only minor scratches and bruises in the fall that was broken by a tree and soft soil.

April's rescuers were four firemen who formed a newly formed rescue unit. They continued to clamber the treacherous walls of the gorge three hours after searching was called off because of darkness.

Off-duty Stamford Township police sergeant Russell Sanderson spotted the girl as he rested on a wet rock and played his flashlight over the rocks.

The lines were then lowered to April at 2:31 a.m., just as Sgt. Sanderson's watch stopped.

She was huddled on a ledge back against the base of a shelf and she had apparently been there all night, Sgt. Sanderson said.

"Her hands were tightly clenched under her chin, and below her was a strip of loose rock and a 40-degree angle."

With Sgt Sanderson at the time were Richard Gorham, a journeyman rigger for Ontario Hydro, Lorne Williams and Ben Schweitzer.

"She didn't say a thing when we first came to her side," said Gorham. "She was shivering wide awake, and frightened but she never even cried—not even a whimper—although she was pretty scared."

BELLEVILLE MAN SELLS CBC STORY

Gordon Leggat of 66½ Octavia Street, Belleville, recently had a short story accepted by the CBC for use on their full radio network.

The story, a 1,500 word short-short written in collaboration with a friend now living in Chicago, deals with a man who from a poorer rich background, who, on entering the ministry in his middle years, today finds he cannot communicate with the parishioners in a part of town that hadn't seen better days for so long no one was really sure they ever had.

Called "A Glass of Wine," the story was purchased for use on Stories with John Drainie" which is aired Monday through Friday at 1.45 p.m. Mr. Leggat's contract calls for the story to be used sometime before February of next year but he doesn't know when, specifically. The CBC has also optioned it for possible use in 1963.

Development of Present Marshy Bayfront Property Envisaged by City Officials

Development of presently marshy bayfront property as part of the overall sewage disposal plant project is envisaged by city officials and members of the special sewage project committee.

Alderman Jack Ellis, as chairman of the special committee, has already said that his committee would shortly discuss the matter with the Ontario Municipal Board with the view of determining how far the city would be permitted to go now with the bayfront reclamation project.

The proposal is to construct a concrete retaining wall offshore from the present shoreline and fill in the marshy and shallow areas with sludge from the sewage treatment plant.

Alderman Ellis noted some method of disposing of sludge from the sewage treatment plant would have to be worked out and the above idea appeared as feasible as certain other methods.

NOW UNDERWAY

Excavation for the construction of the outfall for the new $900,000 partial treatment sewage plant has been awarded by general contractors Schwenger Construction Company of Burlington.

Part of the excavation for the foundation and for the trenching of the outfall into the bay has already been completed. Contract price for the complete job is $736,000. Engineering fees, land costs and miscellaneous will bring the total costs of the plant to over $900,000.

Tenders for the construction of the outfall into the bay and for the forced main from Fireman's Park to the sewage treatment plant are expected to be called within the next week or so by the Ontario Water Resources Commission.

Lightfoot Construction Company Limited was awarded the contract for the construction of the Fireman's Park pumping station, from which sewage will be forced directly from all of the West Hill and the downtown section of the city will be pumped along a forced main to the sewage plant in Foster Ward.

The pumping station will be a small structure about 30 by 30 feet to be built of rug brick and faced with stone.

MAKE GOOD PROGRESS

"We don't want something which would detract from the appearance of the park," noted Ald. Ellis, and the additional cost of making the pumping station pleasing in appearance is fully justified in a project over-all cost."

Meanwhile, construction are making good progress with the construction of the main sewer trunk system and the outfall to Coleman Flats.

Construction of the treatment plant is expected to be completed before the year end, Ald. Ellis said,

Fire Destroys Metal Garage At Smithfield

TRENTON — Shortly before noon on Thursday, fire destroyed a large metal garage, situated at the back of the Glenburnie Hotel on Highway 2 near Smithfield.

The blaze is thought to have been started from a near-by grass fire.

A school bus, a tractor and a half-ton truck were removed from the burning building when the fire was discovered.

Mrs. Don Freeman, wife of the owner, said that the aluminum garage had been valued at $6,000 and that the loss was partially covered by insurance.

Mrs. Freeman said that a number of new truck tires and other pieces of bus equipment had been lost in the blaze.

Firemen from Trenton fought the fire for more than an hour. Heat was so intense that the aluminum melted before the eyes of the numerous spectators.

Passengers aboard a fast train which thundered past the scene at the height of the fire could be seen jumping to their feet and rushing to the train aisle down in order to get a better look.

Later, railway workmen were sent to the scene to make sure that no damage had been done to the tracks which run within a few feet of the garage.

Pearson Plans Brighton Call On Saturday

TRENTON — Tomorrow at 3:01 p.m. Hon. Lester Pearson, leader of the Liberal party, will step from a CNR train at Brighton, and will be greeted by Dr. Pauline Jewett, Liberal candidate for Northumberland, and other party members, Mr. Pearson will be accompanied by Mrs. Pearson.

The party will motor to Cobourg to attend a banquet that a Liberal rally in the evening.

Mr. Pearson has promised a "whistle stop" greeting to those who show up at the Brighton station.

The Pearsons will be coming through by train from Montreal.

Cancer Society Plans Campaign

TRENTON — April 9 the Trenton and district unit of the Canadian Cancer Society will launch a fund-raising campaign, which will be extended until April 18.

Door-to-door canvasses will be conducted in Trenton, Smithfield, Frankford, Glen Miller, Batawa, Bayside, Wooler and Middleton Park. Heads of industry will also be asked to contribute.

In Brighton, a Blitz Night will be held on April 17 Chairman of the drive is George Colling.

This year, Ameliasburg Township has been added to the canvass area.

Altogether, 300 canvassers will be in the field to raise the $6,000 pledged by the area unit. This is a slight increase over last year's objective and has been set because the national body has asked for additional contributions to the children's aid fund.

On April 1, daffodils will be placed in Trenton churches by members of the Trenton Police Association. The daffodil is the symbol of the Canadian Cancer Society.

Elmer Bonter is overall campaign chairman for this area.

Fire Chief Says Children Start 2 Grass Fires

TRENTON — Fire Chief Cecil Bonter of Trenton said last night that two fires which occurred yesterday, (both of which might have had serious consequences), had been set by children.

The chief said that the grass fire on a common between Bayview and Sidney Sts., had been traced to children playing with matches. That fire was caught in the city assuming Meadowvale Ave., West, Meadowvale Ave., West, and Edgehill Road as city streets.

Mayor A. M. Haig, City Engineer Malcolm Turnbull, and City Clerk Adam Stalker have been requested to appear before the court on April 16th in connection with the matter.

City council about a month ago tabled a by-law under which the city would have taken over the above streets for maintenance.

At the meeting Alderman Don Whalen said the one foot reserve on Edgehill Road should be lifted before the streets were taken over from the subdivider.

The chief suggested that persons who are found guilty of setting fires be charged with contributing to juvenile delinquency.

The chief said that a few bales of straw at the corner of Ameliasburg and West Sts., had been deliberately set. A cigarette box had been propped up in the straw and kindled. Grass around the bales was burned and some damage done to the barn itself.

Two tent-caged hogs were seen running away from the barn at the time the fire was discovered. Police have questioned children in the area.

District Catholic Teachers Stress Creative Approach

TRENTON — More than 100 educators from District 4 of the Ontario English Catholic Teachers' Association met in Trenton yesterday.

Stressed throughout the annual convention was the creative approach to education.

Visiting Association members were officially welcomed to the meet by Frank Evans, association president, on behalf of the host group.

At the afternoon session in St. Peter's School auditorium, delegates heard a comprehensive report on a recent curriculum conference, by Sister Mary Terrence, B.A., and a brief but inspiring address by E. J. Neville, B.A., area inspector of separate schools.

Miss Phyllis Moore, M.A., a lecturer at Peterborough Teachers' College, spoke on "English in the Primary Grades," and C. E. Potts, B.A., B.Paed., inspector of public schools, Etobicoke, urged his listeners not to be merely "a notebook to record for sound, but to foster creative effort on the part of their students.

Following the formal session, delegates attended a banquet in the Trenton Legion Hall, where they were welcomed to the parish by the Very Rev. G. J. Gauthier.

"We are in a period of flux and flow as regards education," said Father Clancy. "Uncertainty lies in the minds of our students. It is your duty to provide them with a sense of security for the future. There's a tendency nowadays to downgrade the teaching of spiritual values. You, as the dominating influence in the formative years of the children's lives, must teach them to appreciate spiritual as well as material values."

Mayor James MacDonald told the assembled teachers that their work "couldn't be measured in dollars and cents."

"Indeed, the teacher has no price," said the mayor.

The guest speaker, Rev. R. W. Meagher, S.J., principal of Regiopolis College at Kingston, spoke on "Teaching with Reverence for the Child."

"The modern fad is an extension of the home," said Father Meagher. "The teacher's existence is filled with frustrations."

"But how do we regard our calling?" asked the speaker. "Do we see ourselves as 1962 versions of Mr. Chips? Are we dedicated? Doddering? Underpaid? Under-nourished? Unrewarded? A little less worthy of prestige than other members of the community?

"If this is our mirror image, we're not giving the taxpayer his money's worth."

Corporal A. C. Murray of Oromocto, N.B., and F/L. A. "Al" Vanderwalker of Trenton, meet in the middle of the Sinai Desert. F/L. Vanderwaker is a pilot with the RCAF's 115 Air Transport Unit in the Middle East, and Cpl. Murray is a member of the Canadian Army Recce Squadron based at Refa in the Gaza Strip. Domino Theatre Of Kingston Given Praise

KINGSTON (CP) — Adjudicator Peter Syncox gave high praise to the Domino Theatre of Kingston production of Love and Libel Thursday night while he dismissed the Robertson Davies play as "second class Noel Coward boring."

The adjudicator had only a few minor criticisms for the second production by the Queen Ontario Drama League Festival. He handed out plaudits to the Night Editor of setting, Owen Edwards' direction, scenery, lighting and costuming.

"This company did a marvelous job, saddled as it was with a story which isn't even a temperest in a teapot—it's just a puff of wind in a liqueuy glass," he commented.

He found the lay itself lacking in dramatic unity and impact.

"Surely something more could be expected of a man of Mr. Davies' stature. The novel was very much better than the play," he said. Referring to Mr. Davies, book Leaves of Grass from which the play was adapted.

Mr. Syncox said the performance showed the director had a good grasp of the situation as presented by the play and controlled the cast well, resulting in a vital, lively production.

He congratulated the group for a production which had pace and rhythm all along the line," adding only that he felt sorry no musical score has been wasted on this lay."

The tweed district, in which South Renfrew lies, is one of the poorer timber areas in the province, he said.

"The granting of timber licences in this part of Ontario is based on the same considerations as are taken into account elsewhere in the province," his statement said.

Mexico and the Auto

Most of us, we suppose, do not envisage Mexico as a land overrun by automobiles. Neither it is. Yet in 1959 the Mexican who had the money could make his choice between 44 different kinds of automobiles—not models, makes.

Sounds wonderful? By no means. This multiplicity of makes meant high prices and poor service. Moreover, it was blocking progress towards increased home manufacture of parts—no automobiles are manufactured in Mexico.

The Government acted. First, in 1959, it forbade the import of luxury automobiles such as Cadillac, Lincoln and Chrysler. Then it announced that in 1961 the allocation of available foreign exchange, through import quotas, would favor popular type vehicles, incorporating the greatest percentage of Mexican-made parts, receiving the greatest public acceptance, offering the best service conditions and entailing the least difference in price to the public when compared with point-of-origin quotations. The importation of automobiles assembled abroad was prohibited. Eight makes dropped by the wayside.

Importation of parts for automobiles costing the public over 55,000 pesos was also prohibited. List prices of those cars which remained on the Mexican market dropped from 6 to 27 per cent. The Mercedes Benz, which had sold for 85,000 pesos, came down to 55,000 pesos. The award of 1962 assembly, parts quotas eliminated another 14 makes.

The number of makes available has thus been cut in two, from 44 to 22. Nor is this the end. "Preliminary studies conducted by the Ministry of Industry and Commerce reveal that accelerated progress towards the manufacture of automobiles in Mexico requires that no more than four or five makes remain on the domestic market," we are told in a release from the Mexican Embassy at Ottawa.

The methods used may be foreign to our own economic system—but it is easily understandable that the Mexicans should desire to establish their own automobile industry and that this might be impossible to achieve without such stringent regulations.

Abracadabra

Chalk up one point for democracy and the rights of the individual in the affair between Premier Bennett of British Columbia and the recently-appropriated British Columbia Electric firm. The Supreme Court of the province recently appointed a guardian to prevent the assets of the company from being frittered away through government action pending an appeal by the former owners of the B.C. Electric firm to have the government takeover set aside as illegal.

Ironically the guardian is the former president of the company. His appointment is undoubtedly a wise choice, however, for there are very few others who have had the first-hand knowledge necessary to recognize and protect the firm's assets.

The British Columbia situation is an unusual one to say the least. But then they have a most unusual government. With a premier who is able to wipe away a $600,000,000 deficit with a few swift moves in the legislature there is unlimited precedent cause to protect a disputed piece of property from his magic before it too became a legal nonentity.

The Ultimate Deterrent?

A Papuan legislator has warned Indonesians that if they carry out their threats to invade Dutch West New Guinea, the natives in the territory plan to eat them.

Perhaps the Indonesians will decide they have no stomach for this kind of war.

If, in spite of the warning, they invade, new phrases will appear in the military lexicon.

The company commander will order: "Don't shoot until you see the whites of their eyes, if they are clear, the meat is good."

Announcement of the arrival of tough veterans on a front will acquire a new, meatier meaning.

The descent of paratroopers may be greeted with cries of "Man are from Heaven."

While the high command, instead of talking of strategic withdrawals, will report: "Our troops scored another glorious victory—but ran out of ketchup."

Everything is in a state of metamorphosis. Thou thyself art in everlasting change and in corruption to correspond; so is the whole universe.—Marcus Aurelius Antonius.

Best Customer of U.S.

The (Portland) Oregonian

Whatever the Administration recommends and Congress decides to do about tariffs and trade, with their eyes on the expanded Economic Community, they had better not lose sight of our trade with Canada. No other single economic class is equalling Canada as a U.S. trading partner.

This is one of the reasons why five U.S. cabinet members and secretaries met in Ottawa recently with four Canadian cabinet ministers.

"No two countries in world history have ever had the same flow of goods across their common border" we are reminded by A. D. Farquharson, trade officer for the Canadian embassy. "I don't think it is generally realized that our trade with Canada has been greater than U.S. trade with any of the countries that formed the Common Market. It is only with the proposed free trade area of Canada's trade with the United States, Canada is also a larger market for U.S. goods than all 30 countries in Latin America put together. Canada is also a better customer for U.S. goods than all 10 nations of Latin America, although over-all U.S. trade with Latin America is slightly higher than with Canada. Over 30 per cent of Canada's exports go to the United States, and 60 per cent of Canada's imports are from the United States.

Canada's half-billion-dollar deficit in trade with the United States is a problem that should be correlated with such regional complaints as those in the Northwest against Canadian lumber imports. The President asked for authority to make across-the-board changes in tariffs, rather than to negotiate changes item-by-item as under the existing reciprocal trade act. He must be informed what effect such authority might have, not only on our regional industries such as lumber, but on U.S.-Canada trade relations as a whole.

Strictly Personal

Let Us Get Back to the Basic Black

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Old Henry Ford used to say, with his characteristic humor, that he'd make his cars in any color as long as it was black. And it was a long time ago, as I realized when I visited Chicago's Auto Show recently.

Chrysler was displaying a sedan convertible in "Pink Gold." A Dodge was featured in "Coral Rust." A Plymouth was enveloped in "Copper Mist."

And so down the line.

My quarrel isn't with the desire for gay or even gaudy colors in cars. I think the unlikening and idiosyncratic systems of naming colors. To the ordinary man, there are only a few basic colors, and there are only half a dozen or so shades in common use or compromise about them.

But the insidious world of publishing has got into the everyday life, and we are no longer presented with a choice of red, blue, green or yellow. Everything we buy today has a special shade, with names as a "new new" shade of lipstick.

How is a mere man to know cobalt from cerulean, or pure from dusty rose? And these are relatively simple hues—some of the made-up names, like "Twilight Haze," exist wholly in the designer's overwrought imagination.

For instance, practically nothing it just "yellow" any more. That would be too obvious, and appeal only to the vulgar. It can be charged to an item that's variously "sunlight," "primary," "corn," or "cadmium."

They limited these arch appellations to automobiles, there could be no objection. Since a woman's car reflects what she's giving a shade made up especially to suit her pigmentation, all is fair. The man's domain has been treacherously invaded by this spectroscopic nightmare.

The Ford Motor Co.—with old Henry dead in his grave—sent me a fat and handsome booklet recently listing the various new models, together with the body colors and fabric choices. Body colors, I make up about 3,000 different combinations, are available for them were colors I had heard of before. It's as though the poultry farmers suddenly began calling Rhode Island Reds "Providence Persimmons" or Newport Magentas."

Man's fashions have thus far resisted this trend. It is widely recognized that women make the final choice in cars, based on color and fabric, but I'm not still buy their own clothes in the old way, and men in their right mind wants to be forced to choose a pair of pajamas from a selection that included Sea Mist, Azure Dawn, Medlter, ranean, Sky Flower, and Speckled Starlight.

What ever happened to true blue, anyway?

Can Afford Arms Control

Christian Science Monitor

In an economic sense the United States can afford disarmament.

But it cannot afford wasteful military expense in order to keep obsolete arms production going.

Two news stories appeared side by side recently, innocently coupled together in the press at the same time. There was nothing strained about the effect of one on the other.

First, a study on the economics of disarmament got announced, the first of its kind by the United States Arms Control and Disarmament Agency. It said that individual companies, areas, industries would have serious problems of readjustment. But they are expectable, the translation would come slowly, it would be cushioned by new expenses for international peace, peaceful uses of space and the atom, etc. The economy could take it in stride, and probably would benefit in the end.

Second, another shock wave of pressure hit the Kennedy administration to put the B-70 manned bomber into mass production. Cost: $10,000,000,000. Object: to keep control of our strategic bombers in an age when missiles seem to be the favorite. Method: the redoubtable General Curtis LeMay called on President Kennedy, the Joint Chiefs of Staff, the Armed Services Committee voted to "direct" the President to spend nearly half a billion dollars for this purpose. The president did not agree to spend it, just as his predecessor had done with previous requests.

We don't blame the Air Force or the industry for asking. This is a free country, and pressures were accepted in the open. The problem is that we are, the president has to do it. But Congress ought to help him with this politically-difficult decision, not hinder him.

The United States could afford arms control provided it had the courage, when necessary to say no.

One Ireland

Kingston Whig - Standard

Some day a government somewhere in Ireland will find the time taken by surprise and lose an election on the record of its attitude in the matter of the unrecorded by such laws as the liquor laws. The spirit exists but where there is going to be an almighty explosion one of these days, and when the dust settles those who have ignored public sentiment will be the ones where they belong—in the cold.

STRENGTH for the DAY

BE CAREFUL OF ITS USE

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

"I resent that.

"Oh, oh, oh!" Have you ever stopped to think what resentment is? Old Dr. Samuel Johnson whose wisdom illuminates the eighteenth century declared that resentment is "a kind of wolf to prey upon itself." The word itself is derived from a Latin word which means "to feel." On the whole the word has unpleasant connotations. When we utter it there arises before our minds a vision of angry eyes, tense features, clenched fists.

But resentment, like most other forces in life, has a function to perform and only becomes unpleasant or harmful if it gets out of hand. If we can confront tyranny or injustice without resentment when our souls are indeed dead. If we can see cruelty being practised upon our fellows and not resent it, then the good God has indeed forsaken us. We all need to have a little resentment. There are times when the cheek must be flame with anger. There are times when the heart is filled with righteous indignation. There are times when silence is betrayal.

Again and again we need to remind ourselves that every factor in life has some use but that everything has its abuse or misused. The Bible does not forbid us to be angry. Its counsel is "Be angry and sin not." Resentment, which so easily gets out of control, can be our ally if we wish it so to be.

Use but not abuse. Passion but not passionate purpose. In this direction life, life and life-and for as long periods to those whose words dropped like fresh

The Venerable John Lyons, Archdeacon of Frontenac and rector of St. John's Church in Prescott, and formerly Vicar of St. Thomas' Church in this city was consecrated Bishop of the Anglican Diocese of Ontario in St. George's Cathedral, Kingston. The office of consecration was performed by the Most Rev. Arthur Hamilton, Bishop of Toronto, and Metropolitan of the Ecclesiastical Province of Ontario. Following the oath of obedience to the Metropolitan, the Litany was sung by the Rev. Austin Smith, Bishop of Ottawa, and Canon Smith, Bishop of Algoma and the Rev. TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

TALK AND TALKERS

There is a difference between talking and saying things.

Talking may consist of mere bundles of words wrapped and tossed at you, whereas, saying something may be a part of a man's heart, projected from the lips.

Words die, melting away like fresh snow on a day too warm to keep the last little crystals intact. But thoughts, when they are light, buds which open as the light falls on them, have a vitality and desire to bloom in all their glory.

Many times we leave our friend with a thought that he knew on the way was thinking of its great import, only to have that thought fade in our ears as the innermost part of our mind and heart, lodging there and adding richness to our very life.

We have often been compelled to sit and listen for long periods to those who just talked and talked. I have also sat and listened for as long periods to those whose words dropped like fresh honey from a filled comb—sweetening everybody about.

I have in mind a rare person who would have delighted to be stimulated by my own mind. He told me of new mines in which he dug. He instilled within me a desire for adventure and all creative effort.

You never know when or until you have heard him talk. Sometimes he talks a lot and handles his words; is evidence of his thoughts. He also remember that all fine talkers are not always fine talkers!

As a boy I worked for a farmer who had little education, yet he was one of the best informed men I have ever known. I remember to this day many of the terse things he spoke, and I have a little book of poems in my library to which he contributed—rich in beautiful thoughts. When he talked, all listened and were glad that they did.

A good plan is never to talk until you feel quite sure you have something to say.

To Your Good Health

Silent Heart Attack Revealed By Electrocardiogram

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: What is a "silent heart attack"? Will a person on an electrocardiogram? — Mrs. M.C.

A silent heart attack is one with symptoms or pain so negligible that the patient didn't notice it, or at least did not recognize that it required any special attention. Perhaps he passed some twinges off as a "indigestion" or gastritis. Or perhaps he experienced no discomfort at all.

However, if there has been an attack, it means that the heart muscle has been damaged, and this will show on an electrocardiogram.

How much is the damage? That varies. The attack can be mild, or disastrously severe. Or of any degree in between — although I regard all of them seriously. No heart attack is good, but the degrees of severity vary.

This brings us to the matter of what it means, and what we should do. It is clear that a heart attack is discovered later.

A great many of these silent attacks are detected by routine electrocardiograph tests, often as part of a routine medical checkup, without any prior suspicion that they have occurred.

Indeed, about one person in five who is found to have had a "silent" attack didn't know it ever having had the severe attack which is regarded as the classical sign of a coronary (heart) disease.

Once the discovery has been made, then what? Well, I believe the patient should be told what has happened.

It doesn't necessarily mean that he should change his mode of living, but he should know that the heart muscle has been damaged.

Being aware of the fact may be important to a person like him, for example, in making up his mind to lose some excess weight, to stop smoking, to be cautious in avoiding needless strain or excitement.

It's a solemn warning, and if the warning is heeded, the patient may enjoy many years, for another 40 years. But if he doesn't pay attention to the warning — well, good health is the reward of people who do not.—National Service.

Dear Dr. Molner: What would you use as a solvent for alumin, um chloride to reduce hand sweating? — P.S.

Water. Have the druggist make you a solution, from 10 to 25 per cent, and daub it on freely at first to retard excessive perspiration.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am troubled with ulcers on my hands. They are painful and so hard to heal. I suppose on account of poor circulation. Can you tell me a remedy that will heal them? — Mrs. D.D.

The most useful advice I can give sufferers of these stubborn ulcers of the ankles and legs is to remember the word "remedy" and to start long-range treatment for the circulation.

Various veins are one of the common causes. Treatment of the faulty veins can be most helpful. There are, of course, other causes of faulty circulation, but some of these are rather technical. The point is this: the proper attention concerning the circulation to ulcers are a result of this trouble, and that's the way to go at it. You can't fix a plugged pipe and leaving the faucet. You'll have a thin time of it trying to cure ulcers that are the result of faulty circulation, until you get after the circulatory trouble first.

Hemorrhoids can be cured! If troubled with fissures, fistulas, itching and other rectal problems, write to Dr. Molner in care of this paper, Canadian Press Syndicate, P.O. Box 138, Dundee, Ont., requesting a copy of the booklet, "Facts and Cure For Hemorrhoids," enclosing a long, self-addressed, unstamped envelope and 25c in coin to cover handling and postage.

Eskimos Open Co-op Store

Financial Post

By this time everyone has heard that the Eskimos are interested in arts, carvings and making prints. It is less well known that they have a head for business.

The Eskimos at Cape Dorset, using the profits of the sale of their art works, have opened a store, known officially as the Dorset Co-operative Association. More remarkable, they have hired a white manager, one of the local and competing Hudson's Bay store, A. (Red) Peterson, to run the business for them. Also on their staff, as art adviser, is Terence Ryan of Toronto.

Most of the stock-in-trade will consist of goods made by Eskimo other goods, like hunting knives and tackle, will be on sale. Expected volume of business, in 1962: $1,800. Profits will be shared, on a basis of $100 per household, nearly the whole Eskimo population of the district.

The Eskimos, highly ingenious and enterprising people, are indispensable aides to the white man in the north. Canada's record of services to them has not been brilliant but is improving. It is good to hear of Eskimos starting a business of their own and taking on white employees.

Kiwanis Club Follies Open Three-Night Stand at B.C.I.

By EUGENE LANG

Before a sizeable first night audience, the Kiwanis Club of Belleville presented its Follies of 1962, featuring the Rondettes, last night in the Collegiate Auditorium last evening. With a cast of nineteen entertainers assisted by an accompanying orchestra of five musicians, these two dozen people put on a show that was notable for its fast pacing, variety of acts, and freshness of material.

Twenty-five acts of varied appeal were strewn through the three-hour performance that featured vocal solos and duets, tap dancing, humorous skits, and classed singing of popular songs by the entire cast.

It is not the aim of the writer to describe and assess each offering, but certain numbers really merit a few words.

Six female vocalists were featured at different spots in the show with each singer utilizing her individual qualities to enhance the vocal appeal to listeners. Glenda Jeffery, Dora Stout, Iris Hawker, Josephine Massaro, Iona Huber, and Barbara McCallum entered into their solo acts with emotions ranging from reticence to bravado. Nora Stouk, however, did carry the feminine vocal honors with her easy projection of her sonorous voice, with Iona Huber a close second in her Major Hoople's declamation.

Judy Lynn McVight demonstrated her fine abilities in the solo numbers that she danced, showing diversified talents of rhythmic rigidity and graceful fluency. Dianne McCallum was likewise entrancing in her dance numbers showing careful molding at all times.

LOTS OF HUMOR

In the skit department many hilarious novelties were given that brought laughter from the audience. Of course any business meeting must be made of Infernal Revenue by Doug Bannon (with the Boys). Togetherness by Doug Bannon after Mayor Moore (with Messrs. Ralph Burke, Cole and Bannon), and the Supermarket Situation, again by Doug Bannon (with Fran Bannon and Dianne Graham), The Trial by Surgery, another Bannon creation (with Fran Bannon and Dianne Graham), The Trial by Surgery, another Bannon, after Gilbert and Sullivan, was also cleverly devised and humorously handled. The six sketches by Bill Long were of devilous fun all pleasantly and well executed. His Ballad with Ballet featuring Bob Burke and the Gentlemen was the height of hilarity.

In the different portions featuring the attire each member seemed to outdo the women in the world of fad, of the latter it seemed to waver and detour from key now and then.

The scenery realized by Bud Breathen was well chosen and quickly changed for the rapid show with only one lapse noticeable. Choreography by Judy Lynn McVight was exercised to suit the qualities of the cast and was most suitable.

The orchestra consisted of Charlie Kammer, bass; Joe Burchill, trumpet; Bill Long, piano; Jim McGuire, drums, and Mike van Leeuwvan, vibes, with each member turning in a good showing. Bill Long is to be congratulated for his arduous task at the keyboard for nearly three hours running, and again for his overall fine production and direction of the entire follies.

The only flaw that was noticeable was the handling of the spots from the projection booth in the balcony. The spot themselves felt a lot to be desired as they threw so much light on the ceiling of the auditorium as they did on the stage — poor focusing. Also, there was no coordination between projection booth and stage. Different singers were on stage in the dark owing to sluggish handling of the cues. This could be greatly improved for better satisfaction to all.

Those taking part in the cast and not already mentioned before were Tom Fraser, Tim Cook, Bill White, Frank Hamilton, Al Hall, Roy Hawker, Jean McAdam and Bernadette Logan.

Costumes by Mrs. Rialto Young were colorfully chosen for the performers and did much to add to the production.

Summing up: A fine evening's entertainment for the whole family and one that should not be missed. Everyone gave of their best — can we ask for more? The Follies of 1962 continue on tonight and tomorrow evening. Curtain at 8.15 p.m.

Barbershoppers Hold 'Old Times Night'

"Let Harmony Ring" seemed to be the theme song on Wednesday evening of the "Old Timers' Night" of the Belleville Barbershoppers' Quartet Club. The Bell-Vilaires, "The Keynoters" quartet in their two appearances on stage delighted the crowd.

The Belleville chorus as well and showed great strides in their preparation for their forthcoming show in May.

Alf Evans, Jay Williams and Don Secombe led the assembled group in singing many old Barbershop numbers that had not been sung for some time.

The chapter was pleased to welcome back the founder of barbershopping in this city, Fred Bradford, who has been ill since last fall.

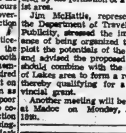
Guests for the evening were: George Detter, Bob Guthrie, Dick Hall, Bob Bateman, Ken Grant, Albert Baldwin, Keith Coe, Mike Didyloski, Ron Burr.

The formal meeting closed with "Keep America Singing," after which members and guests gathered for an informal "Wood Shed" session.

Refreshments for the evening were served by the women of St. Margaret's Hall.

Next week it will be back to work for the Barbershop Chorus as they prepare for their show and the kitchen competition. Because of previous church commitments the meeting place will be the home of Alf Evans, 4 Rosemount Ave. Members are asked to remember the change as this week only. Guests are welcome.

New Tourist Area in County May Be Formed



The possibilities of forming a new tourist area in Hastings County extending north from highway 401 to the Madawaska Valley and also the Land of Lakes area northeast of Tweed were discussed this week at a Madoc village.

The meeting was called by the Madoc District Chamber of Commerce and representatives from Belleville, Trenton, Campbellford, Coe Hill and the Land of Lakes area were in attendance. Several tourist operators were also present.

Vern McMurray, chairman of the meeting noted the lack of organized tourist promotion in the Hastings county area. He felt this void could be rectified by the formation of a tourist area.

Jim McHattie, representing the Department of Travel and Publicity, stressed the importance of being organized to exploit the potentials of the area and advised the proposed area should combine with the Land of Lakes area to form a region thereby qualifying for a provincial grant.

Another meeting will be held at Madoc on Monday, April 16th.

tle girl's confidence and told her: "This is Uncle Dick and Uncle Russ. Don't be frightened when we come to take you home to mummy and daddy."

The red-haired child looked at them, and then said: "I'm hungry."

HAD SANDWICH HANDY

Mr. Gorham gave the girl a sandwich that his optimistic wife, Flora, had requested he take with him on the search.

FELL BURNED PLAY

April tumbled down the gorge, well while she was playing with friends during the afternoon.

Her companions—if they were aware she had fallen—were too young to give police an accurate picture of what had happened.

WAS STILL HUNGRY

The cheese and tomato sandwich the girl ate while she cringed against the slimy gorge wall only temporarily cut her hunger.

While Dr. Peter Davidson examined her in hospital she munched another sandwich and gulped a glass of milk.

"I way too sleepy," she explained to her parents. "I didn't sleep any."

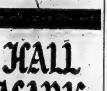
April said she had fallen on a tree after she toppled down the steep bank.

The tot said she walked and crawled about the ledge trying to find a way to get back to the top of the bank.

"I was too sleepy to rest with confidence that someone would come to help her.

Evening Class Grads Receive Certificates

Another successful year of evening classes at B.C.I.V.S. was concluded yesterday with a "graduation" ceremony in which certificates were presented to 218 "students" who have attended the twice weekly sessions since last October.



Sponsored by the Bay of Quinte Interfaith High School Board these classes were attended by 482 persons from this community. Courses in auto mechanics, drawing and painting, industry, sewing, shorthand, small engines, stationary engineering, typewriting, V.L.A. building construction, welding and woodwork were given by a staff of fifteen. Classes are held on Tuesday and Thursday evenings for the six month's period.

Last evening those who had attended at least 80% of the classes and who had done satisfactory work were presented with certificates of proficiency.

Most popular of the courses was that in V.L.A. home construction taught by Mr. R. H. Vaughan, with 94 veterans of armed personnel enrolled.

Classes in advanced technology will continue for the next two weeks. In this three-year course 15 men are registered in mathematics, mechanics, strength of materials and electricity.

Registration for 1962-63 classes will be held on September 25.

Stirling Horticultural Society Outlines Works Agenda

The Stirling Horticulture Society, now entering its 63th year, is still one of the most active groups for its size in Eastern Ontario.

The present executive has already formulated plans for 1962 whereby local beautification projects may be commenced, and others already started may be improved or enlarged. The successful fulfilment of these plans depends to a great extent on the financial state of the Society whose main source of income is derived from membership fees. The annual premium given to members is one box of plants, either floral or vegetable.

WORK OF SOCIETY

Many citizens are unaware of the work done by the local organization. Each year the window boxes at the Public Library are planted with suitable foliage and flowers. The parks known as Victoria, Coronation, and Memorial are beautified with various plantings and shrubbery and perennials. A caretaker is hired to keep three parks clean and attractive. At the Coronation Park four of five tables have been set up for the convenience of passing tourists, and each in fine weather the employees of Stirling Power Co-op may make use of them at lunch periods.

In 1961 a quantity of peonies was donated to the Stirling Public School to help brighten up some of the bare corners surrounding the grounds.

POSTER CONTEST

A poster contest was introduced for pupils of grade 8 and prizes awarded for the best entries. Prizes were also given for the best window display in a competition open to Stores and Cafes.

This year it is hoped that some form of landscaping or planting may be undertaken at the newly built Chapel in Stirling Cemetery, and also at the Public School.

Each year finds a greater number of interested exhibitors and visitors to the annual Flower Show, Members of the Horticultural Society are eligible to place as many entries as they wish in this show.

BUS TOURS

Bus tours to outstanding beauty spots throughout the province are sponsored yearly, as well as tours to gardens and community gardens. Last year 150 people visited Hamilton Botanical Gardens, Niagara Falls, and the Flower Show at the Automotive Building.

These are just some of the undertakings the local Horticultural Society is responsible for, and its members have a sense of pride and satisfaction as they look backward at accomplishments of past years. But they also look forward with eager anticipation to the ever season of growth, now approaching and trust that their work may bring joy and beauty to all who pass through this wonderful little village we are proud to call home. "Let's all help beautify Stirling."

Belchs' Even Finals Series

Belch Construction defeated Callows A 6-2 last night to even their best-of-seven series for the Hockey League championship and the O'Connor Trophy at two games apiece.

The fifth game will be played on Tuesday night at 7.30.

Ralph Plate spearheaded the Belch attack last night with three goals and two assists. Ralph Boomhower, Larry Rowbotham and Bob Booth scored a goal each while Doug Hallam and Bob Fraser drew assists.

Wife Often Holds Key To Retirement

CHICAGO (AP) — A psychiatrist said Wednesday night that the wife often holds the key to her husband's successful retirement. He urged personnel executives to condition her for the event.

Dr. Ralph T. Collins said wives can retired employees suffer depression and other forms of psychological illness because they cannot accustom themselves to the husband's presence in the house all days a week.

Collins, occupational psychiatrist for the Eastman Kodak Company of Rochester, N.Y., and chairman of the American Medical Association's committee on mental health in industry, said new retirement plans developed by industry include provisions for working with wives before their husbands' retirement.

DOUGLAS — MACBOLD

Beautiful baskets of chrysanthemums and gladioli and white satin streamers adorned the altar in the chapel of the United Church, Gananoque, when Annette, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. Macbold, R.R. 1, Belleville, was united in marriage to Mr. Morris Douglas, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Dawson Douglas, R.R. 3, Belleville.

The pastor of the church, the Rev. F. Hewitt performed the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an aqua sheath dress of nylon silk with a redingote of the same color, and white bow hat. Her flowers were a cascading corsage of yellow roses and baby 'mums. She wore a single strand of cultured pearls and carried a white Bible, both gifts of the bridegroom.

The bride was attended by Miss Gloria Bushell as bridesmaid. Her full skirted dress was embroidered nylon in aqua shrimp and her hat a pouf design in white organza. She wore a corsage of 'mums.

The bridegroom was attended by Mr. Ron Rombough of Gananoque.

Following the ceremony a small reception was held at the home of Mrs. and Mrs. Murney Joyce, of Gananoque.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas are residing at 48 Octavia Street, Belleville.

Cake Icing Demonstrated At W.I. Meet

BONARLAW — Mrs. Everett Heath opened her home to the members and visitors of the W.I. on Wednesday afternoon with 19 members and one visitor present.

Mrs. G. Burkitt chaired the meeting. Mrs. W. J. Barnes dealt with the correspondence and thank-you cards.

Mrs. Harry Cassidy was welcomed back after an absence of several months following surgery; also Mrs. J. Spry, who has returned from a holiday at Miami.

Mrs. Clayton Burkitt was congratulated, also Mrs. Gerald Broadworth, who celebrated wedding anniversaries on the 15th instant and 5th of March.

Mrs. G. Burkitt gave the report of the district directors' meeting at Madoc on Friday and reported that the convention will be held in October, the date to be announced later. All members will be given a ticket with personal name and name of W.I. at the convention. Each secretary is to give a two-minute talk on "I am not afraid of tomorrow, I have seen yesterday and I love today."

Mrs. W. J. Barlow, Mrs. G. Broadworth, co-convenors for "Home Economics," were in charge of the program which included community singing and readings by Mrs. G. Broadworth, "Auction Sale"; Mrs. W. J. Barlow read hints on the uses of plastic and Mrs. C. L. McKeown gave one on "My Purse."

Mrs. Eatland, the guest speaker, gave a demonstration on cake icing. When a large cake, donated by Mrs. England, was finished, it was pretty with yellow and mauve roses and leaves and finished with a lovely border. Tickets were sold on the cake and Mrs. Everett Heath held the lucky ticket.

Mrs. England was presented with a gift on behalf of the W.I.

Mrs. Barlow put on a contest. The hostess and assistants first served a dainty lunch. Mrs. Heath cut her cake and all enjoyed a piece.

The next meeting will be the annual meeting and will be held out at the home of Mrs. George Thompson on April 29th.

Ensemble For Spring

By TRACY ADRIAN

The dress and coat costume is a very popular choice for wear this spring. Here's a version designed by Adele Simpson that is particularly chic and useful.

Brown linen is the fabric of the two-piece dress, which features a sleeveless, jewel-necked top with a leather belt and a graceful double-fold skirt.

With the frock is worn a beige wool-blend coat with full, three-quarter sleeves and a tiny collar.

WOMEN OF THE MOOSE

The Women of the Moose held their last meeting of the month with Sr. Regent Nellie Shandrow presiding.

One new candidate was enrolled into the defending circle.

A potluck supper is to be held for the White Cane Club on April 26th and entertainment is to be provided.

A cheque was sent to Mooseheart for the "Sea-Wall" being erected on the St. John River. It is to be dedicated in May on the anniversary of Mooseheart's founding forty years ago.

Co-worker Pearl Wilson, secretary for the C.P.T. Auxiliary told the chapter any one in need of crutches, hospital beds and wheelchairs could borrow them, free of charge, providing they were returned when finished using them.

A draw, donated by Lena Copeland, was won by Betty Bell.

Two buses will be chartered to accommodate co-workers going to Watertown on April 6, at 8.30 sharp.

Barbara Farnsworth's sucher is to be held late in April.

Lena Copeland thanked all the co-workers who helped on the potluck supper held before the meeting.

All co-workers are asked to wear their ceremonial gowns for next meeting.

The winners at the euchre at Olive Van Norman's home were as follows:

1st, Olive Van Norman; second, Pauline McColl; third, Frances Irwin; consolation, John Van Norman, and lone hands, Nellie Seymeaour; draw, Phyllis Way and an extra special travelling lone hand prize was won by Sharon Mitchell.

The winner of the Mary Maxim sweater, drawn on Tuesday night was Ceci Potter, Murray St., Trenton.

Young Couple Honored at Presentation

RAWDON — On Friday evening a large number of neighbors and friends gathered in Wellman's L.O.L. Hall and tendered the newlyweds, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wickens, with a presentation party. The bride is the former Janet Ann Preston, 5th concession of Rawdon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Preston.

The group played euchre and crokinole until 9.30 p.m. and enjoyed a lot of fun and entertainment. Mr. Stewart Brady was master of ceremonies and read briefly, wishing the newlyweds every happiness in their matrimonial voyage.

Miss Betty Maybee read an appreciative address and those in charge made the presentation of a bostess chair, table lamp, electric kitchen clock and mixette.

Linda and Bob each voiced thanks for the party and gifts in their honor. Refreshments were served and a social hour enjoyed.

The young couple left on Saturday to take up residence in Toronto where the bridegroom is employed as a secretary in the office of a tire and rubber company.

Previous to her marriage the bride had been employed at the L.C.A. Store in Stirling. On her last day of employment, Mr. Harold Bird, proprietor, spoke briefly and presented the staff who had gathered at the store office and he presented Linda with a steam and dry iron, for which she graciously voiced thanks.

Women's S.G. Enjoys Talk, Slides on "Impatient Continent"

There was a good attendance at the meeting of the Women's Study Guild at the home of Mrs. George Maybee. President Mrs. M. M. Bereskord, conducted the business, which included the reading of two letters from the Vandaleur protegee, expressing her thanks to the ladies for their financial gifts and telling what had been purchased with same. The April meeting was postponed until the 5th Monday because of Easter vacation.

Mrs. H. C. Seldon based the worship service on the passage of Scripture from Acts 7:36-34. The meditation brought out that "waiting on the Lord" did not mean standing still, which was more a sign of unbelief, but rather a walking with God and being ready to act when God shows the way. Neither should one run before, anticipating His will with one's own conclusions.

The program on "The Impatient Continent," was handled by Mrs. G. H. Trill and Mrs. N. J. Meldrum. With the various countries of South America so much in the current news, the background and economic data presented on each country was doubly interesting, and illustrated the fruitful use of "unit" phrases describing this continent as one of contrasts and superlatives.

Illiteracy is a major problem in most of the countries, but the few who have been successful in self-help, with static governments, have attained amazingly high standards.

Another evil is the tendency of political leaders in office mainly to be able to exploit their ruling power. There are no schools available for about 40 per cent of the children but, in some countries, where they are operating to build, at their own expense and by their own labor, basic buildings in order that their children can go to school. There is, of course, a dismal shortage of teachers, which will take a good many years to overcome.

The Alliance for Progress, instituted by President Kennedy, was felt to be a step toward financial stability, and the Guild hopes to have another program in a year to estimate what progress has been made in the interim.

Some outstanding color slides were shown which brought home the contrasts between the primitive living conditions of so many and the phenomenal luxury of others. In particular, the pictures of the new capital city of Brazilia, now in process of construction, left a note of almost comic contrast, showing, as it did, new buildings incorporating the most advanced electronic facilities, presently functioning within walking distance of 17th century "sanitary facilities."

A social half hour was enjoyed, with Mrs E. A. Orr and Mrs. George Wishart as hostesses.

Quinte F.N. Enjoys Wild Life Films

Mr. Jim Bayly, of Brockville, was guest speaker at the recent monthly meeting of the Quinte Field Naturalists.

Mr. L. Knight, president opened the meeting and conducted a short business session, and then introduced the speaker.

Mr. Bayly, a superb 16mm movie photographer by avocation, showed movies of a trip he had taken to the Gulf coast area of Texas during the spring migration a year ago.

With the help of maps, he took the audience on the trip through pictures taken at each stop of Wildlife Reserve he visited.

There were birds of the sea shore and mud flats; Laughing gulls, ruddy turnstones in winter plumage, avocets, still sandpipers; oyster catchers; ibises; spoonbills; pelicans and beautiful pictures of the six foot high whooping cranes taken on the Arkansas Wildlife Reserve through the co-operation of the Reserve Supervisor.

LAND BIRDS

The land birds shown included, a scissor-tailed flycatcher; ground doves; green jays with beautiful blue and green coloring, and a chachalaka whose voice is just like his name.

Mr. Bayly was surprised to find that the Rio Grande River was little wider than the Moira River because so much of its water is used for irrigation.

Mrs. Wallis thanked the speaker and the evening closed with refreshments.

St. John's F.G. Plans May Bazaar, Euchre

The regular meeting of St. John's Friendship Group, Point Anne, was held on Tuesday afternoon and was presided over by the president, Mrs. Audrey Chisholm.

The regular order of business included discussion for plans for the bazaar and euchre, to be held in May.

On behalf of the group, Mrs. Chisholm presented Mrs. Jack Bradshaw with a compact, wishing her happiness in her new home. Mrs. Bradshaw expressed her thanks and invited the group to have a meeting at her home when she was settled.

The next meeting is to be held at the home of Mrs. Jack Green, Point Anne Lane, on April 9th, at 1.45 p.m.

At the close of the meeting, refreshments were served and a vote of thanks was tendered to Mrs. Clara Green.

Mr., Mrs. W. J. (Jim) Savage Mark Diamond Anniversary

On Tuesday, March 27th, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. (Jim) Savage quietly celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary at their home, 156 East Bay.

During the afternoon and evening they enjoyed the company of friends and family. Tea was served and a pleasant time spent.

On Sunday, the 25th, they were honored by the immediate family with a turkey dinner held at the home of their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Smith.

The dining room and archway were decorated with pink and white streamers and bells to complement the beautiful anniversary cake, iced in pink and white.

The "bride" was presented with a corsage of pink carnations and the bridegroom with a white boutonniere.

A toast to the happy couple was proposed by their eldest son, Allan and responded to by Mr. Savage.

In the afternoon seven friends and relatives called. Tea was served.

For their diamond anniversary, Mr. Savage received his wife with a wedding band set with diamonds to replace the wedding ring she lost a while ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Savage were the happy recipients of telegrams from the Queen, Premier Roberts and friends, along with letters from Prime Minister John Diefenbaker, Liberal leader Lester Pearson, representatives Lee Grills and Elmer Sanderson, the mayor of Belleville, McLean Haig. The couple's grandchildren sent them a framed centrepiece of congratulations; they were very much pleased.

CANADA'S OFFICIAL SCULPTOR — Eleanor Milne, 36, first woman to be appointed Canada's official sculptor, examines a piece of her predecessor's work in her sub-basement workshop of the main Parliament building. Chief job of the Saint John-born sculptor will be to design the carvings—elaborate cornices and arches—that decorate federal buildings. (CP Photo)

Canada's Official Sculptor, Eleanor Milne, First Woman To Hold Important Position

By EDNA BLAKELY

OTTAWA (CP) — Eleanor Milne, Canada's official sculptor, did her first work at the age of two.

"My mother gave us pencils just as soon as we could hold them and I just went on drawing," she said.

When her appointment was announced earlier this year, the 36-year-old artist became the first woman to hold the position of official sculptor.

Her preliminary work for the carvings that adorn federal buildings will be done in a sub-basement workshop of the main Parliament building.

The program of carving the elaborate cornices and arches has been going on for about 40 years and could continue for another 10, 15 or possibly 20, says E. A. Gardiner, the government's chief architect.

WORK AT NIGHT

The designs are modelled so they believe they are transferred to the stone pleasant. Carvers make the preliminary cuts before the official sculptor adds the finishing touches.

There is unobstructed stone through the Centre Block of Parliament including some in the House of Commons and some in the Senate. The work is done at night so that the loud noise of the carvers' tools will not disturb members of Parliament.

Because much of her work is done from a ladder, Miss Milne plans to wear slacks and coveralls.

"Fortunately I don't mind heights," she said. She has even done a bit of mountain climbing.

Eleanor Milne was born in Saint John, N.B. At the age of 13 she moved to Montreal where she studied philosophy and ancient history along with other academic subjects at Sacred Heart Convent.

EDUCATION ESSENTIAL

She says a well - rounded education is important to an artist. "If you can't find the essence of a thing then you can't get concentrated power in your work."

Each art form holds some special interest for her.

Water colors could be delicate or strong and the motion of the brush was wonderful.

"The brush is flexible, sculpting is not. In sculpting it is important to attack the material and force the form out."

Work with stained glass offered a "wonderful view of the world when seen through a big sheet of colored glass."

Wood engravings provided a feeling of starkness—"the shock of white against black and black against white."

PARTLY ABSTRACT

A friend once described her work as "abstract expressionism." It used to be, she says, but now it's changing and she's more fluid here.

Straight abstract was unnecessary and so was exact realism, particularly since the advent of the cameras.

"An artist must put some abstract in his work. Art is a language. It should speak and not just leave everything to the viewer."

Her work at the Parliament buildings must be late Gothic.

Miss Milne expects to move from her present Wakefield, Que., home to Ottawa. Her father, William Hawke Milne, is a retired naval architect and her mother paints and writes poetry.

"She read us Shelley and the Greek poets when we were young children to teach us the beauty of the English language."

Miss Milne heard about the government job when a friend saw an advertisement in the post office and mentioned it to the sculptor's sister, Mrs. Martin Lambert of Ottawa. Eleanor also has a brother, William Joseph Milne of Montreal.

CAUSES CONTROVERSY

ROME (Reuters) — Controversy flared here Thursday over Pope John's decision Wednesday to allow Michelangelo's Pieta statue to be shown at the New York World Fair in 1964. The newspaper Paese Sera quoted leading Italian painter Giorgio de Chirico as saying "tourists today can travel easily enough and it is better that it should be they to come rather than irreplaceable masterpieces."

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

WHAT'S YOUR E.Q.?

Spring often brings with it invitations from friends to spend a week end in the country and watch the trees bloom. If you are some qu-stions on etiquette that might arise before train time. If you answer all correctly, start packing.

1. Is it necessary to bring a hostess gift?

2. Should I ask my hostess what clothes to bring?

3. Should I ask to be met at the station, or will my host do that automatically?

4. Should I bring my own face cloth and towels?

5. May I call on other friends in the neighborhood while I'm there?

6. May I ask them to call on me?

7. Should I get fully dressed for breakfast, or will a robe do?

8. May I take a nap during the day if I feel like it?

9. If I want a snack between meals, may I ask for it?

10. What should set the time for leaving, my hostess or me?

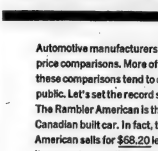
Answers:

1. Not if this is your first visit, or your first visit in a long time. It's a gracious gesture. If you visit frequently, then you might bring a gift occasionally.

2. Yes. She might have some special plans like going boating or dancing at the country club. It's always safer to ask in advance what to bring with you.

3. Most country folk meet the train. But if your hostess is not what time you'll arrive, or, better yet, let her suggest what train to take. It will arrive at a time convenient to pick you up.

4. Unless you have a definite skin problem, definitely not.



5. It's permissible, if the call is short and it doesn't interfere with the plans of your hostess.

6. No. It's an imposition to expect your hosts to entertain your friends as well as their own.

7. Daytime dress in the country is quite casual, and it really doesn't take much more time and effort to put on a skirt and sweater instead of a robe. I personally, favor the former.

8. Yes, as long as your hostess doesn't have some pressing engagement lined up for you in the afternoon.

9. Yes, but ask if you can put food in your bedroom after dinner and have a tray in case you don't like her schedule for the day.

Wife Preservers

For a luxurious French polish on wood, build up the layers of shellac gradually with only a soft, feathery stroke. Use dry, warm air and clean, dust-free work in locked bedroom or spare office all business days.

Mother's Helper

PLAY BATHS with lots of toys are fun for youngsters — and what happened to them — watery playthings when the bath is over? One cool holder for them is an ordinary nylon wash bag—the mesh type for use in automatic washers. After the drawstring so it won't pull tight, and boys will clip into it—instead of under your foot.

Vows Taken At Heathfield

TWEED — Seventeen-year-old Carol Rivers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Rivers, of Tweed, was among the pupils in the chapel, which was filled to capacity with parents and friends. After repeating their first vows they were presented with their veils, bridal and were received as novices.

Mass preceded the investitive ceremony following which Archbishop J. A. O'Sullivan received the vows. Prior to the events the postulants and a large group of Sisters of Order were on an eight-day retreat.

Among those attending as guests of Miss Rivers were: her parents, and her sister Dorthy, Mr. and Mrs. Roy O'Coin, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Rivers, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Rivers, Dean C. S. Baker, Miss Boyle and Buckley, Sister M. Teresa and Sister M. Laboure, and many school friends, as well as Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Rivers, Buffalo, and others.

Hospital Work Address at H-S Assoc.

CENTENARY — Centenary Home and School Club met at Centenary school on Wednesday evening with a good attendance. A banner was given to the St. Room for having the largest number of parents attending the Home and School Club.

It was decided to collect for fire works display on 24th May. The guest speaker was Dr. W. R. Beattie of Belleville. Dr. Beattie was born in Renfrew, attended Queen's University and has practised in Belleville for 12 years. He is a member of College of General Practice, past president of the Medical Staff of Belleville Hospital, also a medical staff representative on hospital planning.

He has many hobbies, at present is director of Prince Edward Flying Club and president of the figure skating section of the Skating Club.

His address was enlightening as to the work of the hospital. A progressive hospital can be divided up into 5 units according to degree of illness and equipment needed. At the present time Belleville Hospital is overcrowded and has a waiting list of 240 patients.

Lunch was enjoyed by all.

Young Couple Feted by Many Friends

WEST HUNTINGDON — On Thursday evening a large group of friends and neighbors assembled at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Morley Haggerty to honor their son, Jack, and his bride-to-be and their recent marriage.

Mr. Clayton Hall was the chairman for the evening's program, which consisted of remarks by the chairman; Miss Lois Elliott gave an accordion selection; readings by Mrs. John Wallace, Mrs. Glen Elliott and Miss Ruth Morgan.

Miss Margaret Sheffield read the special address and the newlyweds were presented with two handsome lamps, a mirror and a tray for which they both voiced their appreciation.

Acting Mayor Always Tries To Be Calm

WINNIPEG (CP) — One rule governs the actions of Lillian Hallonquist, Winnipeg's first woman acting mayor.

"I always try to remain calm."

The mother of two grown sons, the alderman for Winnipeg's Ward 3 has learned that a calm voice in the midst of furore can sometimes bring order and restore control.

"There's no point in getting all hot and bubbly over things you can't control," she said.

With Mayor Stephen Jubo on holiday in Florida, Mrs. Hallonquist had ample opportunity to try out her theories in keeping city council sessions down to business.

When things start to get a little hot and heavy she is often heard to say to the men on the council: "Now, now boys . . . I mean gentlemen."

After such a gentle admonition the men often as not smile and carry on with business, often accomplishing her later on her handling of the meetings.

Mrs. Hallonquist, who started her career in 1923 after the death of her husband, Alderman Ernest Hallonquist, says "it is a very nice experience" sitting behind the mayor's desk.

She says she wishes more women would interest themselves in politics and notes that she has had a number of calls from women's organizations saying how proud they are of her.

Readers' Friday Column

by Mary Moore

Thank you note to all who answered my request (February 27th) for a graham cracker cake with no flour and dates for Mrs. M.B.P. for giving the best version.

GRAHAM WAFER CAKE

(sometimes called Food for the Gods — courtesy Constance T., Mrs. A.Y., Mrs. A.G. and many others)

2 eggs, beat well; 1 cup brown sugar, beat well together; 12 graham wafers, rolled well into fine crumbs; 1 teaspoon baking powder; 1 cup dates, cut fine; 1 cup chopped walnuts.

Mix well together. Spread in greased pan. Bake about 20 minutes at 350 deg. Fahr. Do not overbake. Ice with butter icing and sprinkle a little of the bottom crumbs, which were saved out on the icing: Four tablespoons butter, 1½ cups icing sugar, 1 tablespoon canned milk, 1 teaspoon vanilla. Cream together until smooth and spread on cake.

Letter: I am enclosing a recipe for Air Buns which I think is the one Mrs. V.E.C. wanted on February 24th. These are light and fluffy like she said and I think are also economical as they do not use milk or eggs and make a large quantity. Five women asked me for the recipe after serving them one night.

Dinner Menu

FRIDAY

Poached Salmon with Egg Sauce (see Tuesday); Whipped potatoes; Broccoli; Curly Endive, Spinach and Leaf Lettuce Salad with French Dressing; Fruit Jelly with Top Milk; Thumbprint Cookies (see Thursday); Coffee.

AIR BUNS

(Courtesy Mrs. E.H.)

Mix together 1 package yeast, ½ cup warm water, 1 teaspoon sugar. Let rise 10 minutes. Mix together 1½ cups warm water, ½ cup sugar and ½ cup melted shortening. 2 teaspoons salt. Add yeast liquid to the mixture and add 1 tablespoon vinegar. Add about 3 cups flour and work until smooth and then add 7 cups of flour. Kneed until thoroughly combined. Let rise 2 hours and knead again. Let rise 1 hour and knead and shape into buns. Place in pans. Let rise 2 hours. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. for 20 to 25 minutes - Mrs. E.H.

Answer: Thank you Mrs. E. H. for this recipe and for your other enclosure of Graham Wafer Cake.

Thanks too to Miss Dorothy G. and Mrs. D. C. for the same recipe for Air Buns.

I appreciate greatly the thoughtfulness of readers who respond so graciously to my S.O.S.'s.

The simple truth about car prices is that Rambler American is the lowest priced Canadian built car...by $68.20!

RAMBLER AMERICAN CUSTOM FOUR-DOOR SEDAN

Automotive manufacturers often get into price comparisons. More often than not, these comparisons tend to confuse the public. Let's set the record straight. The Rambler American is the lowest priced Canadian built car. In fact, the Rambler American sells for $68.20 less than its nearest competitor, regardless of size or model!

But price alone doesn't make the Rambler American the value it is. You also get the features for which Rambler is famous! The Rambler American is the most completely rustproofed car in the world. It gives you a Ceramic-Armoured muffler that is guaranteed for as long as you own the car. You also get two year guarantees on both the radiator coolant and on the battery. The Rambler American, has, as standard equipment, self-adjusting Double-Safety brakes. These allow the front and rear brakes to operate independently—for a double margin of safety. No other Canadian built car offers this feature. And there are many more exceptional features to add to Rambler's value.

Yes, value is the reason for Rambler's success. A success so great we've gone into a second shift to meet the demand for new Ramblers. We feel we've developed a formula for success: economy, worthwhile features and the lowest price of any Canadian built car. See your Rambler dealer soon. Test drive a new Rambler American. Find out for yourself why we say it's Canada's best all 'round car value.

Modern Kitchen Is Most Wanted Improvement

Kitchen modernization won top place in a recent survey, in which homeowners were asked what improvement projects they were contemplating.

This is not surprising. Usually the first room in a home to "show its age" is the kitchen. New advances in kitchen equipment seem to come almost as rapidly as in women's fashions. Then, too, the constant in-and-out traffic and the day-in-day-out use that the room gets tends to make a kitchen "old before its time."

The best part about kitchen modernization is that the whole job need not be done at once. It can well be a step-by-step program, in which the most urgent needs are given top priority and progress is geared to the "size of the budget."

It is amazing (and most gratifying) what a difference the installation of one or two of the new attractively styled, work-saving appliances or storage units can make in the efficiency and appearance of a kitchen. Indeed, just re-covering the counter-surfaces or redoing the floor or walls will give the room a "new look."

PLANNING AHEAD

If you decide to modernize your kitchen a step at a time, it is important that you keep in mind from the very beginning what your ultimate "dream kitchen" will be like. By so doing, you can plan ahead for future installations of wiring and plumbing.

Here is a check list of the characteristics of a truly modern kitchen which may prove helpful in your planning:

1. Step-saving. Today kitchens are planned for time and step-saving efficiency. Appliances are grouped so that the homemaker can easily turn from one to the other.

2. Easy-to-maintain surfaces. Plastic laminates are used extensively for cabinets, wall surfaces and counter tops. The homemaker appreciates the advantages of a surface that can be kept clean with a damp cloth.

3. Building where it should be. No homemaker likes to work in her own shadow. For this reason, the trend is to get away from centre lights and instead hide them under the cabinets. The ideal set-up is to have a light for every counter-top.

4. Traffic patterns. It is desirable that there be no direct flow of traffic through the main part of the kitchen.

5. Built-in ranges and ovens. Many of the new ranges offer automatic top burner heat controls on the gleaming surface units, new rotisserie, easy-to-clean features, etc.

6. Work centres. The new appliances that probably do more than any others to eliminate tedious chores are the automatic dish washer and the food waste disposer.

BETTER GRIP

Wrap a band of electrician's tape around the bottom end of the handle on hammers and hatchet's to minimize slipping.

Basements And Attics Adaptable

If you are like the average homeowner who has lived in the same house for a number of years, you may well be faced with the growing space needs of an expanding family.

Rather than give up your present home and moving to a larger house, possibly in a different neighborhood, why not consider creating additional living space in the home you now occupy?

Almost every home has unused space that could be converted into livable extra rooms. In many instances, such space can be found in an unused attic, a section of the basement, a porch, an attached garage or carport. Or perhaps you could add on to the back or side of your house by knocking out a wall and expanding one of the existing rooms or adding an entirely new room.

Often the least expensive way to get an extra room is to finish off the attic. Roof and ceiling changes are already there. The "expansion attic" house, like the Cape Cod or many of the other high pitched types usually can be "directed" simply by installing dormers and adding walls, heat, light and insulation.

BASEMENT CONVERSION

Old or new, a house with a basement has built-in room for improvement, presenting practical possibilities for conversion into a recreation room, hobby room, family room, any of which may provide extra guest sleeping quarters.

Finishing this space for better appearance and greater function can be done at moderate expenditure for materials, such as hardboard or one of the Western Pine region woods.

It isn't necessary to start in the attic or basement in order to end up with a remodeled room. Porch or patio can be enclosed and finished with panelling and built-ins.

Remodeling patios and porches, particularly where adjacent to the kitchen, make wonderful family style dining-living areas.

Another practical way to create living space is to build a carport or extra garage for the car, and convert an adjacent garage into extra room you need.

Sliding storm and screen picture windows can be installed where the garage door once stood, or side-wall hinged through for smaller windows.

ADDING A WING

If you can't go up, down or sideways to find space for conversion into extra rooms, consider adding the necessary living facilities by building onto your house.

You will need expert help for at least part of this job. First, have your local surveyor to locate exact property lines. Next check with your building inspector to find out how far out you can go and still stay within bounds set by the zoning code.

Acoustical Ceiling Can Reduce Noise

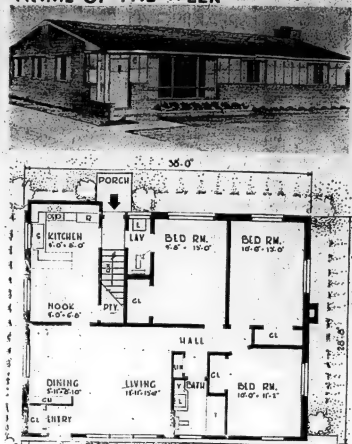
Acoustical ceiling tiles are the most effective single anti-noise measure you can take in your home. They soak up noise like a sponge soaks up water, and absorb 75 to 85 per cent of the sound that would otherwise bounce back into the room.

These tiles are natural home do-it-yourself materials. They can be installed easily by the homeowner if he follows the instructions carefully (each manufacturer provides special instructions for his own materials).

The three main ways of installing sound conditioning materials are cementing, nailing, or stapling and by means of mechanical suspension systems. The method you use will depend upon the ceiling you have.

If your ceiling is of smooth, strong plaster or plaster-boards, cementing the acoustical tiles to the surface by means of a special adhesive is best. Make sure the surface is clean, dry and in good condition, and the paint is sound.

First step to do in cementing is to make a centre-line down the length of the room, and another at right angles, across the room. Placement of the first tile is important, so that the borders will have equal widths.



A putty knife or a small trowel is the only tool you need for applying the cement to the back of the tile. After the adhesive is applied, the tile is pressed into place. Cement spots should be the size of a walnut, and should be back from the tile edges.

If there are too many bumps in the ceiling, furring strips may have to be nailed to it and the acoustical tile attached to them. Nailing or stapling are probably the best methods of attaching acoustical materials to a solid wood backing or to wood strips.

Some perforated materials come with shallow holes in the corners for nailing. Both perforated and many other kinds of tiles come with tongue-and-groove joints, and with a wide flange through which either nails or staples are driven. Stapling with a staple gun is particularly quick and easy with this type of tile.

ject is careful planning and the advice of those who have had where expert advice is called for. Even if you plan to do-it-yourself remodelling project, you might well decide to have part of the work done by a building contractor. Also, when it comes to the choice of material, your local lumber dealer is your best authority.

Pass-Through To Kitchen Proves Big Step-Saver

The kitchen pass-through could save you a lot of steps. It's simply an opening in the wall through which you can pass food, dishes or the like. Usually it is located between the dining room and the kitchen.

It is well to use a sturdy, heat-proof material like ceramic tile for the pass-through's serving counter. The counter must have a fireproof surface for safety and plenty of durability to stand up under the constant abuse of hot dishes and pans. Because it's bound to be soiled, your counter should also be easy to clean and sponge will do the trick on real tile.

Three bedrooms, bath and a half, basement, large kitchen with built-in oven and range are just a few of the outstanding features in this 38' ranch home. Front entry and guest closet are separated from spacious, square living room by open shelf cabinet facing dining area. Studio ceiling in living-dining room adds distinctive touch. Bedrooms distinctive touch. Bedrooms have ample closets with sliding doors and centre bedroom has access to lavatory. Full bath has vanitory. Kitchen work centre is popular square shape with cabinets dividing it from breakfast nook containing handy food storage pantry. Work counter below dividing cabinets has pass through for easy food service. Space saving sliding doors are used between kitchen and hall that leads to rear entrance, basement stairs and lavatory.

Order Rose Plants Now

If you order your rose plants now, they will be delivered in time for spring planting. Rose shrubs can be planted as soon as the frost is out of the ground or whenever you can work the soil. The earlier they are planted the sooner they will start growing and producing blooms. They will flower profusely the first year.

Plan on how you are going to use rose bushes on your home grounds. If you have decided on a rose garden, pace off, or measure your garden space. This way you will know how many plants you'll need, according to the American Association of Nurserymen.

Plant hybrid tea roses closer together, two feet apart, but hybrid teas and three feet for grandiflora roses is about right except in mild climates where more space is required. Floribunda roses vary greatly in height and spread, so space them according to nurserymen's instructions.

Rose plants should have full sun at least half the day. Make sure that your rose plants are not under trees, or in the shade. Roses will thrive in partial shade, but plenty of sun is desirable.

Consult rose catalogues for varieties and colors. Most rose plants are suitable for planting close to the patio or terrace. Roses growing from pots or tubs look exceptionally well on the patio as they break the monotony of bleak concrete stone or gravel.

Choosing Right Wallpaper Basic to Good Decoration

Picking the right kind of wallpaper can be pretty much like picking your new spring hat. You can have fun, or you can spend several exhausting and inconclusive hours trying to make up your mind. So pick your paper carefully, remembering the Wallpaper Council, and you'll live happily with it ever after.

It is best to have some idea of what you're after before you get into the store. The wallpaper people in your local store will be happy to help you solve your decorating problems, but they can't make up your mind for you. So be prepared to give them some idea of the type of furniture you have, the color combinations of your accessories, and a general idea of what you want.

With the correct wallpaper, there is no doubt but that you can easily alter and improve any room in the house.

Rooms in compact, modern ranch homes can be made to appear more spacious, while larger ambling rooms can take on that comfortable, intimate look, with the right wallpaper with the proper texture, pattern and tone.

PRE-TEST EFFECT

Many wallpaper stores will let you have a strip of wallpaper, so that you can tack it up on your wall and let your family live with it a while.

The new living-dining room areas provide lots of family use, so that the walls must be subdued or provide a setting for pleasing background. Textured wallpapers are usually the answer here. They come in a variety of effects and colors, and will soften and enhance the plain surfaces of modern furnishings.

A room badly cut up with too many windows or doors calls for ingenious handling. If this problem room happens to be your dining room, paper one or two even walls with an interesting pattern. Then use plain colored and textured papers on the dining surfaces, with woodwork and doors painted to match. There are plenty of such matching papers now available.

TO BRIGHTEN ROOM

A dark room, removed from natural sunlight, should be papered in soft yellows or off-white tones to introduce light and spaciousness.

Dormer windows often present another difficult problem. A small scaled all-over pattern on the ceiling and walls of the dormer, and matching plain papers on the other walls, will give a most pleasant and decorative effect. Sloping walls will easily blend into the ceiling. If you just use the same small textured design on both ceilings and dormer.

If you plan to do the job yourself, select your papers, keeping this fact in mind. There are many pre-trimmed and pre-pasted papers on the market which will ease your job considerably. If papers are untrimmed, your dealer can most likely trim them for you free.

Simple Trick For Cutting Wheels

Oldtimers may chuckle at the simplicity of this basement workshop trick, but once in the life of every do-it-yourselfer, the question crops up:

How do you cut out round wheels (for garden furniture, for instance) without a band or jig saw?

The answer is simplicity itself, as the drawing above shows.

After drawing the 'wheel on the material (fir plywood, made with waterproof glue and cross laminated for strength, makes sturdy wooden wheels that won't warp), trim off as much of the excess fir plywood as you can by making straight saw cuts.

Then, with the wheel clamped in a vice, trim off more wood to within ⅛" of the circle.

The final step is to saw right along the line, breaking the narrow strip away as you proceed, to accommodate the hand-saw.

Landscaping Increases Home Values

Whether your home planning agenda calls for a few shrubs or complete re-landscaping as your part of the government program this spring, it is advised that you follow a basic landscaping plan. For a well-planted property not only reflects the beauty and charm of your house, it provides outdoor living for the family, and increases its real estate value.

Plan with a purpose: trees for shade, screens, or accents or color and form— shrubs and evergreens to enhance the architectural lines of the house. Gardens and shrubs borders should be planned and not scattered hit and miss about the property, says the American Association of Nurserymen.

CONFORM TO DESIGN

For instance, in planting around the contemporary house with its long low lines, keep planting under long picture windows low, and conform to the lines of the house by using low material such as ground covers.

To add height and softness, plant a flowering tree away from the house not against it.

Large shrubberies across may need to be broken up by an individual plant or grouping.

A good way to start planning your landscaping is to place a piece of tracing paper over a photograph of your house and use a few fundamental shapes and form to work out groupings. It may take more than one sketch to get the result you want. Use the combination that best brings out the feeling the architect had designed in his design. Within your chosen outline of shapes, incorporate certain ideas you have in the design. Within your chosen outline of shapes, incorporate certain ideas you have in the design. 8TH BELLEVILLE FATHER AND SON BANQUET

The 8th Belleville Cub and Scouts held their "Annual Father and Son Banquet" at Prince Charles School with about 190 present. The banquet opened with Rev. R. D. MacLean giving "Grace", followed by the singing of the "Queen". A delicious turkey dinner with all the trimmings was enjoyed by all. Mr. M. Dowbyiuk, chairman of 8th Group Committee, introduced the head table guests which included; Mr. P. Pickering, President of District Council, Mr. M. Mawhinney, District Commissioner, Rev. R. D. MacLean, Mr. Harden, Principal of Prince Charles School, Mr. Don Stirling, Past President of 8th Group Committee, Mrs. Aubley, A.D.C., Mrs. P. Goslebourn, President of District Committee Ladies Auxiliary, and Mrs. R. Taylor, President of Central School and Queen Mary and Prince Charles Schools.

Mr. Dowbyiuk welcomed all the Fathers and stressed that it was through them to be more active in the 8th Belleville Group Committee. He also mentioned that in order for the Cubs and Scouts to operate financial assistance was required and hoped that all the Fathers would become members of the group. As there will be only two meetings before the 8th closes for the summer, Mr. Dowbyiuk urged the fathers to attend the regular monthly meetings which are held every 3rd Wednesday of the month. He announced that the 8th Group are going to Oak Lake for the weekend of June 29th. In his remarks he also complimented 8th Belleville Ladies Auxiliary for being so active and doing a marvellous job under the leadership of President Mrs. A. Vallese.

Guest speaker, District Commissioner Mawhinney gave a very interesting talk on "Air Rockery", beginning his story with the first man-powered airplane to the present rockets set for touring the moon. He included "Scouting" in his address.

Mr. P. Pickering explained the financial setup of the Scouting movement, and distributed appreciation indicating how the money is spent. He stated that Scouting in Belleville is growing, and welcomed all fathers to the District Council meetings held every second Monday of the month. Anyone can attend whether he has a son in Scouting or not. Mr. Pickering urged the fathers of 8th Belleville to get behind the group committee and attend meetings. Mrs. M. Dowbyiuk thanked both Mr. M. Maw and Mr. P. Pickering for their addresses.

Scout Roy Pigeon proposed a toast to the fathers and Mr. V. Post responded for the fathers. A toast to the mothers was given by Sixer Glen Vallese.

Akela Marion Gelsthorpe, with her assistant, Janet Wallace, Kay Post, Donna Thompson and Brenda Smith, distributed the following awards to the Cubs: "Team Players" — Ronald Jordon, Ron Helm, David Butcher and Ron Andrews; "Cyclist"—Michael Tripp, Tom Helm, Ronald Jordon and Craig Searle; "Collectors" — John Little and Michael Creasser; "Gardeners" — David Butcher, Ronnie Jordon, Michael Tripp and Bradley Brummell; "House Orderly"—Gary Wagar, Michael Tripp, Gordon Till, David Butcher, Philip Smith, and Gary Vallesu; "Pet Keepers" —Ronnie Jordon, Michael Gostler, John Latalm, Gordon Till, Craig Searle, Kenneth Sargent, Ken Robinson, Paul Sriven, Michael Tripp, Ken MacDonald, and Gary Vallesu; "Artist" — Gary Vallesu; "Guide"—Steven Sharpe and Glen Vallesu; "Athlete" — Glen Vallesu; "Swimmers." — Ron Andrews; "2nd Star" — Bradley Brummel, Michael Goetlier, John Little, John Latham and Gordon Till; "Third Star" — David Butcher, Richard Lambert, Craig Searle, Michael Tripp and Gary Vallesu. Steven Sharpe received his "14th Badge."

Mr. M. Dowbyiuk introduced Scouter Bob Bell to the fathers. Scouter Bob has a lot of Scouting behind him; while stationed in France and Germany he was active in Scouting there. At present he is stationed with the RCAF at Trenton.

The entertainment consisted of a very interesting film presented through the Coca Cola Company. Bob Chappell, Vernon Martin and Dan Bergen provided music with their guitars. Bob Burke and Doug Bannon presented skits in pantomime.

This very enjoyable occasion for 8th Belleville closed with the Cubs and Scouts singing the "Venger Song."

3rd BELLEVILLE CUB AND SCOUT AUXILIARY

The March meeting of the 3rd Belleville Cub and Scout Auxiliary was held in St. Michael's Junior school with Mrs. W. Barrett presiding, who warmly welcomed all and introduced new members.

Mrs. W. Barrett reported on the workshop meeting held by the district committee in St. Margaret's-on-the-Hill church which four members attended.

During "Boy Scout Week" the ladies served lunch to the Scouts at which time two were invested and a third was accepted into the Scout troop.

Previous to the meeting the executive held a meeting in conjunction with the executive of the Ladies Auxiliary with the following present: Mrs. M. Geisthorpe, president; Mrs. Dave McDonald, secretary; Mrs. J. Kelly, treasurer; Mrs. W. Noakes, contact chairman; Mrs. J. Johnston, supply secretary, for the purpose of formulating plans for the 5th Anniversary Banquet which is to be held in St. Michael's parish Church Hall entrance, on May 3rd. The 3rd Belleville Auxiliary will be in charge of the event. The guest speaker will be Mr. W. Parish. It is hoped that all auxiliary members will keep note of this important date.

Mrs. Noakes gave an informative display of Cub and Scouts merit badges which she served.

AVONDALE CUB AND SCOUT MOTHER'S AUXILIARY

The Avondale Cub and Scout Mothers Auxiliary held their March meeting at the home of Mrs. Macy Wilson, Wright Ave. with Mrs. J. Cooke presiding. The meeting opened with the "Mothers Promise", followed by the singing of Silent Night. Seven members were welcomed to the Group.

Reports were given by Mrs. MacKinnon, Janet Wallace, Mrs. Nix, treasurer, and Mrs. Pugh, secretary, after which Mrs. Cooke gave a detailed report of the last Group committee meeting.

Due to the resignation of Mrs. G. S. Woodcock, Mrs. C. Reed, vice-president will carry on in this position until end of the season which is in June.

Plans were made regarding future meetings, and the next will be at the home of Mrs. S. Elliott, 187 Wright Ave.

A social hour followed, with refreshments being served by the hostess, Mary Wilson, assisted by Betty MacKinnon. The meeting closed with the "Mizpah".

CANNIFTON AND CORBYVILLE SCOUT MOTHERS' AUXILIARY

The March meeting of the Canniffon and Corbyville Scout Mothers Auxiliary met in Canniffon Church parlor. The meeting was opened by President Mrs. F. Furmidge (Sr.) and members reading the "Mothers Promise".

Members decided that instead of having candy sale with all mothers donating. Everyone was asked to save newspapers for a coming paper drive. It was announced that a goodly sum was realized on the "Pop Bottle Drive." Alexia with the help

Teen-Age Canada

How to Lead Police Life

By JACK HUTTON

WANTED: physically fit young Canadians to join a Canadian organization that is famous wherever posters are shown in the world.

I chatted this week with representatives of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police which has a recruiting drive underway across the country.

The Force isn't the same romantic group which tamed the Canadian West at the beginning of this century—but it holds even greater challenges for the enthusiastic recruit.

First, cast out the image of a man in scarlet mounted on a horse. Every recruit learns to ride during his 10-month training period, but he may wind up flying a plane before he's through.

"We figure that learning to ride is very good for a recruit," said one officer. "The outside of a horse is good for the inside of a man. But that's probably the last time he sees a horse."

QUALIFICATIONS

What are the qualifications? "You must be single, 18, and have a Grade 10 education," explained Corporal S. W. Kelly. "Height should be between 5 ft. 8 in. and 6 ft. 3 in., and you must have a valid driver's license."

The young man applying for the Force needn't worry about being a muscular man type. He can have flabby glands, but he must be physically fit. The RCMP expects his chest measurements (totalling expanded and otherwise) to be 70 inches.

"Anyone can apply to his nearest RCMP detachment," said Corporal Kelly. "He needn't worry about doing it through only big cities. If he's accepted, he'll go to either Regina or Rockcliffe, Ont., for training."

The training program, eight to ten months long, is one which would amaze the teen-ager thinking in terms of the Old West." Altogether the curriculum covers 85 subjects.

Among them are lectures on federal statutes, criminal code, foot and arms drills, physical training, police holds in judo, boxing, small arms instruction, swimming and mounted training and drill.

MANY CHOICES

Where does the recruit go from there? The choices RCMP officers have are many and varied—federal duties, the security service, regular police duty, national police services, the air service or marine division.

The air division (which always has a waiting list of officers hoping to join it) has 12 aircraft across the country ready for any use while the marine division patrols the coastal and inland water boundaries of the country.

A final tip (which must sound familiar to you by now) came from a Montreal officer: "We must stress the importance of an education," he said. Grade 10 is the minimum, but a high school graduate has much better chances of eventual promotion.

Added another representative. "No one should enter the Force thinking only of glory. But it is an immense satisfaction to be working in a semi-military force respected all over the world."

FRENCH STUDY

Barbara Hueck of Thornhill, Ont., has given us probably the last word in our survey of French study in Canada. She wrote after our poll to say:

"I was so glad to see that there are other English-speaking Canadian teen-agers who are deeply interested in Canada's bilingual problem and want to do something about it.

"Before I began to study French in high school, I had never really thought about it. Now that I am learning French I really see the need of every Canadian speaking both languages whenever our bilingual problem arises.

"Before I began to study French in high school, I had never really thought about it. Now that I am learning French I really see the need of every Canadian speaking both languages whenever our bilingual problem arises.

"Today every nation is seeking world peace. How can we even attempt to find peace if there is a break in the unity of our own country?

"I have visited Quebec twice and both times I found that the French teen-agers spoke English as well as French but very few English young people spoke fluent French.

"Are the majority of English-speaking teen-agers just lazy and not interested. Or have we not been given an opportunity to learn to speak French? It has been known by the letters you received that we are interested and are willing to work hard to learn French.

"Therefore, it must be true that we have not been given a good enough opportunity to learn to speak French!"

Civil Servant's Comment On Judy La Marsh Criticized In House by Pickersgill

OTTAWA (CP)—A senior civil servant's public comment on the actions of a member of Parliament was severely criticized in the Commons Thursday by a Liberal MP, himself a civil servant.

J. W. Pickersgill, clerk of the Privy Council, spoke as he entered the St. Laurent government, said the Indian commissioner of British Columbia deserves a reprimand over remarks attributed to him in the press about the conduct of an MP.

Commissioner J. V. Boys was quoted in the Vancouver Sun March 15 as saying charges of irregularities in the awarding of a timber-cutting license on the Indian land made in the Commons by Liberal MP Judy La Marsh were "utterly false and undeserving of no other comment."

The Niagara Falls MP, only woman on the Liberal bench, had said there was collusion in the award of a license to Shoreline Lumber Limited of Vancouver for cutting timber on Trimpsean No. 2 Indian reserve north of Prince Rupert, B.C.

CANCELS LICENCE

Citizenship Minister Fairclough, whose department is responsible for Indian affairs, cancelled the licence and ordered that new tenders be called.

Mrs. Fairclough said Thursday it was "deplorable" that comments attributed to Indian Commissioner Boys should have reached the press. She suggested they may have originated from an offhand remark made in private. The matter was being investigated.

"One of the peculiarities of a civil servant," she said, "is that he is defenceless unless someone else in the House rises to defend him."

Mr. Pickersgill said civil servants should remember they are not elected to the Commons.

Mr. Pickersgill also told the Commons he has learned that ac Indian reserve in northern B.C. is suffering from a serious epidemic of hepatitis and scabs in adolescents.

The MP for Bonavista-Twillingate said there seems to have been a "very serious neglect of the welfare of these Indians" and called for an immediate investigation. This was promised by L. Elston Cardiff, parliamentary secretary to Health Minister Monteith.

MENTIONS AGAIN

Miss La Marsh seized on the opportunity to bring up the Trimpsean affair once again. She said the Indians are concerned about the delay in letting new tenders because they might lose another year's work of timber-cutting.

She understood that the short-term export marker for such timber is unsettled and there might be some pressure to export logs. She contacted immediately. The trade and claims departments should discuss the matter and speed up the export period.

Richard A. Bell, parliamentary to Finance Minister Fleming said new tenders have not been called.

Miss La Marsh also asked the government to investigate a report that Hyde Brett, the citizenship department's chief forester, had advised that it was plan group it would have to replant timber areas after cutting.

TOLD OF COMPANY

She had been informed the group of Indians had not consent Products, an all-Indian company, to cut timber on the Nass reserve.

If the report was true, she said, the department had failed in the light of the fact that the company has advised that it was the same Mr. Brett, among other people, who had given advice that the Indians should not be replanted."

Mrs. Fairclough said Mr. Miss La Marsh would tell her "the source on the information of the rumor and she will refer the reference to the Nishka Lumber Commission. She would have it investigated.

Kennedy Wants Authority to Tap Telephones

WASHINGTON (AP) — Attorney - General Robert Kennedy told senators Thursday he has strong evidence that major public officials in communities in the United States south, east and west "are on the payroll of big-time gamblers."

He testified at a Senate judiciary committee hearing in support of a new wiretap measure which he said has been carefully drawn to strike a balance between the right of privacy and the needs of law enforcement.

Talking with reporters after the hearing, Kennedy declined to name the communities which he believes political leaders have been corrupted by the underworld—or even to say how many cities he had in mind.

But he said that with the requested authority to tap telephones, prosecutors in his department could get the additional information it needs for successful prosecution of "prominent men, officials from public offices."

Kennedy urged approval of an administration bill that would permit federal and state officials to tap wires, under court orders, when investigating a kidnapping and makes crimes to use the evidence in court. He said the present wiretap legislation is required for more effective prosecution of espionage, sabotage and other subversive activities.

Drugs Picked Up by Accused Say Police

HAMILTON (CP) — A preliminary hearing in the biggest drug case in Hamilton history went into its second day Thursday with Detective - Sgt. Ed Mounted Police testifying that 25 capsules of heroin, hidden in two cassette tapes, were picked up by four of the accused.

The four accused were identified as Patricia Hay, Nicholas Fiset, Jr., Charles Searles and William Daugherty.

They are charged, along with Patricia Champagne and Jack Mitchell, with conspiracy to traffic in narcotics.

Cpl. Wilson of the RCMP narcotics squad said he and Constable Joseph Avbar were investigating a car parked near a container in the grass with 25 capsules of heroin.

The officers said they took samples out of each capsule and found the "plants" in the identical spot.

"Hay and Fiset came into the alley and started searching. The woman kept on striking matches. When I heard each of the three words of something shouted to Fiset. They said, 'Where's the rest of it?' ... 'be here some place,'" Officer Craig said.

He said a few minutes later they both stood up and left the alley. When officers looked the container was gone.

Road-Blocking Snow Is Left By Spring Storm

Gusty winds pushing into the central U.S. nipped a spell of balmy spring weather but eased flood threats in some sections by slowing the runoff from melting snow.

A half-inch of snow on Norfolk, Neb., where flood waters from the Northern Plains receded slowly after washing over 100 railroad tracks and much of the business area of the city of 13,200 population.

The New York Times was improving generally in eastern Nebraska, where several hundred persons have been driven from their homes.

The worst dangers mounted rapidly in scattered cities in Iowa. The Coast Guard rushed into the communities of Cherokee, Le Mars and Hinton in northwestern Iowa.

At Sioux City, a city of 89,000 population, 175 families were evacuated with the flood crest still to come.

Cherokee was under four feet of water in spots and 75 families were evacuated there. The east, ern half of Hinton was evacuated and the national guard was called out.

The New York Daily News in a copyright story says the singer, "crushed by the apparent collapse of his marriage with Liz Taylor—has suffered a nervous breakdown and is a patient behind locked doors in a private hospital." His personal manager, Milton Blackstone says "there's nothing mentally wrong with him." Miss Taylor is filming "Cleopatra" in Rome.

Civil Rights and Sudbury Visitors Enliven Mine-Mill Meeting Held in Toronto

TORONTO (CP)—Civic rights, reorganization and an impromptu visit from rebel Sudbury elements enlivened the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers' convention Thursday.

Negro and Mexican-American speakers paced the civic rights discussion preceding passage of the union constitution which agreed to discrimination and segregation. Another speaker was President Kennedy to fill the Supreme Court vacancy with a Negro.

Robert Brown of Buffalo said he had met many Negroes regard Canada as "God's country" although there are few job opportunities.

The reorganization move—to create seven areas—was opposed by U.S. districts into five—brought the most opposition yet in what has been a unanimous expression of views so far. Executive boards also would be membership losses, mine closures and layoffs.

The Sudbury situation reared its head again when the rebel President of Local 598, Stan Mill's largest in Canada at 17,-000 members, asked permission to appear before the meeting to repudiate a "distorted" picture presented earlier.

Sudbury has been raided by the rival Steelworkers, of Amer., ica, harrying Mine-Mill in both countries for more than 10 years. The union's leaders have been fighting the national and international raiders.

SPURNS REQUEST

Their request Thursday was spurned by the convention, which left 25 areas the true representation of the Mine-Mill Sudbury local.

Some of them milled around Sudbury Vice - President Don McNabb and two companions Thursday in the gallery when the trio showed up to watch the convention. Then there was no problem. Some of the rebel leaders have been expelled for life from Mine-Mill.

International President John Clark—reflecting the bitterness that exists in the troubled Mine, Mill union—recalled that the union had "expelled such filth. He said the Communist people who wanted to engage into the hall among honest men."

Ed O'Brien, Financial Secretary Ray Poirier and Warden Ed O'Brien had asked for the chance.

Mr. Clark said there is representation from the Sudbury local—the 25 rank-and-file delegates who "are the real representatives of the Sudbury workers." They were named by a meeting of 2,000 workers.

Mr. Clark said the trio just came along to make trouble Thursday, apparently with a photographer."

Mr. McNabb said about 15 of the Sudbury delegates came up to surround them and trouble seemed possible when a spokesman intervened.

WOULD AID SITUATION

Another suggested streamlining of the union has been suggested as a means to prepare Mine-Mill, under heavy attack in Canada and the U.S., for expansion which, he remembered, "has been declining. The new district would be formed on account of raids, mine closures and membership losses.

Executive Planie, of the Canadian Textile Foundation, flayed President Clifford Jodoin, of the Canadian Labor Congress and warned that any affiliation with the 300,000 Canadian unionists outside the CLC—Teamsters, Mine, Mill, Textile Workers, Electricians and others—put the pressure on for improvement and that leaders of the 1,050,000 CLC affiliated members are soft on company raids.

Sky Language Hasn't Changed A Great Deal

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP) — "Climb gate to angels 40 holding bands."

Translated, this jet jargon of RCAF and North American Air Defence Commands means: "climb at full power to 40,000 feet in close formation."

The language of the sky hasn't changed a great deal since the Second World War and many of the words used in the Battle of Britain survive to this day. For instance, "bogey" is still an unidentified plane, "bandit" a hostile aircraft.

But new words have had to be introduced to meet the challenge posed by new electronic marvels of air defence. For instance, "dolly" means the electronic computer by which pilots receive visual commands from the ground controller.

Other expressions, a mixture of old and new, include:

"The oranges are sweet (the weather's good); no joy (can't find target); Judy (airborne radar); pigeons (direction and distance home); chickens (interceptors); buster (top speed); splash (shoot down); pancake (land); and gone (kaput).

"Roger," meaning "understood," isn't Roger any more. It has been shortened to "Rog."

The object of the code is to keep radio messages brief. Incidentally, don't breathe a word about all this. RCAF manuals tell us that the secret though much of it has been familiar to the public for 20 year or more through movie documentary films and the like.

Chiang Kai-Shek Appears Anxious to Take Mainland

By HAROLD MORLEON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

In his anxiety to recapture the Chinese mainland, Chiang Kai-shek appears to be exhorting his nationalist forces in such a way as to cause new concern among Communist and Western diplomatic quarters.

The leader on Formosa is aging and the chances of his launch an offensive to redeem his honor in the days of his people may increase, particularly in view of the food shortage on the mainland and the split between Mao Tse-tung and Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

But Chiang's views concerning developments on the mainland are not shared by the United States. There is a fear that Chiang's forces could slide into the communities of Chengtu, Mara and Hinton in northwestern Iowa.

At Sioux City, a city of 89,000 population, 175 families were evacuated with the flood crest still to come.

Cherokee was under four feet of water in spots and 75 families were evacuated there. The east, ern half of Hinton was evacuated and the national guard was called out.

One U.S. authority said he could find no evidence that a positive revolt is in the making. The police arm of the Mao Tse-tung regime appears to be well entrenched.

Under an agreement with the U.S., Chiang has promised to refrain from any U.S. action taking any overt action to recapture the mainland, but to free Reds some 13 years ago, President Kennedy says there has been no such consultations and he knows of no new proposals for such consultations.

"Quite obviously, it is the desire of the people of Formosa that they revolt in the making. nationalists were forced to retreat or if Russia decided to intervene to help the Chinese Reds against the nationalists.

One U.S. official suggested an eleventh hour attack limit the war would be an internal nationalist revolution against the Communists. Russians might be less eager to intervene if they became aware they were fighting mainland Chinese.

The U.S. appears to believe this internal revolt must occur before the mainland can successfully change hands.

Feels Britain Pledged to Hold Premiers' Meet

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker indicated Thursday that he regards Prime Minister Macmillan of Britain as being committed to calling a Commonwealth prime minister's conference before Britain decides whether to enter the European Common Market.

He told the Commons in a reply that while Britain's Lord Privy Seal Edward Heath was here earlier this week he had expressed to Mr. Heath the necessity of such a conference before Britain makes a decision.

Mr. Diefenbaker said Canadian nationalists were forced to retreat or if Russia decided to intervene to help the Chinese Reds against the nationalists.

One U.S. official suggested an eleventh hour attack limit the war would be an internal nationalist revolution against the Communists. Russians might be less eager to intervene if they became aware they were fighting mainland Chinese.

Liberal Pleads for More Aid For Indians in His Riding

TORONTO (CP)—It was like an echo of former years Thursday in the legislature.

The member for Kenora rose from the Liberal ranks to plead for government aid to better the "indescribably deplorable" conditions among the Indians in his riding are living.

Last December, Thursday was Robert Gibson. In former years, the Indians' eloquent spokesman was Albert Wren. He died last fall and whose riding was won by the Liberals in a Jan. 18 byelection.

"Whole families are living in unsanitary shacks, sometimes on the ground under a single blanket," Mr. Gibson said. The Indians must be given a chance to help themselves.

As one method of improving the Indians' situation, he quest, he said why white residents whom he described as "absentee licence-holders" and Conservative party supporters were given licences to fish in "areas where starving Indians are living."

He said those he named holding such licences were Arthur Ferguson of Kenora; brother, mine manager E. Fahlgren, president of the Kenora Conservative Association; C. J. Wieben of Fort William, owner of Superior Airways and a Winnipeg representative; and George Green, head of Green Airways of Red Lake.

"How does this government have the nerve to grant licences to these people as political rewards?" Mr. Gibson asked.

Lands and Forests Minister Spooner, whose estimates were under discussion said the licences referred to have been held for many years by the persons named and that the old businesses are not being forced out.

Cannot Adequately Provide Defence Against Air Attack

WASHINGTON (CP) — Two United States congressmen have renewed their attack on the Bomarc anti-aircraft missile on the grounds of what they described as confidential evidence received during a defence appropriations committee hearing.

Pennsylvania Democrat Daniel Flood and Ohio Republican William Minshall, committee members, said in the evidence merely confirmed their views that the Bomarc, which Canada has adopted to bolster its anti-aircraft defences, cannot provide an adequate defence against a massive enemy air attack.

"The Bomarc wouldn't survive the first wave of such an attack," Minshall said in an interview. He quoted Defence Secretary McNamara as telling the committee that one of the weaknesses in the Bomarc system is that it is dependent on the electronic communications and computation equipment such as SAGE which is above ground and vulnerable to air attack.

Asked for comment on the criticism, U.S. Air Force officials associated with the Bomarc said they are "quite happy" with the results of flight tests and are confident the weapon would prove itself capable of doing the job for which it was designed.

A censored transcript of the committee hearings showed that Flood and Minshall peppered Pentagon witnesses with a number of questions dealing with Bomarc flight tests and how the missile would stand up against Russia's new supersonic medium-range bomber, Blinder.

The air force has been conducting a number of flight tests with the solid-fuelled Bomarc-A and the solid-fuelled Bomarc-B, aimed against supersonic drones. Air force officials said they are satisfied with the number of "kills" achieved by the missiles in these tests. They declined to disclose the percentage of kills though one officer suggested that a figure of between 50 and 75 per cent would be "a reasonable guess."

The Bomarc, of which Canada is obtaining two B model squadrons, is ground-controlled by radar, guided towards its target through speedy computations made by giant computers forming part of the SAGE system. On the basis that SAGE might be knocked out by enemy bombers, the USAF is developing a manual backup system of communication and computation, but this will be very slow down the process. The enemy bomber might be out of range by the time the computation is ready.

Hydro Workers Vote 3-1 for Strike Action

TORONTO (CP) — Negotiations between the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission and the Ontario Provincial Council of National Union of Public Service Employees (CLC) collapsed Thursday.

The 8,300 members of the union in the 1 Quarter area will strike action if their demands for a eight-per-cent wage boost over two years were not met, and an early strike is considered unlikely.

After the collapse of Thursday's talks, Hydro officials immediately called on provincial Labor Minister Warrender to intervene.

C. B. C. Scott, chief negotiator for Hydro, said negotiations collapsed when the union rejected an offer to submit all unsettled contract items to an impartial arbitrator for a binding decision.

He said the union also rejected a plan for a settlement recommended by a conciliation board in February. It offered a four - per - cent wage increase over two years.

Mr. Scott added the commission asked the union Thursday to appoint a sub-committee to meet with Hydro officials to provide an orderly take-over of vital services should the union strike. The union replied it would only co-operate to provide services to essential customers.

Earlier Thursday Robert Hillary, Hydro's director of operations, announced that 400 supervisors would be moved to scattered power stations and transforming plants to prepare for an immediate take-over should the rank-and-file staff strike.

45 Per Cent of Population Living in 17 Metro Areas Shown by Census Report

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada is becoming a nation of big-city dwellers, with 45 per cent of the population living in 17 metropolitan areas.

This was shown today in a Dominion Bureau of Statistics report on the census last June 1 covering Canada's small cities and towns.

Of the 18,238,247 Canadians counted last year, 82 per cent, or total of 14,955,165—lived in centres of 5,000 and over. There were 306 such centres, 38 more than at the previous census in 1956.

The most notable population gains, however, occurred in the 17 metropolitan areas across the country.

Fully 63 per cent of the population's growth of 2,157,000 during the five-year period 1956-61 took place in these areas. This was the accelerating trend, since in the previous five years 56 per cent of the total increase occurred in these areas.

PROPORTION HIGHER

The 17 areas, as defined in the census, had a total population of 8,138,985 compared with 6,905,981 five years earlier.

However, the total of 17 does not include five cities—Regina with 112,141 people and Saskatoon with 95,526—which were larger than some of the 17 but didn't have enough urban population outside their limits to require classification as metropolitan areas.

Fastest-growing metropolitan areas during the 1956-61 period were Calgary, which gained 38.8 per cent, and Edmonton, with a 34.4 per cent increase. They were followed by the metropolitan areas of Ottawa, up 34.4 per cent, Toronto, up 31.9 per cent and Montreal, up 20.9 per cent. Slowest-growing area was Windsor which grew only four per cent.

Other metropolitan areas in population areas in 1961, with 1956 with percentage growth rate:

Vancouver 790,165 (695,584) 0.7; Vancouver 384,522 (365,844) 5.1; Edmonton 281,027 (286,022) 24.3; Hamilton 273,991 (239,625) 14.3; Ottawa 268,206 (222,129) 20.7; Winnipeg 265,429 (235,063) 4.1; Calgary 249,641 (182,780) 37.5; Quebec 357,055 (357,703) 0.7; London 169,569 (154,021) 10.1;

Windsor 154,367 (121,960) -0.3; Regina 112,141 (99,755) 24.9; Saskatoon 95,526 (72,255) 31.5; Halifax 92,911 (92,301) -0.8; St. Catharines 84,470 (80,976) 12.7; Sudbury 80,120 (66,488) 72.4; Verdun 78,337 (78,282) 6.1; Kitchener 74,495 (59,562) 25.2; Sherbrooke 66,554 (56,068) 13.4; St. John's, Nfld. 65,098 (57,070) 11.5;

Oshawa 62,415 (50,412) 30.8; Hull 56,929 (49,243) 15.6; Sydney Mines 55,978 (54,706) 2.3; Trois Rivieres 53,477 (50,483) 5.9; Sarnia 50,976 (45,477) 17.2.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Margery I. — I did like human thing. Now I'm out to the door.

Paul H. — That's just tough. I know nothing of any secret deals.

Margery I. — I'm a register. ed nurse, 36 years old. When I get my regular duty, I earn good $100 a week for an eight-hour day, plus my meals. But when my aunt took sick, I moved in with her because she lived close and I cared for her for all a week over a period of the months, until she died. She assured me that she had made out a new will, shortly before my arrival, providing for generally and that the weekly check she gave me was just for spending money. She explained that her ready cash was limited the terms of her husband's

Well, to my surprise I find no record will and that I did care leaves everything to her was. They lived out-of-town and hardly did anything to confirm er. Yet they got the money promised me. And I'm the loser to the tune of a few thousand dollars.

Paul H. — Wow, at this late in the day, couple Margie and with a tale of her private understanding with my poor mother. My brother and I were in town to sell her house and this last month. But even though he lives in Montana and I live in Indiana, we've been in touch with Margie and mother. We each stopped last Christmas, and our wives and children sent cards and letters. Mother and I had a few pleasant long-distance telephone chats, too. And never once was any arrangement with Margie discussed. We assumed, whatever it was, it was satisfactory to both of them.

Now, with nothing in writing and not even a verbal recollection, Margie puts in this claim. She could say anything she pleases to us or mother, she should have been more considerate than to work for a little. How do we know she did? Maybe she got the rest in cash.

The Council: Seems like this here "gentlemen's agreement" — real neither gentlemen nor agreement, have been known to lead to lawsuits and more trials, for it is early age, when conciliation, settlement and reconciliation, are easily possible, we laymen can examine the "prima facie" elements of the contest and venture an opinion on where justice lies.

Thus, on the face of the evidence, Paul, we must say — were you a party to it" son or "minimal" cost? A maximal we would have traveled. Had made detailed arrangements for mother's care, including the by and the Bench. A minimal son would have retained as you did — that his mother and made her own deals and that they were okay. He'd be relieved to get off so easy. As to double-dealing, expert nursing, as your brother must give a reasonable accounting for it to Margie. During the bad time you were delighted to let Margie do it. Now in the good time (for you) you must hear out and weigh her claim as one of your obligations.

It stands to reason Paul's mother needed expert nursing, received it and ought to have paid for it. The small cheques to Margie didn't pay for it. What about the balance? Margie's version of the terms she thought she was working under is plausible. Her aunt was of sound mind and a bad trusted her. Hindsight indicates that over-sight prevailed in statement in writing, signed and witnessed. Hindsight indicates that what she'd have earned should be mind that he boys would be the right thing by Margie, whether specifically directed to do so or not. Certainly if nursing did such high quality by a stranger, a non-relative, a friend, it would be unfair to matter than Margie's asking — the difference between what it is worth and what she'd have earned working elsewhere.

Legally it would be hard for Margie to establish a case. Morally and ethically she seems to have one. The sons should pay her the balance she reasonably claims. But even though he lives in Montana and I make my home in Indiana, I've been in touch with Margie and mother. We each stopped last Christmas, and our wives and children sent cards and letters. Mother and I had a few pleasant long-distance telephone chats, too. And never once was any arrangement with Margie discussed. We assumed, whatever it was, it was satisfactory to both of them.

BONARLAW — The March meeting of Local 171 of the Ontario Farmers' Union was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Brown with Murray Bateman as chairman.

A letter from the Ontario Farm Union Committee on Marketing, asking for the opinion of members on marketing problems was read and discussed. There were 13 questions about various marketing boards, the methods of selling and also methods of disposing of surplus products.

Jeanine Williams reported on the submission of the Ontario Farm Union brief to the Ontario Government. There were 60 delegates present from across Ontario. She reported that the brief was well received both by the government and the opposition parties. The government is setting up an economic council to study all phases of approval to bettering the farmer's position.

The Ontario Farm Union president, Melvin Tebbutt, is to be on the economic council.

The union pointed out that over the last ten years 97 percent was spent on production and three percent on marketing, while the problem is over production and poor marketing.

The assistant agricultural representative for Hastings County, Gibson Patterson, spoke briefly on farm problems and wished the union success.

Clarke and Rhonda Brown and Brian Cosbey favored with piano solos. Harper Bateman read a vote of thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Brown for the use of their home, after which refreshments and a social time were enjoyed.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Spry.

Focus on Health

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Topics this week: How often humans swallow, safe social drinking, and injuries from dangling the twist.

SWALLOWS VARY

Eating a 10-minute lunch, the average person apparently swallows 48 times, and he swallows about 2,000 times during a full night's sleep.

Sitting and reading, 15 volunteers also averaged 34 swallows per minute, but while lying down awake, reports Dr. Clement S. Lew of the Harvard School of Dental Medicine.

The reduced amount of swallowing during sleep, with little or no salivation, may affect the activity of mouth bacteria, Dr. Lew says. Swallowing involves strong muscular actions, and this may be significant in the development or treatment of some conclusion, the failure of teeth to meet properly.

ALCOHOLICS EXCEPTIONS

A dictum among experts on alcoholism is that the confirmed alcoholic can never return to social drinking. Most of them, once they take a few drinks, lead to destructive binges.

But this may not always be so, says Dr. D. R. Davies, a British psychiatrist from London.

He tells of seven men, out of 32 persons given limited psychiatric treatment, who were able to resume social drinking, and have been able to drink moderately for seven or 12 years since then. Of the seven men, ranging in age from 26 to 47, four changed jobs which frequently brought them into situations inviting drink.

But Dr. Davies still cautions that the majority of alcoholics cannot return to normal or social drinking and advises that all patients being treated for alcoholism should be told to seek total abstinence.

TWIST INJURIES

A physician accustomed to treating injuries suffered by football and basketball players in contact sports is puzzled over the knee injuries among teen-agers doing the twist.

Dr. Bernie F. Davis of Buffalo, N.Y., says he thinks the twist has an hypnotic influence on the performers, "so they are unaware of the hazards to themselves. Teenagers seem to be hypnotized by music and rhythm and don't realize the strain they are putting on their knees."

Refuse to Hear New Witnesses For Eichmann

JERUSALEM (AP)—Israel's Supreme Court today rejected motions by Adolf Eichmann's lawyer to hear new witnesses in the Nazi official's behalf and refuse to dismiss the court on his appeal against the death sentence.

The high court handed down its ruling on the defence motions only minutes after Eichmann's West German counsel, Dr. Robert Servatius, completed his final plea to save the condemned Gestapo officer from the gallows.

Chief Justice Izhak Olshan announced:

"It is decided to reject the defence motions to hear new evidence at this time. The court will now retire to weigh its verdict on the appeal. Notice of our judgment and the date on which we will announce it will be provided in advance to all parties."

MAY TAKE MONTH

The court is expected to take about a month to reach its verdict. If it rejects Eichmann's appeal, he has one more possible escape, an appeal for clemency to Israeli President Izhak Ben-Zvi.

The president could confer with his cabinet and justice ministry officials before deciding on the clemency plea.

Former Canadian Chief Believes Unions Will Have To Pull Up Their Socks

By JOHN LAILAND

TORONTO (CP) — Charlie Millard, once one of the potentates of Canadian labor but now an elder statesman, has some trenchant words to say to labor and management in this country.

C. H. Millard, former Canadian chief of the powerful United Steelworkers of America and recently-retired director of organization of the huge International Confederation of Free Trade Unions, believes Canada's unions must pull up their socks in a number of ways.

The 65-year-old Mr. Millard—mentioned but active and considering a new career in politics—ragged a finger at his former union colleagues in an interview, particularly on the thorny question of the size of strikes.

Strikes in many cases, he said, "don't really solve problems."

And the man who pulled the trigger on some of Canada's biggest strikes added: "Union members are citizens and consumers first, and I don't think in handling our industrial relations we have yet grown to the position in Canada where the public is sufficiently taken into account."

LEARN FROM EUROPE

Mr. Millard, who spent five years in trouble-shooting around the globe for the huge ICFTU, said Canadian unions can learn a lot from those in Europe.

"Part of the subtlety of industry and labor getting together in Western Europe is due to the fact that both have matured to the point where very few cases go to a strike."

Mr. Millard, who was Canadian director of the 80,000-member Steel union, a vice-president of the Canadian Labor Congress and a stormy figure in his more active days, also is mellow now, contemplative and philosophic as he sits on the Canadian ground after his years abroad. Canadian politics still intrigue him.

When he was interviewed at his Toronto home by Party's Woodsworth House here—where he had been in session with the NDP new brass—he said he had been asked by constituents to run for nomination either in York West or York Humber, "Boom-town" suburban constituencies and tough ridings for the new party to crack.

UNSURE ABOUT ROLE

"Frankly, I would be a reluctant debutante," said Mr. Millard, who has been active in the Ontario legislature as York West CCF member.

"But I'm not sure at this time that I will become a candidate. But I'm not sure either that this is the role I should play."

Asked what he had in mind, he stated that his multi-national experience and international experience and his years in the labor movement might be able to do something along the line of mediation in industrial disputes, or in industrial relations.

The former trade unionist might well become a handicap," he added, "though every man has his role to play—with his national and international experience and his years in the labor movement he

'Ole Archie' Meets Lavoratore

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Argentina's Alejandro Lavoratore, 25, who may be on his way to the top, and Archie Moore, who has already been there, square a 10-round heavyweight battle tonight.

More than 12,000 fans are expected to attend the non-televised match and contribute to a gate of around $100,000.

There are no immediate title aspects to the engagement.

Old Archie, worn San Diego, is at least 45 and likely closer to 50 is waging war in the ring for the 28th time.

He insists he wants to put away the young Latin giant, who is ranked fourth in the heavyweight division, and make a bid himself in this class.

Possibly a more realistic plan is to get by Lavoratore and then defend what is left of his world light heavyweight championship in a match with NBA middleweight titleholder Gene Fullmer.

Steve Barber Standout With 'Birds'

NEW YORK (AP)—The key to Baltimore Orioles' pennant chances in the 1962 baseball campaign could rest in the hands of Steve Barber—to Uncle Sam just a private, but to American League hitters "the pitcher they least like to hit against."

The southpaw posted 18 for Barber, a 23-year-old lefthander who was the Orioles' top winner last year with 18 victories, comes from manager Ralph Houk of New York Yankees.

On furlough, Barber took the mound for the second time Thursday and allowed St. Louis Cardinals only two scratch infield singles in six innings before striking out two while walking none in the Orioles' 7-2 exhibition victory at Miami.

In other exhibition games, Cincinnati Reds walloped Philadelphia Phillies 15-6, Minnesota Twins beat Detroit 9-4, Los Angeles Dodgers edged the Yankees 5-4 in 10 innings, Milwaukee Braves defeated New York Mets 6-2, Chicago White Sox walloped Pittsburgh Pirates 11-5, and Kansas City Athletics bopped Washington 6-1.

Always Good For A Goal

Armstrong Rides Herd On Rangers

By BILL MacDOUGALL

TORONTO (CP) — Clive George Armstrong of New York Rangers, as opponents, Maple Leaf Gardens as the setting, the NHL playoffs as the season, he'll get a goal.

That is if the Toronto Maple Leaf captain doesn't fall off the pace he's set against the Buckaroos this year in Madison Square Garden.

The right winger got his ninth goal Thursday night in the nightmare Rangers have visited Toronto this season as the Leafs defeated New York 5-2 to take a 2-0 lead in their best-of-seven Stanley Cup semi-final.

In seven regular-season games, Rangers played here this year, Armstrong got nine goals and he scored the tying clincher Tuesday night in Toronto's 4-3 victory in the series' first game.

Thursday night's goal came on a hard 25-foot shot that bombarded off Gump Worsley's glove into the goal midway through the second period.

TIES 2nd PERIOD

New York's Earl Ingarfield tied the game three minutes late, and Toronto centre Bob Pulford got the winner with less than two minutes remaining in the second period. It was also Ingarfield's second goal of the series.

Toronto now travels to New York for the next two games of the series.

Ingarfield whipped 37 shots for New York. Toronto's Johnny Bower had 10 fewer saves, his 27th in a row in the playoffs, when New York was fighting to get in a scoring chance that sent the game into overtime.

Armstrong's, goal came at 9:37 of the second period after a left winger, Dick Duff and defenceman Allan Stanley made assists. Horton now is the top point-getter of the series with a goal, four assists.

Ingarfield scored at 12:42 of the third period when Bower, who he was serving an interference penalty, was screened by Rod Seiling. Bob Nevin got the ball rolling on Pulford's goal, firing a long shot from just inside the New York blue line. Worsley stopped it, but Pulford flipped the rebound over him at 18:06 as the New York defence failed to clear the ice.

Worsley was pulled for an extra forward in the last 35 seconds.

WILL CONTINUE DRIVE

LONDON (AP)—Lady Edith Summerskill vowed Thursday to continue her campaign against boxing despite the British government's rejection of her latest bill to ban the sport. Lady Summerskill, a life peeress in the House of Lords and a former minister in a Labor government, scorched into the attack in Parliament Wednesday.

Maroons Edge Bulldogs

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Jim Connelly played his first road game of the season Thursday night and it was fortunate for Chatham Maroons.

Connelly's goal at the 20-second mark of sudden-death over-time gave the Chatham 3-2 victory over Windsor Bulldogs and prolonged the best-of-seven series for the Ontario Hockey Association senior championship. Windsor leads the set 3-2 with the next game in Chatham Saturday night.

In a game fiercely fought from start to finish, the Maroons took a 2-0 lead into the third period only to see Windsor rally for a pair of goals to tie it.

There was no scoring in 10-minute overtime but in sudden-death play, playing-coach Ted Pewey got the draw in the Windsor zone, passed back to Connelly and his angled 20-footer sailed past goalie Ross Childs.

George Aitken and Bob Pelis were the other scorers for Chatham and Bill Mitchell and Tommy Wake; tallied for the Bulldogs before a crowd of 1,094.

Flyers Edge Crawfords In Playoff

"Doc" Gazo, operating in top form, led the RCAF Flyers to a comeback 5-3 victory over Belleville Crawford Metals in a Bay of Quinte basketball league playoff game at the air force base last night.

The RCAF Flyers lead the best-of-three league semi-finals one game to none. The second game will be played in Belleville Secondary School here on Monday night and if a third game is necessary it will be played on the RCAF court next Thursday.

Gazo hooked 20 points and played a strong two-way game as the Flyers overcame a 29-22 half-time lead last night. The winners took over early in the second half, pulled well in front of Crawfords and then held on as Belleville rallied in the dying minutes.

McNichol and Stephens backed Gazo in the scoring department with 14 points apiece for the Flyers.

Ted Batchelor led the Crawfords with 17 points. Larry "Scoop" Campbell hit for 12 and Bill Green had 11.

Belleville Crawfords (50): T. Batchelor 17, L. Campbell 12, B. Green 11, T. McCabe 6, L. MacDonald 4, T. Stockings.

RCAF Flyers (56): Gazo 20, McNichol 14, Stephens 14, Walker 2, Butterfield 3, Placas, Taylor, Boomer, Trenholme 3, Fopis.

City League Final Tonight

Tonight at Memorial Arena the City Departmental Hockey League championship will be decided.

Pelley's City Public Works Bulldogs meet Cliff Watt with Smitty's Smoke Eaters of the Water Department in a co-ordinate battle.

The "battle of the year" starts under way at seven o'clock and the league trophy will be presented to the winning collegiate team.

The three-squad league (Mary Hayes "Untouchables" were also in there) had a fine season. Lots of fun and lots of good hockey.

GYM STARS TO MEET

The Weekend Sports Picture

An active weekend on the local sport scene will soon will see two Belleville clubs seeking victories against out-of-town competition while two others will pit their might against each other.

In OHA Junior "B" hockey playdowns, the newly-crowned Eastern Ontario champs, the Belleville McFarlands will travel to Waterloo for a Sunday afternoon game. The Macs leave the arena at 8.45 Sunday morning.

The Macs will meet the Waterloo Siskins, central Ontario group champions, in the first game of a round-robin series at 3.30 Sunday. The winner between Dixie and Woodbridge will be the third team in the Eastern Ontario series. Belleville will have a home game next Friday.

Still on the hockey front, Booth TV's and Joyce Real Estate will open their best-of-five series for the Belleville Industrial Hockey League championship at the Memorial Arena Sunday night at 8.30.

Joyces, who won the regular schedule and eliminated Rolling Mills in the semi-finals, had the edge in scoring by a wide margin.

Booth's on the offside head were weak in the scoring department but topped all clubs defensively. Ace goalie Cheeke Carr, the TV's entered Napanee in the semi-finals.

Thursday in the basketball court, Belleville Crawford Metals open the third round of the OABA Intermediates "C" playdowns against Guelph at Moira Secondary School Saturday night at eight o'clock.

The Crawfords have eliminated Trenton Wilsons and Kingston to get here and hope to make Guelph next on the list.

Guelph is expected to have a strong contender for provincial honours and they now are urged not to miss tomorrow's game here.

Dave Thompson way Saturday night, the Napanee Red Wings and Picton Merchants will clash in the seventh and deciding game of their OBA Intermediate Ontario Junior "C" playdown set.

Napanee won the first three games of the series but Picton battled back to even with three wins of their own.

LOSE $15,000

CALGARY (CP) — Calgary Stampeders of the Western Hockey League lost about $15,000 "despite $10,000 more" this last season, on this season's regular schedule, president Jim Kerr, chairman of the hockey committee of the Calgary Exhibition and Stampede, said Wednesday. Statistics show 94,345 fans attended Stampeders' home games this season, compared with 126,411 last season.

Says Ottawa Not Out of Hoop Play

TORONTO (CP) — Registrar Fred Bibby if the Canadian Amateur Basketball Association said Thursday he has not been informed officially that Ottawa Shaffers have withdrawn from the Eastern Canada semi-finals.

Bibby said he knew a protest had been launched with the Canadian association over the eligibility of player Jim Reynolds of the Yvan Cozin Huskies team of Montreal. But he said "the protest hasn't been processed yet."

Reynolds, an Ottawa Rough Riders player in the Big Four Football Union, moved to Montreal in late November. He formerly played for the Shaffers.

Western Hockey

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Spokane Comets downed San Francisco Shamrocks in Thursday night and won the right to meet Portland Buckaroos in the best-of-seven Western Hockey League Southern Division finals.

The Comets took the best-of-three series from the Seals in two straight games.

Calgary Stampeders, meanwhile, beat Seattle Metros 2-1 in the first game in the Northern finals.

Max Mohr, the league's leading scorer during the regular season, scored twice for Spokane and Rev Bell and Gordie Stratton added singles. Bob Wilson, Al Smith and Larry Hardy Pidhirny scored for the Seals.

Gord Vejprava, and Sid Finney scored for Calgary. Bill MacFarland hit the twine for the Totems.

Moore Sparks Habs To Comeback Win

Hawks Blow 3-1 Lead

By LAUREN CHIASSON

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Canadiens are halfway home towards a berth in the Stanley Cup finals — thanks to Dickie Moore, owner of banged-up knees, a painful rib injury and a shiner.

For more than 50 minutes, the Canadiens were badly outclassed by Chicago Black Hawks in the second game of their best-of-seven semi-final series Thursday night.

But at 15:04 of the third period, Moore scored his second goal of the game and it spurred the Canadiens to turn almost a certain defeat into a 4-3 triumph.

The Canadiens take a 2-0 lead in games into Chicago for the third and fourth games of the series April 1 and April 3.

The Hawks were ahead 3-1 when Moore got his second goal. Within the next three minutes, Dickie's defence companion Jean-Guy Talbot for the tying goal and Claude Provost provided the go-ahead tally before a partisan crowd of 14,671.

Both scorches—Rudy Pilous of the Hawks and Toe Blake of the Canadiens—agreed Moore's second goal was the turning point of the game.

COLLEGES WITH RULE

Moore, who last winger missed 31 regular-season National League games because of his bad knees, limped towards the end of the schedule, he also suffered a bone-chip leg and missed another game.

The shiner came in Thursday night's game as a result of a collision with Chicago's Bobby Hull. Hull scored two goals and Stan Mikita one to give Chicago the early lead.

Despite their marked advantage over the first 50 minutes, the Hawks were directed on shots at Montreal goalie Jacques Plante.

The Canadiens had 27 shots on Glenn Hall—14 in the last period.

Chicago's Murray Balfour was serving a boxing penalty when Moore, standing in the left circle, took passes from Billy Hicke and Bernie Geoffrion and rifled a low shot past Hall to cut Chicago's lead to 3-2.

Canadiens kept up the pressure and Moore let go a 40-foot shot from inside the blueline and Talbot, cutting across the goalmouth, deflected the puck between Hall's legs. The time was 12:45.

Provost got the game winner at 16:04 on a quick 30-foot shot which slid between Hall's legs.

TAKE EARLY LEAD

Hall was removed for an extra attacker with more than a minute left in the game, but the Hawks couldn't get the equalizer.

Montreal's Ralph Backstrom was serving a holding penalty when Hull and Mikita gave Hawks into a 1-0 lead at 5:26 of the first period on the former Belleville beau Plante on a wicked backhander from about 30 feet out.

Moore's first goal, which tied the score 1-1 at the end of the first period, also came off a power play. Ken Wharrum of the Hawks was serving a tripping penalty when Moore lifted Plante's rebound over a sprawled Hall.

The Hawks got the only goal of the second period when Wharrum dug up the puck behind the boards and fired a short pass to Mikita, who slipped it through Plante's legs at 5:15.

Hull made it 3-1 at 5:13 of the third after a bouncing Canadiens defence in front of Plante. The puck came in pass from Bill (Red) Hay, pulled Plante out of position and flipped a backhander into the open net.

Shoved Him Into Fight

Says Paret's Manager To Blame

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — If anyone is to blame for Benny Paret's condition today, says Emile Bruneau of the National Boxing Association's executive committee, it is the manager of the former welterweight champion.

"It's about time someone put the blame where it belongs," contended Bruneau, former manager and now chairman of the Louisiana Athletic Commission. "Manuel Alfaro (Paret's manager) is the guy who must shoulder the responsibility."

"In Paret's case Alfaro said: "No, no, that is not true. I did not shove him into a fight again. We had already fought him twice."

Paret is still in grave condition from the beating he took last Saturday night when Emile Griffith won the welterweight championship. Griffith knocked the stocky Cuban out in the 12th round.

Referee Ruby Goldstein had no way of figuring how badly damaged Paret was, Bruneau said. "He was in no way to blame. The one man was Alfaro.

"Look at it this way," Bruneau said during a long-distance telephone interview. "Paret had been knocked out twice in the fight with Emile Griffith . . . and in the crucifixion—he took Kid Gavilan welterweight champion Gene) Fullmer.

"Less than three months after being knocked out by Fullmer—and believe me, Fullmer was a tough, good, punishing fighter in the ring class—Alfaro shoves him into this fight." Bruneau said.

"This was nothing but flesh peddling."

Swede Splits Medal With Former Coach

TORONTO (CP)—Sweden's hockey coach Arne Strombergs had the gold medal he was given after the world championship hockey matches at Colorado Springs, Colo., in 1957 and gave half of it to former Sweden and Cleveland player Eddie Reigle of Toronto.

Stromberg took the medal with him to Sweden to split in half and gave Reigle the side with the fight Griffith again.

"I don't think there's anything big about it. Eddie coached the Swedish team for three years and 13 or 14 players on our Colorado Springs team learned everything from him.

"I just took over where he left off, so he deserves at least half the credit," he said to me for winning the world title," Stromberg explained.

Ferrier Tops Azalea Open

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP)—Jim Ferrier, 47, back on golf's professional tour after a five-year layoff, fired seven birdies Thursday as he shot a five-under-par 67 to take his first round lead in the 72-hole, $30,000 Azalea Open tournament.

Gary Player, Jay Hebert of Miami, Fla., Dave Hill of Denver, Colo., and Bob Rosburg of Manchester Valley, N.Y., were one stroke behind.

Al Johnston of Montreal shot a 70 and Stan Leonard of Vancouver and Jerry Magee of Toronto 71s.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

After every championship or outstanding event there follows, just as the night follows the day, the detractors, the guys who can dig up more alibis for top efforts than a skyrider lawyer in the roaring days of the Capones.

Latest of course are the "knockers" of Bobby Hull, who compared favorably in scoring marks of Rocket Richard and Boom-Boom Geoffrion. He scored a half-dozen "fluke goals" in their whimper. Even the Rocket and the Boomer had their detractors.

It is not old stuff. In fact it started way back in the Garden of Eden. Adam went to bat for the Fig Leaf Nine and expected a straight ball right down the middle. Instead Eve's snaky manager gave her the signal. She tossed Adam a curve—and we've been working for a living ever since.

They said a referee's "long count" was the reason for Tunney's knockout victory over Jack Dempsey. What they didn't know was the referee stuttered and it took him 15 seconds to count ten.

And it must have been a Giant fan who said that had Fredrik's foot not slipped when he buried that history-making shot at the noggin of Goliath, it would have missed by a foot.

Napoleonic detractors blamed the defeat of "the Little Corporal" at Waterloo on his love of crap-shooting. Someone heard Nappy murmuring repeatedly "C'Mon, Lil Joe" in his tent one night. Actually the little guy was lovesick for his wife Josephine and was wholly thinking on land.

Negro knockers claim Jack Johnson "threw" his titular fight to big Jess Willard under Havana's blazing sun back in July, 1921. Johnson threw his hand over his eyes while the referee tolled the fateful "ten". The truth was Johnson hated the referee. He could not stand the sight of him, even when he was unconscious. Hence the gesture.

"Satch" Paige, famous negro hurler, was once blamed for muffing an easy fly and losing a league championship. The real facts are that "Satch" was about to make the catch when he spotted a rattler coiled and ready to strike. "Feet, keep going", prayed Satch. They did and took him clean out of the ball park.

Detractors say a famous Scottish golfer was playing the last hole in a championship tourney—and stood to win. He said to his caddy "Hand me a mashie." The caddie thought he said "smashie" and delivered a wee beaker of mountain dew.

Dislikers of Babe Ruth insist the Bambino never restored toward right field before hitting that famous homer against the Chicago Cubs. They claim the action was merely an exhibition of thumb-to-nose gesture directed at the Cub bench.

And ancient Paddys claim that Shanty O'Peever, Ireland's famous jockey in the days of the steel-bewer Fin McCool never rode a horse to win the National Stakes. They say he had a Mahoney and an O'Meara disguised as a steeple-chasing nag. Mahoney who kept up the rear and sprung a spavin at the fifth jump and quit being the caboose.

And wise ones of the twenties say the late Bejilling Bibi, who was knifed to death in a Harlem back alley, wisely "lost" a middleweight championship bout. After all who could expect to defeat a guy named Mike McTigue in Dublin in a 17th of March fistic battle and get away with it.

And the Russian guns at Balaclava would not have hamstrung the British cavalry had its commander read his orders correctly, says a London historian. He read the top line "The Charge of the Light Brigade." Some wag had written it on his brdre bill.

Grand National

Three Dominate Big Race

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON (CP) — An equine war for the low weights Kerry Big Three dominate this year's Grand National, renewal of the famed Grand National Steeplechase.

They are the top-weighted Merryman II winner of the race in 1960; the gallant grey Nicolaus Silver, conqueror of Merryman last year; and the promising Frenchman's Cove, making his first try in a National.

Frenchman's Cove is a seven-year-old chestnut gelding by Airborne, surprise winner of the Epsom Derby in 1946, out of Frenchman's Creek.

He recently gave Nicolaus Silver a jumping lesson at Kempton and the stiff obstacles at Aintree, near Liverpool, where the National is run.

LACKS EXPERIENCE

Frenchman's Cove at seven is a comparatively young horse by National standards, and may lack the experience for Aintree. Another question is whether he can sustain his speed over the gruelling four miles and 856 yards to be covered Saturday.

No such doubts exist about Merryman II and Nicolaus Silver, which have abundant stamina.

Syracuse and Wirani, at Aintree near Liverpool, where the National is run.

Wirani proved Aintree was the class and rain have churned the ground into a perilously soft course that could take a heavy toll of the runners.

Thirty-three horses are scheduled to charge off in the race.

The bookmakers made Nicolaus Silver a 13-bad favorite Thursday night to win the National.

Three-For-Three Deal

Lions Pick Browns' Plum

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit Lions moved to bolster their weak offense by acquiring quarterback Milt Plum, the National Football League's top passer for the last two years, in a three-for-three trade Thursday with Cleveland Browns.

The Lions sent quarterback Jim Ninowski, back Sopulona Cassady and defensive end Bill Glass to the Browns for Plum, hard-running Tom Watkins and linebacker Dave Lloyd.

The deal, which promises the Browns the running attack they need to go with the bulldozing of Jimmy Brown and Ernie Davis, has only one flaw.

Ninowski, who played for the Browns before he went to Detroit two seasons ago, said he wants no part of it.

"I have no intention of going to Cleveland," said Ninowski. "I'll quit football if I have to go."

If Ninowski doesn't change his mind, the deal could be called off.

"The deal is conditional on all six reporting as I understand it," said Arthur B. Modell, the Browns' new chairman.

SAYS IT'S SO

But coach George Wilson of the Lions hadn't heard the trade couldn't be cancelled.

"It's a deal," said Wilson, who figures to solve the Lions quarterback problem with the acquisition of Plum. "As far as we're concerned, Ninowski's the property of Cleveland."

Plum has been the top passer in the NFL the last two years. But the ex-Penn State quarterback recently has been critical of coach Paul Brown's habit of calling all the Cleveland plays from the bench.

Brown was scheduled to meet Ninowski here today.

"We'll see him of courtesy," said Ninowski, who started at Michigan State and then at Detroit. "But I'm pretty disgusted over the whole deal."

The Lions have needed quarterback help since Tobin Rote went to Toronto Argonauts of the Canadian Football League after the 1959 season. And last year, their running attack bogged down and killed them in several games.

Canadian Badminton

Asian, American in Final

MONTREAL (CP) — The scramble for the men's singles title in the Canadian badminton championships has narrowed down to a payoff match between an Asian with cattle, precision and a power-hitting high school teacher from the United States.

Indonesian Bern Ferdinand (Ferry) Sonneville, prematurely grey at 31, and bull-shouldered Jim Poole, 27, of San Diego, Calif., meet tonight in the window to the four-day tournament.

In semi-final play Thursday Sonneville defeated Sweden's six-foot-four Bernt Dahlberg, 2S, 15-12, 15-6. Poole overpowered Wayne Macdonnell, 21, of Vancouver 15-0, 15-10.

British Columbia won the Ontario Trophy for top performance by junior players 18 and under, finding a December Ontario contingent although there were exactly half as many players entered from the Pacific Coast.

Thursday's results included:

VETERANS DOUBLES

First Round

Bill Butler and Jack Koehler, Kitchener, defeated Collard Bonhomme, Montreal, and Mac Gerber, Gerber City, 15-8, 15-6

Ben Lloyd and John Kennedy, Montreal, defeated Bob McMurchie, Victoria, and Don Avery, Kitchener, 15-9, 9-15, 15-8

Quarter-Finals

Dave Waddell, Ottawa, and Rupert Mee, Montreal, defeated Butler and Koehler 15-6, 15-6

Semi-finals

Leo Lafontaine and Louis Marineo, Montreal, defeated Waddell and Mee 8-15, 15-2, 15-6

In the Dressing Rooms

By BRUCE STOVEL

MONTREAL (CP) — Jubilation and solemn despair contrasted starkly in the dressing rooms following Montreal-Canadiens' 4-3 come-from-behind victory Thursday night over Chicago Black Hawks to take a formidable 2-0 lead in games in the best of seven semi-final.

"Let them in," shouted Habs' coach Toe Blake as he waved reporters into the noisy celebrations in the Canadiens' dressing-room.

He had barred the press from the dressing-room after the first game as he tongue-lashed his players for a last-minute letdown.

Black Hawks mentor Rudy Pilous said quietly, "It'll be a long trip back home. But I'm not complaining — we had our chances and we threw them away."

Claude Provost, who scored the winning goal at 14:05 of the last period, said he beat Chicago netminder Glenn Hall on a hard, quick shot along the ice which slid between Hall's legs.

"But our whole team was in there fighting," he said. "We're one team that never gives up."

WEARS HIM OUT

He said the effort of checking Hawks' high - scoring winger Bobby Hull had worn him out.

"You can see from the records what a great player he is. He goes all over the ice, and I have to be wherever he is."

Hull, who scored twice for Chicago, said the game "was enough to tear your heart out. We had them down and out in the second period, but they beat us in the third. That puck just wasn't going in the right places for us in the last few minutes."

Blake was fuming over the Hawks' rough play, particularly when Bobby Housseau was cut in the head by a Chicago stick late in the second period.

"They were trying the dirty stuff," he said. "But that play with Housseau—there's an automatic penalty for a cut like that."

He said Canadiens could sew up the series if they can take one of the two next games, both played in Chicago. He added Canadiens had a good road record all season.

Shoulder Injury Hits Leafs' Bower

TORONTO (CP)—Punch Imlach, Toronto Maple Leaf coach, had one of the few clichés Thursday night as he discussed his club's second straight Stanley Cup semi-final victory over the New York Rangers.

"I'm happy but not satisfied," he said of his club's 3-1 victory over the New York sextet. He said the same thing after their 5-1 win over New York Tuesday night.

Toronto leads 2-0 in the best-of-seven series. Imlach added: "You don't win a playoff series until the last minute of the last game."

He also repeated his qualms about New York goaltenders as New York ice, voicing concern over the smaller ice surface there.

SIT ON IT

Ranger Ranger dressing room, playing - coach Doug Harvey summed up his club's loss by saying: "We had it and where Leafs got that second goal they just sat on it."

Harvey said he figured his club could win the next two games in New York, "if we score more that we have in the series so far."

Harvey though the big difference in this game was the checking of the Leafs.

"They were checking us right from the start," he said. "And I was really tough for us to get many shots away after Pulford (Leafs' Bobby, who scored the winner) but we still were skating as well as we should."

Most of the New Yorkers credited Leaf goaltender Johnny Bower with the big save in the final minute when he stopped a close-in rebound by Ranger centre Earl Ingarfield.

Andy Bathgate, the club's high-scoring right winger who was held scoreless in this series, agreed with Harvey about the Leaf checking.

"They really got on top of us all the time," he said—"But I think that will make a big difference to us in the next two games."

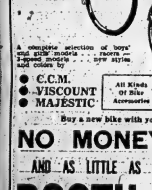
Biography of a Highway Brilliant and Bright Show

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—"U.S. 1: sight-seeing," NBC—special: was the biography of a highway — the historic old road that threads its way from Fort Kent, Me., down the eastern coast 2,500 miles to Key West, Fla.

But it was more than that: A brilliant, entertaining demonstration of how great television can be when imagination and loving care are invested in a program.

Armchair travellers, covered the length of the highway in an hour's time, savoring the changing character of architecture, walls and accents as the scenery shifted from snowy Christmas card landscapes dotted with red berms to palms and tropic sunshine.



En route, narrator Van Heflin gave a capsule history as the highway wound past famous sites of the revolution and the Civil War. And all through the program ran a most adroit musical background.

In a word, it was a great show, and even greater for fortunate viewers who saw it in color. A salute to writer-producer Lou Hazam.

The viewing public speaks: "Why do we have to sit in our living rooms and watch people gargle, brush their teeth, spray things up their noses, swallow pills and medicine, even take bubbles, showers and shampoo their hair? I was taught that those things were done in privacy of Bathroom or bedroom."

Bought Stocks In Bunches But All Went Down

NEW YORK (AP)—The story of a man who dealt in $30,000,000 worth of stocks in less than a year—and wound up as a fantastic flop in a scheme to get rich was unfolded Thursday with his indictment by a Manhattan grand jury.

In the process of his manipulations, said district attorney Frank Hogan, the man—Jerome Fruman managed to lose $266,000 he got from relatives, friends, investors and loan sharks.

Hogan said Fruman had an almost unfailing ability to lose on stocks he bought. But, said Hogan added, he resorted to desperate measures to try to get out of the hole, including thievery.

The district attorney gave this account:

Fruman was earning $15,000 a year as manager of a firm handling mutual funds. Two years ago, on his own, he bought 10 shares of high-grade securities.

Within a few days, the value of his stock advanced considerably and Fruman, flushed with success, "plunged in" the market with all the money he could round up.

INDUCED MANY

But almost every stock he bought either remained at about the same price or dropped in value. Despite frantic buying and selling, Fruman got deeper and deeper in debt.

Lenders mounted and Fruman stole $21,954 worth of mutual fund certificates from his father, forged his father's signature and used them as collateral in further stock ventures, Hogan said, and he similarly used $5,200 of certificates belonging to his mother-in-law.

When investors began demanding profits, Hogan said, Fruman had to "resort to new thefts to pay them off." Eventually Fruman turned to loan sharks, paying interest of five per cent a week for "huge sums of money."

Finally an investor complained to the district attorney's office and an investigation led to his indictment on 35 counts of grand larceny and four of forgery.

Fruman was released in $10,000 bail.

Ruth B. Hedges, Reviewer, Being Heeded by Parents

By ROB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "How come they call it The Children's Hour and then say it's not for children?"

This was the perplexed question of my 10-year-old as she searched for a movie to see at the Saturday matinee. Perplexity is compounded on the part of many parents who don't follow the movies enough to know what films are suitable for tender eyes.

Readers of the California Parent-Teachers magazine are never in doubt, thanks to a remarkable reviewer named Ruth B. Hedges. She has never been reluctant to call a spade a spade, or a fuckey what it is.

Here are some of Mrs. Hedges' recent decisions:

The Children's Hour — "Distasteful."

Sergeant 3 — "Waste of time and money."

A Walk on the Wild Side — "Trash."

Too Late Blues — "Distasteful trash."

View from the Bridge — "Repulsive, brutal tragedy."

Lover Come Back — "Sophisticated trash."

HEDGE HOG VIEWS

Obviously these comments don't have the same ring as the ones you see quoted in the movie ads. But Mrs. Hedges' criticisms are evidence that her views are being heeded by parents, if not movie producers.

"I am getting a tremendous reaction from parent committees," says Mrs. Hedges. "People are beginning to give a great deal of thought about the kind of movies their children are being exposed to."

Mrs. Hedges also finds some film to enthuse about. Almost all of the Disney product gets a boost, and she has also given endorsement of such films as A Majority of One, Second Time Around, Light in the Piazza, Errand Boy, King of Kings, Flower Drum Song, Bachelor Flat, Spider and Question 7.

Her rundown and down verdicts to three age groups: 8-14, 14-18 and adults.

Thus Ben Hur was deemed "brutal and tense" for 8-14s but "excellent" for anyone older. Et Cie was esterned "long and brutal" for minors but "excellent" for adults.

Auto Race Driver Won $171,760

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—A. J. Foyt, Jr., was well paid for winning his second straight big car championship last year.

The United States Auto Club completed its tally of 1961 race statistics today and reported the 27-year-old Houston driver won purses totalling a record $171,760.

He drove three different kinds of race cars championship, sprint and midget—in almost 50 races. His only mishap was getting a black eye from a flying stone on a race in August.

SET DEFENCE PLANE

LONDON (AP) — More than 9,000,000 Britons may be moved from crowded cities to pre-selected dispersal areas in the event of war, under new government civil defence plans published Thursday.

TAKE NAVY 'SPIEL

OTTAWA (CP)—Trevor Emberton of Victoria, Thursday night skipped his rink to a 9-5 victory over Bob Salmon's Ottawa rink to win the Royal Canadian Navy Bonspiel.

FIGHT INSURED

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (CP) — Promoters of the once-postponed Joe Brown-Carlos Ortiz lightweight title fight said Thursday they have bought a $45,000 policy for $3,000 to insure that the champion goes through with it.

Challenger Ortiz, 25, of New York will get $15,000 of it if the match set for April 21 is called off because of illness or injury to Brown. the rest will go to the promoters' Silver State Sports Club.

The fight, first scheduled for Feb. 24 was postponed when the 35-year-old Brown, of Houston, Tex., was bedded with tonsilitis.

Astrological Forecast

For March 21
By SYDNEY OMARR

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Discussion on money matters during social evening could be mistake . . . might be better to let friends know you have only done in them. But delay signing contracts until later.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20): You could be the focus of attention today. But the kind of recognition indicated is momentary. Migh be better to take back seat. And hope much better tomorrow!

Gemini (May 21 to June 21): One who is close to you could bring up subject of adult education class . . . or other means of self-advancement. Listen with open mind. Encourage friendly interest.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21): Time to face facts of life. If you have packing to do . . . do it. If other details have been hanging . . . attend to them. Entertainment, celebration can wait. Finish basic tasks long overdue.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21): Avoid self - assertion. Today key must be patience . . . and a willingness to listen. Otherwise, you invite opposition that can prove to be thorn in your side.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23)— What you write today could cause jealousy among some associates. Think clearly. Weigh risks. Take care. But if sure you are right . . . go ahead. Let chips fall where they may.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)— Favorable lunar aspect to your Solar sign . . . means today you can express self. You can highlight romantic side of life. You can find romance, for existence.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) trying to force beliefs or methods, could lead to major disappointment. Be diplomatic today. Listen to both sides. Then present your story, with charm and a smile.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Catch up on correspondence, telephone calls, visits, if you have been neglecting family members, other close relatives . . . a hobby to make amends.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Advice from friends today should be accepted graciously . . . but taken as a gospel. You are aware of a personal situation which is not available to others.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Catch up. But you cannot take advantage of this if you attempt to shirk duties. Take care of family and professional responsibilities first . . . then celebrate if you like.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — If you build up fears, others will sense your uncertainty and press harder. There is no external problem worth mentioning. The real problem is within. Act with self-confidence.

If today is your birthday . . . this must be regarded as year of preparation . . . a year of time when you plant seeds . . . when you are not impatient for them to bloom. October key month. Break through comes next year . . . if you are careful in preparing this year.

General Tendencies Cycle up for Capricorn, Aquarius, Pisces. All could benefit from improvisation of today's planet indications. Event could occur today which may rescind many of solemn fiction stories.

Sunday School Lesson

Christianity Is A Life

By ROY L. SMITH

The worship services of the early Christian Church were established in large part after the services of the Jewish synagogue. A leader would be appointed to attended a Jewish service and then the following week a Christian service would have been struck with the correspondence between the two.

Not only so, but the officers of the two congregations would have been similar. The rabbi would have performed approximately the same functions. The parish of the synagogue and the pastor of the church were each, in turns, the chief substitute, but each was supported by a lay board which was invested with great authority.

One of the chief functions of the rabbi was to supervise the educational program of the congregation, and it is the congregation and edification of carefully prepared teachers were employed to conduct the classes. Growing classes were organized for the adults, these consisting of from 10 to 20 persons. Other groups, forums, and special lectures by accredited authorities. The Christian groups were also large, and stronger, their characters were organized along almost identical lines.

AN OLD PREACHER'S LETTER

There is a considerable debate among the scholars concerning the authorship of the two letters to Timothy and the one to Titus, which appear in the New Testament. All three books are introduced with the name of Paul, as though the apostle were their author. But to accept that theory is to become involved immediately in the case of difficult problems for which there seems to be no solution.

But whether the letters were written by Paul themselves or by another Christian who wrote in Paul's name, at least this much is sure. All three letters were written by an old veteran to a couple of new recruits in the ministry, and each should be read with that in mind. Here is an old man advising a young man on the subject of how to live and how to preach and teach. Today we discover that there is a problem with which we have to deal are as old as the Church itself.

It is always easy to persuade ourselves that we are the victims of a new situation, and that we are compelled to deal with difficulties with which no one else has ever had any experience.

It is a fact, of course, that each person's troubles are extremely personal, but they are not peculiar. All of us have to face domestic problems; all of us have to deal with disagreeable people, and all of us have to suffer frustration, fears and doubts. But so, also, do other men, and so also, did our Lord.

It is of the utmost importance that we should remember that Jesus said, when alive and when dead, He was the way, the truth, and the life. It has been one of the mistakes of the Church down through the years that it has preached Christ as philosophy, and not as a life.

There is a sense, of course, in which it must be said that He came to straighten out our thinking, for living begins with thinking. But as His teachings are recorded in the New Testament, it is very evident that He came to instruct us on the subject of living.

One of His principles, proved by the old preacher who wrote the letter to Timothy, was that difficulties can be compelled to pay dividends. Every time with situation some good can come, and out of the heaviest load some reward. Out of the darkest, have captivated large areas of the world.

Jesus' successful acceptance of the crucifixion was the most convincing proof He could offer for the truthfulness of his teachings. Christianity is not a theology, but a life.

The Uniform Sunday School Lesson for April 1 is Christ —Centre of Our Faith." First Timothy.

Jesus Himself contemplated this truth, and in His crucifixion He put it to the final test. He prepared very earnestly, in the Garden of Gethsemane, that He might not be compelled to "drink this cup." But that appeal was not granted. He did drink the cup. And as the result, His teachings

Roberts Halted Gambling Probe Hearing Told

Commissioner Clarke Tells of Circumstances

TORONTO (CP) — Provincial Police Commissioner W. H. Clark testified Friday that Attorney - General Kelso Roberts stopped an OPP undercover investigation of gambling and bribery on the grounds a corrupt officer involved could not be allowed to continue as a policeman.

Commissioner Clark said he was told May 11, 1960, to arrest Const. Robert Wright on the basis of evidence collected by Const. George Scott, who for four months that year had played the dual role of undercover agent and tipoff man to gamblers.

Wright, convicted this month of conspiring with gamblers Vincent Festa and Joseph Mc-Dermott to obtain information on pending OPP gambling charges.

The commissioner told the royal commission on crime that the case was ordered to arrest Wright at a meeting with Mr. Roberts and Deputy Attorney - General W. B. Common.

ROBERTS ORDERED

Asked by commission counsel Roland Wilson whose decision it was to have Wright charged, the commissioner replied: "The minister, himself."

Earlier in the day the attorney - general's name arose in testimony of Deputy Provincial Secretary R. J. Cudney.

Mr. Cudney indicated Mr. Roberts had, in effect, provided "special treatment" for clubs in Niagara Falls, Windsor and Cookville.

He said the attorney - general told him police did not have to be informed about applications for provincial charters in 1957, though this was the normal practice at the time.

Mr. Cudney described the action as special treatment of the clubs, which police witnesses said were "operating in the flesh" of the OPP.

Mr. Cudney also said Mines Minister James Maloney, who died last year, "told him in 1960 not to be too hard" on the Cookeville club at a time when the application was being considered under consideration. The charter eventually was cancelled.

ENT PLEASED

The deputy provincial secretary said he was "very pleased" at getting the call from the attorney-general.

He said the only other person to discuss the proposed cancellation with him was Premier Frost.

Toronto lawyer Louis Herman had taken the stand earlier in the day to say there was "nothing sinister" about his letter to Const. Wright.

Stanton Hogg, assistant counsel to the Ontario Securities Commission, who represented Metropolitan Toronto Police Chief Allan Lamport, produced him at a meeting in January, 1960, which discussed reform in the time was operators of gambling clubs."

Mr. Cudney said, "he wasn't happy about the situation but he was told the commissioner had been anxious to stamp out the gambling syndicate and criminal elements involved.

MAY OPERATE AIR DEFENCE FROM NORTH BAY

SAGE Centre Now In Underground

OTTAWA (CP)—The possibility that the air defence of North America might be run from a control hole in the ground near North Bay is seen by defence planners here.

The possibility is based on the fact that of the 22 SAGE (Semi-Automatic Ground Environment) combat centres in North American Air Defence Command, only the one at Trout Lake near North Bay is being built underground.

The SAGE centres house the computers which collect data from the heavy and 180 gap filler radars and work out the courses for interceptors, manned and unmanned, to shoot down hostile planes.

The matter was raised in the commons Friday when the Liberals returned to renewed criticism of the Bomarc anti - aircraft missile by two United States congressmen.

Congressmen William Minshall quoted U.S. Defence Secretary McNamara as saying that one of the weaknesses in the Bomarc system is that it is dependent on SAGE which is more ground and vulnerable to air attack.

Congressman Minshall is an Ohio Republican. The other critic was congressman Daniel Flood, Pennsylvania Democrat.

NOT ADEQUATE

The congressmen said evidence before a congressional committee confirms their view that the Bomarc cannot provide an adequate defence against a massive enemy air attack.

Lionel Chevrier (L—Montreal Laurier) asked for comment.

Defence Minister Harkness said comments by him on statements by two congressmen would be the same as Mr. McNamara commenting on "some of the ill-conceived statements" of Mr. Chevrier and Paul Hellyer, Liberal defence critic.

Mr. Chevrier then asked Mr. Harkness for comment on Mr. McNamara's reported statement.

Mr. Harkness replied: "All I can say is that the ability of the Bomarc missile to do its job of intercepting aircraft has been demonstrated in a series of tests which have been highly successful. I think it is a powerful weapon and that is accepted by everybody who is an expert in connection with the matter."

Mr. Hellyer asked Mr. Harkness to give an opinion of the effectiveness of the system of Bomarcs at North Bay. The minister did not reply.

The SAGE centre near North Bay was put underground at the insistence of former defence minister Pearkes. It will not become operational until next year.

24TH HOUSE HEADING INTO HOME STRETCH

Govt. in Final Year of Office

OTTAWA (CP) — The 24th Parliament is heading into the home stretch.

It could go on for months, or weeks, or days.

At midnight tonight, the Progressive Conservative government of Prime Minister Diefenbaker embarks on the final year of its five-year term of office.

And at the same minute, the fourth fiscal year of the government's reign draws to a close—even though some loose ends remain to be tidied up in the Commons in the form of unsolved supplementary spending estimates.

The strategy of time seemed to be in MPs' minds Friday in the Commons.

IF THERE IS

It was pointed up by Liberal Lionel Chevrier who asked government House leader Gordon Churchill what the business for Monday and the rest of next week will be—"if there is a rest of next week so far as this Parliament is concerned."

"Honorable gentlemen opposite are getting nervous," said Mr. Churchill.

"Not in the slightest," replied Lionel Chevrier, MP for Montreal Laurier.

The exchange was another round in the continual war of nerves over the general election.

The election will be in MPs' minds as they consider what is expected to be the first order of business Monday—a resolution in the name of Mr. Diefenbaker to establish on electoral boundaries commission.

WILL TAKE OVER JOB

The commission, an "independent body, would take over the job of redistributing electoral constituencies hitherto done by parliamentary committees controlled by the party in power.

With the dying moments of the 1961-62 fiscal year, Friday, the government brought to 20 of 82 supplementary estimates involving $137,178,732.

The government accused the opposition of filibustering over the estimates. The opposition countered with a charge that the government had been with holding the estimates, and delaying action by points of order, in order to tie up the House Friday over a spending estimate for a helicopter exploration of the polar continental shelf by Aulsir Helicopters Limited.

Mr. Chevrier and J. W. Pickersgill (Bonavista - Twillingate) accused the newest member of the Diefenbaker cabinet, Transport Minister Hees, who took over the portfolio Dec. 28 with making evasive or untruthful statements in the House.

SAYS DIDN'T KNOW

Mr. Pickersgill said Mr. Flynn told the Commons that he didn't know whether Autair had been awarded the push in the Arctic, making the statement in the House in February after there had been a letter of intent from the mines department for northern airlines dated $275,000.

He contended that Mr. Flynn either didn't know what was going on in his department or had given an evasive or untruthful reply.

During the exchange, Mr. Flynn was absent from the house.

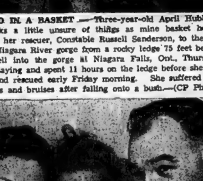
Peptic Ulcers of Stomach And Duodenum Said Increasing

ABOARD EMPRESS OF ENGLAND (CP) — The incidence of peptic ulcers of the stomach and duodenum in Canada is believed to be increasing, a Quebec specialist in internal medicine told family doctors Friday.

Illness from ulcer ranked 12th as a cause of days lost from work, Dr. Paul Hudon, president of the Canadian Medical Association, explained to the College of Family Practitioners of Canada.

The cause of peptic ulcer was not known. Dr. Hudon said, but there was no doubt that emotional influences played an important part.

"Ulcer patients do seem to share certain characteristics of appearance, behavior and attitude which have become widely accepted as typical . . . It is interesting to note that most patients with peptic ulcer have a lean and hungry look then not, and there is something highly competitive about most of them.



"It is well known that ulcer may have a specific stressful event. But chronic stress, of which the patient may not even be aware, is much more likely to be the factor which brings ulcer symptoms.

In a scientific paper dealing with the psychosomatic and emotional aspects of gastro-intestinal disease, Dr. Halpenny said:

"There is a high degree of sick people who have symptoms in which the emotional factors either associated with physical disease, or more often with no definite organic disease to account for their symptoms. A recent study in New York City of 200 neurotic patients showed that 41 per cent of them came to the doctor with gastro-intestinal symptoms as their chief complaint."

TWO IN A BASKET — Three-year-old April Hubbard still looks a little unsure of things as mine basket hoists her and her rescuer, Constable Russell Sanderson, to the top of the Niagara River gorge from a rocky ledge 75 feet below. April fell into the gorge at Niagara Falls, Ont., Thursday while playing and spent 11 hours on the ledge before she was found and rescued early Friday morning. She suffered only scratches and bruises after falling onto a bush.—(CP Photo).

6 Canadians Win $147,500 On Kilmore in Steeplechase

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Six Canadians each won $147,500 in the Irish Sweepstake today when Kilmore won the Grand National at Aintree, England.

Three other Canadians came in for windfalls of $50,000 each when Wyndburn broke second place.

Each will receive $29,500 for the tickets they held on the third horse, Mr. What.

Toronto won two first prizes —number XCR 04880 with the name the plane Sloppy, and number XBH 03184, held by Mrs. Isobel McCallum.

Ontario's third prize went to Squirrelly Twirl of St. Catharines with number XAE 23637 while the province showed with two first-place winners — Maurice Fagland of Montreal, with XLZ 80668 and Christobel, Gloucester, with number XLW 69737.

Silver Only of Vancouver, with XBC 29205, took the remaining prize.

The winning amounts are based on an exchange rate of $2.79 to the pound sterling.

The two Canadian ticket hold, ers on the second place horse were XLK 06296, Lucky One, Calgary, and XMP 10371, Lulu, Beaumont, Nfld.

Brazilian State Takes Over Canadian-Owned Phone Co.

RIO DE JANEIRO (CP-AP) — The governor of Brazil's Guanabara state has moved to take over a big Canadian - owned telephone company, charging that it has failed to provide proper service for this Brazilian capital.

Governor Carlos Lacerda Friday night issued a decree saying the expropriation of Companhia Telefonica, Brasileira, a subsidiary of Brazilian Traction, Light and Power Company Limited, was a public necessity and in the social interest.

The company estimates the value of its assets in Guanabara at $100,000,000.

Lacerda said in an interview that the state is not taking over the company's stock — only its management. Present shareholders would continue to receive dividends and benefits.

"We are not interested in getting a telephone company," he said. "We are just interested in obtaining telephones for our people."

Thus he said, his takeover move differs from the recent seizure of an American-owned company in Rio Grande do Sul state.

Brazilian Traction President Harry Borden said in Toronto that the takeover move came as a complete surprise.

He said the company has been negotiating with the Brazilian federal government "with a view to the acquisition by the

CANADA ENDS WAR MEASURE FOR TAXATION

Provinces Will Make Own Levies

OTTAWA (CP)—It has taken Canada exactly 20 years to end a "temporary war measure" for taxation.

On April 1, 1962, the federal government after some not-so-gentle persuasion began renting from the provinces their rights to levy and collect personal and corporation income taxes.

At the time, taxes were high and the step was considered necessary to finance the war effort. The provinces were soothed with a promise that later they could handle their own taxation.

At midnight tonight, nearly 17 years after the Second World War ended, "temporary expedient" will end. Over the years it has altered drastically in detail but not in the overall concept.

WILL VACATE FIELD

Replacing this tax-rental system starting Sunday is a completely different arrangement—something akin to the pre-war deals—under which Ottawa will back out progressively part of the income tax field, giving the provinces to make their own levies.

It won't make a great deal of difference to the taxpayer.

The turnover is being kept smooth due to Ottawa's offer to act as provincial collection agency. Thus everyone still will send their income tax returns to federal collectors except in Quebec where for years the province has collected taxes itself.

The majority of taxpayers won't have to change procedures to follow until April, 1963, when they will be submitting tax returns for the current year, 1962.

TAXES RETURN

Even then, except in Quebec, they'll file a joint 1962 tax return for both federal and provincial government. At the bottom of the return they will make a brief, simple, calculation to show how much of their taxes Ottawa will send to the province.

Residents of Quebec file separate provincial income tax returns and get a reduction of 16 per cent—a figure that has never entered the rental negotiations.

Under the rental arrangements, Ottawa collected personal income taxes in the nine provinces which, since 1958 have received 13 per cent of that revenue.

The new system provides a bigger cut—Ottawa is giving up 16 per cent—and this will rise to one percentage point annually to 20 per cent in 1966.

An important feature of the new deal is that the provinces are free to levy for an even longer period the taxes they have vacated by the federal government. Only Saskatchewan and Manitoba have chosen to levy a larger share, with both taking a 22-per-cent share.

SENTENCE OSHAWA MAN

SUDBURY (CP) — An escapee from Brownstone Institution, Eugene Joseph Swelling, 23, of Oshawa, was sentenced Friday to 18 months in reformative in Kingston penitentiary, after a recapture which ended 3 hours of free escape Wednesday. He was convicted on breaking and entering charges Feb. 19 at Oshawa.

Eddie Denies Marriage on Rocks But Liz Nightclubs With Burton

ROME (AP)—Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton went nightclubbing in Rome early today.

Earlier Eddie Fisher, in New York, denied that his marriage with the film star was on the rocks. Miss Taylor has far has declined to make any statement backing up Fisher's denial.

Instead, smiling happily, she and 36-year-old Welsh-born Burton, who played Antony to her Cleopatra in the current production, danced the night away at the Nile, went on a round of the nightspots into the dawn hours.

A photographer, spotted there at 3:30 a.m., by the exit of Brickton's a popular Rome nightclub where they had spent two hours.

Miss Taylor and Burton—both smiling broadly — appeared almost willing to pose. Liz, dressed in a leopard-skin coat and hat, held Burton by the arm.

Then they dashed for his big white car, ducking and waving losing pursuing photographers on the road to their villa.

Villa is news weekly Gente of Milan Friday published photographs, purported to show old actress and Burton kissing and Liz Cleopatra set at Rome's Cinecitta.

In New York Friday, Fisher admitted that his wife refused to issue a statement denying reports of their estrangement.

Fisher, a press conference at the Hotel Pierre, he said that rumors of a breakup with Miss Taylor were "preposterous, ridiculous and absolutely false, adding:

"The only romance between

Car Crash Kills Wife Of MLA For Hastings E.

Mrs. Clarke T. Rollins Hits Tree at Ivanhoe

Mrs. Clarke T. Rollins, 50 of L'Amble wife of the Provincial Legislative member for Hastings East, was instantly killed early Friday evening when she lost control of her car on the Madoc county road south of Ivanhoe and it crashed into a tree.

Provincial Police at Madoc who investigated the accident reported that Mrs. Rollins had passed another car two miles south of Ivanhoe then passed over a sharp knoll when her right front wheel apparently dropped off the pavement.

The car travelled 141 feet down the shoulder of the road before crashing into a tree.

DIED AT SCENE

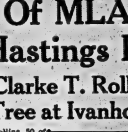
She was pronounced dead at the scene by coroner Dr. W. J. Ketcheson of Stirling. It has not been decided whether there will be an inquest.

Mrs. Rollins was on her way to Belleville where she was to meet her husband at the annual provincial banquet of the Belleville branch of the Civil Service Association of Ontario being held at the CNRA hall.

The Madoc road on which Mrs. Rollins met death is a 30-mile switch of county road between Madoc and Ivanhoe covered for years to have taken over by the Ontario Department of Highways. The road is now being rebuilt as a development road project.

Mr. and Mrs. Rollins had lived at Coe Hill in North Hastings until they moved to the Bancroft area about four years ago.

They have one son, Const. C. R. Rollins, a member of the Ontario Provincial Police, at Woodstock.



BORN AT KIMBERLEY

The late Rhoda Luella Rollins was born at Kimberley 50 years ago, being the daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Soul and the late Thomas Soul and had been a resident of Coe Hill and the Bancroft area for 28 years. She was a school teacher and was attending church in the Eldorado community when she met her husband.

Mrs. Rollins took an active interest in the affairs of her community, public, religious and social, and was a constant companion of her husband, when he was campaigning for election to the Legislature. She was a member of the United Church and fraternally was identified with the Order of the Eastern Star, as a Past Worthy Matron of the O.E.S. Chapter No. 157 at Bancroft and was a member of the Bethlehem White 'Shrine of Jerusalem No. 11 of Belleville.

House Damage In Fire Set At $2,000

The Belleville Fire Department was called during the noon hour Friday to a house fire on the old Belleville Road, Shannonville, owned by the Rasmill Company, east of the city.

The house, owned by Fred Pope, is now the process of being remodelled. Plumbers were installing plumbing in the house and a wiring job may have started the fire.

Damage to the house was estimated between $1,500 and $2,000.

Two trucks from the Belleville Fire department answered the call and Fire Chief Vance said that the Point Anne Fire department assisted with a load of water.

Sap Run Fast Nearing Finish; Syrup Plentiful

Vendors on the local market, got a big surprise this morning, toting rain clothes expecting a downpour, but getting none instead.

Although maple syrup is plentiful on the market, the sap run is fast coming to a close. One party remarked that most of those who were boiling down sap this year, were over short season, as the we...ther has been so warm.

Maple syrup was being offered this morning for 90 cents a pint, $1.75 per quart, $3.25 a half gallon and $6.40 per gallon including containers. Maple sugar was selling for 15 cents a cake or 2 for 25 cents.

Eggs are holding a steady price, 50 cents for extra large, 45 cents for large and 40 cents a dozen for medium size eggs. Local chickens were offered at 40 cents a lb.

Various kinds of apples were also being offered in great quantity this morning, a drop in price from 70 cents a six quart basket to 42 and up a bushel.

A good assortment of pastry was on display for sale selling at 50 cents each, chocolate cake selling at 60 cents, 60 cents a dozen, tarts, 80 cents a dozen and assorted cookies from 25 to 30 cents a dozen.

The women's section of the Quinte Curling Club have concluded their various competitions for the year and Mrs. Jean Smith, the president of the section, stated it was a most successful and enjoyable one. The women members of the club have progressed substantially in the art of curling and no doubt will go on to greater heights in the years ahead. Last week, the bonspiel for the club championship was held and the final, Mrs. Smith with a rink of Mrs. Theda Miller, Mrs. Ruth Blade and Mrs. Dolly Diamond won the main event which was knocked competition. The runners-up were Mrs. Dorothy Clarke, Mrs. Patsy Wansbiedt, Mrs. Jean Murray with Mrs. Dorothy Cowgan as skip.

In the second event Mrs. Pat Ross, Mrs. Sally Alyea, Mrs. Edna Robb with Mrs. Agnes Benn as skip were the winners and the runners-up were a rink of Mrs. Fern Flintoft, Mrs. Ruth Sexsmith, Jean Riley with Mrs. Mildred Stanton as skip.

The third event was won by a rink of Mrs. Carole Albert, Mrs. Ella Pepaniet, Mrs. Bernice LePain with Mrs. Connie Wilkinson as skip, while the runners-up were Mrs. Myra Cressagnet, Mrs. Ruth Cook, Mrs. Betty Emerson with Mrs. Beverley Neil as skip.

On Friday the draw was concluded for the vice skip championship and the winner of this was won by a rink of Mrs. Marg. Lattimer, Mrs. Ann Alexander, Mrs. Jean Wilson with Mrs. Edna Robb as skip. A rink skipped by Mrs. Kate Cook with Mrs. Bess Reddick, Mrs. Ruth Lowther and Mrs. Dorla Bannon was the runner-up. The women's section will hold a potluck supper next Wednesday evening at the clubhouse and at that time the various prizes won by different members of the club during the year will be presented. This will probably be the last gathering before the annual meeting and all members are requested to be present.

The writer is in receipt of a letter today from Mr. Don Stanton seeking publication for membership of the Inside Skips' Club with the membership to take effect at the first of the new curling season. Mr. Stanton will be notified of acceptance after the examining board of Jack McArthur, Pat Houston and Steve Flintoft hold a meeting on the several applications that they have received. It is reported that the writer is to be put off the ice due to his poor curling on the ice and his poor advice on which shot should be played. Actually there are a lot of members of the club who are afflicted with the same disease and these club meets in the fall it will be necessary to rewrite the constitution and in the meantime Mr. Stanton's application will be given due consideration and the only doubt he will be obliged to pay something if he wants to join this very select circle.

Tax Rate Up Three Mills To 87 While Commercial Rate Is Advanced 6.1 Mills

TRENTON — They say that nobody welcomes bad news, but one incident of news that everyone seemed to think couldn't be anything but bad —town councillor's announcement of the 1962 mill rate—had been awaited with what could be termed "anticipation" for want of a better word.

Council has deliberated over budget estimates and the setting of commercial and residential mill rates for several days, ending with a final at 8.30 p.m. the announcement came as the municipal mills rate.

Commercial property will be assessed at the rate of 87 mills for 1962. This is a rise of 6.1 mills over the 1961 rate, ($9.30 mills.)

The residential rate has been increased by three mills—against 84 mills for 1961.

Residential taxpayers may find that with the three mill supplementary tax levied last September, the residential mill rate stands the same.

Budget estimates for 1962 total $1,612,339.91 but this town will actually levy on $1,-442,568.86 (less $169,770.05) after deductions have been taken up by revenue other than taxation and unconditional government grant from the provincial government ($446,137.50).

Last year's budget estimates totalled $1,645,258.14.

Of the 1962 estimates board of education has asked the town for $184,203.54 for high school purposes, against $175,-415.54 for public schools. Separate school estimates total $52,484.35.

Public works projects will receive $316,000 of the budget estimates; general government, $121,515; police department, $126,018.89; fire department, $67,353; law enforcement, $23,400; city property, $40,589; sanitation and waste, $90,809; health, $13,640; social welfare, $111,796; recreation committee, $42,027; debt charges, $160,482; capital expenditures from revenue, $9,317; public parking, $6,664.22; miscellaneous, $911, 065.40.

Council estimates this year are "up" from last year for the following: general government, office, fire hall maintenance, other protection, sanitation, waste, health, welfare recreation committee, and are "down" from last year for police, debt charges, capital expenditures from revenue.

Gross general expenditure anticipated for the town is $1,945,324.64, with the total budget estimates for the public and separate schools standing at $236,-103.19, and bringing the total anticipated spending of the town up to the $1,612,339.91 figure.

Outboard Marine to Build Addition Worth $400,000

TRENTON — On Friday Bruce Payne, vice-president of the Outboard Marine Belgium (Canada Ltd., told the Ontario Intelligencer that the contract for the construction of an addition to the company's Trenton plant on West Street, has been awarded to the Eastwood Construction Company Ltd., of Petrolia.

Mr. Payne said that work on the addition would start "right away."

In all, 56,000 square feet of manufacturing space will be added in the existing building, which was purchased last year by Outboard Marine from the Williams and Williams Company Limited. 2,000 square feet of shipping dock will be constructed.

Mr. Payne declined to comment on the cost of the addition, but indicated guess plans construction costs in the neighborhood of $400,000. The new addition will be built onto the rear of the existing plant.

Mr. Payne said that one of the conditions of the contract call for tenders had been that only steel was to go to the Central Bridge Company at Peterborough. He said that he was happy to say that Central Bridge would get the contract.

Mr. Payne said that the company would be in the initial stages of operation in the existing building within a few weeks, and that it was anticipated that the first boat to be manufactured in the Trenton plant would "roll off the assembly line" in May.

Must Keep Open Washrooms In Local Store

TRENTON — H. S. Pane, Trenton's health and sanitation inspector, said on Friday that the washrooms in a downtown Trenton department store had been ordered unlocked, after he had written to the company's main office and reported that the local manager had barred access to the public.

Mr. Pane said that the terms of the Ontario Health Act forbade the closing of washrooms in the immediate vicinity of a lunch counter.

The local manager had locked the washrooms, Mr. Pane said, because he thought shoplifters might be using them to conceal goods stolen from the store.

Old Landmark Is Demolished

TRENTON—Another Trenton landmark has gone the way of all landmarks.

On Friday, workmen demolished the Front Street building occupied by Quinte Plumbing, Heating and Electrical Engineers Service for many years.

Fire which gutted the 100-year-old structure early this month, Maurice Rollins, the building owner of the business, said Friday, left so that it could be torn down by a work shack at the rear of the premises.

Only a week a trailer, which was being used as a temporary office, was gutted by fire, following the loss of office equipment.

A Trenton man has been charged with being in possession of stolen goods.

14 Permits Worth $69,425

TRENTON — William Anderson, building inspector at Trenton, reports that 14 building permits were released by his department during March. Estimated values totaled $69,425.

Five permits were taken out for the erection of new homes which these were valued at $54,-900.

Other items included two signs, valued at one garage, $375; addition to a dwelling, $1,800; repair to two dwellings $5,750; and commercial property repair $5,000.

Former MLA Dies

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — William A. Anderson, 77, former Liberal member of the Legislature for Peterborough died in hospital Friday.

Mr. Anderson was in the legislature from 1934 to 1943 and in 1926. His father-in-law, Mr. Anderson also served for 20 years on Peterborough county council.

IN MEMORIAM

McADAM — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Ernest McAdam who passed away March 31, 1957.

We speak of him and think of him. When we are all alone,
For memory is the only friend,
That grief can call its own.
Sadly missed by wife and family.

Cherished things deeply,
Loved things dearly,
Lost things never,
And never fade away.

SHORNER — In loving and fond memory of our dear only son and brother, Sgt. Pilot Donald F. Shorner, R.C.A.F., who with his crew lost their lives in an aircraft accident over Germany, March 31st, 1944.

Glory of the past is the present's breakingly and sacred trust.
It flows between us and the future's trailer, which was being used as a temporary office, was gutted by fire, following the loss of office equipment.

But the soul of a gallant airman can span the widest wave
Only the love we have known is hidden,
"Missing in Action" thus the message read.
And we would be in still living hope that he would return,
Untouched by time, unchanged by earthly circumstance.
Mission accomplished, his last and Goodnight darling.
Sadly missed by Dad and Family.

CLARE — In loving memory of a dear mother, Annie May Clare, who died March 31st, 1961.

Long and kind in all her ways,
Upright and just to the end of her days,
Sincere and true in her heart and mind,
Beautiful memories are left behind.
Lovingly remembered by son, Robert, daughter-in-law, Doris and daughter, Bolderick.

BOLDRICK — In ever loving memory of a dear father and grandfather, Augustus Boldrick, who passed away one year ago today, March 31st, 1961.

Hello, dad in the same old way,
I hear your voice, I see you smile,
To sit with you and chat awhile.
Do you who have a father,
Love him while you may,
For you'll never know the heartache
That we do today,
Till you see his vacant chair,
Always remembered by daughter, Mrs. Gladys Bolderick-Charlie and grandson Doug.

BOLDRICK — In loving memory of a dear husband who passed away, March 31st, 1961.

Just one year ago today,
God called the one we loved away,
He left us a memory we treasure,
For in our hearts he liveth still,
Always remembered by wife, Jessey.

Canadian Bond Markets Display Firm Undertone

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canadian bond markets displayed a firm undertone this week in light trade.

The 15-day treasury bills sold at 3.12 per cent and the 182-day bills at 3.29 per cent. Two-year day money was quoted at three per cent at week's end.

On the government bond market the long-term Canada 4½-per-cent due 1983 was quoted at 94½ and the four-per-cent due 1971 at 104¾, both unchanged. The convertible 5½-per-cent bonds due 1968 were also unchanged.

On the provincial market the $15,000,000 Alberta Municipal Financing Corporation bonds, guaranteed by the province of Alberta, were announced as 5½-per-cent due 1985 and priced at 99½. The issue received good reception.

Atlas Steels placed $15,000,000 of 5½-per-cent 20-year first mortgage bonds at par and $6,500,000 of short term five-per-cent serials, also priced at par, on the corporate market.

On the municipal market the city of Saskatoon marketed $1,755,000 of serial debentures with the 1973-1977 maturities having a 5½-per-cent coupon, priced at 99.50 to yield 5.54 per cent.

Strangled Man At Own Request Say Five Men

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Five young men on possible death sentences in a clumsy slaying for which they claim they were bribed and coached by the victim himself.

Four of the five, all Phoenix Negroes, admitted taking retired jeweler Samuel Resnick into the Arizona Desert and tugging on opposite ends of an 18-foot rope to kill him.

The 72th told of setting it up because Resnick said he had an unbearable cancer, incurable cancer and wanted his wife, Lillian, to collect $50,000 life insurance.

The cancer story is disputed by medical evidence; the murder angle by Resnick's family. But the state says it is immaterial. Premeditated killing still is murder, punishable by death in the gas chamber.

Held on first-degree murder charges are Clemmie Jackson, 19; his brother, R. E. Jackson, 21; Ernest Spurlock, 29; John Henry Lewis, Jones, 21, and Jesse Tillis, 19.

A preliminary hearing in the case has been continued to Wednesday following two days of testimony.

Frenchman's Cove, the strong 7-to-1 favorite, fell at the 20th fence.

Fredith's Son finished fifth, Dark Venetian sixth, Nicholaus Silver seventh, and Cannobie Lee, Eighth.

Kilmore's winning time was nine minutes, 50 seconds, well off the record of nine minutes, 20.4 seconds set by Golden Miller in 1934.

The other finishers were: Ernster, Gold Bud, Soliea, Double Warrior, Merryman, College master, Fortron, Politics, Clear Profit.

Kilmore jumped into the lead at the last fence but one, held his lead over the last obstacle and then had enough left to strike away over the flat for the easy win.

The crowd was estimated by police at 150,000, despite the weather.

Private Schools 'Lot of Piffle' Professor Tells Headmasters

VICTORIA (CP) — Anthony Emery, professor of history at Victoria College, told members of the Headmasters' Association Friday night that private school education was a "lot of piffle."

Prof. Emery, a product of a British private school, said these institutions impress upon their student body a brand of muscular Christianity—"a package which I rejected holus bolus."

His assault upon private schools and the hoary institution of the "old school tie," was sprinkled with peppery suggestions for modern teaching.

"If you have anything to do with the education of the young, try selling them the truth, occasionally. Prove to them—if you can—that you're not as stupid as you look."

Prof. Emery said he graduated from his school despite the best efforts of the masters and "teaching staff."

"What I got out of school, I got from my reading in the library—a program subject to constant interruption for examinations and similar nonsense."

Despite the saws of headmasters from time immemorial, he said, the battle goes neither to the swift nor the strong but to the diligent.

The masters, representing every major private school in Canada, clapped politely.

Even a Street, When Really Lit, Gets Things Confused Quite a Bit

New type street lights which provide tire-best illumination are at the same time confusing the dickens out of motorists.

This is the complaint being heard locally by members of the city council traffic and light committee who this week took the lights under consideration at "gen. up" on the subject.

Wednesday afternoon of the council committee, along with a couple of other aldermen, attended a demonstration of the various type street lighting equipment under night air city hall by Northern Electric.

"The idea of the whole thing was that when we get around to choosing new lights for the downtown district of the city we will be able to choose with some knowledge of the correct way to acquire," Ald. Ireland said.

Night Sittings To Be Increased Says Robarts

TORONTO (CP) — Premier Robarts of Ontario warned the legislature Friday he may call four consecutive night sittings a week to complete a plea from opposition parties for a levelling off in the work load.

He told members he is scheduling a sitting each day from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m.—including Wednesday, a day reserved for meetings of the legislative committees. There would be night sittings Tuesday and Thursday for sure and "possibly" Wednesday and Thursday as well.

The government is believed to be considering an adjournment of the current session by April 13 or earlier. The usual practice in April years has been to adjourn the week of Good Friday, which is April 20 this year.

The usual night sitting begins at 8 p.m. and ends, carrying on as late as midnight, may be foreshortened next week.

"I'm prepared to accept the suggestion that we keep things within limits when we're going to have three or four nights in succession," the premier told Opposition Leader John Wintermeyer.

Mr. Wintermeyer had suggested that, with committee work nearing an end, the legislature could hold brief morning sittings and cut short the night discussions.

The previous night's sitting, which lasted until 12.15 a.m., and similar late sessions "are physically and intellectually exhausting," he said.

Car Production Much Heavier In Past Week

TORONTO (CP) — Canadian motor - vehicle production this week is estimated at 11,077 units compared with 10,465 last week, automotive industries information market. The statement said Johnston acted as Gibson's partner in the business.

It added a dealer in Galt was buying about 50 pounds of dead meat a week which Johnston believed was going to a butcher shop in Highway 8. A Durham dealer was buying six tons of meat a month, the statement said.

It added that Johnston delivered three loads of 1,400 pounds each of meat in Tillsonburg.

Brutal Murder Scene May Be Basis for Inquiry

By DOUG MARSHALL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

A brutal murder scene screened by the BBC on Saturday less-time three weeks ago has launched a censorship subject to inquiry into violence on British television.

The scene was from Charles Dickens' Oliver Twist.

Millions of Britons watched the enraged Bill Sikes pull out a lead-handled pistol and shotgun to death a pleading Nancy. Blood ran across a table and dripped onto the carpet.

The scene, the 11th episode of a children's serial dramatizing the novel, was later praised by some critics for its vivid realism. Others thought it too violent.

This week in the Commons Postmaster-General Bevins declared the scene was "brutal and quite inexcusable."

FINANCED BY ITA

Now Home Secretary Butler has announced that the Independent Television Authority, the governing body of the commercial channel, will be undertaken to finance an inquiry.

The silent government officials have already had useful talks with ITA and BBC directors about what the inquiry should take.

The problem is how far the inquiry can improve on the several previous reports already conducted in Britain and the United States.

After a 1960 report the BBC introduced a code of practice that avoids certain types of TV violence before the assumed children's bedtime of 9:15 p.m. and after a weekend warning.

Some experts argue that violence on the screen is meaningless to children. It is all part of a remote and unreal world, governed by cowboys and Martians, of no relevance in their ordinary lives.

Others are worried about how far, in a violent world, violence can be kept from the screens.

On the same Sunday that Sikes killed Nancy, viewers watched a particularly homicidal section of Shakespeare's Henry VI and a news film of savage riots in Algeria.

Whatever the results of the BBC inquiry, British and commercial stations are already beginning to plan the blood out of their program schedules.

The BBC has cancelled a number of Ian Fleming's boxing matches in New York when Cuban welterweight Benny Paret was pounded to near death. They are also reconsidering this Sunday's showing of Oliver! which shows Sikes hanging himself.

Drapeau Ideas on Suburbs Bring Squawks From Areas

QUEBEC (CP) — Suburban municipalities have been squawking like chickens because the hawk's going to get Jean Drapeau became major of Montreal in 1960.

The Drapeau administration has talked about annexing some of the city's suburbs since it took over the Montreal Metropolitan Corporation.

The four-year-old corporation comprises 14 delegates from Montreal Council, Ghana's minister of municipal affairs, admitted Friday.

'TAKE IT BACK'

Declaring himself a disciple of President Julius Nyerere, Nkrumah and socialism, Edzuel said such a belief was not socialism and told his wife: "Take it back at once.

Mr. Edzuel said, however, that it is not up to him to decide.

"I paid for it with my own money," she said. "It has nothing to do with my husband."

People might think I'm extravagant, but I believe it's safer to put my money in a house than stock. I use it and enjoy. I can enjoy the bed every night. I don't get much pleasure out of jewels."

Smiling, she added: "Diamonds or pearls have to stay in a bank, but whoever imagined anyone trying to steal a bed!"

Dead Animal Meat Sold For Six Years

ORANGEVILLE, Ont. (CP)— A statement admitted in evidence by Magistrate H. I. Bixis Friday declared meat from a dead animal disposal farm at Orton was sold for human consumption for the last six years.

It was read at the trial of farm-owner George Gibson, 34, of Fergus, and Gordon Johnston, 28, of Orton, on charges of unlawfully selling a dead animal or part thereof to Mr. Bixis.

The statement, unsigned, was described as one Johnston gave RCMP when they searched the farm Nov. 21.

In the statement, Johnston said Gibson told him six years ago he had an outlet for dead meat in the Toronto concentration market. The statement said Johnston acted as Gibson's partner in the business.

It added a dealer in Galt was buying about 50 pounds of dead meat a week which Johnston believed was going to a butcher shop in Highway 8. A Durham dealer was buying six tons of meat a month, the statement said.

It added that Johnston delivered three loads of 1,400 pounds each of meat in Tillsonburg.

NDP Defence Critic Opposes Harkness

By KEN KELLY

OTTAWA (CP)—Harry Pope, who quit the army to fight for a "saner policy," Friday plans to carry his campaign into the constituency of Defence Minister Harkness.

Mr. Pope, constituency assistant to H. W. Herridge who is parliamentary leader of the CCF-New Democratic party, said he will stand for the New Democratic nomination in May. Harkness' unopposed three times for North, it was learned here.

He regards last in Calgary North, Ukr. He gets the nomination, as an opportunity to make, by a New Democratic Party's foreign and defence policy, the real issue of the general election campaign by hammering at them on the home ground of the minister responsible for Canada's defence effort.

FUZZLES FRIENDS

Since June, 1959, when he wrote his commander in Quebec City to announce his resignation from the army, Mr. Pope has been a puzzle to his former military colleagues. First of all, he said, at times, his family which is long Conservative and Liberal tradition.

It seemed inconceivable that the well - rounded three years he spent in Canada's history could throw away a promising military career to enter politics for a political belief which has never found political favor in the Canadian tradition.

He had attained a high staff appointment in the army after distinguishing himself in battle. He won wounded three times in the Second World War and Korean War and was Military Cross in the latter conflict and was mentioned twice in dispatches.

His letter to his commander put it this way:

"I have come to the conclusion that our foreign policy under both the Liberals and Progressive Conservative administrations does not reflect the interests of the Canadian people, and that it will lead to disaster. . . .

"As a member of the regular army there is no way in which I can do, or change, these conditions. I am therefore compelled to resign from the regular army, which I now do. . . ."

STUDIED AT RMC

The staff was thought that led William Henry Pope to his decision included his birth in Regina of B.A., and B.Sc. at Sir George Williams University while serving as a general staff officer at Montreal. He was graduated from the Royal Military College in 1942 and the Army Staff College in 1954.

Before his resignation defence police was based on pre-nuclear principles in an age of nuclear and hydrogen weapons and nobody seemed prepared to do anything about it.

Mr. Pope, 39, had joined the army in 1941.

The Popes have been pioneers on the Canadian public scene since Judge Pope, a native of Prince Edward Island from Tignish, in 1919. Joseph's son, William Henry, was P.E.I. colonial secretary and became a Father of Confederation while William's brother, James Col-lector of customs for P.E.I. and federal fisheries minister.

Mr. Pope's grandfather, Sir Joseph Pope, was a former undersecretary of state for external affairs.

His father is Lt.-Gen. Maurice Pope, now retired.

Fisher took the call in an interpreter returned to tell reporters that Miss Taylor had refused to make a statement regarding the divorced reports.

"You know," said Fisher, "you can ask a woman to do something and she doesn't always do it."

Fisher flew to New York from Rome last week, ostensibly on business, but reports on a television show last Sunday night, then dropped from sight. It was disclosed that Miss Taylor and Eddie Fisher had rented Grecian Square Hospital early Monday. The hospital Thursday and again went into hiding. He emerged Friday for the first time since the press conference.

Fisher said he entered the hospital for a rest, adding: "I feel fine. I am a little tired because I have had the flu and I wanted . . . I have a complete bill of health."

Fisher said he left the hospital because of the publicity.

BLAMES BLOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — A pile of cement blocks piled near a high school without fences and progress provided a natural attraction for youngsters, a "King of the castle," Mr. Justice W. F. Spence said Friday.

He awarded $2,000 damages to Peter Boryszko, 8, whose foot was injured by a falling block, against the Toronto board of education and $296 special damages against Ralph Sanders. The board is to be indemnified by the contractors, Bennett-Pratt Limited.

Controversy Arises After Former Blind River Child Plucked from Niagara Gorge

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) — "Some of us thought she may have gone back on top and wandered off."

City manager William S. Orr made the controversy:

"I resent very much that a lot of broadcasts inferred that the fire department fell down on the job. They were there for only one reason—to supply the lights as they did."

The confusion did after midnight what should have been done before—extend the area of the search."

Mayor Miller said the commission was ready to start the search again "at first light next day."

Added Mr. Orr: "I'm disgusted with the way the whole thing was handled by the commission. City firemen were not permitted to go below the bank and were asked merely to provide searchlights."

RESCUED AFTER DARK

He said the search "should have been started before dark and the searchers should be called in earlier."

Aprils parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hubbard, took no part in the controversy.

Said Mrs. Hubbard: "I don't know how I can say my thanks to those men."

The Hubbards, who met and married in Oshawa a few years ago, moved to Blind River about 2½ years prior to moving here last summer. April was born in Blind River, the mother's part of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.

Spring Steals In

Spring is as much a mood as a season. It follows that generalizations about the nature of Spring's coming are apt to be wide of the mark, for while we are all exposed to the same temperatures we respond to them from the foundation of widely differing temperaments.

Still, we think most people in the Belleville district will agree that this year Spring has come on tip-toes, not the gay, attention-attracting, twinkling toes of the ballet dancer, but the stealthy, nervous, squeak-fearing toes of a child raiding a candy-box.

Which makes Spring nonetheless welcome. Indeed, there is an implied promise that she has not just come to tease, and then to disappear into the wings again while Winter plays another scene, but that she has every intention of staying with us, if not driven forcibly from the stage.

Nor is her coming unduly early. Here we are at the end of March already, with old leaves to be gathered, lawns to be raked, storm windows to be removed, pot-holes to be fixed in the streets, spring clothes to be got out of storage, fishing tackle to be mended, cars to be tuned up, vacation plans to be considered—and most of these problems have been the subject of many day-dreaming preparations, because Spring gave us no advance notice of her imminent arrival.

But a quiet homecoming has advantages. One soon settles into the normal routine, undisturbed by those exhibitions of temperament of other Springs who have rushed onto the stage, tossed us all merrily with warm lips and then disappeared again with no more warning than as than a few shivering snowdrops trying to insist that there are shades of white and that there is a vast difference between a snowdrop and a snowflake.

With a late Easter—and an early opening of the fishing season—this may yet prove one of those Springs to remember, when all things go right, when we are lulled by the slow, soft, sweet return of life to garden and field, lake and forest, when we quarrel with the poet about his insistence on June as the month of perfect days.

Or is this but the sly deceit of temperament, incorroborated by the mathematical testimony of temperatures? Let us hope not. Let us hope the winter has passed and that before we face the hot summer days we are to be granted the sometimes of the company of a Spring which, for once, is not capricious.

More Than Mere Crumbs

The entry of the United Kingdom into the European Common Market could, if she is forced drop many of her Commonwealth preferential trade advantages, provide the incentive for industrial and trade expansion and development of the remaining members.

The forecast of a falling apart of the Commonwealth could be relegated to the category of childish prattle if even one country in the Commonwealth were to take the lead in forming an economic trading unit out of the balance of members.

If a close, hard look is taken at many of the Commonwealth's members a great disparity is to be seen between the ways of the and between the periods of development, industrially, economically, socially and culturally. In this disparity there exists a tremendous challenge, is a challenge to build up and improve these countries.

If a mutually satisfactory alliance is worked out between Commonwealth members, (and there is no reason to even suspect that such could not be done), to pool resources and to eliminate tariff barriers on all commodities and products there could be formed one of the great economic units in the world, .

The potential of such a unit would be greater than any other union of its nature that we can view or predict at the present. The fact is there does exist, in a number of the member countries, a low standard of living for a large number of people means that there would be a great demand for basic as well as luxury products.

All interest in disease and death is only other expression of interest in life, as is proven the humanistic faculty of medicine, that always life and its ills always so politely in man, and is only a division of the great and ing concern which, in all sympathy, I now be by its name: the human being, the delichild of life, man.—Thomas Mann.

Ottawa Offbeat

Does John Pickersgill See Self as Liberal Chief?

BY RICHARD JACKSON
(from The Ontario Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau)

OTTAWA. — With some of the friends that Liberal Leader Mike Pearson seems to have, who needs enemies?

This sort of thing, generally supposed to be amusing in a wryly sour sense, will hardly arouse any mirthful chuckles in the Liberal Leader these days.

It is just too unconsciously close to being a political home truth to be exactly funny.

Twice now, in recent weeks, Mike Pearson has been treated to the exacting test of his lifetime as the approaching election, must have been mortified to read that two of the more prominent Liberals don't think he's much of a political leader.

And who were the knockers?

Hazen "Liberal-come-lately" Argue, who has been getting yards of priceless political publicity since his defection from the NDP — and Liberal strategist J. W. "Jolly Jawn" Pickersgill, the formerly shrewd and feared party-backbreaker, who since has become one of the most effective party-builders — members in the Commons.

Argue hardly days before his defection from the New Deme, made it publicly known that he thought the one thing that was most wrong with the Liberals was Mike Pearson.

His exact quote?

"The Liberal Party is reeling under the effects of mistakes in its history — Lester B. Pearson".

FACTS ARE FACTS

This hasn't done much to reassure Liberals of Hazen Argue's stature, although there's any more than it has of his party loyalty.

But the situation involving Jack Pickersgill was somewhat different, and could mean a good deal more.

He learned his political ABCs at the knee of Mackenzie King, and continued his party schooling under Louis St. Laurent.

He has been active in inside lodge assessment of the party leadership to a group of partisans, he pretty well knows intention.

And it was to gaggle of Young Liberals at Toronto that he offered his evaluation of Mike Pearson.

He was comparing the two Leaders, the Conservative John Diefenbaker and the Opposition's own Lester B. Pearson.

He had a variety of views of the Prime Minister, none of them flattering. He called John Diefenbaker, was, and for years had been a dedicated political foe, prefix of "a man of positive opinion could scarcely have been expressed.

Being the unusual man that he is, Pick saved the unexpected, for the end, his understanding of Mike Pearson.

He just didn't happen to be a good leader of the Opposition, said Jovial Jack.

"He's not tough enough; can't be really nasty; has no capacity for raising cain."

Pickersgill didn't, he added, and this was the way things should be.

BUT AS PM?

He thought all this might have something to do with Mike Pearson too long having been in the Diplomatic Corps, a Never-Never Land to which Mr. P. simply hasn't good form to be anything but pleasantly ambassadorial even if you know he would like to kill you and all your countrymen.

Now, to be honest Joking Jack, as he is called by Mike Pearson wasn't much of an Opposition Leader, didn't knock him as a political Prime Minister.

And this could be his explanation.

It might be too that having been an the aggressive side during all his years on Parliament Hill, first as a Cabinet Minister, final "Grey Eminence," then as a Cabinet Minister and now as a fighting Opposition MP, Pickersgill cannot overlook softness or political civility in anyone, even his own leader.

He had a turn just this past Fall, at minding the Liberal store while Mike Pearson was conducting some preliminary election campaigning — and he made quite an impression.

In his last days at Acting Grit boss, Pick was heard from — and while he was still Jack the Joker, there was also nothing very funny to the Conservatives in what he said.

For when the Prime Minister packed his bag-and-baggage off to Quebec City for that re-organizing single appointment "re-organization" session, Pickersgill "Pick" came up with the crack:

"After six months of shuffling the pack, the PM has dealt himself a pretty old hand with an extra joker."

Could it be that Jovial John sees himself as the absent joker?

THE OLD PRO

Or there are those on Parliament Hill, and not all of them Pickersgill fans, who have noted that it is Pickersgill, more so or later, that he take over.

It is significant that through all this, the most vocal of the Liberals, in their not-so-secret-meets after the shocker defeat Leader, Paul Martin, has been Lester Pearson nothing but undivided support.

Perhaps "Oom Paul" will, in his last days as PM have in any sense and justice in party politics, he will . . . but it won't be by Mike Pearson's own son short.

The Old pro from Essex East is nearly 10 years younger and can wait.

Meantime both Hazen Argue and Jack Pickersgill are wrong.

Mike Pearson was exactly what the Liberals needed when, after 22 years of power and glory, they simply fell apart under Louis St. Laurent, at last, of an Opposition Leader who could know how to campaign, "Fighting John Diefenbaker" and they used to call him when he was the lone voice-of-battle in the Conservative wilderness.

Mike Pearson was just right as the man to pick up the pieces and rebuild the shattered party. He's job needed the healing hand of a man like Pearson who could appeal to a wide segment in the political spectrum.

The hour for the fierce, fighting partisan will come later . . . and Mike Pearson, contrary to Hazen Argue and Jack Pickersgill hasn't yet proved heroic, or shadow of doubt that he couldn't be it.

But with some of the friends he has, who needs enemies?

Chronic Blusher Needs To Acquire Confidence

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am a chronic blusher. I blush when there is no need. I blush even though I am not embarrassed. I just don't know why. Is there any way for me to stop? I know it seems to be nerves, but what can I do about it? — Blushful.

If it's any consolation, you have a lot of company. Some people blush. Why? It's an action of the autonomic — which means acting independently of volition — nervous system.

You see, we have two principal control systems in the body. One, the voluntary system, controls such actions as smiling, talking, running, or anything we do on purpose; the other i's autonomic, controls such things as sweating, heart action, activity of the digestive tract — and blushing.

If we are frightened, embarrassed, excited or in the away of any other strong emotion, we find ourselves sweating or our heart beating fast or digestion delayed. It's the same with blushing.

So it's futile to tell a blusher to "Use your will power. Decide that you won't blush!" For the blush comes from a part of the nervous system over which we have no control.

So what's is be done? Sometimes a lack of self-confidence, or a feeling of insecurity, or insecurity, however unwarranted, is present. Any of these can be a person can do something about some of these: The way to gain self-confidence is to take a and improve your skills. If you can do something well, you can walk a crow, then dance, and get to be the best dancer you can possibly be. You'll have confidence in yourself! Nobody's good at everything, so pick out a field at something. If she'll just use her talents to find out what it is.

As you acquire surgeons in your own abilities, your feeling of self-confidence will grow and there is less tension to trigger your autonomic nervous system. You therefore curb the cause of the blushes.

Medicine to tame the nervous, ness may be tried, but I hesitate recommending it for long-term use.

A class in public speaking, joining a club, or undertaking for committee work in your or church, your community will help help build self-confidence.

Yes, the blushes can be cured or lessened. Remember, they're going at it the slow but logical way. . . .

Dear Dr. Molner: I'm sorry I didn't write to you sooner. I had a fungus infection for 12 years on my toenails. They would break off and grow in again the same way. Then I read about Griseofulvin in your column and went to the doctor and asked about it. He gave me a prescription, and before me I am proud to say I got rid of the infection. Thanks again. — Mrs. C.S.

Until this drug came along (it now is available under several similar brand names) such fungus infections were hopeless, or thitless. Fortunately, "Save up prying" to get them treated several years ago now are finding remarkable success in many cases. It is necessary to be sure it is a fungus infection. The drug will not help psoriasis of the nails, nor all nail disorders.

Note to Mrs. E.J.: No, these warts on the sole of the foot — plantar warts, we call them — are not cancerous. They are likely to be mildly contagious, and they are a nuisance to get rid of at first.

Fail My leaflet, "The Lost Secret of Longevity," tells how to get rid of it the easy way. For your copy write to Dr. Molner in care of this Chicago Sun-Times Syndicate, P.O. Box 196, Dunkirk, Indiana, enclosing a long, self-addressed, unstamped envelope and 10c in coin to cover handling and postage.

Must Think For Oneself

San Francisco Freemason

Intellect and reason are God's greatest gift to man, but too many of his creatures, because of mental indolence, are content to their thinking for them. Nowadays the rabble - rouser, the political leader and sensational bigot use the Madison Avenue technique developed for commercial advertising and exploitation. Unfortunately in mental application, they adapt, ignore or twist facts to the end that a mass audience is created. A thinking man's only defense against this subtle form of brainwashing is to develop a healthy skepticism, plenty of horsesense and a wise use of the faculties and senses he possesses. The freedom of the press and radio and other means of communication outlets, printed and in the other hemisphere as a vehicle for the dissemination of information. Any one outlet may reflect the self-interest or bias of its owners but there are many sources available. The thinkers or learned, should study the material presented to him and arrive at his own opinion. At any rate he has the inalienable right to think for himself and refuse to make up his mind. When we all have to think alike, that is the end of democratization. When we let someone else think for us, that is denial of our birthright.

Ain't No Call For English

Wall Street Journal

More and more companies are manufacturing language-learning records and tapes. It's possible for your home phonograph to drill you in French, Spanish, German, Russian, Portuguese, Japanese, Norwegian, Italian, Greek and a variety of other languages, African and the Arab states.

In this English-speaking land of ours, of course, you wouldn't expect to find many records and tapes offering lessons in our tongue, and in scanning the catalogues, we didn't find a single one. That's not the construction most of us need most. The last time we were in a restaurant in Rome, the waiter said he shocked a record that taught English.

"Nah," he replied, "and there ain't no call for it, either."

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Jane Morgan, and Nat King Cole are two of the very few popular singers of today who can sing the high notes without yelling. For the benefit of the younger generation, it might be mentioned that in former times, a person was said to have a voice who could sing the several bars within his range in which he or she aspired, with the same ease that they do the identical quality of voice.

It is not late, we realize, to do anything about it. The majority of the singing stars today wouldn't have, made, either, as much as recently as twenty years ago, when Bing Crosby and Kate Smith were setting the standard of popular vocal entertainment. To have to yell for the highe notes was the mark of the incompetent. If your radio is broken, or anywhere, now, and you will doubtless pick up a disc jockey program of pop music, Just listen to the namely singers. They have no need to reach notes which are their favorites for the natural reason that they are more or less shot there. But listen to them turn on the steam, as best they can, to reach, step on the gas, when they have to go a few notes higher than those of

They could not get them out if they didn't sing them.

It is, of course, a far freer age in the realm of the arts and of odes generally, and the public is much less fussy than it used to be.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

GEOGRAPHY IS SECONDARY

Many years ago James A. Garfield, who was to go down in history as one of the three martyred presidents, declared that "territory is but the body of a nation, the people who inhabit its hills and valleys are its soul, its spirit, its life."

We speak of the continent of North America as if it were a hunk of land, but that land is something vastly greater. It consists of nations, and the nations are broken down into provinces and states. The breakdown becomes more significant when we get down to cities, neighborhoods. We have reached the core of the matter when we get down to the inhabitants of these areas.

A nation can indeed have a soul. In fact, if a nation does not have a soul then it is unworthy to be called a nation. We are living around around the earth's zone at the rate of eighteen miles a minute, and around the earth's orbit at the rate of eighteen miles a second. But this movement is not life. The significant thing about our planet is that there are human beings living upon it and these human beings she created in the image of the Creator Himself. Few people who inhabit the hills and valleys of a nation and its soul, its spirit, its life."

A nation is its people. Geography is secondary.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

A LONE, LONELY MAN

I recently received a letter from a man who merely signed himself as a "Lone, lonely man."

And he told me why he was lone and lonely. I could have told him much the same. Who couldn't?

The fact is that there are few, very few, among men or women, who are not at times very much lone and lonely.

Wendell Phillips, to my notion, was one of the most inspiring of men. He was always happy in his home life. His wife, Ann Phillips, was a saint. She was as a spring of encouragement and inspiration to him. He never tired of giving her credit for all that she was in very much her own right. She often told his closest friends of his loneliness.

I sometimes think that only the great are lone and lonely, for they are the ones who most deeply appreciate their incapacity for doing all they most desires to do.

Cecil Rhodes, the great English administrative builder of South Africa, exclaimed in his last words: "So much to do; so little done." He must have felt very lonely at that moment. During his model for all moments of the Revolutionary War, Washington was a very lonely figure.

Even the great Napoleon, probably died of a broken heart. Too late he realized that his monumental efforts had been spent for personal glory that would die with him. How lonely he must have felt on that bleak and rocky island as his spirit mingled with the winds, finally going out with them into a silent eternity.

You can never know very much at the most. But we do know that we are less lonely when we seek to make someone else less lonely. We should aim to so live as to live.

Belief Makes Our Work Noble

By Dr. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

The late Glenn Frank once "Everything belongs to both of us. But so far as I could discuss about our religious interests in common the poor wife had to take the same normal matter-of-fact his word on faith, that is, "as manner that we speak of our business affairs, we could start for the substance of things hoped the revival of religion in America soon."

in a few weeks. When we grasp Granted that everything be- the truth that all our business longs to God and our business is a part of God's business, nevertheless we have to do specific things to remind ourselves of God's part in our program. To be sure, you can be about God's business in your office as well as in church, but if you keep ever in the atmosphere of your office without ever going to church, you are likely to forget God's partnership.

Human nature, being what it is, we need symbols as outward and visible signs of inward and spiritual realities. We need recurring places in our cultivation of divine love just as in our courtship in human love. Of course, we can pray while we are at work. work, and in a very general To a godless person work is way it has been said that all just a job. To a godly man work is prayer. But we need work, however humble, is a special periods of prayer in our vocation.

Homemaking Club Elects New Officers

MOUNTAIN VIEW — The first meeting of the Mountain View 4-H Homemaking Club was held on March 24th at the home of the leader, Mrs. Ira Snider, with the assistant leader, Mrs. Werkhoven and eight members present.

The meeting began with the 4-H pledge, followed by the election of officers:

President, Linda Wood; vice president, Elaine Snider; secretary, Lora Minaker; treasurer, Alice McMaster, and reporters, Joan and Sandra Snider.

It was decided that their club name would be Merry Modern Misses, should be retained.

Members' pamphlets were distributed and the requirements of the club and club members outlined.

Record books, recipe files, sewing reports, and demonstrations were discussed.

The topic for the meeting were, "Choosing Food for Health," and "The Part Meat Plays in Health Diet."

Mrs. Werkhoven demonstrated the proper method of measuring liquids, flour, brown sugar and other ingredients.

Cinderella Operetta Thrills Large Audience at O.S.D.

"Backward, turn backward, O time in Thy flight,
Make me a child again,
Just for tonight."

Judging from the rapt attention paid by the large assembly last night at the 10th annual concert presented by the students of the Ontario School for the Deaf, many were touched by the fairy's magic wand, and re-entered the "never never land' where people live happily ever after.

The presentation was in the form of a variety program which included a delightful pantomime entitled "Mirror, Mirror On the Wall," a study in reflection, done by the senior girl students, depicting the evening's beautification before the mirror in the bathroom by the whole Doe family, which was hilariously humorous; each one carefully scrutinizing his or her reflection for defects. A most cleverly staged piece of expert timing.

RHYTHM BAND

The rhythm band, directed by Mr. K. R. Graham, and accompanied by Arnold Lewis favored with two numbers.

"The Syncopated Clock" and "Marche Militaire" by Schubert which were most pleasingly rendered, the latter contrasting to the former composition. Those of the band included: Bonnie Smith, S. Bradshaw, B. Browne; R. Cundy; R. Dunbar; J. Coy; Jo. McTaggart; K. O'Neill; Jo. Bennett; H. Woodward; Beverley Bowen; M. Bowsener; C. Gregg; M. Trapper; W. Goulet; P. Hamp; D. Kasarde; M. Lavigne; A. Mc-Donald; M. Hutchison; M. Richardson; B. Persell; K. Rogers; Jo. Sing; B. Kaufmann; A. Turbull; J. Wilder and D. Wolfert.

The choral reading, on "The Future of the British Isles," a ballad of Dunkirk; by Sarah Carney and directed by Miss C. Sweeney, was very effective.

This type of choral reading was the first tried last year, and proved so successful that it has also been included. This requires speaking in groups, in three tonal qualities, low, medium and higher, depending on the particular portions of the selection and the importance. The students taking part included those profoundly deaf, some with a fair degree of hearing, and others with a residue of hearing. Girls with their white blouses, dark skirts and the boys, with their white shirts and dark trousers, numbering 26, were most attractive and their rendition was exceedingly well done.

As an interlude between the first part of the program and the highlight of the evening, was the ladies' chorus of 14 teachers of the school who gave two numbers, "Greensleeves to England", by Haydn Wood and the spirited "Old King Cole" by Cecil Forsyth, accompanied at the piano by Miss S. Alec Gordon, composer and director of the musical numbers. Those taking part included Mesdames Bate, Cassells, Cox Davidson, Downey, Kay, O. Hill, McMaster, Dougall, Procter, Parking, Smith, Shannon, Wells and Wright.

"CINDERELLA"

The Operetta, "Cinderella", was delightfully portrayed in three acts, and accompanied by a most beautiful lighting effect enhancing the gorgeous fairy land costumes. The first act depicted the Duchess' house and that of her two impossible daughters, where the little maid of all-work was looked down upon as being a nobody. As she possessed, being an orphan, was her dust cloth, her broom, and the bellows with which she made the grate fire going. The two sisters, prepare for the ball, while poor Cinderella goes about her menial occupations with heavy heart and tear-filled eyes, thinking so sadly to go, too.

While she is busy sweeping, the Good Fairy appears, inquires why the tears, and being told, begins her magic with the assistance of six lovely fairy-like creatures in dainty garments and wings, dancing and flying, swinging artistic banners of green, crimson, pink, blue, in a trio, Cinderella is changed into a lovely Princess of Silver Mountain. Her drab work clothes become a dazzling gown of shimmering beauty in white with a flaming tiara atop her light-brown hair. Each fairy, to complete her costume, adds a lovely diamond bracelet, another a ring. Her coach is ready outside, and Cinderella sets off for the ball.

Act II shows the beautiful ballroom of Prince Charming's castle, with its winding staircase, the hanging chandeliers, in shades of mauve, blue, evening, and the Prince's aide-de-camp announces the arriving guests, among those are the two impossible sisters. When all the guests are assembled the Prince is announced, clad in a black velvet doublet, with white ruching, tags, and deep white cuffs, while velvet trousers with black side stripe.

When all are ready, the dance begins; the Prince dances the first with the Duchess, and then with each lady guest. Suddenly an unexpected guest appears, the Lovely Princess of Silver Mountain. Immediately the Prince asks her for a dance, and as the dance continues, it's plain that his heart has been taken captive by the lovely princess.

In the midst of the dance, the town clock tolls out the hour of midnight, the lovely princess vanishes, leaving one of her slippers on the very stair which Prince Charming finds.

Act III is back again in the Duchess' house where Cinderella doing the menial duties of sweeping and dusting, pausing at times to look at the one other slipper which she has kept on the mantle, wondering if it all had been a dream. A rap comes to the door and Cinderella opens it to find the Princes' aide-de-camp stating that his royal commander wanted to find the wearer of the slipper which he proceeds to do at the feet of the two sisters. In each case the slipper is too small, as evidenced from the squeals of pain emitted.

The Prince then calls for everyone, and finally at his command, the Duchess calls for Cinderella.' He, himself, fits the slipper on; she gets it on with the little maid, and is got become the bride of Prince Charming, and they live happily ever after, much to the chagrin of the two jealous sisters.

THANKS EXPRESSED

Before each number on the programme, Mr. J. G. Denton, who had welcomed the parents, some of whom were from North Bay, gave a short talk on the students' degree of deafness, the work of the school in teaching them to talk, and to lip read. He also extended appreciation on the students, to the teachers, and to those who had a part in the preparation of the concert, with special thanks to Miss Maloney, Mr. Gordon, and Mr. Parker.

Appreciative thanks go to the teachers and staff; to the students for those responsible for the beautiful costumes, and the superb background; and to those in charge of the lovely lighting effects; in short, to the Ontario School for the Deaf as a whole for a magnificent presentation.

The cast of the operetta follows:

"FULLY ILLUSTRATED BROCHURE AND APPLICATION FORMS ON REQUEST"

Karl Robinson's "Story Of Spain" to Be Presented

Next Thursday evening at the Collegiate auditorium, Karl Robinson will present his "Story of Spain," the last in this season's Adventure Series sponsored by the Kiwanis Club of Belleville.

"This is a colorful human-interest story of the Spanish people, in a land of sharp contrasts, of the centuries and races that have given Spaniards a personality and character unlike that of other people of Europe. In this portrayal, Karl Robinson succeeds fully blends history, tradition, culture and beauty in a happy combination of unusual photographic skill and exceptional narrative ability. His gift of humor and keen perception are entertaining as well as informative."

Among the major sequences in this superb and distinctive film will be seen Madrid; the Escorial; Toledo, the old; Segovia, of life in Roman times; Seville, the city of Poets; Cordova, Ronda Wagon Train; Grands with its ancient Moorish culture and architecture and its Gypsies who still dance in their caves; Valencia and Barcelona, and Costa Brava where ruggedness is exceeded only by beauty.

Tickets for the new series starting in October will be on sale at the door next Thursday night.

Japanese Men Depend on Their Wives

VANCOUVER (CP) — Japanese women aren't sure that they want their husbands to forsake the geisha or tea house and come straight home after work.

It's a matter of prestige, says Mrs. John Bradfield, wife of New Zealand's high commissioner to Canada.

"Husbands who don't come home early have so much prestige that they can't get anybody home there's a doubt that you are successful in business," she said in an interview during a visit here.

She spent many years in Tokyo while her husband served with the New Zealand diplomatic service in Japan.

Despite the fluttering over hubby's homecoming, Mrs. Bradfield was surprised to find how much Japanese men depend on their wives.

"They rely on them for decisions in the home and in business. Japanese women for all their outward appearance have always influenced their men. But the women all over the world know how to manage men, don't you think?"

She said Japanese noted for its high birth rate, now has a rate considerably lower than the United States.

"Abortion is legal and widely used and the birth rate is greatly limited to one or two children."

Mr. Bradfield said that to her knowledge, legal abortion has not encouraged promiscuity among Japan's unmarried generation.

"In Japan, abortion does not contravene their religious convictions. And a low birth rate is essential in a small country already occupied by a terrific number of people."

Women's Activities

HOLY TRINITY W.G.

Holy Trinity Women's Guild held its meeting, at the home of Mrs. Bill Fitzgerald on last, with a good attendance.

Mr. Cavalier opened the meeting with prayer and after the business meeting the ladies enjoyed the wonderful slides and recordings of "The Life of Jesus".

Mrs. Helen Spencer thanked Mr. Cavalier.

Mrs. Mary Wilson took the devotional for the singing of Rock of Ages, and the Psalm for the day.

The next meeting will be at Mrs. Spencers on April 12.

Phoenix Dons Conduct Annual Search For Legendary Mine

By SHIRLEY and BOB SLOANE

Phoenix, Ariz. — When old Jacob Welz died in 1891, it rated only a few paragraphs in the paper. Of course, he was old and had lived for years that old Jacob had found a fabulous gold mine somewhere in the fortified Superstition Mountains. And it is true he occasionally sold his burros from town and disappeared only to return a few mysteriously high-grade ore at the assay office.

But when some had tried to follow the Dutchman, as he was called, into those rocks-and-sand desert where the saguaro poke its tough limbs into the sky, he would get rid of them, among the sheer stone face of the mountains, by the Apache arrow or a rattler did, or maybe they just fell and broke a leg, dying helplessly of starvation and exposure.

So by the time old Jacob died, hardly anyone around here was left to claim the secret of such a mine. And because no map was found, hardly anyone believed it existed.

Yet it came to pass on a crisp late November morning that we abandoned the plush comforts and continental cuisine of the new Executive Suite apartments to wander on foot among the treacherous canyons where the Superstitions begin and where Apache Junction, about 30 miles from Phoenix, was the jumping off for the Dutchman's mine, and there were some 1,200 Westerners of varying foot tenderness along with us.

A Strenuous Pursuit

No one expected to find it. This sort of thing has been going on for nigh on to 30 years now, and the Superstitions are those symbolic pageants and mock adventures that Western every love so well and do so often whenever they feel the need for it. There's a lot of need, too.

Nearly everyone who has ever seen the mountains in the desert has felt a primeval urge to dig back in there and explore. So it was that the Dons, under the sponsorship of the Dons' Club, nearly every one who can raise $5.95 does. The occasion is called the Dons' Trek, and it comes annually.

The Dons are a rather refurbished group, as befits a Phoenix business and profession. All men who are the first to admit they're a pretty crazy bunch on the subject of Western lore and they work hard to promote it. They are also a well versed on the subject as most long-time residents.

Though unabashedly interested in locating the lost mine for years they have operated people of tours of the West out of the Dutchman's Den, the Dutchman's mine business quite by accident. Last year a national magazine was doing a piece about the Dons and in order to round it out, finished off by saying that next year they would make an effort to get the Superstitions to look for the mine. There wasn't a word of truth in it, but it was very much enjoyed with so many applications that the Dons decided to go ahead with it.

They've been doing it ever since and each year it becomes more elaborate. The trip be-gins Friday when the cars arriving at the foot of Superstition Mountain, where ticket holders are fed at noon and camp, a clearing

Many hours of patient training and treatment are required for the benefit of crippled children. Specially trained therapists in treatment centres throughout Ontario use their skills in strengthening weakened limbs and backs. Easter Seal dollars make these services and many others possible. The 1952 Campaign objective for Ontario, of one million dollars, is the highest amount ever requested—but it must be obtained in order to continue to provide the care necessary for the more than 15,000 crippled children. The campaign in Belleville is under the auspices of the Belleville Rotary Club.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

— PATRICIA LEWIN —

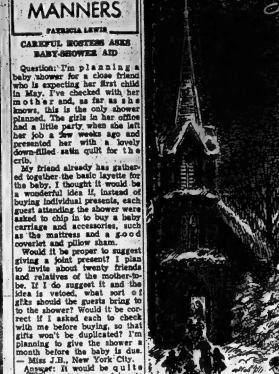
CAREFUL HOSTESS ASKS BABY-SHOWER AID

Question: I'm planning a baby shower for a close friend who is expecting her first child in May. I've checked with her mother and, as far as she knows, this is the only shower planned. The girl is in her office had a little party when she left her job a few weeks ago and presented her with a lovely down-filled satin quilt for the crib.

My friend already has gathered together the basic layette for the baby. I thought it would be a wonderful idea if, instead of buying individual presents, each guest attending the shower were asked to chip in to buy a baby carriage and accessories, such as the mattress and a good cowsuit and pillow sham.

Would it be proper to suggest giving a joint present? I plan to invite about twenty friends and relatives of the mother-to-be. If I do suggest it and the idea is vetoed, what sort of gifts should the guests bring to to the shower? Would it be correct if I asked each to check with me before buying, so that gifts won't be duplicated? I'm planning to give the shower a month before the baby is due.

— Miss J.B., New York City.



Answer: I think it would be quite proper to give one elaborate gift at a baby shower, instead of individual presents. Before proposing the idea, however, it would be wise to price the carriage and accessories, then divide the cost by the number of guests — so that you'll be everyone know how much they will be spending. Ordinarily, shower gifts are in the moderate-price category, about $5 or less. It would be considerate of you to keep that in mind if you make the selection, so you won't be asking guests to contribute more than they'd spend for individual presents.

If the idea is voted down, then it would be well to gear presents to the needs of the baby when he (or she) is around six months old and growing rapidly. The mother should see the baby through the early Spring and Summer months with the Fall, though, the new mother will be delighted to have a cold-weather wardrobe ready and waiting as the result of the shower.

To be practical, say clothes should be purchased in 1-year and 18-month sizes to leave room for growth. By the time the baby is close to a year old, he'll be ready to up all the slack. In the Fall the baby will need corduroys, sweaters, a warm but light-weight pram suit, mittens, knit caps and warm sleeping bags. Slipper socks also make an excellent gift, and are appreciated when the baby is a bit size. It would be doubly helpful to the new mother if the clothes were in the wash-and-wear category, and required no ironing, and definitely no dry cleaning.

Around that stage in his growth, the baby also will start trying to feed himself a little. But even if he isn't up to it yet mother will be ready to serve him out of hot plate (it's warmed by hot water in the bottom and keeps food at proper temperature during feeding), and make use of training spoons and a training cup.

Your idea of clearing gifts in advance also is sound and practical and you may correctly suggest it.

Stories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE B. POWELL

When church goers sing this popular hymn of praise written by the Rev. Henry Francis Lyte in 1834, they are singing the message of the Sixty-Seventh Psalm.

Many of Christendom's most precious and most powerful hymns were Bible inspired. Dr. Isaac Watts, the distinguished and beloved English hymnist, created a goodly number and most of his, quite one of Dr. Lyte's were based on the Psalms.

Psalm 67 is quite brief — here are its seven verses which suggested to the gifted hymnist the hymn verses which appear above and which are sung so frequently and so fervently in the churches of our own day:

"God be merciful unto us, and bless us, and cause His face to shine upon us; Selah.

"That Thy way may be known upon earth, Thy saving health among all nations.

"Let the people praise, Thee, O God; let all the people praise Thee.

"O let the nations be glad and sing for joy; for Thou shalt judge the people righteously, and govern the nations upon earth. Selah.

"Let the people praise Thee, O God; let all the people praise Thee.

"Then shall the earth yield her increase; and God, even our own God, shall bless us.

"God shall bless us; and all the ends of the earth shall fear Him."

Thirteen years after he wrote "God of Mercy, God of Grace" Dr. Lyte gave the world his most famous stanzas — those of the hymn, "Abide With Me."

"GOD OF MERCY, GOD OF GRACE"

"God of mercy, God of grace,
Show the brightness of Thy face;
Shine upon us, Saviour, shine,
Fill Thy Church with light divine:
And Thy saving health extend
Unto earth's remotest end.

"Let the people praise Thee Lord;
Be by all that live adored;
Let the nations shout and sing
Glory to their Saviour King;
At Thy feet their tribute pay,
And Thy holy will obey.

"Let Thy people praise, Thee Lord,
Earth shall then her fruits afford:
God to man His blessings give,
Man to man devoted live;
All below, and all above,
One in joy and light and love.

Readers' Saturday Column

by Mary Moore

Question: Several years ago I saw a recipe, I think it was in your column, for home made soda biscuits or crackers. I would like to try making these and wondered if you could find it for me . . . Verna V.

Answer: I know what you want and years ago I did give that recipe but I'm not smitten over it. Since you are going to the trouble of making soda biscuits would you please try these? They are a much better product and more satisfactory to a home kitchen. Commercial soda biscuits are run through huge rollers (like a wringer) to flatten them uniformly and then are baked in ovens with constantly moving racks — to bake them uniformly. This cannot be achieved in a home kitchen.

Repeat with second half of dough. When dough is very smooth and buttery roll to 1-4" thickness and cut into little rounds (with small biscuit cutter) or squares (with knife or pastry wheel) using a ruler to guide you. Place on greased cookie sheets, prick tops with fork and bake in 375 deg. Fahr. for about 20 minutes or delicately tinged with gold. Good on cake rack. Delicious hot, but good cold too.

Question: . . . Would like a recipe for a soft rolled oat cookie, have tried many recipes but they are just not the answer to my needs . . . Mrs. F. W. K.

Answer: Try these. They are soft, but if they are not exactly right write again.

OAT DROPS (soft and rich)

1 cup soft shortening, 1 cup white sugar, 1 cup brown sugar, 2 eggs, 1-2 cup sour milk or buttermilk or sour cream, 2 1-2 cups sifted all-purpose flour, 1 cup quick oats, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon soda.

Cream together the shortening, sugars, and eggs. Stir in sour milk or buttermilk or sour cream. Sift together flour, salt and soda and stir in together with rolled oats. Chill at least two hours. Drop rounded teaspoonfuls about 2" apart on lightly greased baking sheet, being sure to top up the dough. Bake at 400 deg. Fahr. for 8 to 10 minutes, or until lightly touched, no imprint remains.

Second Glance

By Viva Richmond Graham

"HOW NOW! WHAT NEWS?"—from Shakespeare's Hamlet.

"It's good to keep in touch," my mother always says, when a large weekly newspaper arrives from Los Angeles, where she has lived for the last fifteen years. "It makes a person feel it is nearer."

The role of a strange news-paper, at first, is an alien one. One knows not where to find the familiar. Gradually, however, as the multiple pages of some directions are unwrapped, a faint excitement subtly pervades the atmosphere as the unfamiliar slowly blossoms into the familiar.

One begins to read with interest, for example: members of a "once little country church —now a little country church" in the heart of Pasadena", are celebrating its 72 anniversary.

The Los Angeles Opera Company will offer six productions; an increase of two above last year, all due to youthful support. Good-looking ruffled ladies' cotton suits sell for $11.98.

The weekly paper from her parent's home town kept her so well-informed, as a child, claims one friend, that she felt right at home, when, years later, she visited it for the first time.

All the names of the places, streets and people she saw and met were familiar. "It was like returning to a second life", she recalls.

Last summer, we met an elderly, lonely, urban coupon, who once visited a town for a short time, and as a consequence, are now to its local paper. They are so concerned with the happenings of the town's people they write various notes of congratulations, appreciation, and condolences.

"That paper brings us closer to our fellow men. It satisfies a need of human contact and companionship, which we miss in a large city, "the husband told us.

Newspapers are popular with travellers. Declares one touring motorist: "A prairie town newspaper is mighty interesting. You find column upon column of social and sports events.

It makes you feel glad somehow. You wonder how you could have been so wrong to think the empty wide space unexciting. Just imagine, there wasn't a soul about as you motored through. Apparently it is in a big city.

Then, too, we all like that personal touch which the morning paper gives when sent up with one's breakfast to read and shall bless us; and all the ends of the earth shall fear Him."

Thirteen years after he wrote "God of Mercy, God of Grace" Dr. Lyte gave the world his most famous stanzas — those of the hymn, "Abide With Me."

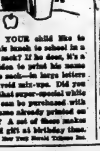
"ABIDE WITH ME"

"Abide with me; fast falls the eventide;
The darkness deepens; Lord with me abide;
When other helpers fail and comforts flee,
Help of the helpless, O abide with me.

"Swift to its close ebbs out life's little day;
Earth's joys grow dim, its glories pass away;
Change and decay in all around I see;
O Thou who changest not, abide with me.

"I need Thy presence every passing hour;
What but Thy grace can foil the tempter's power?
Who like Thyself my guide and stay can be?
Through cloud and sunshine, O abide with me.

"I fear no foe with Thee at hand to bless;
Ills have no weight and tears no bitterness;
Where is death's sting? where, grave, thy victory?
I triumph still if Thou abide with me.



"Hold Thou Thy cross before my closing eyes;
Shine through the gloom and point me to the skies;
Heaven's morning breaks, and earth's vain shadows flee;
In life, in death, O Lord, abide with me."

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Roy F. — I'm not going to take any more guff from Jack. I'll tell him off.

Nan F. — Maybe something's worrying him. Try to help him instead of making things worse.

Roy F.— My brother Jack lives with our mother in a cottage on the outskirts of town. He's a chemist and works nearby. I contribute to the maintenance of their home, and my wife and I visit there faithfully every Sunday afternoon.

The visits would be pleasant except for Jack. He talks a blue streak and if I try to get a word in edgewise he jumps down my throat for interrupting! He snaps at everyone — me, my wife, my mother and especially the maid. They all take it from him — first, because he's rich and generous with money; second, because they consider him a genius and they're willing to humor a genius.

But I'm fed up. His bad manners are inexcusable. I'm ready for a showdown. Our next visit, I'm going to have it out with him. He'll be civil or he won't see us any more.

Nan F. — Jack wasn't always like this. He's five years younger than Roy and when we got married we thought he'd follow suit. He was going steady with a charming school teacher and he was a most attractive fellow. But something happened and it was off. She married a Venezuelan businessman a year later, and Jack settled down with Mom.

That was 20 years ago. Meanwhile, he invented some chemical process, owns therapeutic and bag done well financially. It's true that he hasn't progressed as well socially. Naturally he was soured on romance and marriage. And other things must be bothering him. He's overweight, for example, and always on a crazy diet. I believe he has high-blood pressure, too.

He's rude to me, I admit. No matter what friendly question I ask him, he snaps a reply in a monosyllable. But I make allowances, and I want Roy to do better than fight and make scenes with him.

The Council: Nan is on the right track. Jack is obviously troubled and a troublesome brother. But Roy's response, fighting back, will only compound the trouble. Temporarily you may make Roy feel good at "getting even." But what's he getting even at? An illness he may not be able to help? An emotional problem which clouds Jack's better nature?

It's a common situation, but we're glad to offer an uncommon program for handling it, namely, do-it-yourself Family Counseling! Recent treatises state it within the power of "nearest and dearest" to help a family member, recognize that he has a problem and encourage him in licking it. Here are some of the tips we've culled from the 'reports:

The essential is sympathetic understanding. Nan seems to have more of this than Roy, although it must develop. She, then, may be the one to approach Jack with an offer to discuss his well-being and future happiness.

The method is talk. But talk, according to rules! He, or she, who would help a loved one must refrain from talk which judges, criticizes, approves or disapproves. He listens, mainly. And when the talk goes off the track, he manoeuvres it back. He may venture a practical suggestion, something impersonal like Jack that Somebody Cares! The family isn't starting at him from a distance, as a freak, but is close to him, sharing his feeling. At the same time he is glad that his loved ones can remain sufficiently outside the problem to help him see it more clearly and work towards its solution.

Through using these gentle, friendly means to get Jack to acknowledge the fact that he's headed for trouble, Nan and Roy may be able to help him help it alone. Another hint toward the ultimate recourse of a professional.

ask henry

Henry invites letters from readers, and awards each week a best-selling book to the most interesting letter he receives. This week's winner is Miss Kathy Williams of Toronto, who receives a copy of "How Life Goes On," by Irving Zeichner, published by Prentice-Hall, Inc.

Dear Henry—I am having trouble with my parents. You see, last night I went to a chaperoned dance and returned with my girl friend and her brother at 2 a.m.

They haven't grounded me or gotten on to me as yet, but they just sit around and stare at me every time I open my mouth. I don't think that's too late as long as we were chaperoned and just having a good time in-the right way as a teen-ager should. What is your advice?

—TROUBLED

Dear Troubled—You are right. A teen-aged should have a good time and be as free as a bird as long as you are not "grounded." Have a good time but not in the middle of the night. Your parents are mad because you came home so late, and being chaperoned has nothing to do with coming home late.

Teen-agers can have their fun as long as it is in the sun.—HENRY.

Dear Henry—I am a girl aged 10. My father believes in homework. Not that I don't agree with him, but does it have to be every night?

If I do something wrong, for instance, such as lose a penny, he starts yelling and calls me names. Do you have any suggestions?—GETTING BOXED.

Dear Bored:—I think you are exaggerating a tiny bit. If you think back carefully you may recall that it was not one penny you lost but ten or 20. Complaining about your homework? Some people have a colossal homework job do too!—HENRY.

Dear Henry:—Recently I flew up from Brownies and soon I am going to be enrolled into Guides. I go to Guides with a girl who lives near me.

Every night I get out at 8.30 sharp. She takes a special course in home nursing and doesn't get out until 9.15. She wants me to wait for her and that gets my father angry who has to go out at 8.30 too and be in charge.

My parents insist that I tell her I can't wait for her. The problem is now how I tell her this without hurting her feelings?—BOXED.

Dear K. W.—You fly up to this girl and tell her: "My parents say that I can't wait for you." And if she, faints, let me know.—HENRY.

Dear Henry:—I wish to know which type of a friend my boy should have? A lively and talkative one or a quiet one.—INQUIRING.

Dear Inquiring:—Whose friend is he going to be? Since the kids are going to be friends and blood brothers of your boy, why not let him have some say on who they are going to be? Let him choose his own friends. Mothers can do almost everything, but not everything.—HENRY.

Dear Henry:—I've got a problem with my son... Lately he has been having exams.

Every time after he has studied he asks me to check if he knows all the answers. This has kept me busy every evening. How can I make him learn by himself.—BUSY FATHER.

Dear Busy—When your son will be big, there won't be anybody to check on him. So he might as well study by himself right now. Tell him that he has TO LEARN TO LEARN TO LEARN BY HIMSELF.—HENRY.

Union's First International In Canada Ends

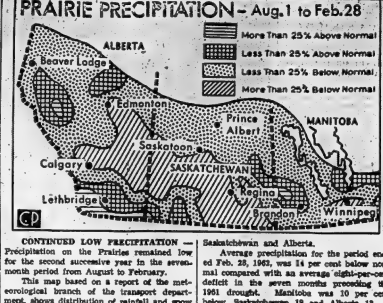
By ARCH MacKENZIE

TORONTO (CP)—The Mine-Mill union's first international convention in Canada concluded Friday, ending a five-day meeting that coincided with heavy raiding pressure from the rival steelworkers.

The international union's executive is scheduled to meet today behind closed doors.

Delegates to the convention from Canada and the United States attended the meeting of hard-rock miners and processors without the emphasis on tribulations in Manitoba and Ontario and in the U.S. from raiding the latest allegations that the American wing is Communist-influenced.

No specific decisions affecting Canada flowed from the convention—the Canadian section meets separately each year to plot its course. But the spotlight was on a show of strength pointed at struggles in northern Manitoba nickel fields and at Sudbury.



REALIGN DISTRICTS

In the last three days, the convention passed resolutions calling for a realignment of the seven U.S. districts into five, streamlining the organization to take note of raiding losses, mine-closings and layoffs in various regions.

The American wing—for the second year—also approved a 75-cent-a-month increase in the per capital dues paid union headquarters at Denver, Colo. The new rate would be $2.50 from $2.200 level for the strike fund—if approved by a membership referendum. The membership rejected a similar plan last year.

Mine-Mill's North American membership now totals about 100,000 members say. About 80,000 exist in the U.S., down in recent years.

The convention unanimously endorsed resolutions that—as always—paid warmly unctious warmly endorsed more militant efforts on civil rights, labor unity, racial equality, an end to raids among the labor movements and efforts internationally to speed accord among the nuclear powers.

CONTINUED LOW PRECIPITATION — Precipitation on the Prairies remained low for the second successive year in the seven-month period from August to February.

This map based on a report of the meteorological branch of the transport department, shows distribution of rainfall across the grain-growing areas of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta.

Average precipitation for the period ended Feb. 28, 1962, was 14 per cent below normal compared with an average eight-per-cent deficit in the seven months preceding the 1961 drought.

Manitoba was 10 per cent below, Saskatchewan 19 and Alberta 13. — (CP Newsmap.)

Fall of Moisture on All Prairie Provinces 14 PC Below Normal in 7 Months

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Prairie provinces, hit hard by drought last year, got their share of snow in a wet September, but the amount of precipitation from August to February remained below normal, for the seven-month period.

The fall of moisture on all three provinces of Canada's granary was 14 per cent below normal for the seven months ended Feb. 28. The deficit average during the last seven months preceding the 1961 drought was 8 per cent.

Statistics prepared for The Canadian Press by the meteorological division of the transport department shows precipitation in the period was 13 per cent below normal in Alberta, 19 per cent below the mean in Saskatchewan and 10 per cent under par in Manitoba.

Figures for the same seven months last year showed record deficits of four per cent for Alberta, 30 per cent for Saskatchewan and two per cent for Manitoba. In contrast precipitation across the Prairies two years ago was 30 per cent above normal.

Normal precipitation is taken as the 30-year average from 1921 to 1950.

ARID AUGUST

August was the driest of the late summer to late winter months on the Prairies, with a scarce area of central Saskatchewan getting no rain at all. Manitoba recording only 10 to 15 per cent of the normal rainfall for the month and the wettest region of Alberta also month getting only half of its regular August rainfall.

It was the hottest and driest August on record in the grain areas of Saskatchewan.

Most arid of the eight grain-growing areas on the meteorological list during the seven months was southwestern Saskatchewan which received only 3.85 inches of precipitation, 30 per cent below normal.

The area which got the greatest dip below normal was central Alberta, where the 4.37 inches of moisture was 33 per cent below the mean for the period.

Driest in terms of percentage per precipitation form a 100-year mean was the area between Winnipeg and a broad lane of territory from North Dakota, through Saskatoon and the Rockies west of Calgary and the Fort Saskatchewan area northeast of Edmonton.

DROUGHT LINGERS

The dry pattern brought extended into September in central Alberta and all but the southeastern section of Saskatchewan, while Manitoba got some relief as rainfall ranged from 25 to 75 per cent above normal. Southern Alberta and the Peace River country recorded almost normal rainfall in September.

In October, the roles were reversed, with precipitation 10 to 30 per cent below normal in Alberta and Saskatchewan while Manitoba was dry. The western half of the Saskatchewan belt got only about 40 per cent of its normal precipitation that month.

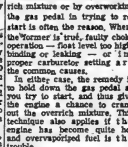
Only a few scattered stations received normal or slightly above normal precipitation in November and southern Manitoba suffered worst...Winnipeg has had only three drier November months since records began in 1874.

A cold December brought normal or above normal moisture to most Prairie regions, although precipitation remained below the mean in the Brandon-Portage la Prairie-Dauphine region of Manitoba.

The Peace River district and parts of Saskatchewan got twice their normal precipitation in January and most other Prairie areas recorded fairly heavy precipitation.

FEBRUARY BLIZZARDS

February brought blizzards that gave all Prairie regions except the Peace River country above normal moisture for the month. Winnipeg, Feb. 1 got 20 inches of snow in the Edmonton area and 12 inches in southern Saskatchewan and southern Manitoba. An other blizzard on the 15th left four to eight inches of snow in southern Manitoba.



Deep falls of snow, however, may water the land less than a 10-inch heavy rainfalls. Twenty inches of very light snow might be equal to only five inches of water, while five inches of dense snow can produce as inch of water. A rough guide used by weathermen when the water-content of snow cannot be measured is to make 10 inches of snow equal an inch of water.

But the February blizzards in southern Manitoba were dense and produced more than the average precipitation for the month to twice normal.

Flooding May Be Cause of Restart Woes

By EUGENE S. MILMOE

Lately, a surprising number of drivers have complained of restarting difficulties. In early morning, when everything is really stone cold, the car starts promptly. But, if a stop is made with the engine heated up after running several miles, there's trouble starting again.

Flooding caused by an overrich mixture or by overworking the gas pedal in trying to restart is often the reason. Where the "former is true, faulty choke operation — float level too high, binding or leaking of the proper carburetor setting are the common causes.

In either case, the remedy is to hold down the gas pedal as you try to start, and thus give the engine a chance to crank out the overrich mixture. This technique plus the fact that the engine has become quite hot and overvaporized fuel is the trouble.

Although it is not common, difficulty in restarting can be due to a defective coil which fails when hot. Also possible are rare causes are: gummy oil, varnish spots or tight fit which causes pistons to bind.

From N.H. in reading through an auto accessory catalog, I notice that they claim dual exhausts add horsepower. Is there really any value in this?

(A) The theory behind this statement is that a dual exhaust system reduces back pressure which will stifle power.

H.T. writes; I have reason to believe my left front wheel brake is dragging, but I can't really tell if the wheel is any hotter than the others after the car has been running awhile.

Try this — jack the car up and see if the wheel moves freely when you spin it by hand.

Teen-Agers Call Mom Names

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS:—I am a mother of four children, the two older ones in their teens, a boy and a girl. Their father is a salesman on the road from Monday to Friday each week.

The two older ones are the problem ones. They talk back to me, call me names. They won't do little tasks when asked.

But when their Dad is home, they are different people. They work their heads off and are sweet as pie to me. The other two children (boys) try to tell their Dad what is going on. I also talk to him, but he just doesn't believe any of us.

The two really have him sold. What would you suggest for me to do?—NEEDS HELP BADLY.

DEAR NEEDS HELP:—You do your teen-agers no favor by putting up with rudeness. Can you change your approach?

There are four suggested guideposts:

(1) Give them a build-up first. Disciplines should rest on love.

(2) Remember they want guidance, even when they grumble.

(3) Firmness with kindness is the ticket. Take time to make reasonable demands, discussed and agreed upon. And don't change what you want from one day to the next.

(4) Your own example will teach your youngsters much about right and wrong.

In general, you will have more pleasure in your boys and girl if you will help them with their social development. And when they get help they need, you may show your expectations of a return of co-operation and friendliness.

DEAR DORIS:—I really love this boy and he loves me, but the only thing that is stopping us from marrying is that we are of different religions. He is a Catholic and his parents are very strict on this.

I am a Protestant and my brother has turned Catholic. I think that I should stay with my own kind of religion because I am all they have left to depend on. I really do love this boy and I would practically do anything for him.

So you see, Doris, we have a real problem and we are counting on you to solve it for us...BEWILDERED.

DEAR BEWILDERED:—So it's a deadlock. Well, you ask for trouble if you marry and still each keep your own religion.

Marriage is gamble enough without this added hazard. But the decision will have to be yours, not mine.

DEAR DORIS:—I keep a scrapbook of Queen Elizabeth The Second and am constantly looking out for more pictures and articles. Could you suggest where I might inquire for photographs of the Coronation and other events early in her career? I only started collecting a few years ago.—BESSIE.

• • •

DEAR BESSIE—Write to the United Kingdom Information Service, 119 Adelaide Street West, Toronto. I am sure they will have some sources—perhaps even some pictures of your namesake—for you.

• • •

DEAR DORIS:—My husband is very selfish; nothing is too good for him. I have shown him affection and love, but I don't receive any in return. I receive no money or clothes. I am not allowed out anywhere, not even for mail.

He complains steadily of everything and my nerves are at the breaking point. I have been to several counsellors and lawyers and doctors, and they have spoken to him. He promised to be better, but five years have passed and no change.

He is an ugly and stupid, which I am not. The doctor says that I am smart and average on looks. I have been told to leave him. But I don't think it will help the problems any. He brags all the time, says he does not need a wife, just a maid (his own words).—ALMOST TO THE END).

DEAR ALMOST:—But why stay? Do you like being an ill-treated maid?

Just as long as you act the part of a doormat, he will wipe his feet on you. Obviously he never got past the stage of a spoiled ten-year-old. I see no hope for improvement unless you take a stand.

(You, too, can profit by guidance from a trained social worker. Write to Doris about what's bothering you.)

Retirement in Mexico Offers Drawbacks As Well As Charms

By THOMAS COLLINS

This business about retiring to Mexico —

There has been a lot of conversation about it in recent years. Many letters have come to me inquiring about it. So I've been down to have a look.

Here are the facts and impressions I come back with:

— There are no legal obstacles to your moving permanently to Mexico, providing you're a normal citizen. For permanent residence, you must submit to the Mexican government evidence that you have a regular income sufficient to support yourself. Beyond this, there is little red tape.

— A good many people on pensions are scattered about, usually in the larger cities and usually in groups of two or three couples rather than in colonies. Most of them seem to be people who have had international experiences during their careers — army and navy officers, diplomatic people and businessmen who dealt in foreign trade. Their friends seem to be mostly other exiles like themselves rather than Mexicans.

— You would live in Mexico on a plane similar to the one you would have in retirement at home, which would be much higher than that of the average Mexican. But it would be more formal and more sophisticated. No dangling legs off a fishing pier. No sitting around a corner store with a corn-cob pipe. You would set yourself to maintain "position."

— Living on such a plane would cost less in Mexico than in the States, or Canada for that matter, much less. Rent (it is very difficult to buy a home), utilities and food. For a retired couple maintained standards they would have in the southern part of the States, would be about the same. Other living costs would be a great deal more or a great deal less, and from all appearances would about balance off. The average couple would probably not feel as comfortable on $200 a month in Mexico as he would in the South.

— Mexico's reputation as a very economical place to live is not valid for most Americans. Maids can be had very cheaply (how many do you want to retirement?). So can gardeners, repair men and all other service people. So can silver, leather and baskets. Also, if you want to live as the low-priced Mexicans live — and there are lots of them — you can move outside the cities and live for peanuts. Americans don't want to do that.

— The climate in most of Mexico is all the travel books say it is. Wonderful. The man would dress, day and night, in sandals, slacks, a light shirt, no hat and no jacket. His wife would dress with similar casualness. The rainy season, from June to October, is not depressing, consisting mainly of afternoon showers.

— You would find the conveniences of life fairly convenient. Water is suspect, as are fresh vegetables. Plumbing is O.K., electrical work mystifying, construction work sound. Color and the artistic are everywhere.

— The design for living in Mexico is different. Lunch is later, at 2 o'clock or so and is a big meal. Dinner is also a big meal and comes at 8 or 9 o'clock. Between lunch and dinner is a long nap time (siesta) which may run from 3 to 5 or 6 to 7, depending on the locality.

— By retiring to Mexico, you would be closer to your former home. You could get back home — real glamorous. To the other Americans you find about you, and to Mexicans, you would be glamorous for four or five days. Americans simply aren't as wonderful as they think they are to the natives of a foreign land. And Mexico is foreign land. But their money, if they spend it, can buy some gracious living on — as it does everywhere.

— Retirement in Mexico, in my opinion, would be lonely. And I would grow very tired of hearing all the lonely fears of the other Americans around me. I would feel uncomfortable, like an intruder in somebody else's way of life. Mexicans, I like. But Mexico as I experienced it, as long as I have all my marbles, I wouldn't retire there.

Former Priest Agrees to Pay For Support

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A former Roman Catholic priest agreed Thursday to pay $100 a month for the support of his three children by a wife who returns religious chalices and vestments.

Domestic relations court accepted the offer made by defrocked priest Walter Ryan, 56.

Ryan also offered to allow his wife to sell property at Fort Kelogg, N.Y., valued at $18,000, the money to be held for his daughters.

Under questioning of Superior Court Judge Joseph Karesh, Ryan denied that he was ever abducted by the Catholic church or was held in a monastery at any time after leaving his wife in 1955 as she charged in a $2,000,000 suit against the church.

Karesh issued a temporary order that Ryan start making the payments April 8. The money is to be held in trust until the children's interests are turned over to a person the former priest designates.

The judge continued the case to May 1 at which time he said he would rule on the paternity of a fourth child.

Alice Ryan, 41, in her suit said that the onetime priest was the father of four daughters. In an affidavit entered into court Thursday, Ryan denied paternity of the youngest, now 3.

Victoria and Grey Trust Reports Presented at 72nd Annual Meet

The Hon Walter Harris, Q.C., of Markdale was elected president of the Victoria and Grey Trust Company at the 72nd annual meeting of the shareholders held at St. George's Church parish hall, Owen Sound. Mr. Harris succeeds H. J. McLaughlin who was named chairman of the board to succeed C. D. Fleming, chairman in 1961.

Other officers of the company are E. N. Cooper, S. A. Flavelle, J. G. Fraser and F. G. Perrin, vice presidents, R. G. Thomas, QC., is general manager and treasurer, E. M. Malcolm and G. E. Phelps are assistant general managers with F. C. Rogers of Lindsay as chief accountant.

The Hon. Leslie M. Frost, QC., and William L. Moore, QC., are newcomers to the board of directors. Other members elected were W. L. Brown, E. N. Cooper, S. A. Flavelle, C. D. Fleming, G. D. Fleming, J. G. Fraser, Campbell Grant, QC., Hon. Walter Harris, QC., W. B. Lemon, Col. T. A. Kidd, G. D. McLauchlan, J. McLaughlin, QC., W. W. McLaughlin, QC., W. H. Morton, F. G. Perrin, T. H. Stinson, QC.

D. J. Setter, FCA., Toronto, and Charles F. Gaviller, Owen Sound, were re-appointed auditors for 1962.

The Victoria and Grey Trust Company has offices at Belleville, Cannington, Kingston, Lindsay, Orillia, Peterborough and Owen Sound. The advisory committee at Belleville consists of W. H. Morton, Col. P. H. Mikel, H. Haig, W. H. Ireland and G. A. Morton.

MANY REPRESENTED

Mr. McLaughlin was chairman and said he was pleased at the number of shareholders present and that more than 70 per cent of the company's issued shares were represented by proxy or by attending shareholders.

The annual report of the Board of Directors to the shareholders was read by Mr. Phelps and was adopted on motion presented by J. G. Fraser and F. G. Perrin, vice presidents of the company.

In his address, company president H. J. McLaughlin, QC., referred to the financial standing and growth of the Victoria and Grey Trust Company, the loss of directors through resignation or death, new appointments and office expansion.

He welcomed the shareholders and friends to the meeting in Owen Sound, "where the seeds of this organization were planted about 72 years ago".

He noted that it was also the 12th annual meeting since amalgamation.

Mr. McLaughlin described the expansion of the company by revealing 200 per cent in growth of total assets and almost 280 per cent more in assets since amalgamation in 1950 and said the trust and agency connection had increased from $7 million to $25 million with increased capital, reserves and profits.

The president referred to an amendment to the Income Tax Act which would enable companies such as Victoria and Grey Trust to set up mortgage reserves that could amount to a total of three per cent of all moneys invested in mortgages.

"We do realize", said Mr. McLaughlin, "that while our trust business is growing in a satisfactory manner, we are still principally a mortgage company, but are not depreciating any way the growth of our estates, trusts and agencies which amounted to nearly $400,000,000 in this last year."

OFFICE EXPANSION

The new premises opened at Belleville were formally opened March 4, 1961, and the improved services provided by this branch have resulted in more than a normal increase in business. Mr. McLaughlin described the opening and location of the company's newest branch at Orillia and expressed his appreciation to the new advisory committee for their help in bringing it to completion the construction, furnishing and staffing of this branch.

Making specific reference to the financial statement of the company, Mr. McLaughlin said it had experienced the largest growth of any year in 1961, showing a increase of approximately 13 per cent over the total assets at the end of 1960.

The directors increased the annual dividend by 30 cents in 1961, bringing the regular dividend to 60 cents quarterly.

In his closing remarks, Mr. McLaughlin mentioned that the management of the organization had been strengthened by the appointment of two assistant general managers who had been assigned special duties which would result in the general manager having more time for the overall operation of a $125 million company with seven branches.

MANAGER'S REPORT

Presenting his report general manager Ross C. Thomas said it again showed growth and progress of the company, reflecting the thanks and guidance of the directors and co-operation and efficient work of the staff.

Net profits after providing for taxes on income increased 10.3 per cent, he said, and earnings per share were $1.57, an increase of 24 cents per share over 1960. Dividends were paid for 1961 at 60 cents per share. Trust deposits increased 17.4 per cent and guaranteed investment certificates increased 13.4 per cent.

Estates, trusts and agencies increased 14 per cent and total assets under administration increased 14.8 per cent, bringing these to a new record of over $114 million more than tripled in the last 11 years.

Mr. Thomas told how the company had supplemented the existing pension plan for employees, also group insurance to provide coverage of approximately twice the amount of salary of each employee, with all cost absorbed by the company.

Canadians have become savers and investors, said Mr. Thomas, and their average income is second highest in the world, either in money or purchasing power. Trust companies are continuing to handle more and more business, now between 30 and 35 million dollars a week, the most important investors in Canada in bonds and equities.

Competition has become more keen, not only among trust companies but between savings institutions as well, but this competition is a spur to trust company growth. Growth to customers means better service and convenience, to shareholder it means increase in share equities, profits and dividends, any growth also reflects the confidence of the public in trust companies, Mr. Thomas said.

RESERVES JUDGMENT

VANCOUVER (CP) — The British Columbia Court of Appeal reserved decision today on appeal against appointment of a receiver to guard the assets of the B.C. Electric Company. Both the BCE, expropriated by the provincial government last year, and the attorney-general contested the right of the BC Supreme Court to place the company under receivership until legal action surrounding the take-over is resolved.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus. In fact down Kingston way you will find some 17 or 18 of them wrapped up in one neat package.

They didn't wear the scarlet, white and flowing beard of Old St. Nick, instead they wore hockey uniforms that bore the insignia, "Kingston Frontenacs."

Bub don't ask any of these One youngsters about it. All they know is what they read in the papers. You might query their coach since it seems he started all this "Santa Claus" business.

For Coach Danny McLeod was quoted by a local sportswriter, "About ninety per cent of the goals they (The Belleville McFarlands) have scored were gifts."

McLeod is a good hockey man. I do not think he meant his quotation in the literal sense. His team was backed against the conventional wall facing a 3-2 deficit—and a victory in the sixth game was a must for survival. He could have said it to get his fine young squad "up" for the all-important do-or-die battle.

And from what I saw, and what our man Garry Alexander says, a certain young Mr. Demmler, the third pipe in the Kingston cage, was never, at any time, in a giveaway mood. In fact Master Demmler is just about the finest junior "B" goalie seen in this district over a lengthy period of hockey seasons.

Besides Gordy Bell's "three-in-the-first" McFarlands were in no mood for handouts. They merely went out there and took enough of what they wanted, in fact a little less would have sufficed.

And they did it after the Frontenacs had almost secured at least a victory. "Moe" Hunter snatched the win from them with a fine second-period effort. Came the overtime and Billy "The Kid" McGuire fired twice from the hip and the Frontenacs bit the dust.

Kingston has a fine young club with age on their side. They have, I understand, a couple of years to go as a unit, and with a number of our side graduating this year, the Fronts should tuck that junior "B" title away next season.

Tomorrow the Belleville McFarlands, the city's first junior "B" group winners in a decade, take off on the first leg of what should be a tough, rocky road into the Ontario championship.

They meet the Waterloo Siskins in a semi-final round-robin series that includes the winners of the Metro's Dixie and Woodbridge series. The Siskinsare the Central Ontario junior "B" champions.

Coach Gordie Bell and the youngsters leave the arena by bus at 8.30 a.m. for the afternoon game in the Kitchener Auditorium. The Maes play a home-and-home series with the Siskins and either Dixie or Woodbridge, with survivors playing off for the right to enter the provincial finals.

According to reports from Kitchener, the Siskins are a fast-skating, well-balanced club with lots of bench reserve. It should be quite a series.

The Maes are the first junior "B" team to win an Eastern Ontario title since the 1931-32 season when the Belleville Black Hawks won the honors. They eliminated Barrie in a round-robin series but went down to defeat before the powerful Weston Dukes. The Dukes included such players as Howie Glover, Bill Harris and Goalie Johnny Albani.

The Hawks of the season had Turk Barclay and Bobby Green, Peter Green, Hec Lalande, Duke Doran, Johnny Munro and others.

Using only two effective front lines, Coach Bell's pattern paid off in the series with Kingston. He had his forwards strike hard and fast in the early part of the games. Three times they built up three goal margins. And three times in desperate third-period stands they held off the charging Kingston front line.

The Maes have plenty of spirit and ability. The play-down trail is always a tough one and with sectional champions facing them, the youngsters will have to be "up" at all times. The round-robin will be a hard-fought series, and fandom here is "in" for some outstanding hockey.

MONTREAL (CP)—Montreal Canadiens head for Chicago today needing only two more wins to bounce the defending champion Black Hawks out of the running for this year's Stanley Cup.

The Canadiens, buoyed by two one-goal triumphs over the Hawks in the opening games of their best-of-seven semi - final here this week, were to leave by train at 3:30 p.m., arriving in Chicago early Sunday morning.

The Hawks arrived home Friday, having flown by charter airliner immediately after blowing the second game 4-3 Thursday night. The Canadiens won the first game 2-1 Tuesday night.

The third and fourth games will be played at Chicago Stadium Sunday night and Tuesday night.

Before leaving, coach Toe Blake planned to send his Canadiens through a light workout. "I don't believe in driving the players too hard before an away trip. Same like the home stand."

TOOK TWO CLOSE ONES

Both opening games were squeakers. In the first, the Canadiens took a two-goal lead, then relaxed and almost blew it through defensive lapses near the end of the game.

The Canadiens were completely outplayed for more than 10 minutes in the second game, but they staged a three-goal blitz late in the third period to overcome a seemingly comfortable 2-1 Chicago lead.

"We stole that one," Blake candidly admitted Friday in reference to the second game.

Blake didn't appear to be worried about the prospects of facing the Hawks, who last season beat the Canadiens in a similar semi-final round and went on to win their first Stanley Cup in 23 years for their home fans.

"We'll play, do well in Chicago," he said. "You can't judge us from that game Thursday night. We didn't play well and we can do much better."

CHIPPED BELLY PUCK

The Canadiens won four, tied one and lost only two of the seven National Hockey League games played at Chicago this season. What's more, they outscored the Hawks 20-13.

Chicago coach Rudy Pilous flew Friday to Montreal for the series.

"We'll come back," he promised. "We always score better in Chicago. We intend to start a 'B' outdoor series with Montreal Thursday."

Pilous himself he may shuffle the Hawks lineup. He was believed to be disappointed with the play of Max Bentley, Hawk right winger on his million-dollar line, so far in the series. The line is centred by Bill (Red) Hay and has Bobby Hull, who scored a record-breaking 50 goals this season, as its left winger.

MURPHY MAY RETURN

Winger Ron Murphy, rattled the first two games with a groin injury. But he may be ready to come back Sunday night.

A, a replacement, the Hawks dressed Merv Kuryluk, 25-year-old left-handed shooting star from Sault Ste. Marie of the Eastern Professional League, but used him very little.

They also have two other farmhands in their camp —Wayne Hicks from Buffalo of the American League and Billy Marcetta from Sault Ste. Marie. Blake, meanwhile, plans no lineup changes.

Dickie Moore, who has scored three goals in his series, came out of the second contest with a badly jostled left eye as a result of a collision with Hull.

But Montreal Forum physiotherapist Bill Head said Friday Moore's vision was "perfectly normal."

"The eye is swollen a bit," added Head, "But Dickie will play."

WIN TITLE

EDMONTON (CP) — Vancouver Richmond Merchants defeated Edmonton Jasper Auto Parts 38-31 Friday night to take the Canadian women's basketball championship.

Fans Join Ice Brawl In Cornwall

CORNWALL (CP) — Most of the 350 fans in Cornwall Arena joined in an ice fight Friday night when Cornwall defeated Ottawa 7-4 in the second game of the Ottawa district hockey finals.

The third-period riot erupted when Ottawa playing coach Lalle Lalonde protested a misconduct penalty and a game misconduct served him by referee Martiel Gagnon.

Gagnon had just given another misconduct to Ottawa player Goodie Sharron when Lalonde interrupted. Lalonde was led away to the locker room but rushed back into the arena and slugged Gagnon who suffered a cut lip.

Fans and players took sides and soon fighting spread over the ice and into the stands.

Ottawa and players took sides and soon fighting spread over the ice and into the stands.

Ottawa took 13 of 19 majors handed out. Ottawa won the first game of the series. Lalonde said the third game, scheduled in Cornwall would not be worth playing and said he doubted his team would show up.

Meet Leafs Sunday

Blues Must Win One Home Game

By BILL MacDOUGALL

HIGH-SCORING TRIO — It took a lot of hustling but Montreal Le Prosse photographer Roger St. Jean finally managed to get the NHL's three greatest single-season scorers together after Thursday's Stanley Cup semi-final game at Montreal. Bernie (Boom-Boom) Geoffrion scored 50 goals last year to match the record set by Maurice (Rocket) Richard in 1944-45 and Bobby Hull of Chicago caught up with them in the last game of this season. (CP Wirephoto).

TORONTO (CP) — It's bad enough when you have to reckon with Tim Horton on defence, but New York Rangers are finding he can do more than his share offensively.

Frensh from the best season he's ever had in the National Hockey League, the 23-pound defenceman is the highest point getter in the Stanley Cup semi-final between the Rangers and Toronto Maple Leafs.

The Rangers must win one of their next two games—in New York Sunday and Tuesday nights—if they want to stay alive in the best-of-seven semi-final. And, if they do take one or both of the games, they are faced with the prospect of winning their first game on Toronto ice this season.

BAD GOOD SLAP SHOT

The five-foot-10 Horton is a double threat. If his forwards are in trouble, he can lug the puck out of his own end in a hurry. Once a power play or intense offensive, he has a wicked slap shot from the right point. Centre Red Kelly, who earned a reputation as a rushing defenceman while with Detroit Red Wings for 12½ seasons, figures Horton is a valuable man to have around.

"He's a very dangerous man, puts the pressure on when he comes out like that. There are lots of times when a guy like that gets caught, his opposition's end, but not Timmy.

"He can carry it in a hurry, and a guy like that is good to have around."

BREWER NEAR RETURN

Toronto has prospects of getting back another rushing defenceman who has been on the injured list with a severe leg charleyhorse since near the end of the regular season. Carl Brewer skated Friday for the first time since March 1, and

Also on the ice for the first time since suffering a cracked shoulder bone late in the season was left winger Bert Olmstead.

One or both of them may be back in action by the end of next week.

The Leafs practice today and fly to New York tonight. Buck Funch limbach 1 s n't taking chances on the flying tonsorially bothered. Both his and the players' rooms at New York will be sprayed wholesale.

New York's Ken Schinkel will be dressed with a broken right toe for the third game. The Rangers said Friday the veteran winger will undergo injury Thursday night when he crashed into the boards during the second game.

Shinkel will be replaced by either Pat Hamilton or Guy Gendron. The other forwards on the line, consisting of Rangers' best checking unit, are Dave Balon and Johnny Wilson. Lou Fontinato, a spare, also will dress in Schinkel's place.

Soo Player Fined $250. By EPL

OTTAWA (CP)—Merv Kuryluk, a forward with Sault Ste. Marie Thunderbirds of the Eastern Professional Hockey League, was fined $250 Friday for striking linesman Fred Hanson in a league game at Kingston March 21.

In making the announcement, league president John J. Ure noted that Kuryluk denied having done more than giving the official a push.

Ure said: "Whether it was a shove or a blow deliberately struck is immaterial. Kuryluk had absolutely no right to touch an official and such conduct will not be tolerated."

Ure said the fine was being imposed because penalizing the player by preventing him from taking part in league contests would have had little effect since the Thunderbirds, in last place, had only one game to play.

Kuryluk has been called up by the parent Chicago Black Hawks for the National League playoffs.

Gump Saves Keon From Bad Bump

TORONTO (CP) — Dave Keon told Friday how New York goaltender Gump Worsley, who robbed the Toronto Maple Leafs centre of more than one goal in Thursday night's semi-final, saved him from possible serious injury by deflecting him like a puck.

"I was going in after a loose puck," Keon said as he watched a Leafs practice.

"My stick got caught and I lost my balance. I was heading head-first for the goalpost but Gump stuck out his pad and I spun around the post when I hit his leg."

Toronto won the game 2-1 to take a 2-0 lead in the best-of-seven Stanley Cup series.

Worsley said he realized Keon would hit the post with his head.

"I saw him coming and I put my pad between his head and the post," the Rangers goaltender said. "He might have got a very bad knock on the head. But he's a great hockey player and a real guy. Did you see him come up to me at the end of the period? Wanted to say 'thanks', he said."

Jay Hebert Leads Pack In Azalea

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP)— Jay Hebert shot a three-under par 69 Friday and moved into a one-stroke lead in the $20,000 Azalea open golf tournament at the halfway mark with a 137 total.

One stroke behind was United States Open champion Gene Littler, who had a 68 Friday. Veteran Jim Ferrier, the first round leader, shot 72 for a third-place tie at 139 with Dave Marr, whose 66 was the best round of the tournament so far.

Jerry Magee of Toronto shot 72 for a 142 total, while Al Johnson of Montreal and Stan Leonard of Vancouver fired a 74 and 73 respectively for 144 totals.

Hull Whips Kingston, Beavers Win

THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hull - Ottawa Canadiens won a showdown game Friday and clinched first place in the Eastern Professional Hockey League.

The Habs bounced back from a one-goal deficit to defeat Kingston Frontenacs 4-2 in a game where victory would have meant a leadership for the team.

It was the Fronts' last game of the season and they finished one behind the Canadiens. They are at home Sunday in a three-game Waterloo Beavers - Kingston Windup of the regular season. The Beavers, who downed last place Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds 5-3 Friday night, could end tied with Kingston on points with a victory Sunday but the Frontenacs nailed down second place on the strength of a higher total of victories during the season.

In a "nothing" game Friday night, the fourth-place Sudbury Wolves lost 4-2 to North Bay Trappers.

In thus will ohe Hull-Ottawa Canadiens meet in one semi-final set, Kingston and Sudbury in the other. The best-of-seven series open Wednesday at Kingston and Hull.

LISTON LOSES LICENCE

TRENTON (AP)—The driving licence of Sonny Liston of Philadelphia, top - ranking heavyweight boxing contender, has been suspended in New Jersey for 30 days. It was announced Friday. Liston, 30, was caught driving 71 miles an hour in a 60-mile zone on the New Jersey Turnpike Dec. 23, 1951. He paid an $11 fine Dec. 31.

Brown Says Ninowski Will Report

DETROIT (AP) — Cleveland Browns coach Paul Brown held an airport meeting with Jim Ninowski Friday and predicted freely that the newly-acquired quarterback will be in the starting lineup for Cleveland when the National Football League season begins.

Brown, accompanied by his chief scout, Paul Bixler, conferred for two hours with Ninowski and talked about the quarterback's expressed reluctance to make the switch from the Detroit Lions to Cleveland.

Ninowski said Thursday he wouldn't play for Cleveland because a trade which involved five other players, would ruin his off-season business plans. The three-for-three trade sent Ninowski, a Detroit native, defensive end Bill Glass and halfback Rogalong Cassady to the Browns in exchange for quarterback Milt Plum, halfback Tommy Watkins and linebacker Dave Lloyd.

Ninowski emerged from Friday's meeting saying nothing has changed.

In answer to a question, Brown said that in the event Ninowski did refuse to play in Cleveland, "it wouldn't nullify the deal."

Tiger, Hank Fight Will Be Watched

NEW YORK (AP)—The repercussions of last Saturday's Benny (Kid) Paret-Emile Griffith fight could very well affect the outcome of tonight's scrap between middleweight contenders Dick Tiger of Nigeria and Henry Hank of Detroit.

The hard-hitting 160-pounders will meet in a 10-round television bout at Madison Square Garden, scene of the Paret Tragedy. Paret still is in a coma after his collapse in the 12th-round, technical - knockout defeat by Griffith in their welterweight title bout. Tiger is the 8-to-5 favor

A cut or ons jarring punch could be enough to force a sudden termination of the bout. Referees and ring physicians have been quick to halt bouts at the heels of a fatality or a serious injury to a boxer.

Carried From Ring

Ageless Archie KO's Lavorante

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Boxing got another scare Friday night when heavyweight Alejandro Lavorante of Argentina was carried out of the ring on a stretcher after suffering a 10th-round knockout at the powerful hands of fabulous Archie Moore.

It was the second time in less than a week a fighter was taken by stretcher from a ring in a major match. Lavorante, apparently suffering mainly from exhaustion, was not taken to hospital.

Lavorante, 25, got a relentless pounding from the ancient Moore but the South American was never knocked down. Moore staggered Lavorante several times in the eighth and ninth rounds and the Argentine giant looked wobbly at the knees at the start of the 10th and last round of the non-title bout.

Moore, recognized as world light-heavyweight champion in California and parts of Europe, blasted away at Lavorante's mid-section and referee Tommy Hart halted the bout after 27 seconds of the 10th as the victim sagged against the ropes. It was listed as a knockout under California rules.

SLUMPS TO FLOOR

Lavorante stumbled to his corner and Moore waved to a cheering crowd of 13,352, the largest encounter slumped to the floor from his stool. He did not appear to lose consciousness. Tears glistened in his eyes as stretcher attendants carried him to his dressing room.

About 40 minutes after the knockout, officials announced that Lavorante was talking to newspaper men and apparently did not suffer severe injuries.

At a post-fight party, Lavorante got an ovation from the guests. He posed for photographs with his tormentor, Moore, and said in Spanish: "I feel all right." His face battered and swollen.

Archie, from San Diego, Calif., is the oldest ring warrior around. His age is anywhere between 45 and 50. He weighed 197 pounds to Lavorante's 211.

STILL CRITICAL

Last Saturday Benny (Kid) Paret was knocked senseless and carried from the ring after losing his 147-pound world welterweight crown to Emile Griffith. Paret is still in critical condition at a New York hospital.

Moore, wearing a brocaded white silk robe, told reporters in his dressing room: "Those body punches I was using were not spectacular but they are very effective."

He said of Lavorante, "He needs experience. I could take him to my salt mines (Archie talk for training camp) and make a champion out of him."

(Lavorante fought gallantly but was unable to handle Moore's bobbing and weaving attack. Archie kept his forehand on the chest of his six-foot-four opponent while blasting away through most of the fight.

Archie Says He Can Lick Liston, Champ

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Ancient Archie Moore was asked about his plans Friday night after he knocked out Argentine heavyweight Alejandro Lavorante.

Moore said his plans are indefinite but he would like to meet either heavyweight king Floyd Patterson of New York or the No. 1 contender, Sonny Liston of Philadelphia.

"I think I could put both of them away."

"On the same night?" someone asked.

"No, I suppose it would be on alternate nights."

Hoop Coach Is Released

WINDSOR (CP)—Hank Biasatti was released Friday night as head basketball coach at Assumption University.

No successor was named. Dick Moriarty, Assumption's athletic director who announced Biasatti's dismissal, said certain frictions between Biasatti and some of his players led to Biasatti's release.

Biasatti said at his home in Allen Park, Mich., he would issue a statement next week.

Fire Dept. Wins Hockey Title!

"Somewhere the sun is shining; somewhere the children shout;
But there ain't no joy in Public Works, since Pottyy's were put out."

"Red" Smith's galloping hockey horses of the Fire Department won the City Interdepartmental Hockey League championship last night.

They defeated the Public Works 10-5 in the final of the playoff round-robin to win the handsome Marvin Reide Trophy for the first time.

The third team of the loop, the Clare Hayes - "Toe" Reid Policemen, looked on sadly from the sidelines.

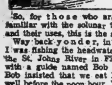
The P-W's led in the early stages with manager Lee Pettit doing a cross between a "twirl" and an Indian war dance with every goal scored.

But he hadn't reckoned the comeback qualities of the Vancemen.

Sparked by Roy Christopher and Lyle Wanamaker, the Smoke Eaters turned on the hockey heat and drenched the Pottyy's with seven goals to earn the five-goal margin. It was a real hockey game, closer than the score indicates. The winners' fine work around the nets was the difference.

Christopher and Wanamaker led the winners with four goals each, Bruce Diamond and George Woodhouse each got singles.

Lee Bradley was a one-man scoring gang for the Public Works, firing all five of their markers.



The Marvin Reide Trophy was presented to the winners in a post-game ceremony on the ice. It will be officially presented at a league dance at Club Cedars slated for the near future.

The hockey season, like the Summer softball activities, provided a lot of good clean sport and fun for members of the league. The rivalry was keen but friendly — with each game being played for keeps."

Solunar Tables -- How And Why

Still the letters come in, asking questions. What are these solunar tables they want to know. How do they work? How do you use them? And so on. This despite the fact that a few solunar tables have been published in book form for the past 26 consecutive years and have been appearing in the Nation's newspapers, for more than 14 years.

So, for those who are not familiar with the solunar tables and their uses, this is the story.

Way back yonder, in 1926, I was fishing the headwaters of the St. Johns River in Florida with a guide named Bob Wall. Bob insisted that we eat lunch well before the noon hour. When questioned he replied, vaguely, that "the moon was down a spell from noon" and that was all he would tell me at the time. The rest was frenzied haste -- "come on, we've got to fish!"

We had fishing that day I will never forget. We had a swell lost plugs, skinned knuckles on reel handles gone wild, and we caught fish, many fish. And good St. Johns bass, fish that went from 8 to 14 pounds. On the way home I questioned Bob more closely about this "moon down" business. At last, and fortunately, he told me.

His answer, he said, had been a market hunte, in South Georgia, back in the days when such a thing as market hunting was legal. He and his fellow market hunters made it a point to stage their forays into the wild when the moon was directly overhead or directly underfoot. Those were the times when wildlife was at most active and best fed. "Moon Up -- Moon Down" was the rule. They had learned this, he said, from the Seminoles.

When we moved North, the "moon up -- moon down" idea went along to be tried out in the waters of New York State. Somehow the rule didn't work as well in Northern latitudes. Something, somewhere, was wrong.

Then started a protracted period of investigation, observation and research that lasted for ten years. We learned that the sun had its influence as well as the moon. Hence, the word solunar, a combination of "sol" and "lunar." Latin for "sun" and "moon." At long last, largely because of public demand, the first edition of the solunar tables was published in 1938.

Bob Wall was not the only Floridian who used the "moon up -- moon down" rule for fishing -- and hunting. Go to your public library and get the book South Moon Under, written by Marjorie Kinnan Rawlings, who later wrote the well-known book The Yearling, which was produced in motion pictures. In South Moon Under (another way of saying "moon down" or "dark of the moon" -- the time of the month when wildlife is most active) you will find that just about all of those Central Florida fishermen and hunters were familiar with and used this ancient rule of thumb.

During its early stages quite a few articles were written about the solunar theory. After all, this daily cyclic behavior pattern among wildlife is a natural law, as old as time itself. Thus, it was news, worthy of reporting, and the articles were published in the outdoor sportsmen's press the nation and, for that matter, the world, became acquainted with the theory of moon up -- moon down.

Strangely enough, the old Floridian had missed the fact that there are more than two periods of activity among wildlife during the course of a long day. We had stumbled across a secondary pair of activity periods, of moon up -- moon down. These secondary periods, of shorter intervals than the major periods of moon up -- moon down, were, by convenience, called minor periods. These should not be disregarded often the best fishing or hunting day is had during this short interval of time.

Working out the original formula for the compilation of solunar tables was simple. Starting from a known result (a successful day afield), the whole cause has many drawbacks. Often we would find ourselves in the right place, but due to rain or cold and start over. Then, gradually the three heavenly bodies, the earth, the moon, and the sun, were to be taken under consideration. It took ten years to get the job done.

As I say, the original formula was formed and the first solunar tables published in 1936. Since that time we have been refining gradually the formula has been perfected until today it is about as accurate as it is possible to get it. That is not perfect. What is? But it is accurate enough to pinpoint the daily activity periods among wildlife a year or more in advance. After all, what more can a fisherman or a hunter ask?

Briefly, this is what the solunar tables will do for you. They will tell you, in advance, what time of each day you can expect to find the best fishing or the best shooting over any particular day has to offer.

We do not go afield and say this; at such-and-such a time you will catch fish or you will find game. Far too many other factors enter the outdoor picture by the time you get across space. Water conditions, temperatures, wind velocities and directions, barometric trends these things, and many more, influence the quality of your day afield in the outdoors.

But we can tell you this -- if you will take the trouble to keep track of the daily solunar periods during the course of a year and made it a point to be on good fishing water, and good hunting territory at these times you have our assurance that this will be of much help to you in your pay off in big dividends in better sport.

Canadian Badminton

Asian Wins Men's Crown

By MARVEN MOSS

MONTREAL (CP) — Indonesian Ferdinand Somerville won the men's singles title in the Canadian badminton championships Friday night by shading Jim Poole from San Diego, Calif., 17-18, 15-8, 15-9.

But Poole combined with Bob Williams, 26, of Buffalo, N.Y., to whip the Asian and Wood-stock, Ont., lawyer Jim Carnduff 15-8, 15-8 for the doubles crown.

Wayne Macdonnell, 21, of Vancouver, dumped Carnwath 15-1, 15-11 in the Canadian men's closed final for homebred performers.

Marj Shedd of Toronto won the women's singles for the fifth time—and second consecutive year—by outclassing Mrs. Jean Follinbee, 23, of Calgary, the 1955 winner, 11-3, 11-6.

Dorothy Taylor of Toronto and Miss Shedd retained the women's doubles title by disposing of Vancouverites Mrs. Jean Bardsley, 30, and Mrs. Claire Lovett, 30. They went down 15-5, 15-4.

WIN MIXED DOUBLES

In the mixed doubles, Miss Taylor and Sweden's Bernt Dahlberg posted a 15-6, 15-8 win over Mrs. Bardsley and Bert Fergus of Vancouver.

British Columbia, led by Ed Paterson, 18, won the Ontario Trophy for junior play the fourth consecutive year. Paterson won the singles and paired for wins in the doubles and mixed doubles. His partners were Bruce Rollick of Vancouver and Diana Godfrey of Victoria, respectively.

Judy Humber edged Alison Daysmith for the junior girls singles crown in a scramble between the two 17-year-olds from Victoria.

But the pair was bowled over 15-4, 15-12 by Winnipeg Marita Stubbs and Eleanor O'Gorman, the defending doubles titlists, a pair of arts students at the University of Manitoba.

In veteran men's doubles play for competitors 40 years old and up, Calgary's Roger Banks, 44, and Stu Barnard, 46, retained the championship they won last year in their hometown. They outstroked Montrealers Leo Lafontaine and Louis Mariano in a three-game finals.

Olympics Win Eastern Title

HULL, Que. (CP)—Montreal Olympics defeated Buckingham Aces, 8-5 Friday night to take the best-of-five Eastern Canada Allan Cup semi-final 3-0.

The Olympics will next play either Port Arthur North Stars or Brandon Wheat Kings in the best-of-seven Ontario Hockey Association Senior A final which Windsor leads 3-0.

Marshall Johnston for the Olympics were Phil Latreille, Roger Pigeard and Jacques Gagne, with Charlie Burns, Lorne Mentis and Claude Richard, Scorers for Buckingham were Raymond Middlestead, Raymond Nadeau, Guy Beauregard, Robert Gosselin and Gilles Lacelle.

Cowan Team Is Second

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP)—Two teen-agers, South Florida's whiz kids of golfing, led the pack into today's third round of the 72-hole Hollywood International four-ball tournament.

John Lapomtine, 14, and Paul Desjarlais, 16, took seven strokes below par.

Gary Cowan, of Kitchener, Ont., and Roberto Halpern of Mexico City were in second place after 36 holes with 134. Four teams were deadlocked at 135.

Orlando Cepeda's homer gave the Giants a 2-0 lead, but a homer barrage by the Colts put and gave up seven hits.

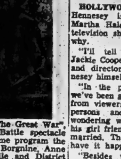
Dr. Hennesey Has Finally Decided to Marry Nurse

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Doctor Hennesey is marrying nurse Martha Hanks and fans of the television show will be asking why.

"I'll tell you why," said Jackie Cooper, who is producer and director as well as Hennesey himself.



"In the past year or two, we've been getting a lot of mail from viewers, especially young persons and church people, wondering when Hennesey and his girl friend are going to get married. They seem eager to have it happen.

"Besides which, in three years of their courtship, we had used just about every kind of line and situation that could be used with two people who were dating. It was time to get a new dimension."

It is safe to predict that Jackie won't allow Hennesey to sink into the well-loved rut of the domestic comedies. So far the show has managed to avoid all stereotypes for hospital series, while still building a steady, loyal audience.

Young Dr. Hennesey is a savvy doctor but it is not a medical show.

Despite generally good ratings, the show has been bumped from its time slot and is looking for another. It may be on CBS again, or may go elsewhere. But Jackie is confident Hennesey will survive.

LAST DAY AT BELLE — Connie Stevens stars in the title role of the Technicolor production of "Susan Slade", now in its 6th and final day at the Belle Theatre. The romantic drama also stars Troy Donahue, Dorothy McGuire, Lloyd Nolan and Grant Williams.

Astrological Forecast

For April 1
By SYDNEY OMARR

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Plenty of inspiration is available today if you will but look and listen. Those close to you provide examples which could well be followed; evening promises pleasure.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20): Excellent for review of future hopes, aspirations. Take time to be alone, to think and review immediate past and prospects for future. "Catch up" with thoughts today.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21): First analyze spiritual advice or lesson learned today, then apply it to personal life. Make resolutions you expect to keep. Map a program for self-improvement.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21): No time for beating around the bush. Say what you mean and mean what you say. Close associates may ask questions concerning your true beliefs. Be honest.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21): Check details especially in connection with the written word, including contracts, letters, agreements. Show marital partner you do care. Avoid the sensational. Stress simplicity.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Time to trust intuitive intellect, or "hunches." Be alone to obtain "low-down" on situations, persons by permitting inner thoughts or subconscious to come to fore.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Basic issues must be faced, not put off until another day. You will be amazed at how much you progress once you get started. Temptation is to scatter your forces, but don't.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): For some this day is termed "Fool's Day." But you will not be fooled if you express sincerity. Excellent for romance, creative activity and development of spiritual guidance.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Permit emotions to have their say. Emphasis on that part of chat dealing with relations with members of opposite sex. Don't bottle up true feelings. Seek, welcome happiness.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Key word is perceptiveness. Look for reasons. Refuse to be satisfied merely to show something happened. Try to know why. The answers you receive could prove revealing.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Judicious decision is likely to be made in your favor. Your role must be that of diplomat. By maintaining sense of fairness, you will find that your cycle moves up.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Be sympathetic to desires of family members, but don't veer from course which you know to be correct one. A little discipline today could go a long way — in the right direction.

* * *

If today is your birthday this could be year for exciting changes — for travel or marriage, if single. You have pioneering instinct, and ability to win with originality.

* * *

General Tendencies: Romance is in the air. The "light touch" is the winning one. Those who insist on sticking to outmoded methods are soon bound to lose. All could gain by reading Taurus interpretation for today. Progress is ahead.

For April 2nd
By SYDNEY OMARR

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Neptunian symbolism is stressed. Today you have tendency to idealize persons, situations. Better come down to earth. Concentrate on budget, income. Cycle moving up.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20): Friends may be well meaning, but their stories of something for nothing must be examined in light of reality. Better stick to the facts. Face responsibilities.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21): Stay out of disputes involving those in authority. There must be attempt by one side or the other to see your point. Remain neutral. Don't give in to flattery.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21): Illumination is key. You see facts, persons, situation today in the light of clarity, if you will but look. Much guidance obtainable from written word.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21): Very easy today to imagine there is more to an offer or situation than there actually is. Ask questions. Read between the lines. Exercise keen, Leo judgment. Be perceptive. Think.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Saving grace today is ability to laugh. You actually can laugh away problems when others bring them to you. By laughing, and making others laugh, you create congenial atmosphere. Friendship indicated.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Take care in relations with those associated with you at work. You are able to win friends or lose them. Avoid misunderstandings. Make yourself clear.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Allow yourself luxury of changing your mind! For once think of yourself first — with no qualms. If you have a good time, others will also relax.

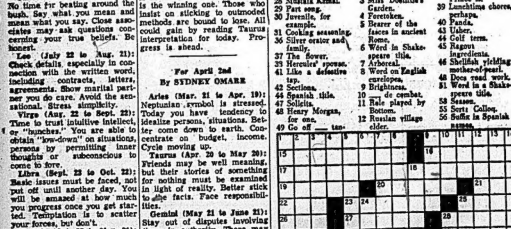
Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Activity in home or in connection with domestic matters highlighted. You can find greater happiness and satisfaction close by, not in faraway places. Look for the hearth.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Favorable lunar aspects today. You can come up with solution to a number of problems. Recent "irritations" could fade. Be self-confident. Rely on your own decisions.

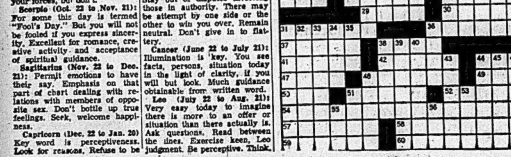
Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Plug loopholes in budget, money affairs. Greater security due if you put foot down. Draw line between generosity and frivolity. Be polite, but firm.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): If you attempt to quibble, you may win the fight but lose the battle. Take broad view. Give in a little in order to gain a lot. Clear thinking can accomplish a lot.

* * *



If today is your birthday tendency is to be restless within yourself. You must take time to find what it is you really seek. Once this self-exertion occurs, there is no stopping you. This year can be one of great satisfaction in connection with home, loved ones and business. Month of November outstanding.



* * *

General Tendencies: Cycle up for Aquarius, Pisces, Aries. Luxury items receive much attention. Romance and finer things of life are emphasized. Desire for peace expressed by world leader. But there is often a difference between claimed desire and action.

Sports Snapshots

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Sports Editor

Folks hear all sorts of Stanley Cup yarns these days when somehow or other, many of them get better with the telling as the years roll by. A little stretch of the imagination here and there make them a pretty good.

But King Clancy has one that tops them all, and he swears it's absolutely true.

It happened 30 years ago tonight in Vancouver. The Kings from the headquarters of Lord Stanley on down, were in Vancouver to play Lester Patrick's New Yorkers for the championship of the world.

Clancy recalled the other day: "Our guys are hurting and they're tired. They're in front forwards and defencemen go off for a little breather.

"Remember, I'm just a punk kid of 18 and I'm sitting there on the club so I find myself taking over for them. I had played all of these positions before, but never in any one game.

"The highlight, at least for me, was still to come. Our goal keeper, Clint Benedict, gets a slashing penalty, and in those days the goalie had to sit it out. So he hands me his big stick and says:

"'Here, kid, take care of the place till I get back.' So I go out, and at the end of the period ahead 1-0."

Clancy, who has been around the game as player, game and club official since, squirmed a bit in his chair and added:

"I wasn't nervous in goal because I didn't know any better. There were no officials in those days and there was always a puck they could get at you were the end.

THREATENED BY REF

"Mickey Ion was refereeing that night. One or two times I'd come my way and I fall on the puck. I don't know whether this is the rules or not, but Ion tells me he's going to throw me off the ice if I do it again.

"You know, I think that guy made the rules as he went along. The only thing I say to him is 'sure' because he's a real tough guy."

The Clancy caper, which hasn't been matched in Cup history, started when Defenceman Eddie Gerard, who had earlier suffered a shoulder separation, went off for a rest. Next Defenceman Buck Boucher took a penalty and King Clancy moved over to his spot.

In the second period he went to centre ice to face Cy Denneny, Kings right wing for Punch Broadbent.

For the records, Broadbent scored the Ottawa goal in the first period.

And the Senators, who had gone into the contest late, won, picked up $235 a man after the Kings and Patrick players received $116 each.

ON WATER AND LAND — Going into production in Toronto soon is this light-weight amphibious car called a Jiger. Weighing 200 pounds, it has a fibreglass shell, six tires, two chain-saw engines and both steering is from a control stick in the middle of double seats. (CP Photo).

Canadian-Made Car Will Go Anywhere Land, Water And Soon in Production

By DAVID SCOTT

TORONTO (CP)—A Canadian-made car that goes anywhere on land or water will start rolling off the assembly line in several months and its inventor says enough orders for the vehicle have already been placed to keep the plant working for many months.

The lightweight, almost indestructible Jiger (pronounced Jigger) is a combination bathtub, bulldozer and baby carriage. It has a light, sturdy shell of fibreglass and fits six rubber air bags, or wheels, are powered by two chain - saw engines.

The car is equally at home in dense bush, swamps, lakes, deep snow, ice, rocks and on rolling gravel.

"You just steer it around the major obstacles and go over the other ones," says 43-year-old John Gower who has been working on the idea for 11 years.

EASY TO OPERATE

"I wanted to build something that could be used under any conditions and yet something that would be mechanically simple and easy to operate."

The Jiger is simplicity itself. One control stick in the middle of the double seat operates the two gear ranges, the two propellers and the steering.

The mobile midget weighs 200 pounds, fits into the back of a standard - sized station wagon and has a 300-mile range from the seven-gallon gas tank.

The six low - pressure tires help provide stability in water but there's a double safeguard. If the hull is punctured the tires have enough buoyancy to keep the Jiger afloat. If all the tires go flat the hull alone would keep it above water.

The Jiger won't swamp because it is short and bobs over the waves like a cork, the inventor says, and it won't tip over because its centre of gravity is at the bottom.

U.S. INTERESTED

Mr. Gower says the Jiger will be of use to fishermen, hunters, skiers, prospectors, telephone linemen, trappers, farmers, miners, civil defence workers, fire fighters and others working outdoors. When equipped with a fibreglass roof and side curtains it would be able to operate in the north in cold weather.

He added that the Canadian and U.S. governments have been looking over the invention and that the U.S. defence department was placing an order he described as "staggering."

Some Canadian government departments have already placed orders and others such as northern affairs and natural resources were said to be interested.

The Jiger travels across rough ground at speeds up to 30 miles an hour and moves through water at 5 m.p.h. If one engine fails the other will give the same performance though less speed.

The steering operates on the track principle with each engine turning three sprocets a side. By turning the T-bar of the control stick, one engine accelerates while the other slows down, turning the Jiger to either side.

CAN DRIVE STANDING

Thumb-operated brakes connected to each clutch increase the turning effect when quick manoeuvring is necessary. With a one control, the driver can stand while driving to look ahead over bushes or other obstacles.

The Jiger can haul 500 pounds over any terrain, "and that's plenty for two people and all the gear they can stow in it," says Gower.

The machine was being built in Gower's mind about 11 years ago when he was working as a timber cutter in northern Alberta. Every morning he had to trudge about five miles to his work, and the same distance home every night.

After six years of paper work in his spare time, Gower thought he had the answer. He spent four years manufacturing the first prototype, and more than a year perfecting the present model which has since been exhibited at outdoors shows across Canada.

The federal government is underwriting the expenses of sponsoring the Jiger at the World's Fair in Seattle this year.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By WINIFRED WILSON

IDENTIFYING BIRDS

Birds in their spring regalia are much easier to identify than birds in autumn dress. With a few exceptions, such as herring gulls and redstarts, the young of last fall have by now acquired the plumage of its elders, so that we are no longer bothered by the ruby-crowned kinglets and immature chestnut-sided warblers so closely resembling one another, or by immature rusty blackbirds looking like neither parent. Our greatest difficulty in spring time comes from the dissimilar appearance of so many wives and husbands. It is well to concentrate our attention on the males, many of which arrive here ahead of their mates. Anyway, they are the ones that very often attract us by their brighter colouring and their songs.

In order to make sure that you really recognize a bird ask yourself some questions. Is this the type of terrain where such a species might be found? Would it be possible to see it at this date? About what size is it? What is it doing? If flying, what is the manner of flight? What color predominates? Is it long and thin or short and chunky? Does it move slowly or quickly? If on the ground, does it hop or walk? Are the legs a normal length? What color are they? If on a tree, does the bird sit upright or horizontally or is it clinging to the trunk? Is the tail long or short and how does it rest? What is the shape of the bill? Has the bird wing-bars, eye-rings, or a crest?

Note All Points

An experienced birder will note all these points in a second. The novice may take a very few before the bird vanishes; but even these should at least put us on the right track and give an idea of the family to which the subject belongs.

A bird is most often discovered, of course, by its favorite food. For this reason we soon learn to watch water, woodpeckers on tree trunks, grackles on the ground, swallows in the air. Redwinged blackbirds frequently arrive in Canada by early March, while a blackpoll warbler seldom gets here before May. Compare the size of your bird with that of a crow, robin, or English sparrow. A goldfinch has an undulating flight; a woodpecker flies in jerks. Cuckoos are slim and move secretively; kingbirds are stiff, ballsike, and flutter like butterflies. Most birds hop; only a few walk. Shore birds are inclined to have long legs and long bills. The least flycatcher, has both an eye-ring and wing-bars; the cardinal wears a crest.

Try to think of points like these before you with identification problems.

Garden Notes

About Germination Of Seeds

By FLORA M. SAVELLE

The seed may be of the best, but if conditions are not right a seed will lie dormant and eventually die. The spark of life, the embryo of some seeds is very long lived. Some lily seeds take two or three years to sprout. Wild mustard will often lie five years before conditions are right for to sprout. Sand from the desert in Australia was brought to California and placed in a garden there. When the rains came some seeds sprouted and produced beautiful red flowers. Botanists were unable to identify the plants. No one knows how long those seeds had been dormant.

Some seeds we must plant as soon as they ripen such as delphiniums. If the seed is to be kept over until spring it should be gathered early and placed in an air-tight bottle in a cool place. Some seed companies are packaging their seed in plastic and foil envelopes to preserve the natural moisture.

Hard-Covered Seeds

Some seeds have very hard coverings and may not grow for by frost, softened in water, melted in the acid of birds crops or animal stomach. We can imitate nature and use a file or hair knife to crack such seeds as sweet peas, freeze seeds in water in the fridge or soak them in a liquid fertilizer such as rapid-gro, old gardener, or hyponex, used at double strength. The seeds are soaked for fifteen to twenty minutes. I have found that these treated seeds sprout much faster than those soaked in plain water. Hard fruits such as holly, barberry, rose hips and apple seeds can be stratified. In a bulb pan or shallow wooden box place a layer of sand and a layer of seeds, or berries. Alternate the layers having the top one sand. Leave the box outside in a sheltered place over winter. Take north of a house, or under a low shrub till do.

In the spring sift out the seeds and plant in the garden or in a place where there is light shade. Good light but not strong sun to burn the seedlings. This is a good way to start many lily and iris seeds.

The medium for starting seeds in flats should be porous but not too rough. Fine sifted soil that cakes like cement when wet is not good. Neither is a coarse mix of soil and twiggy peat moss. It does not cradle the seed close enough to keep it properly damp.

The John Innis formula for seed sowing is internationally known. It consists of two parts of loose bulk good garden soil passed through a half inch screen, two parts peat moss, one part coarse clean river sand. Clean sharp sand will do. To each bushel of this mix add one and a half oz. (three tablespoons) of superphosphate of lime and three-quarters of an oz. (one and a half tablespoons) of fine ground chalk or lime stone. This medium will support the growth of seedlings until after transplanting time.

The best growing compost for the next stage is seven parts of good garden soil, three parts peat and two parts sand To this is added a small amount of bonemeal. To this mix you could use a half cup measure if you are preparing enough medium for a few flats, two

Add 4 More Parks

TORONTO (CP) — Four provincial parks will be opened in Ontario this year, bringing the province's total to 81, Lands and Forests Minister Spooner said Thursday.

He told the legislature the new parks will be at Restoule in the Parry Sound district, Ojibway near Windsor, at Pakwash Lake in the Sioux Lookout area and at White Lake in Renfrew district.

$125 REWARD

Money doesn't come any easier than this. Here's all you do. Remember the card you received in the mail from your Natural Gas Dealer? Just fill it in with the names of five people who you believe may be interested in converting to natural gas. For each name that installs a natural gas furnace, the dealer pays you $25. For each that buys or rents a conversion burner, you get $15.

You'll do your friends a favour by turning them in for this reward! They get the comfort of clean, quiet, economical natural gas. You get $25 for each of them who becomes a natural gas customer.

But hurry! This offer only lasts for a limited period. The sooner you send in your names, the sooner you'll be able to collect your reward.

If you did not receive a card, call your local dealer or write to Lakeland Natural Gas Ltd., Box 1087 Kingston, Ont. for complete details.
